Woodfield Rightly Assessed, Pays Fair Tax Share: Atcher

Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg is properly assessed and pays a fair share of property taxes, Village Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Atcher responded to charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP), the Illinois Education Association (IEA), Dist. 211 Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association (Dist. 54).

Atcher said higher assessments on commercial properties like Woodfield would discourage their construction, and indirectly place a greater burden on individual homeowners.

"I don't have just a flat statement to make. Naturally I think it's proper that all properties be on the tax rolls at a fair figure. But I think much more study should have been done before they released this current release," said the Schaumburg mayor.

THE FOUR organizations charged underassessments of Woodfield, land owned by Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex are costing homeowners in the township $4.7 million in tax revenue.

Atcher said the charge that Woodfield is worth $100 million is untrue. When the entire Woodfield complex is completed "there is no doubt it will be worth $100 million," Atcher said. But he noted a twin theater building, office buildings, bank buildings and ancillary land development will be included in that figure, when they are finished. If Woodfield proper (the mall and parking area) were worth $100 million alone, "it would have cost $50 to $60 per square foot, which is way beyond the cost of construction for facilities such as that," said Atcher.

The mayor also quarreled with the CAP assessment on open land, saying "the same people are making speeches about needing open space." Placing high assessments on open land would make the property too valuable to lie dormant, said the mayor. Developers would be forced to cover all land with buildings, or sell it to someone else who would, if the CAP assessment figures were used, he said.

Land values already have made farming too expensive in the township, said Atcher, pointing out the low number of farms in the area. Assessing open land in a development at the CAP rates would make it just as prohibitive to leave green area, he said.

Atcher also charged overly high assessments would discourage construction and other development to the point it would no longer take place.

"No developer of commerce and industry is going to look at land, much less purchase it for development, if the assessment is high," said the mayor. Lack of development would mean no growth in the tax base, he said.

"IN THE LAST four years Schaumburg will have placed on the land somewhere in the neighborhood of $300 million" worth of development, he said. "In the neighborhood of $100 million will go on the tax rolls this year. A huge percentage is commercial and industrial, which is picking up about half of the tax load. The only reason we have those is because of the assessment practices of the county office," said Atcher.

"If they did anything bordering on what is proposed by the IEA, Schaumburg may as well just fold up and quit," said Atcher.

The mayor also noted Schaumburg has a minimum home lot size of 10,000 square feet, much of which is open land in each lot. Changing the assessment policy for open land would also increase the assessment for individual homeowners, he said. "Assessment practices have to be equal," he said.

Atcher has tentatively scheduled a meeting Dec. 14 with the school board of Dist. 211.

"I would hope they do not make a statement or take a stand until I have an opportunity to talk with them," said the mayor. He has not requested a meeting with officials in Dist. 54, but has asked Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, to explain statements he has made relating to the CAP charges.

United Party To Name Slate Of Four

by PAT GERLACH

The Schaumburg United Party (SUP) convention delegates tonight will name a four-member slate to carry their banner in the April village election.

Late Wednesday, with no announced opposition, incumbent Trustees Herbert J. Aigner and Denis J. Ledgerwood, along with Ray LeBeau, who is making his first bid for elected office, appeared certain party choices as 4-year term candidates.

Aigner was elected to a 2-year term in 1971; Ledgerwood was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the August resignation of Jack Larsen; LeBeau is director of public affairs for SUP and village public relations officer.

In competition for a two-year unexpired term, the majority of SUP delegate support is expected to go to Ray McArthur, 12-year veteran member and current chairman of the village plan commission. His challenger, Tom Kosin, was named to the plan commission this year.

TWO OTHER plan commissioners, Laurel DuLaney and H. James Rosenberg, removed themselves from consideration earlier this week.

With SUP leaders encouraging "favorite son" precinct nominations, it is possible, however, that either or both may be presented to the convention.

Mrs. DuLaney is an active party member and served as convention platform chairman. Rosenberg, an attorney, is a member of the SUP executive board.

Being held at Lancer Ballroom, the convention will be called to order at 8 p.m. Doors will open to delegates and guests at 7 p.m. with reading of the platform scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

SUP officials stress, however, that no one will be admitted to the convention after 8 p.m.

Party's Convention Today

The first Schaumburg United Party (SUP) convention will be called to order at 8 o'clock tonight in the Lancer Restaurant Ballroom, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

The convention hall will be open to delegates and guests at 7 p.m. with the platform committee scheduled to report at 7:30 p.m.

The convention's purpose is to nominate a slate of three candidates for 4-year terms and one candidate for a 2-year unexpired term to run in the April municipal election.

Any dues-paying member of SUP who has renewed membership as of Nov. 15, or new members who have joined by that date and have been certified by the party's executive committee may serve as legally constituted delegates to the convention.

Persons to be nominated must have completed a one year residency in the village and minimum 6 month membership in SUP.

Candidates whose names are to be placed in nomination must present their intentions and specify interest in either the 2-year or 4-year terms to Sylvia Parsons, convention secretary, by 7:30 p.m. tonight. The motion to nominate and second must, according to convention rules, be presented from two different precincts.

A FEATHERED FRIEND. . . Charley the Crow has helps Charley from his cage at Fire Station Number become the new mascot for the Hoffman Estates Fire One. Many firemen believe Charley is the only crow Protection District. Here Firefighter Richard Knapik that has become a fire department mascot in the nation.

Firemen Have Something To Crow About

by STEVE BROWN

The trusty dalmatian, long the traditional mascot of fire departments across the nation, has been replaced with a totally different type of animal by the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District.

Charley the Crow has taken up residence in Fire Station No. 1 in Hoffman Estates, and according to many of the firefighters there, he fills the bill in the mascot department.

"Some of the men found the crow while out on a call about three weeks ago," said Fire Chief Carl Selke, while explaining the department did not purposely look for a crow to become its mascot.

But in a few short weeks, Charley has found a home and many friends in the firehouse. Shortly after his arrival, Charley had a wire cage, complete with perches and a mirror, built for him by some of the firefighters.

"HOW MANY fire departments do you know that have a crow for a mascot?" one fireman asked a recent visitor. Most of the firefighters take the distinction lightheartedly.

"He really likes chicken," said Firefighter Richard Knapik. Charley has been fed a variety of foods including steak, but most of the men agree chicken is his favorite meal.

The crow, which had a broken wing, seems to be getting better each day. Now the bird can hop from the floor of his cage to a wooden perch, a task that posed some difficulty when Charley first arrived.

Charley has proved to be a popular attraction around the station. Visitors are quick to notice the big black crow perched in the station when they first arrive, said one fireman. He added that if they do not see him, they are sure to hear when he lets out with a crow's affmiliar cawing sound.

"HE DOES not like things inside the cage," said Red Williamson, another

Judge Questions ACLU Housing Plan

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Federal District Court Judge Richard Austin indicated yesterday he would probably not issue either of two proposed judgment orders in a suit involving locating low-income housing in the suburbs.

Judge Austin raised serious questions about an American Civil Liberties (ACLU) plan to force low-income housing in the suburbs as a means of keeping Chicago from becoming all black

The judge also said, however, he was "not overly impressed" with the past efforts of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to end segregation in Chicago public housing.

The six-year-old suit has led to several earlier orders including requirements that the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) locate public housing within white, city neighborhoods.

Judge Austin will not rule on the current motions before Jan. 3.

THE JUDGE GAVE attorneys at yesterday's hearing 35 days to file findings, conclusions and other legal memoranda with the court.

At yesterday's concluding session of the three-day hearing, ACLU Atty. Alexander Polikoff argued that public housing in the suburbs is needed in order to enforce the original order to locate low-income housing in white neighborhoods.

HUD Atty. James Murray argued, however, that suburban towns and their officials have not had a chance to be heard in the case. He said they should not be used as a "remedy to the city's discrimination."

CHA Atty. Patrick O'Brien told Judge Austin the CHA believes in a metropolitan approach to public housing. However, he said, the ACLU should sue suburban towns and counties for discrimination rather than use the CHA to build public housing in the suburbs. O'Brien said the proposed ACLU Order would send the CHA, "on a great, big snipe hunt."

"We don't think this case was ever about housing in the suburbs," he added.

Murray questioned only one witness yesterday, HUD employe Joseph P. Sabella, who said Congress had allocated little money this year to finance public housing in this area. He estimated there are funds for only 300 new, low-income housing units in Chicago this fiscal year and 500 more in the next fiscal year.

THE ACLU PLAN, initially, calls for 750 units in the suburbs in addition to 1,500 already required in the city.

The ACLU long-range proposal would have 20,000 units built in the suburbs and 40,000 in the city.

In his closing argument Polikoff predicted an appeal by HUD and the CHA to any new order handed down by Judge Austin other than an order that HUD put forth its "best effort" to stop segregation in low-income housing. He argued that Judge Austin should lay ground rules in order for a future time when money is appropriated by Congress.

Polikoff said suburban towns have not cooperated in building low-income housing so far. They should be threatened that the court will force it on them if they don't allow it voluntarily, he said.

If the judge doesn't act he will be "letting the CHA off the hook," according to Polikoff. He argued that suburbs should be forced to take low-income housing "because the evidence shows there is no other way to provide relief for Chicago residents."

JUDGE AUSTIN raised the question of whether suburban discrimination is economic rather than racial. He questioned forcing suburban towns to provide services to public housing residents without additional tax revenue.

The judge charged some sociologists "want to make the suburbs the same as the city" in order to stop "white flight to the suburbs." He also said he might wait for a U.S. Circuit Court opinion on a similar case before ruling on the ACLU and HUD proposed judgment orders.

Murray said the ACLU plan would not work. The HUD attorney said it would only lead to more lawsuits. He said, "the suburban communities have not been found guilty of any crime. CHA's discriminatory conduct can't be assigned to them."

He said the ACLU proposed order would lead to "more court transcripts, not more public housing" for poor urban blacks.

Homeowners, Edison To Meet On High Power Lines Dec. 5

Representatives from the newly formed Hoffman Estates Residents Association (HERA) will meet with officials from Commonwealth Edison Dec. 5 to discuss in detail the high tension wires issue.

HERA, a group formed as a result of citizen concern over the placement of the power lines on the south side of the Northwest Tollway, held its second meeting Tuesday.

According to objectives proposed by the organizing committee, HERA was formed to protect "the equity, safety, and tranquility of our homes, neighborhood, and village."

About 30 citizens turned out for the meeting, a figure termed disappointing by some organizers because 5,000 leaflets advertising the meeting were prepared and, for the most part distributed.

THE ASSOCIATION hopes to have large citizen participation so that it will be a strong voice capable of influencing village and other officials to take action.

In theory, HERA will encompass all village residents and smaller homeowner associations. Any resident of the village is eligible to join.

Members insisted HERA is not a one-issue organization. However, the installation of the power lines is the first problem to face, they said.

Representatives attending the Dec. 5 meeting will act as a fact-finding committee to determine more precisely where and how Edison plans to construct the high tension wires.

Although initially the organizing committee wanted to fight the utility until it agreed to put the power lines underground, members said HERA probably could not win.

Edison officials have said they will try to put the wires on the north side of the tollroad, but above ground. According to the utility's figures, it will cost 20 times more to put the lines underground than above ground.

HERA members said they would try to verify Edison's figures. Depending on what the utility says at the Dec. 5 meeting, HERA will vote to fight for the underground proposal or agree to the north side of the tollroad compromise.

MEL BUDISH, acting moderator of HERA, said the group's decision will be passed on to the village board. If the village approves of Edison's proposal to place wires on the north side of the tollroad, any deviation from that course will be fought by the village attorney, Budish said.

In addition to the Edison issue, plans were initiated to organize the village into sectors. One person would be responsible for informing each sector of meetings and other business.

Those present at the meeting agreed to the selection of Budish as acting moderator and Mrs. Dawn Anderson as acting treasurer until the first of the year.

At that time, regular officers will be elected. Members agreed officials of HERA may not be elected or appointed to any governmental body in Illinois. Additionally, anyone running for office must resign his position with HERA.

An assessment of $5 a year per family was approved. Budish said he would contact the presidents of the other homeowner associations in Hoffman Estates to encourage their cooperation and participation.

HERA will meet once a month on a regular basis, and in special session if the situation warrants. The next meeting will be held either Dec. 12 or 13, depending on the availability of meeting space in the village hall.

Take First Steps Toward Hoffman High Boundaries

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education will begin the considerations that will lead to setting attendance boundaries for Hoffman Estates High School at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine.

Several parents with children attending Schaumburg High School have asked to address the board about their preferences for the boundaries, according to Supt. Richard Kolze.

In addition, Kolze said he will present a list of criteria for setting boundaries that he will suggest the board use in making its final decision.

"We thought it would be a good idea to have some criteria set up before we present alternatives for the boundary lines," Kolze said. Criteria include achieving optimum enrollments at all schools, drawing lines along major natural boundaries where possible and establishing boundaries with the greatest possible permanence.

Also scheduled for the board meeting is a discussion of "open campus" policies which would allow students at the district's high schools to leave the grounds during lunch hour.

DONALD TUTTLE of Schaumburg has been scheduled to appear before the board to discuss the open campus issue. In October, Tuttle asked the board to reconsider policies prohibiting an open campus after a student walk-out was held at Schaumburg High School demanding the privilege.

Also on the agenda is a report from the Dist. 211 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, asking the board to take action to increase assessments on several properties in Schaumburg Township which are allegedly underassessed.

The Dist. 211 association, in cooperation with the Citizens Action Program (CAP), Illinois Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association, recently released a report charging that taxing bodies in Schaumburg Township are losing about $7 million because of underassessment of four properties.

According to the CAP-IEA charges, Dist. 211 stands to lose about $1.6 million in taxes next year because of the underassessments. The four properties are Woodfield Mall, Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division, and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex.

Hockey Program Parley Saturday

An organizational meeting for the Hoffman Estates Park District's winter hockey program will be held Saturday at Helen Keller Junior High School.

The program is open to all boys in fifth through eighth grades in the area. Fifth and sixth grade boys are asked to attend a meeting at 9:30 a.m. at the school, 820 Bode Rd., Schaumburg. The meeting for seventh and eighth graders will be at 11 a.m. at the same location.

Park district director Al Binder said the program will stress fundamentals of the sport. A portion of the program will also be devoted to competitive play, Binder added.

The program will cost $6 for Hoffman Estates residents and $7.50 for others. Participants are expected to supply sticks, mouthpieces and elbow pads.

More information about the program can be obtained by calling the district at 529-8600.

Full-Time Clerk's Post Recommended By Panel

The elected office of Hoffman Estates village clerk will become a full-time post with an increased yearly salary of $8,000 to $9,000 if trustees accept a judiciary committee recommendation to change the position Monday.

At Tuesday's judiciary committee meeting, trustees Ed Hennessy, Bruce Lind, Dyrle Rathman and Loretta Gulney unanimously agreed the clerk's job should be a full-time post.

Hennessy, the committee chairman, said the salary raise should be acted upon soon by the board of trustees because of the impending April elections.

Hennessy and his colleagues discussed the possibility of making the clerk's position appointive instead of elected.

This would have to be a referendum decision, said Hennessy.

HENNESSY SAID THE Village Clerks' Association prefers the clerk's position be an elected one rather than an appointive office, and he agrees with that opinion.

"A majority of village clerks in the area feel clerks are more responsive to the residents when they are elected by those residents instead of appointed to the office," said Hennessy.

At present, the village employs a full time deputy clerk while the village clerk is in the offices approximately 25 hours a week, in addition to night meetings.

The committee made no decision about changing the deputy clerk's position to a part-time job after the clerk's position becomes full-time. Hennessy noted that the increased work load in that office prompted the action to make the clerk's job full-time. Additional clerical help may be hired if necessary, he added.

"But it doesn't seem sensible to have a full-time deputy and part-time village clerk," he added.

MAYOR FREDERICK DOWNEY reminded the members that he had suggested the clerk's job be made full-time, months ago.

Downey said in May he urged a raise in salary for the clerk's job and also suggested it be made a full-time post. "I still think the clerk's job is a full-time one and agree with the committee's recommendation," Downey added.

The mayor told the committee it should remember the salary they set will remain the same for the clerk's four year term of office. "You may have to overpay the first two years and underpay the next two to come up with a fair salary for the four year term," he said.

Hennessy will ask Village Atty. Edward Hofert to prepare an ordinance raising the clerk's salary and making the position a full-time one, for consideration at Monday's meeting of the board. With the mayor and three trustees in favor of the ordiance, it should be assured of passage, he added. "However, the exact amount of the salary can be decided then," he said.

Full-Time Mayor Issue Is Postponed

The impending village election and the fact that several candidates have opted for the post of president prompted the Hoffman Estates judiciary committee to postpone the recommendation that the president's office be made full-time.

Village Pres. Frederick Downey, who said he was present at the Monday meeting, "to talk about the president's job, since I'm the only one that does it," said there are definite advantages to a full-time mayor.

"But it's too late to do it now," said Downey as he urged the committee to drop any move to make the president's post a full-time job until after the April elections.

Downey said he sees no conflict in having both a full-time president and a village manager or administrator. He said the duties of a president are different from that of the administrator.

THE PRESIDENT outlined some of his duties as a representative of Hoffman Estates and noted much of his time evenings and weekends is spent on public relations.

"These are some of the things a president does, sign and review all payroll checks, all bills payable, ordinances, bonds and plats; interview prospective committee members for consideration for appointments and preside at all meetings," he said.

A president also must preside at groundbreaking and dedication ceremonies, attend social events, conferences and seminars. In addition, the president is expected to accept telephone calls 24 hours a day. "I know, because I get called often," he added.

Downey told the members making the president's office full-time could increase the competition or decrease it.

"On the negative side, the village is asking a man to interrupt his career and run for a job that has no job security," he said.

THE COMMITTEE members generally agreed the village's growth calls for a full-time president, and even discussed a proposed salary of approximately $20,000 a year.

However, they agreed with the president's recommendation to drop discussion now. They will ask Village Mgr. George Longmeyer to place the item on the judiciary committee agenda one year from now.

Firemen Can Crow About New Mascot

Chief Selke said Charley may be only a temporary mascot for the fire district. He said he has received several reports that the animal may be a child's pet.

"We plan to check this out," Selke said. He added the department would not think of keeping the bird if it was a family pet.

Seek To Link Execution Killing, Other Murders

by JACK PENCHOFF

Investigators are seeking a connection between the execution style killing of a man found buried near Des Plaines last week and several other recent murders in the Chicago area.

The name of the dead man has been learned by the Herald, but is being withheld because neither Cook County Sheriff's police nor officials at the county morgue will confirm the man's identity.

The murder victim, a 44-year-old Chicago man, was reportedly killed by a gunshot wound in his head. The man's hands were tied behind his back and a pillow case covered his head. There are reports five more bullets were found in his back.

The Herald has learned the murder victim was linked to the crime syndicate and it has been confirmed the man is wanted by police in Boone County, Ill., Elgin, and Chicago. The man also reportedly has a criminal record in Washington, California, Florida and served time in an Illinois prison after a felony conviction.

THE MURDERED man was arrested in rural Belvidere, Ill. in Boone County last January after he allegedly broke into a home there. The Boone County sheriff's office said the man was captured before he could get away.

He was released on a $20,000 bond, but never appeared in court on the scheduled date.

In June the same man was arrested by Elgin police for bre king into the home of an Illinois State Trooper. He was indicted for the crime shortly afterwards but later disappeared while on bond and police in that city are still looking for him.

There have been reports the man is linked to two other murder victims found in the Chicago area but Cook County sheriff's police who are handling the investigation have denied those reports.

Dental charts of the man, who has been tentatively identified by sheriff's police, have been made and will be compared today to dental records of the man believed to be the murder victim.

Police have said they don't know how long the body was buried, however indications are it couldnt have been in the grave more than a couple of months because the body was only partially decomposed.

A leather magnifying glass case with the name of a Chicago stamp and coin shop on it and a set of upper dentures found on the body were reportedly the only clues police had.

The body was found Friday afternoon in a wooded area about 100 feet north of Algonquin Road and 100 yards west of the Tri-State Tollway just east of Des Plaines.

THE COOK COUNTY sheriff's police investigators on the case have continued to keep themselves unavailable to reporters for comment on the case. However the Herald has learned that the FBI is working on the case and detectives for the Chicago police department have also been looking into the murder.

The other murders reportedly linked to the man whose body was found near Des Plaines are also being linked to the underworld, presumably with drug traffic.

It has been learned that the apparent murder victim may have a more extensive criminal record than is now known and that police are withholding the man's name in order to check further into his background for connections with the crime syndicate.

Sheriff's police have said the man's identity will be released today.

Democrats Leave Ogilvie's Appointees Out In The Cold

by BOB LAHEY

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Legislature adjourned amid its usual confusion and Senate-House animosity Tuesday night.

Adjournment followed a day in which legislators sat waiting for hours while Republican and Democratic leaders huddled behind closed doors working out the game plan for their next assembly on Dec. 14.

The leadership finally emerged from the strategy sessions at about 3:45 p.m. and convened both houses. They then promptly recessed for party caucuses, at which "us peasants," in the words of Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glencoe, were informed of agreements that had been reached.

Legislation then was introduced in the Senate calling for a $32-per-day expense allowance while legislators are in session, and increasing office expenses from $6,000 to $10,000 per year. In the House, a bill was introduced to up legislative pensions from 75 to 80 per cent of salaries.

The legislative compensation bills appeared to be the only significant measures apt to be enacted by the 77th General Assembly before it finally dissolves itself to make way for the 78th, which will convene Jan. 10.

Richard B. Ogilvie

Before adjourning Tuesday, the House took up a number of vetoed measures, needing to act on them within a 15-day time limit.

OUTGOING GOV. Richard B. Ogilvie did not fare well in this semi-final session, as most of his vetoes were overridden in the House, and Senate Democrats rejected 16 of his pending appointments to various state boards and commissions, leaving the posts open to be filled by Gov.-elect Daniel Walker.

One veto that the House failed to overcome was the killing of a bill that would allow the state superintendent of public instruction to appoint a hearing officer in cases of appeal by teachers dismissed by the board of education.

Rep. Anthony Scariano, D-Park Forest, asked that the veto be overridden, declaring it improper for the board of education to be allowed "to sit in judgment on its own determination" that a teacher be dismissed.

Rep. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northfield, argued for the veto, declaring that the people of the state "are concerned about the erosion of the power of local elected officials," to which the bill would contribute. He said Ogilvie's veto echoed that of a Democratic predecessor, Otto Kerner.

Scariano's motion to override attracted only 72 votes, far short of the three-fifths majority needed.

ANOTHER Democratic move — to instigate House hearings into the Illinois Central R.R. train crash that took more than 40 lives — was thwarted by Republicans.

After Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, chairman of the House Executive Committee, announced that his committee would inquire into the crash, the resolution for public hearings was defeated by a vote of 74 ayes and 47 nayes, seven short of the two-thirds majority required. Only Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights voted for the hearings among the 10 Northwest suburban Republican legislators.

Juckett announced that his committee would begin its inquiry Dec. 14, when the legislature returns to Springfield.

Confusion arose in the House when one of the Senate-House agreements, to receive a report on Gov. Ogilvie's tax freeze proposal on Dec. 14 rather than Dec. 11, as previously planned, was brought to a vote.

The House had nearly amended the resolution calling for the change in date before it was realized that that measure was the subject of business of the special session convened by the governor, rather than the regular session which was then in progress.

House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Evanston, hastily withdrew the matter, which was to be passed at a perfunctory special session yesterday morning after most legislators had returned home.

THE CHANGING of that reporting date, and the date for reconvening, from Dec. 11 to Dec. 14, roused the ire of both Republican and Democratic members in the House, who had not been informed of the change until the adjournment resolution was introduced.

House members objected that the date for returning to Springfield was being "dictated" by the Senate and would interfere with their family holiday plans.

The adamant objections led to a hurried conference between Blair and Democratic Minority Leader Clyde Choate of Anna, who placed a call to the Senate chambers in an attempt to agree on a new meeting date.

But the Senate already had ratified all the leadership agreements and gone home.

Here's How Lawmakers' Cash And Carry System Works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newly elected members of Congress may be happy to find out about a cash or carry system for their stationery allowance.

The allowance for House members was upped from $3,500 to $4,250-a-year, just before the last session of Congress adjourned. But the amount is not as interesting as the way the money is handled.

Starting with the first day of the session Jan. 3, the $4,250 allowance will be credited to each congressman at the House stationery store — a shop just like any other except that the prices are lower and only congressmen and their staffs can buy. And there are no sales taxes.

CONGRESSMEN CAN carry away from the store free stationery supplies for their offices up to the amount of the allowance. Or they can draw all or part of the allowance in cash — no questions asked.

The assumption is that if a congressman doesn't like what he can get from the House store — and he can get everything from personal, custom-made letterhead stationery to desk pens and paper clips — he can draw the cash and buy elsewhere.

If he went elsewhere he'd have to pay more because the price of office supplies in the House store is the lowest in the nation, furnished at what is known as government cost. If the congressman doesn't like some particular item he can have the store order a different brand, so long as it has to do with his office.

A FEW YEARS ago, one congressman had the stationery store buy automobile tires for him from his stationery allowance, saying he needed them to get around to his constituents. That isn't done anymore, but there is nothing to stop a congressman from drawing the cash to buy tires at regular commercial establishments under the carry-cash provision.

Another fringe benefit for members is the free trip home.

There was a time when Congress merely paid to get the congressmen to Washington for a session and then send them back home when the session was over. Now, however, it's felt important for the lawmakers to keep in touch. And just before the last session ended, the House raised the free travel allowance for congressmen from 26 to 38 round trips every two-year period.

That would permit the congressman to make just about one free trip home every two weeks. The veterans, however, use few of the free trips the first year, saving them instead for the second year when they face reelection.

The House also upped the travel allowance for employes of congressmen. Formerly, House staffers were allowed up to four free round trips to the members' district per congress. That has been raised to six starting with the next Congress.

Office Complex Near Woodfield Mall

Developer Gains Approval To Boost Building's Height

A variance was granted J. Emil Anderson and Sons for construction of office buildings up to 175 feet tall, or 15 stories, at Tuesday's meeting of the Schaumburg Village Board.

The variation was before the board for first reading, but the board waived first reading and granted final approval. The action allows an 80-foot increase in building height over the originally permitted 8-story height.

The buildings are to be constructed in an area bounded by Woodfield Mall, Meacham, Golf and Higgins roads, to be known as Woodfield Park. But the variation is only for buildings in the north section of the project.

The board also directed its attorney to prepare ordinance amendments allowing changes in plans for an area zoned for planned unit development (PUD). The changes were requested by two firms, 3-H Builders and Ciesel-McGuire, who purchased 72 acres of land from Campanelli Brothers, which obtained original zoning.

THE ACREAGE now will be developed in two separate projects, a 478 apartment unit complex by Ciesel-McGuire to be called the Courts of Weathersfield and a 414 unit triplex condominium project by 3-H to be called Laurelwood. The area is west of Roselle Road between Wise Road and a point north of Weathersfield Way.

The board also approved an amendment to its business licensing ordinance, setting two new license classifications. Beauty shop owners now will have to purchase licenses for a $25 fee, while car washes will be licensed at a $100 fee.

An ordinance setting new standards for pavement design received final approval. Its provisions will apply to interior, privately owned streets in private developments, as well as to streets insubdivisions.

Issuance of a liquor license to the Sheraton Walden Inn also was approved. The inn is to open Dec. 3, and Mayor Robert O. Atcher has discretion to issue the license or withhold it, under the board action.

AMONG BILLS approved for remittance Tuesday was the final payment for construction of the village's second fire hall on Meacham Road across from Woodfield. The $22,703 check was made out to Slezak Construction.

An appointment also was made to the village board aesthetics committee. The new member is Gary B. Schultze, 105 S. Wareham Ln.

Board members announced the finance committee has requested a meeting of the committee as a whole, including all trustees and mayor, for Dec. 6, when the first work on the 1973 budget will start.

Trustees also issued a reminder a Coffee with the Council will be held at 9:30 a.m. Dec. 9.

Rocket Derby For Pack 394

Cub Scout Pack 394 held its monthly meeting and annual rocket derby recently at Dirksen School.

Each boy, with the help of his father, built a rubber-band propelled rocket. The rocket kits were donated by Ken Wolmer, one of the judges. Other judges were Patrolman Raymond Cox, officer friendly of the Hoffman Estates Police Department; and Bernard Lucier, Dirksen School principal.

In the show category the winner was Sigfried Doerdelman of Webelos Den 7.

Brian Eisenhauer also of Webelos Den 7 won first place in speed competition and Kevin Sellers of Den 6 was the second place winner. Dick Lloyd of Lloyd's Flying School at Schaumburg Airport gave 20-minute flights around the Northwest suburban area as prizes to the winners.

Other events for the evening were presentation of awards and the induction of new boys into scouting.

New bobcats are: Eddy Espinoza, Danny Eisenhauer, Dave Monk, Mike Felton, Micky Lentini, Kevin Schelton Dan Walls and Mark Nelson.

Awards were presented to: Ricky DeBaun, gold arrow; Kevin Doyl assistant denner; and Mike Sengstrock, wolf badge, one gold arrow and two silver arrows. Chris Amrein and Mark Nevbecker each received a one-year pin; Siggy Doerdelman, two-year pin and sportsman award; Brian Eisenhauer, engineer, naturalist, forrester, citizen, scholar and sportsman awards and Ed Ford one-year pin and sportsman awards. Steve Morris received a two-year pin and sportsman award; Tom Moutvic, a craftsman award; Courtney Rejman, a two-year pin and sportsman award, and Sam Tudisco a one-year pin, and sportsman award and Tracy Wehrheim received an artist and craftsman award.

Village Board Wants Out Of NMAD

The movement in the Village of Schaumburg to end affiliation with the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) is not dead, although the village attorney has indicated it could be a tough job.

"This is not impossible, but it is difficult," Village Atty. Jack Siegel told the board of trustees.

On Tuesday, however, the board indicated it will continue its efforts in spite of the difficulty.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher responded favorably to a suggestion by Trustee Herb Aigner that the board begin enlisting citizen support, perhaps in a citizens' action committee which could attempt to spread its message to other communities.

But Atcher suggested the board first try working through an established organization. Atcher directed Village Administrator John Coste to speak on the issue at the next meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference Dec. 13 at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights. Atcher cannot attend the session himself, because of a conflict in engagements.

COSTE IS to urge conference members to begin steps to circulate a petition among NMAD member communities for abolition of the district. Success would require 5 per cent of registered voters within each town in the territory, file a court petition seeking dissolution of the district.

If the municipal conference does not indicate favor and support for Coste's request, Atcher agreed the citizens' group can be appointed. But Atcher and Siegel both noted support can be expected from one conference member, the Village of Palatine. Palatine in involved with Schaumburg in a suit with NMAD concerning village ordinances prohibiting the use of malathion and other environmentally hazardous insecticides. NMAD uses malathion.

Baseball Groups To Meet On Running Boys' Baseball

A major meeting on who will run the boys' baseball programs in Hoffman Estates will take place this evening between representatives of the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association (HEAA), Independent Baseball Association (IBA) and Hoffman Estates Park District Director Al Binder.

The meeting, called by Binder, could lead to a merger of the two athletic groups. The park district's board of commissioners voted Tuesday to instruct Binder to work to get the groups to agree to a merger.

While the HEAA has been in operation for several years, the IBA came into existence last summer after the HEAA announced there was not a sufficient number of playing fields available to accommodate all boys.

The park district has taken the position it would be more sensible to coordinate the baseball program through one agency.

WHILE OFFICIAL positions on the prospects have been announced, it has been learned the HEAA may propose to accept all youngsters into their prgram this year, but cut down on the number of games played to make up for the shortage of facilities.

The park district has considered the possibility of operating its own baseball program, if the two groups do not agree to a merger.

Estimates on the cost of such a program were presented to the commissioners this week. The commissioners agreed Tuesday the prime factor behind any program must be that all boys will be able to play.

A representative for one of the groups said he did not think the "merge or be taken over by the park district" ultimatum will come about because solutions can be reached between the two groups.

ROOST To Kick Off Campaign

Platform hearings will kick off the campaign for Hoffman Estates village elections by Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) today.

The first hearing will be at 8 p.m. totoday at ROOST headquarters, 11 E. Schaumburg Rd. A second will be at 8 p.m. Sunday, at the same location.

While any resident is free to attend the hearings, a special invitation was issued to high school students and representatives of civic organizations for Thursday, and to the press for Sunday.

The hearings are to produce platform planks for consideration at the ROOST convention, to be held Dec. 10 at Conant High School. A time for the convention has not yet been chosen.

The hearings and convention are being held by ROOST's municipal central committee for Hoffman Estates.

Animal Clinic Given Tentative OK By Village

Tentative approval has been given to an animal clinic near Harper College in Palatine.

The Palatine Village Board this week agreed in a preliminary vote to grant a special use to Dr. David Aul to operate a clinic on the north side of Algonquin Road, just west of Roselle Road. Final approval is expected Dec. 11.

The clinic would primarily serve Palatine, Inverness, Rolling Meadows and Hoffman Estates.

Village board approval would supersede a recommendation by the plan commission to deny the application for a special use.

THE PLAN commission based its objection to the clinic on the desire for large-scale development of the property near Harper College, rather than each parcel being developed independently. The plan commission also preferred that use of the site be complementary to the nearby college.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said it was his understanding that a large parcel near the Aul property will be developed as one piece, possibly as a restaurant.

He also said a check showed that Dr. Aul has retained ownership of the animal clinic site. Confusion of the ownership had delayed approval of the petition earlier this month.

Dr. Aul has indicated that the animal clinic would not have facilities for boarding pets or keeping them outside.

Dr. Aul operates the Care Animal Clinic on Palatine Road east of Rand Road, near Arlington Heights.

Wheeling Businessman 1 Of 60 Killed In Moscow Crash

Wheeling businessman Norman R. Sackheim, 56, was listed early Wednesday as one of 60 persons killed in Moscow when a Japan Air Lines plane crashed shortly after takeoff Tuesday.

Mr. Sackheim, a long-time resident of Highland Park, was chairman of the board of Strum and Drum, 177 W. Hintz Rd., and chairman of the board of XL Screw Corp., located in the same building.

Strum and Drum, founded by Mr. Sackheim in 1965, moved to its Wheeling building in 1968. The $290,000 structure has 44,500 square feet of space for offices, display rooms, manufacturing and warehouse space.

Strum and Drum imports music instruments and accessories, and the XL Screw Corp., established in 1968, imports screws, nuts and bolts. Mr. Sackheim originated the concept of importing nuts and screws meeting American standards, and has been called a pioneer in that field. The firm is in the process of planning a new building.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, Mr. Sackheim founded Heads and Threads Corp., which produced fasteners. The firm was sold in 1960 to MLS Industries, Inc. He was a director and vice chairman of the board of MLS until he founded Strum and Drum.

The family was notified of Mr. Sackheim's death early Tuesday morning, several hours after officials had announced he was one of 76 passengers on the plane. The jet flight, bound for Tokyo, had originated in Copenhagen. Mr. Sackheim was on a business rip.

Reports were that the plane exploded before it plunged to the ground. Officials estimated 16 persons had survived the crash.

Family survivors include Mr. Sackheim's wife, Pauline, two daughters, Mrs. Troy (Nancy) Weidenheimer and Mrs. Jeffrey (Barbara) Weiner, and a son, Ron A. Sackheim, president of Strum and Drum.

Funeral arrangements are indefinite. They will be delayed by a Russian inquiry into the crash.

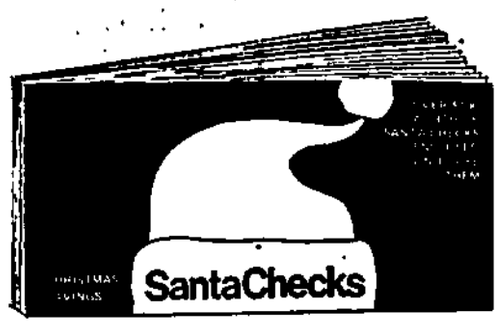
YEAR'S GIFTS!

Two wonderful things happen when you join Schaumburg State Bank's 1973 Christmas Club. First, your money starts working for you immediately. Like an industrious elf, each deposit helps build your Christmas savings into a sizable gift fund by earning a good 4½% steady interest.

The second thing that happens is Santa's doings. The jolly big fella has come up with a special gift book he'd like us to give you. It's a booklet filled with over 35 SantaChecks which you can use, the same as cash, to save up to 20% on clothes, shoes, tools, carpeting, furniture, TV, appliances, jewelry, gifts to suit any fancy. The merchandise is being offered by participating merchants in the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area.



We'll give you one of these valuable SantaCheck books free when you join our 1973 Christmas Club. You can start using the discount certificates immediately and the more you use, the more you'll save. So stop by now and join our 1973 Christmas Club.

Woman Sheriff 'Rules' Putnam County

by PAMELA REEVES

Hennepin, Ill. (UPI) — During two years in office, the sheriff of Putnam County has never made an arrest or even carried a gun.

"Basically, I think it's a man's job," said Sheriff Martha Calbow, the only woman now holding the office in Illinois' 102 counties.

She leaves it to her deputized husband, Warren, and four other part-time assistants, to carry guns and make arrests. She cooks all meals for prisoners, and if she goes on patrol, her husband goes along because "I just think it's for a man to go out and do these things."

Some other people in this central Illinois agricultural community of 650 persons apparently hold the same view.

"One man called and asked for the sheriff last week," Mrs. Calbow said. "When I told him I was sheriff, he replied, 'This don't sound like a sheriff, it sounds like a lady.'"

MRS. CALBOW, a 46-year-old blonde who laughs shyly about her job when discussing it with strangers, ran for the office in 1970 at her husband's suggestion. He had been sheriff four years and under the law then could not succeed himself.

"It started out as a joke," she said during a recent interview, turning to glance at the police radio which blares constantly into her small office in the basement of the white-pillared county courthouse.

"I thought he was kidding, but he said, 'Why don't you try it,' and I did."

The county treasurer, who could not succeed himself either, had the same idea. Both his wife and Mrs. Calbow won over male opponents.

Mrs. Calbow, in fact, won by a margin three times larger than her husband polled in 1966 from the county's 6,000 residents. Having grown up on a Putnam County farm, she is well known in the area, but she said the margin was also due to the fact that "most people liked Warren and knew he would be working with me."

SINCE SHE had been a deputy to her husband for four years, she found her duties did not change much when she took command.

She still acts as jail matron and bookkeeper, does the linens for the prison and cooks meals for the average of three monthly prisoners, usually drunk drivers, who spend the night in the county's 135-year-old cells.

Since the sheriff's house is attached to the jail and adjacent to the courthouse, she can move easily back and forth, sending her 13-year-old son off to school and doing housework after she finishes her sheriff's chores. Both Calbows work in the office seven days a week.

Mrs. Calbow has not had any physical defense training, and she leaves arrests ("I've issued one traffic ticket") to her husband, a former truck drive.

NEVERTHELESS, she clearly enjoys her job — as long as Mr. Calbow is around.

"If I see something is wrong," she said, "I usually will call my husband and he comes and takes care of it.

"I really haven't made an arrest myself. I've never been in a dangerous situation. I've had no need for a gun yet, although I keep a loaded pistol in the house, and I hope I never do.

"But I'll tell you, if I had to use it, I probably would."

The sheriff, who worked in a factory in Sterling for 15 years and then retired to raise three sons, said her current job is more interesting, gun or no gun.

"There's something new all the time," she said. "It might be two burglaries, but each one is different."

Burglaries, in fact, are the most serious crimes perpetrated since the Calbows took office. More typical, Mrs. Calbow said, are "silly" calls, such as a woman asking where to get black cement.

"A MAN BOUGHT a duck call that didn't work and wanted to know what we were going to do about it," she said.

"Some people just don't understand what a sheriff's job is. Another guy told us he saw a man steal two tires. He wanted my husband and me to get those tires, but he wouldn't sign a complaint."

On more serious calls she said, "A lot of people won't tell me anything, they'll want to talk to Warren. But then some will only talk to me."

Mrs. Calbow, admittedly not a fan of women's liberation as it affects personal relationships, is not insulted by the slights.

"I think a man is the head of a household, and if he isn't — he should be."

She will not run for reelection in 1974, even though Putnam County voters decided in 1970 when they elected her that a sheriff should be able to succeed himself.

"I don't think I want to be sheriff again," she said. "If he (Warren) couldn't succeed himself, I might. I enjoy being sheriff, but I would leave it to him."

Coed's New Extacurricular Activity: The School Board

by RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI) — Ann Nakagawa, Hawaii's first 18-year-old elected official, is just another pretty coed during school hours, but as an extracurricular activity she helps set educational policy for the entire state.

Miss Nakagawa, a University of Hawaii freshman of Japanese ancestry, soundly defeated her Democratic opposition in the primary election for a seat on the Hawaii Board of Education, and was automatically elected as there were no Republican contenders.

Highly articulate and issue oriented, Miss Nakagawa overcame the problems of being a political unknown, of having only $700 in her campaign fund, of being both young and female, to defeat Jacob Pyo, 55, a state employe with a long record of service in the Parent-Teachers Association.

MISS NAKAGAWA, helped by enthusiastic friends, would be up at 5:30 a.m. during the campaign to stand on street corners waving placards or do some house-to-house canvassing before class each morning.

"People wanted a change and saw an opportunity for change in me," she said.

The dynamic teen-ager who held many offices in high school government sees herself as the "student voice" on what she describes as an "elite group," the 11-member school board, the policy setting body for the state's public school system.

"People say to me, 'being 18, you might have a hard time.' But I say being 18 is an advantage," Miss Nakagawa said.

"I just graduated from high school and 12 years of the public education system. Because of that I'm much closer to the schools and student's problems than any other person on the board."

MISS NAKAGAWA replaces a minister, who first gave her the idea that a student could and should be elected to the board.

"When I started thinking about the possibilities of having a student on the board, I really got excited and said, 'Yes, I'm going to run. I'm going to run.' We took it from there."

Miss Nakagawa's outspoken ideas may raise some eyebrows among the conservative, older members of the board, but she is very anxious to be taken seriously.

Favoring educational experiments, Miss Nakagawa thinks high school students should be allowed to smoke on campus, would like to see teacher evaluations by pupils and wants more emphasis on vocational training. She plans to write a monthly newspaper column to be published in a youth paper circulated at schools "to explain what the board is doing and ask for student feedback."

AWARE of the drug problem in public schools, Miss Nakagawa believes more classes about the adverse effects of drugs are the key to curtailing their use.

"Unless you test new ideas, you can never tell if they're good or bad," she said.

Miss Nakagawa sees her position as a "big responsibility since people are watching to see how youth succeeds. If I do a good job," she said, "more students will be elected to the school board in the years to come."

Although preparation for the twice-monthly nighttime board meetings and her school work take up most of her time, Miss Nakagawa still is interested in rock concerts, movies, dormitory living and dates.

She doesn't have a boyfriend and shyly admitted she's "still looking."

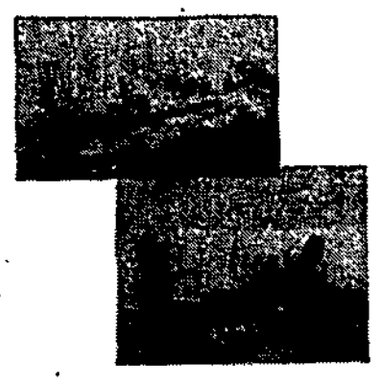
Internationally Famous Western Artist



By popular request, Mr. Young returns to O'Kelly's Gallery in Long Grove to give one of his incomparable one-man shows. Always a crowd pleaser, this show will be no exception. Mr. Young's paintings of abandoned sheds, stagecoaches, ghost towns, conestogas, dust flying action scenes and vivid landscapes depict our country's youth. His unusual technique is influenced by his interest in the old west and kindled from his grandfather, an old town sheriff and pioneer, together with his growing up on a ranch in Texas. His paintings have won many coveted awards and are in the private collections of many famous celebrities. His works are in the Smithsonian Institute, The Dupont collection, Edward G. Robinson Collections and many more. Come out this weekend, meet the artist, and spend an enjoyable time in Long Grove.

$16 Million In Flood Loans Filed: SBA

More than $16 million in disaster loan applications have been filed with the Small Business Administration as the result of major flooding that hit the Chicago area in August and September.

Robert A. Dwyer, midwestern regional director of the SBA, said there have been 4,308 home-loan applications for more than $13 million, and 142 business-loan applications for more than $2 million.

Dwyer, who spoke Tuesday at a four-hour seminar on flood control sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and held at the Sherman Hotel in Chicago, said more than $9 million in loans already have been awarded.

DWYER WAS ONE OF several members of a panel of experts discussing possible solutions to the flooding problem, including proposed legislation and enforcement of existing laws.

Also speaking was James Reichardt, administrative assistant of the Illinois Department of Local Governmental Affairs, who told of the agency's involvement in the National Flood Insurance Program, which provides relief for flood ravaged residents.

Since the heavy flooding earlier this year, many communities have applied for flood insurance, which would then enable residents of those communities to purchase protection. Before the flooding, few communities were covered by such policies.

Reichardt provided an overview of the program and explained how communities can apply and obtain such insurance and what steps residents can take to get the insurance coverage.

Other panelists included John Guillou, chief waterway engineer of the Water Resources Management Division of the Illinois Department of Transportation; Ivan Alten, director of urban development for Kane County; Donald Schultz, chairman of the DuPage County Mayor and Managers Conference; Ben Sosewitz, general superintendent of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, and Col. Richard M. Wells, district engineer of the Chicago District Army Corps of Engineers.

Doctor's Job Fair Sunday In Chicago

Illinois communities with a doctor shortage will have an opportunity to "shop" for physicians at the Illinois State Medical Society's (ISMS) second annual Doctor's Job Fair in Chicago Sunday.

Representatives of more than 50 communities and more than 235 physicians interested in establishing a new practice or relocating have registered for the fair at the Regency Hyatt House, according to Dr. Frank J. Jirka, Jr., River Forest, ISMS president.

The state medical society has operated a physician's placement service for several years, but until last year's fair, the first such event held in Illinois, communication between community and physician has been mainly through correspondence, Dr. Jirka said.

"The fair provides representatives of doctor-short communities with an opportunity to meet face-to-face with physicians," he said. "These representatives will have a chance not only to describe the medical opportunities their communities have to offer, but also to meet on a social basis with doctors and their wives."

Featured speaker at a noon luncheon will be Dr. Charles J. Jannings III, Fairfield, a member of the ISMS Board of Trustees, who will tell representatives how to attract physicians to their areas.

Interviews between community representatives and physicians will be held between 10 a.m. and noon. After the luncheon break, interviews will continue from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Harper Safety Supervisor To Head Security

Joseph D. Mandarino, supervisor of public safety at Harper College in Palatine, has been elected president of the Illinois Association of College and University Security Directors.

The association was formed two years ago to help develop and promote professional relationships among security officers on the state's campuses. Membership presently stands at 43.

"One of my goals as president," said Mandarino, "is to gain statewide recognition for the association. In this way I feel we can be in a position to make recommendations and suggestions to various state agencies on matters affecting college and university security and police departments."

At Harper Mandarino supervises a staff of seven officers and ten student cadets.

Mandarino, 31, came to Harper in February 1970 from a post as youth officer with the Chicago Police Department for 1½ years. He had also been a part-time Harper instructor on juvenile delinquency and has a bachelor's degree from Black Hills State College, Spearfish, S.D. He is now working on his master's degree in public administration at Illinois Institute of Technology.

There just aren't enough large trees to give you lumber in the large dimension you often would like. And a wide thin board, even if obtainable, is subject to warping and twisting.

Plywood has improved so much in recent years that it is strong enough to use in heavy construction, fine enough to be used as elegant paneling.

Plywood is not artificial. It is made of thin sheets of natural wood glued together with plastic resins under heat and pressure.

The grains of each layer alternate, running at right angles to each other. This is what gives plywood its great strength.

The extra dimension of plywood layers is achieved by peeling logs on giant lathes. This method of cutting a log gives plywood its strange grain and identifies rotary grain plywood, the most common.

MORE CONVENTIONAL and handsome grains can be obtained by cutting the log in half and then slicing with razor sharp blades into extremely thin sheets, or by quartering the log and then slicing. Such plywood is more expensive.

Just as with ordinary lumber, plywood is available in both softwood and hardwood. There are also interior and exterior grades from which to choose. The exterior grades are bonded with resins that are waterproof.

Plywood differs in the way you handle it. Cutting is the problem most people encounter since there is a tendency for the cut to be ragged and full of splinters along one surface.

You want to protect the good side of the plywood. To do this, remember that the point of each saw tooth must enter the wood on the surface that will be exposed, the surface you want to leave in good condition.

Using a hand saw or a table saw, keep the good side up. Using a portable power saw, keep the good face down.

"IF YOU LAY out a pattern on the plywood, keep this in mind when you do it and trace the pattern on the proper side depending on what kind of a saw you are going to use.

Use a fine tooth blade on a power saw and set the height so that the teeth just protrude above the plywood as you cut through it.

Planing can chew up an edge if done as you would with ordinary lumber. Work along the finish side first, angling the blade toward the center line of the wood. Use short strokes and don't let the blade go through to the opposite side.

When you have finished as far as you can on one edge, turn the work over and work from the opposite edge.

Should you have to sand, always sand with the grain.

Plywood generally comes in sheets four by eight feet. Take advantage of the size and lay out your work with as little waste as possible.

Cops Are Best Crime Fighters

It is a sad but inescapable part of suburban life, this quality of fear.

We fear for our children in school, that they won't be exposed to unwholesome influences, such as drugs. We fear for our neighborhoods, that they shall remain much as we remember them when we moved in.

And, we fear crime — the creeping, growing suburban brand which seems, at times, to threaten each of us in a special, personal way.

We feel helpless, trapped by our fears — but the way in which we choose to react will determine whether those fears will be eased or, in the long run, increased.

One response recently was talk of forming a vigilante committee in a portion of south Mount Prospect to combat a wave of burglaries which has swept through that community.

Residents held a meeting at the Mount Prospect Country Club to discuss the problem and to stem talk of the vigilante group. Police Chief Bert Giddens explained to the residents what his men had been doing to reduce the problem.

Any examination of crime statistics in the Northwest suburbs will show that the fear of burglaries is a realistic fear. Burglary is an increasingly popular crime here, just as are many other crimes. As communities grow, it seems that crime statistics grow along in stride.

Yes, there's substance behind the fear of crime. But formation of a vigilante group could help to create other fears, too.

Encouraging vigilante action against possible intruders — however well intended and carefully prepared — only increases the threat that a neighborhood child, walking in a backdoor to visit a friend, might be hurt by an overzealous resident.

Indeed, many burglars are nothing more than neighborhood children who, for one complex reason or another, decide they want to steal something that doesn't belong to them.

The police, although in many cases lacking numbers, are the persons responsible for maintaining law and order (and, in turn, dealing with some of our fears). They are aware of the growing problem of burglary and will do everything in their power to deal with that problem.

There is a role for local residents to play in preventing crime. First, it is simple logic that doors and windows should be locked at night and that other precautions should be taken to prevent the conditions from occuring that encourage burglary.

Second, each of us have the responsibility to report crimes or suspicious events in our communities to the local police. Cooperation with the police — and a personal alertness to changing conditions in our suburbs — can help to reduce crime.

Fear isn't going to vanish overnight if all of us follow these common sense hints. But we can learn to live with our fears, and make our communities a better place for all of us.

A Policeman's Lot...

A San Francisco psychiatrist reports a new illness caused by today's social tension — "policeman's syndrome."

The status of a policeman, says Dr. Martin G. Blinder, has shifted abruptly from "straightforward and politically approved opponent of evil" to where he has now become the buffer between powerful social forces.

This new role, he says, is unfamiliar, complex and ambiguous, as well as politically charged. As a result, his police officer patients suffer accelerated heartbeats, sweats and lightheadedness.

Policemen are literally getting sick of being called "pigs."

Meanwhile it is interesting to note that on the college campus, where this lovely term was a favorite of the love generation, students are being mugged, raped and robbed with such "alarming frequency" that they are demanding more protection from campus security officers — police, that is.

So reported John W. Powell, executive secretary of the International Association of College and University Security Directors, at a recent conference at Pace College.

It's funny what a difference a couple of years can make.

That 'Moon Itch'

How do you scratch your nose on the moon?

Maybe you've never thought about it, but an astronaut's itchy proboscis must be quite a problem, what with space helmet and all.

Evidently it has been a problem, because Apollo 17 moon explorers Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt will have special patches of rough fabric glued to the inside of their helmets at a strategic location that they can rub their noses against when the need arises.

Technology triumphs again.

GOP Just Doesn't Win Congress

by BRUCE BIOSSAT

There's been an incredible outpouring of nonsense about the fact President Nixon had no great coattail pull to help other Republicans as he swept to avalanche re-election.

Care to know the last time a GOP presidential victory was matched by big GOP U.S. House and Senate majorities? It was in 1928, with the election of Herbert Hoover.

Right after that, of course, came Franklin D. Roosevelt and the era of Democratic majorities. Nearly all the time since then, it's been bad news for the Republicans in Congress. Nobody has been able to do much about it. The evidence suggests a gang-team of Clydesdales couldn't drag them in in real numbers.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the national hero? He surely had no stunning success at it.

In 1952, when his landslide 55 per cent presidential victory gave him a 6.5 million vote margin, Republicans gained a modest 22 House seats and two in the Senate. Their new House total of 221 was just three more than the 218 needed for control. Likewise, their pickup of two in the Senate gave them a slim 49-47 advantage.

They promptly lost control of both houses in off-year 1954. In 1956, Ike's reelection margin was 9.5 million votes, his percentage 57. The effect? His party lost two House seats, stayed dead even in the Senate at 47.

Actually, Mr. Nixon in 1968, though nosing out Sen. Hubert Humphrey by less than one per cent, outdid Ike's 1956 pull. The GOP gained five House seats and seven in the Senate.

This year, as we know, with Mr. Nixon getting 61 per cent and a record-smashing margin of 17.4 million votes, his party picked up 11 House seats but lost two in the Senate.

Look at the fuller record and you'll see just how dismal has been the Republican competition for Congress since Hoover's days.

There have been 21 general elections from 1932 through 1972. Republicans have won Congress just twice, both times for a limited two years. One was that 1952 thing with Ike, the other in 1946, when post-war weariness (GOP slogan: "Had enough?") gave them 246 House seats and a 51-45 Senate edge.

In all those 21 tests, the GOP has never matched its 1928 Hoover showing of 267 House seats. Indeed, only five times has it elected 200 or more representatives, and 1956 was the last time.

The best it has done in the House since then was 192 in 1968 with Mr. Nixon, and its 191 this time is nearly identical. From 1958 on, the Republicans have never had more than 44 per cent of the House membership (their proportion in the newly chosen Congress is just that). They have fallen as low as 32 per cent in 1964 and 35 per cent in 1958.

GOP Senate showings haven't been much different. Ike's 1956 showing kept them at a respectable 47. For the next four elections, the party's Senate totals plunged into the low-to-middle 30s. With Mr. Nixon in 1968, they got to 43, where they are in the new lineup. In 1970, counting in Conservative Sen. James Buckley, they edged up to 45.

Now, against this record, what in thunder gave anybody the idea that a second-term bid by Mr. Nixon, even if it swept all 50 states, was going to suddenly haul GOP contenders for Congress out of the dark swamps they've been wandering in for 40 years? There was no hard evidence anywhere to support such a prospect.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Hoffman Board Coverage Lauded

Anent Mr. J. Rausch's attack on Miss Nancy Cowger's cogent and objective reporting, may I point out that Miss Cowger's observations probably reflect exactly the same feelings of most of the members of Hoffman Estates village board, at least in retrospect, since they all fared badly in the handling of a group of interested citizens with a genuine gripe, who appeared in numbers, obviously well organized by a bearded gentleman who had his hecklers well planted throughout the audience, persistently and naively asking for an answer to their immediate problems, like a bunch of nagging housewives demanding from their husbands, "when do we get that mink coat?", when the poor guys don't even know if they have a job next week.

I voted for Diane Jensen, and I fully agree that she is a lady, but at the meeting when she spoke up for a central recycling area, it was late, the trustees were all tired, and she lost to an organized mob against Com-Ed, and despite her committee's work on her recycling project, she did not think of an obvious alternative, such as investigation of selected pickup by our present garbage company. Her best alternative that night would have been to table her part of the agenda to Item One of the next week's agenda. As I personally and respectfully pointed out to Diane Jensen the following week, I did not think she had done her homework sufficiently to prepare her point for acceptance to her fellow members on the board. Perhaps the problem we all have in pointing out our stances toward the public good, is that we expect the public to know as much as we do, and I wonder if Mr. Rausch knows, for instance, that Hoffman Estates does not even have its own fire department, and since he seems to know Mr. Regan real well, and Mr. Regan does get into fire protection problems in our village, he should question Mr. Regan about it, and the matter of a new fire station which the fire protection district is about to put up which seems to conflict with preliminary research by Mr. Daryl Rathman, village trustee on a committee to investigate our need for a municipal fire department.

I imagine with determined investigation, that ROOST, our Republican township organization which has been quietly, under the direction of Don Totten, directing the affairs of our village trustees and also Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District, could ultimately be found to be the real determinant of whether Diane Jensen gets her recycling center established.

I suggest Mr. Rausch should attack the matter of our village board with facts on their many good decisions, for we citizens who elected them, as against any poor decisions they may have made, including the nay vote against the recycling center. To attack Miss Cowger (Not Ms., to my knowledge) was another environmentalist error, because to my knowledge she is not only eminently fair and objective in her reporting, but also a very sweet intelligent woman.

One other item, concerning the dignity of our duly elected representatives. It is expected that occasionally they will lose their "cool" under some stressful situations, but neither is it in the interest of good government for any member of our board of village trustees to demonstrate his disregard for parliamentary order after an issue has been closed. Bruce Lind also had my vote, last time he ran, but his momentary lapse was uncalled for, and deserved the chiding he received from Miss Cowger. He should have sought to soothe the matter, not to embitter things. He still deserves my vote as to his other qualities.

May I suggest to every reader of the Hoffman Herald that they demand more of Miss Cowger's cogent commentary, even if it means her taking this writer over the coals, since I too am interested in criticizing local politics, and newspaper coverage, and I cannot be sure she will ever agree with my point of view on other issues, as much as I agree with her Nov. 13 column.

Kimball Hill PTA Defended

Re: "Candy Handouts Hit," November 14, by Mrs. Annette Szafran; I wish to express the following:

I feel I must write this letter of rebuttal in answer to the comments you made implicating the Kimball Hill PTA.

The Kimball Hill PTA did not take any stand on the issue concerning "pennies for Halloween." The day after your first letter in the Fence Post, we (the Kimball Hill PTA) contacted the police department. We were informed they were not in favor of pennies for Halloween. This is when the Kimball Hill PTA withdrew any ideas regarding the issue.

Mrs. Newman answered your letter as a concerned parent and never mentioned the Kimball Hill PTA or that she was a chairman of any committee nor a member of the board. Mrs. Newman is truly concerned and interested in the "welfare of children and youth" as anyone can see when they read her articles in the school newspaper. Because of this fine quality she was selected to serve as the safety chairman of the Kimball Hill PTA.

The first objective of the PTA is "to promote the welfare of children and youth in the home, school, church and community." Kimball Hill PTA has always succeeded in fulfilling the goals set forth by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the standards set forth within our own local unit; for which is has received continuing praise over the years both by school Dist. 15 and PTA Dist. 37.

I feel it very unfortunate that you had to involve the Kimball Hill PTA in rebuffing Mrs. Newman's reply which was made as a personal, individual opinion and not as a spokesman of or for the Kimball Hill PTA.

Kimball Hill PTA is concerned for the welfare of all the children. A phrase used within the PTA is "where children come first," and therefore I think that you are wholly in error in your assertion upon the Kimball Hill PTA as not being concerned with the safety of our children.

Tips On Cutting Insurance Expenses

by LEROY POPE
Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — No matter what else you may do for a living, chances are overwhelming that you also work in advertising.

"Every man, woman or child who carries a purchase out of a store these days carries a visible advertisement printed on the bag or wrapper," says Barry Reifler, president of Uniflex Inc., of Westbury, N.Y., a maker of plastic bags.

Plastic bags, made mainly of tougher polyethylene film, have taken over increasingly from paper sacks because they don't break, are waterproof and are reusable for many purposes, Reifler said. They have strong, stiff, locking handles, and the advertisements printed on their sides have a relatively long exposure life.

Reifler claims the cost of plastic bag advertising is about 3 cents a bag. That, says Reifler is cheaper than magazine or television advertising.

About 110 million plastic promotional bags are turned out yearly. Uniflex makes 40 million and the others are divided mainly between Bemis Co. of Minneapolis, Amko Inc., of Cincinnati, PDC Inc., of New York and Poland Bros. of Baltimore.

ALL KINDS OF businesses advertise on the bags. Banks using them range from New York's huge Chase Manhattan to small savings and loan associations.

Thousands of retailers use them. So do makers of cigarettes, soft drinks, food products like Jello, the big oil companies, newspapers such as the Wall Street Journal and New York Times, public utilities, country clubs, libraries and museums.

The person who carries one of these bags, thus, really is a moving billboard and is paid for passing the message by obtaining free a convenient, durable parcel container.

Reifler said making bags is a complex business because his firm has to print the ads on them in one to six colors. Uniflex uses 75 tons of printing inks monthly and 420 million feet of film.

The film can be recycled and it burns completely, leaving no ash. It is too thick to be dangerous to children like the thin film used by dry cleaners a few years back. That film suffocated some babies when it mistakenly was used by mothers as waterproof crib sheeting.

Believe it or not, there are ways to reduce your insurance expenses. The suggestions come from The Travelers Insurance Companies.

About a year and a half ago, The Travelers established what it calls the Office of Consumer Information. Anyone in the United States can use its toll-free telephones to get an answer to questions concerning insurance. Since the Consumer Information Office opened, more than 50,000 persons have taken advantage of the service which provides answers over the phone or by mail if more detail is indicated.

From among all the questions answered, The Travelers recently gathered the 18 which are most important in terms of personal insurance and put them in booklet form.

HERE'S WHAT THE booklet says about cutting your insurance expenses:

—Only insure against losses you can't afford to pay yourself. Deductibles of $100 or more on your homeowners and auto collision will reduce your premiums significantly, and you'll still be protected against the big loss you can't afford.

—Think twice before taking out collision insurance on an older car. If you have an accident, the most you will get will be the average book value of the same model car, minus the deductible — and it might make a lot more sense for you to pay that out of your own pocket.

—If you can live without certain high-performance or sports cars, do it. You'll save on insurance premiums. Check out the car you're considering with your insurance agent first.

—Coordinate your insurance coverages to avoid duplication and overlapping. Most insurance policies don't pay full benefits if other insurance also applies so that you may be paying for protection you won't get. Package policies like homeowners automatically provide such coordination among the coverages they contain. If you have group insurance through your employer, your individual life, accident and health coverages should be designed to supplement your group coverages.

—When it comes to life insurance, avoid random buys. The more effective and often cheapest way is to seek the help of a professional insurance man who can design a specific program tailored to your needs. The face value of your policy generally does not determine that you have the most effective and efficient insurance. Only when you buy on a planned basis will you be certain that you got the best value for your money.

—Take the time to discuss your needs with a professional insurance agent.

A Bit Of Osage Lore In Coin-Medal

All but lost in the usual stack of Monday morning press releases was a personal invitation from Sylvester J. Tinker, Principal Chief of the Osage Tribe, to attend the 100th anniversary celebration of the tribe's removal from his native Kansas to the Oklahoma Indian Territory.

Coincidentally, in the same mail was an announcement from the Indian Tribal Series in Phoenix, Ariz., that the eighth in a series of 38 coin medals being issued by as many American Indian Nations, was now ready for release. It was, oddly enough, the official coin-medal of the Osage Tribe.

The published authentic history of one of the most powerful Indian tribes in America is issued jointly with the pure silver coin-medal as decreed by the Osage Tribal Council. The release date of Sept. 30 for the Osage People (104 pps. Indian Tribal Series) along with the medal, marks the 100th year since the tribe was forceably moved from the midwest to the reservation at Pawhuska, Okla.

CONFINEMENT IN what is now known as Osage County, Okla., however, made them one of the wealthiest tribes in the United States as a result of fabulous oil strikes.

Based on "head rights" payments from oil shares amounted to over $40,000 for a family of five. But extravagance resulting from conspicuous consumption of the white man's essentials — automobiles, furs, fancy homes and lavish knickknacks — soon spelled unhappiness.

In 1932 the "per head" income dropped to $585, gradually climbing again to roughly $2,780 in 1970. In his book, "The Osage People," author W. David Baird, associate professor of history at the University of Arkansas, effectively breathes new life into their proud earlier days.

The book and medal, each marked with the same serial number, have been approved by the Tribal Council and are available through the Indian Tribal Series, 401 East Indian School Road, Phoenix, Ariz., 85012.

BUREAU OF THE MINT

The Bureau of the Mint has ordered a cut-off Oct. 16 for all orders for 1972 Uncirculated 40 per cent Silver Eisenhower dollars. Mrs. Mary Brooks, director, announced that the Mint has received orders for more than two million of the "Ike" dollars since Aug. 1, and in keeping with her promise to accept purchases for the maximum quantity possible to produce within minting facilities, it was determined that two-million-plus pieces would peak that capacity.

Mrs. Brooks also called attention to the delay in accepting orders for the 1973 Proof Coin Set until suitable adjustments are made in the new packaging.

Every effort will be made to meet the demand well within the period usually allotted to order-delivery. This is necessary in order to complete the 1973 Proof Set program before starting on the next phase of the Mint's numismatic service policy.

'I Don't Understand Them,' Says Coach

(IT'S EARLY SEPTEMBER on a steamy practice field in the northwest suburbs.

The high school's freshman squad, numbering only 35, has just concluded practice.

Over on an old canvas bag filled with worn footballs sits the team's head coach, its only coach. Facing him in a shabby, sweaty, threadbare practice jersey is a 13-year-old athlete.

The youngster's well-developed for his age, resembling a veteran prep player in carriage and confidence. Tucked under one arm is his helmet; his free hand holds his frosh uniform.

Moving closer,you can faintly overhear their conversation.)

Player: Coach, I thought we'd be playing in front of a lot of people, especially in our season opener. There were just a few moms and a couple of cheerleaders. My mom was one of them and she was wondering why we don't have new uniforms.

Coach: Only the varsity gets new ones. So what? You should be happy to just have a uniform. And concerning the crowds, the less people the better. We don't want youngsters having undue pressure placed on them.

Player: But we had new uniforms and good crowds in midget ball. I thought high school would be a step up from that.

Coach: New uniforms in little league football? I find that hard to believe, but I'm new to the area. Tell me about this former team of yours.

Player: Sure. I played in a great league. Our team was the Jets and I was the quarterback. I've always played quarterback.

Coach: How long were you involved in that program?

Player: Heck, since I was eight. We ran a pro-style offense, not the kind you teach. Everybody said we looked like the pros. They said we could really exe. . . exe . . .

Coach: Execute?

Player: Yeah!

Coach: Tell me more. Your team doesn't sound like the one I used to play on in sandlot ball.

Player: Did you play on a beach?

Coach: No. That's what they called any open spaces in a neighborhood where kids played different sports.

Player: Oh.

Coach: Getting back to the subject, how many games did you play?

Player: Eight. We never lost inside the league.

Coach: You played outside your league?

Player: Sure. Haven't you heard of bowl games?

Coach: Yes, but never in grade school ball.

Player: Well, we went to one.

Coach: How did it work: How did you get into the bowl and where was it?

Player: We were undefeated, applied and received the invitation. One year we went to Wisconsin. Last year we got to fly to Pennsylvania!

Coach: You're kidding, right? Fly?

Player: Our parents would pass the hat at each game and probably collect $100. Sometimes $150 or $200 if it was a big rivalry game. Those would draw a couple of hundred fans. I think I heard one of my Jet coaches say that our homecoming game had around 300 people.

Coach: Homecoming?

Player: Well, not exactly. But we had a queen and her court. We also had a parade with floats. That plus the usual pompon girls, cheerleaders and mascot. Oh yaah, I was the king.

Coach: All that for young kids like you? That's hard to believe.

Player: Well, anyway, we were undefeated and won the league. Along with the money from the games, our parents helped out a lot and we made the trip. It was something else. That bowl game made our homecoming look like a joke. There were celebrities, official programs, interviews on the local radio station, highlights on statewide TV, huge trophies for the winners and the losers and about 2,000 people in attendance.

Coach: I can't imagine that! By the way, who won?

Player: Well, we should have but our coaching staff didn't have any films on our opponents. That really helped us in our league games. Who shoots for you — an assistant or one of the booster club dads?

Coach: Films? You've got to be kidding. Only the varsity uses them.

Player: No wonder you can't use a pro style offense. You scout, don't you?

Coach: Of course.

Player: Well, getting back to your other question, we lost 35-21. But, like I said, we got three-foot trophies. That makes around a dozen in my trophy case from football and baseball.

Coach: That football program you were involved with sounds awfully professional. They really overdid it!

Player: That's nothing. You should have been at our banquet. The boosters arranged a real neat deal at a restaurant with a former Bear as a guest speaker. We tried to get Bart Starr, but he wasn't free on that night. After a super meal, we watched color films of the bowl game.

Coach: Color? A banquet? Guest speaker?

Player: You sound like such things like that aren't done in high school. They are, aren't they?

Coach: Sure, but only with the varsity. Mothers bring casseroles to the cafeteria and we have a good time. Somebody in the area usually says a few words and then the letters are passed out.

Player: Boy, coach, I wanted to play football real bad in high school. But this school isn't anything like the program I used to play in. I think I'll play some other sport where there's more being offered. Here, take this back.

Coach: Are you sure you want to turn in your uniform? You know that this is the way it is until you're on the varsity of any sport.

Player: Well, I heard some of the guys talking about a hockey league that goes to Canada.

Coach: We don't have such a league in our school district. That's an organization outside of the regular athletic program. It's a club thing.

Player: Maybe that's the best kind. No, you take this uniform. I'm going to talk to my dad. I bet he'll say that hockey's "the best way to go" right now. Besides, it's a new challenge. I don't have any hockey trophies, but I've always been a good skater. I was getting tired of football anyway. Nobody seems to care about freshmen. See ya, coach.

Coach: I just don't understand you kids. You'll be sorry.

(Away runs the youngster, talking to himself.)

Former player: Those new arenas are sure sharp. I hope I can make the first team. I've never been to Canada.

(His former coach, dragging the ball bag back to the equipment room, gazes at the returned uniform he grips tightly in his angry hand. He, too, is mumbling to himself.)

Coach: I just don't understand them. When I was a freshman, just wearing any uniform and playing for my school was great. just don't know . . .

(It's early November. In an empty gym in the northwest suburbs, a freshman wrestling coach straddles a bench. In front of him stands a young athlete with a uniform in his hand . . .)

ONE OF NINE. Maine West's big point man, Joe Thimm, goes out front for a rebound in last Friday night's game won by Arlington, 64-49. Dan Donahue battles for the Cards. Thimm grabbed nine rebounds in a losing cause as the Cardinal sbroke a 37-37 tie open with 2 fourth quarter points.

Pirates Boast Solid Returning Gymnastics Group

by JIM COOK
Gymnastics Editor

Rarely is a high school coach able to boast an entire team returning intact from a preceding year. The exceptions are normally the second-year teams that played a junior varsity schedule the year before.

Palatine gymnastics coach Len Witter will be blessed with such a development when his Pirate strongmen tackle the equipment for the first time during the 1972-73 season at Naperville tonight.

The Pirates have a powerful nucleus of 12 lettermen returning from a squad that last year posted a promising 9-10 record without the benefit of seniors on the club.

"Our parallel bars should be our strongest event," Witter said. "I'd have to rate our rings a close second behind our p-bars and both our free ex. side horse and high bar should be a little stronger than last year."

Returning in full force are junior all-around Scott Falkanger, senior free exercise, side horse and trampman Bill Snyder, senior side horseman Dan Maher, senior Bruce Westergren in floor ex and senior horizontal bar and free-exer Bob Schergen.

Also back are senior Chip Howes on side horse, junior high bar and trampolinist Bob Gran, brothers Larry and Ken Evensen, parallel barman Steve Outcalt, senior rings specialist Dick Alcina and free exerciser Jeff Williams.

"If we can avoid major injuries, we should be all right," Witter said, but added, "we already lost Bruce Westergren for a couple of weeks with a knee injury, but we expect him to be healthy before the conference season begins."

The Pirates will be shooting for the magical 100 figure tonight at Naperville and Witter believes the century mark is within grasp. "They beat us by a couple of points (79.30-75.39) last year," Witter remembered, "and we're expecting another close meet."

In anticipation of a forecasted 120 score by season's end, Witter predicted his Pirates to occupy the middle of the brutally-competitive Mid-Suburban League standings.

"The regulars are going to be up there again," Witter shrugged in reference to perennial state powers Arlington, Hersey, Wheeling and Elk Grove.

Also disheartening is the fact that Palatine won't appear at home until Jan. 18!

WWMM-FM Begins Cage Coverage Friday Evening

WWMM-FM of Arlington Heights will begin its series of Mid-Suburban League basketball broadcasts Friday evening.

Forest View's visit to Hersey is the first game selected by the Arlington Heights station for the 1972-73 season.

WWMM-FM Sports Director Dick Thomas and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk will report the action, starting at 8:15 p.m. at 92.7 on the FM dial.

There will be 13 Mid-Suburban League games broadcast on WWMM-FM, including the Tuesday night championship on Tuesday, Feb. 27. All other games will originate on Friday evenings with every area school covered at least once.

Mid-Suburban Records Tumbled In '72

It's Official! Grove Rewrote Record Book

by KEITH REINHARD

Chapter 10 in the Mid-Suburban League football record book goes under a subheading.

It reads: Elk Grove.

The Grenadiers did some rewrite work in the MSL record journal a year ago when they rose up to snare their first conference title. They were something else again in 1972 though, as the circuit rounded out its first full decade of grid competition.

As in each of the past nine seasons, there was no scarcity of teams or individuals climbing onto various honor rolls and shattering an array of loop standards. While there were many with something to say though, no one said it with the impact that coach Don Schnake's Grens were able to muster.

Led by peerless quarterback Jeff Stewart, the Grove put the finishing touches on the MSL's 10th football anniversary by becoming the best offensive team among the nearly 100 units drummed into shape by 26 different head coaches since the conference came into existence back in 1963.

Schnake's '72 gang was also one of the better ones on defense.

Individually, among the perhaps 3,000 youngsters who have donned a varsity uniform to compete in the MSL grid wars, Stewart ranks right up among the very best.

He is the very best rushing quarterback the loop has ever known, according to statistics. He is also among the most productive of say 500 to 1000 backs who have lugged or lofted a pigskin in league play over those ten campaigns.

These figures come to light on a series of six career honor listings, covering various offensive categories in the MSL. Each contains approximately 10 names — the cream of the crop since 1963 — and Stewart is on two of those lists.

In leading Elk Grove to a pair of titles, the 6-3 all-state pick rushed for a total of 944 yards. No other signal caller has gone that far. Only seven players have rushed for more and all were running backs.

On the total offense list Stewart also ranks eighth now with 1506 yards for his career. Only three of those seven ahead of him here were able to go over the 1500 mark in only two seasons. The rest were boosted along by playing varsity ball during their sophomore year.

Four other players also moved up on to these select billings by adding stellar '72 showings to previous accomplishments.

Jan Fitzgerald, Palatine's flashy three-year receiver, and Marty Friel, stocky veteran Hersey end, both moved up onto a pair of honor rolls dealing with receptions.

Friel now ranks third in all-time MSL pass receiving, having collected 732 yards over three campaigns, Fitzgerald is fifth here behind Friel at 650 and fifth again ahead of Friel on the total receptions log.

Fitzgerald pulled in a total of 46 passes in those trio of seasons and Friel is next in line with 40.

Of the two other gridders moving onto a career MSI honor roll, only one is technically rounding out his prep career. Mike Atkocaitis has now made the passing list top heavy with Conant quarterbacks by becoming the third Cougar signal caller to make it.

His three-year figures, all but 21 yards achieved during the past two seasons, total out to 1129, placing him ninth behind former teammate John Macdonald (in 5th) and ex-Cougar standout Scott Johnson (2nd).

Moving among this same group, one notch ahead of Atkocaitis, is Daryl Feltes. He is only a junior but as a member of Glenbard North's club which is transferring to the Tri-County next year, will not see his efforts count toward further MSL achievements.

In two years Feltes has already accumulated 1170 yards worth of passing in league play. Ironically, he is the third member of this elite top 10 not getting in a full senior season . . . a broken hand prevented Johnson from playing all but a scant bit as a senior and former Prospect star Mike Gaffney moved out of state after passing for over 1000 yards in his soph and junior years.

In the MSL pigskin record manual there are also listings for premier single season efforts. The 1972 performances which rated entry onto these pages were as follows:

SCORING — John Kronforst (Forest View) 8th with 68 points; Andy Knotek (Palatine) and Jeff Schroeder (Elk Grove) tied for 12th with 66 points; Stewart tied for 18th with 48 points.

RUSHING — Schroeder 3rd with 812 yards; Kronforst 4th with 795 yards; Stewart 10th with 629 yards; Joe Alden (Fremd) 16th with 550 yards; Barry Morse (Conant) 17th with 544 yards; Scott Miesfeldt (Hersey) 21st with 506 yards.

PASSING — Mark Zakula (Hersey) 9th with 806 yards; Jim Stolk (Wheeling) 12th with 754 yards; Feltes 14th with 735 yards; Atkocaitis 21st with 631 yards, Jim Sobczynski (Palatine) 22nd with 625 yards; Bill Millner (Forest View) 25th with 555 yards.

RECEIVING — Doug Groot (Wheeling) 6th with 29 receptions; Friel and Fitzgerald tied for 8th with 26 receptions; Marlon Brooks (Glenbard North) tied for 19th with 19 receptions.

TOTAL OFFENSE — Stewart 3rd with 1054 yards; Zakula 12th with 806 yards, Schroeder 19th with 812 yards; Kronforst 21st with 795 yards.

On the total offense list, Stewart joins a group of only seven who have ever gone over the 1,000 mark. At the same time Schroeder and Kronforst are two of three (the other is Arlington's Scott Douglas) among this whole prestigious 25-man listing to make it without any passing statistics at all.

There were also a number of records broken on an individual and team basis for game, season and career. They included:

Most One-Point Conversions, Season — Gary Adams (Elk Grove) 27, old record of 19 set by Culberson (Arlington) in 1967.

Longest winning streak and longest streak without a loss — Elk Grove with 14 (excluding this year's Super Bowl). The record is still open, of course. Prospect had the longest MSL win streak at 10 and shared the streak without a loss at 10 with Arlington.

Least Yards Passing Allowed, Game — Prospect, 0 against Rolling Meadows, tying a mark owned by 12 other teams.

Longest Interception Return — Norm Smith (Prospect) 101 yards against Glenbard North, wiping out a record set just one week earlier of 98 yards by Tony Tringali (Elk Grove) against the same Panthers.

Longest Fumble Recovery Return — Mark Pettit (Fremd) 95 yards against Wheeling.

Longest Punt Return — Bobby Harth (Arlington) 84 yards against Hersey.

Longest Field Goal — Russ Windholz (Conant) 43 yards against Prospect. Again, ironically, this ties a record set by Prospect's Nee two years ago against no one else but Conant.

With regard to team rushing and passing figures for a single season, there are more lists, rated by average since league schedules have varied from five to eight games over the past 10 years.

Defensively, in passing, Hersey took over the third spot with a 42.4 yard yield per game. Prospect's '72 pass defense ranks seventh on the all-time list at 49.3.

In defending against the rush Elk Grove has earned the number two position behind Arlington's '68 entry with a 41.7 average yield per contest. In total defense the 1972 Cards moved into seventh on the all-time list with a 140.4 average per meet.

Rolling Meadows made their first appearance in the MSL a memorable one by capturing the sixth notch on the rushing defense list. The Mustangs allowed but 72.6 overland yards per game in 1972.

Offensively the Grenadiers are now number one in rushing and number three in total offense. They are the first club to ever gain more than 2000 yards collectively on the ground and their 296.0 average easily bettered the record pace of 285.2 established by Maine West in 1965.

Totally Elk Grove's 363.0 tempo is just a shade behind the 363.3 mark set down by Wheeling last year and slightly off the record average owned by Arlington's '66 edition. However, the Grove's 2541 total for seven games is a record in itself, clipsing an overall season mark of 2455 produced by the Cards in 1968.

Prospect' May Challenge' In Mid-Suburban Swimming

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

Some Mid-Suburban League coaches are tabbing Prospect as a contender for the swimming title, but Jerry Lovejoy won't go that far. At least not right now.

"We may challenge," says the Knights' coach, "but we're weak in a couple of spots. I'd have to say right now Arlington appears to be the main contender."

The Knights, loaded with lettermen, receive their season opening test Saturday against hosting Glenbrook South. The dual meet will begin at 2 p.m.

Figuring to give MSL rivals their toughest tests will be four Knights in particular — Rick Fox, Jeff Young, John Todd and Tom Bennett. Fox is Lovejoy's "all-around swimmer . . . a utility man."

Young and Todd specialize in the breaststroke with Young also excelling in the individual medley. Bennett "is a real strong contender in the conference in the 200 and 400," says Lovejoy.

Other fine lettermen are Dave Larsen (IM, butterfly, backstroke), Paul Bolit (diver), Greg Waishwell (50, 100 freestyle), Kent Dexter (Backstroke), Jim Lyon (200, 400 freestyle), Al Armbrust (IM, butterfly) and Mike Marone (100 freestyle, IM).

Lovejoy is also counting on George Medal (Butterfly), Gary Eichhorst (100, 200 freestyle), Brad Busse (breaststroke, IM, 200 freestyle) Don Kinnaman (diver), Tim Avischious (breaststroke), Chris Prinslow (backstroke), Cliff Brosius (butterfly, IM) and Bill Lyon (200, 400 freestyle).

The individual medley, diving, breaststroke and freestyle events are the team's strengths, according to Lovejoy. He labels the backstroke and the butterfly as being weak right now.

Long, Long Fight

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — On April 6, 1893, Andy Bowen and Jack Burke fought 110 rounds in the longest prize fight in history. It lasted seven hours and 19 minutes and ended in a draw.

Spotnails President Has Race Cars

R. B. RACING ASSOCIATES. Ray Blakeman, left, and Lee Kunzman stand behind the R. B. Racing Associates crew, which includes Jack Steck, third from left, the chief mechanic. The group just completed a very successful first season of competition.

Ray Blakeman, president of Spotnails, Inc. in Rolling Meadows, has an interesting hobby.

Most of the week he can be found behind his desk at the plant, at 1100 Hicks Road, or traveling around the world for his company.

On Saturday afternoons and Sundays, from the middle of March through the middle of November, he can be found following his race cars at tracks extending from Harrisburg, Pa., to Gardena, Calif.

This was the first year for R. B. Racing Associates. They fielded two cars — a black No. 5 United States Auto Club (USAC) Sprint Car that competed in 30 races and the larger No. 55 USAC 100-mile championship dirt car that participated in four major races.

It was a successful season for R. B. Racing Associates, with the sprint car finishing third in national point standings and the championship dirt car taking 12th. A total of eight new track records were established by the two cars.

The team driver for R. B. Racing is Lee Kunzman, a 28-year-old bachelor from Guttenberg, Iowa. In addition to his successful season with the spring and championship dirt cars, Lee raced in every one of the Indianapolis type car races and very likely will be named one of the outstanding rookies for the 1972 season.

During the next season R. B. Racing Associates will be fielding at least two cars again and fully expect that both cars will be in contention for their respective championships.

Schaumburg Ice Hockey Highlights

Going into the eighth week of play, the Schaumburg King hockey teams had some difficulty with Palatine. The Kings won two and lost four games to the hard-skating Palatine Teams. The scores, goals and assists were as follows:

MITES (Ages 7 & 8)
Elmhurst 5, Schaumburg 2

The fine skating of the McArthur Realty Mite team enabled them to outshoot the Huskies 15-13. Goalie Mike Stevenson made some fine saves. One goal was scored by Schaumburg's Patrick Gourley, assisted by Joel Basgall, and the other goal was scored by John Slavin, assisted by Patrick Gourley. McArthur Realty Mite defensemen doing a great job in their positions are John Murphy, Michael Bastone, John Machonis, Carl Davis, Danny Braglin and Brad Horske.

SQUIRTS (Ages 9 & 10)
Schaumburg 5, Palatine 1

Seven seconds into the game, Woodfield Auto Dealers Squirt Dennis Heurlin scored an unassisted goal. In the second period action increased when Kevin Kliner scored, also unassisted. In this same period, Scott Roos scored twice, unassisted. In the third period, with only seconds remaining, the Woodfield Auto Dealers Squirts, who seem to be making a habit out of spectacular finishes, saw Scott Roos get a hat trick with a great slap shot from the blue line for the final goal of the game. The King Team outshot Palatine 14-4.

JUVENILES (Ages 17 & 18)
Palatine 6, Schaumburg 2

The Campanelli Inc. Juvenile Team played Palatine for the second time this season and were outshot 22 to 14. Manager and coaches report however, that the Kings played a much improved game since their last game with Palatine. Campanelli King Dave Thorson scored a goal assisted by Don Neumann, and Nick Kobler scored a goal assisted by Denny Pollard.

PEE WEES (Ages 11 & 12)
Palatine 3, Schaumburg 1

The King Pee Wee team lost to a strong Palatine team and was outshot 16-11. Jeff Roos scored the Kings goal and was assisted by Joe Rogowski and Paul Barucca.

BANTAMS (Ages 13 & 14)
Schaumburg 3, Palatine 0

The Omega Kings went on the ice defending a seven-game unbeaten streak in league play. The opposition was the hard-skating Palatine Bantam team.

Heavy pressure was applied by the Kings in the first period resulting in an unassisted goal by Joe Ciccin. Joe stole the puck from a defender, skating around a second defenseman and scored on a backhand shot in the right corner of the net.

A second-period goal by Mike Waghorne put the Kings two goals ahead. The goal came as a result of a fine bit of digging and an assist by Tom Johnson. Tom dug the puck off the right boards and fed Mike in the slot, where Mike promptly put it behind the goalie.

The third period was a somewhat slower session as both teams were required to skate shorthanded. At one point the Kings survived a two-man shortage for nearly three minutes.

Mike Waghorne scored in the third period, his second goal of the evening, to give Schaumburg a 3-0 lead. It came while the Kings were killing a penalty. Mike stole the puck just inside the blue line and broke in on one on one. He avoided a check by the defenseman and scored on a wrist shot in the lower right corner of the net. The balance of the third period had Schaumburg checking closely to preserve the shutout for goalie Jim Wilson.

The Omega Kings outshot the Palatine Bantams 27-12. The game was a cleanly contested match and was highlighted by many fine plays by both teams.

The Kings played four games over the weekend in the Chicago Minor Sabre Invitational Tournament. Fine play by Schaumburg resulted in two wins and two losses and a third-place finish.

The Kings opened the tournament with a fine effort and defeated an excellent St. Louis Team 5-4. The second game of the tournament was played against the Chicago Junior Hawks, undoubtedly the finest Bantam Team in the Chicagoland area. The Kings were defeated 6-2 when the Hawks scored two goals during the last two minutes of play. Fine play and a never quit attitude gave the Kings a 3-1 victory over the Minor Sabres in the third game of the series. Two third-period goals put the Omega team in a position to win the second place trophy by defeating the team from Green Bay in their final contest. The Schaumburg team was defeated 6-3 and finally seemed to run out of gas during this fourth game. The tournament was certainly a success for the Bantams as it offered them an opportunity to play some of the finer Bantam teams in the midwest.

MIDGETS (Ages 15 & 16)
Palatine 3, Schaumburg 1

The Palatine Midgets defeated Schaumburg for the second time in league play. This game, much like the first, was closely contested and resulted in many fine plays by both teams. Joe Vuglar scored the King goal and was assisted by Mike Fabry and Mouse Pollard. Palatine outshot Schaumburg 20-17.

Bergman Key 'Cat Returnee

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

Wheeling coach Doug Cotner is hoping for a repeat performance by his Wildcats as they open the swim season against the hosting Maine North Norsemen Friday night at 7:00.

The 'Cats were 7-7 overall — including a win against the Norsemen — and owners of just one Mid-Suburban League victory in the 1971-72 campaign, but Cotner "hopes to" have an even better season record-wise. "It will be a hard season, but we have very good individuals on the team," he says.

Ken Bergman, one of five senior lettermen, is the 'Cats' leader. He will be handling the individual medley, butterfly and breaststroke events.

"He has the possibility of being a conference contender in two events — two of those three," says Cotner.

Labeled another "top contender" is George Wurtz, a senior diver. Also expected to carry much of the senior load are Larry Slad (backstroke), Mat Zukowski (distance freestyle) and Ed Wilkosz (individual medley).

Three junior lettermen who should also do the job are Bill Modica (distance freestyle), Paul Lindquist (individual medley, butterfly and breaststroke) and Mike Hyde (freestyler).

For Elk Grove Knights, Falcons

Two Wins On West Virginia Trip

The Elk Grove Village Knights and Falcons traveled from Elk Grove to Sistersville, W. Va., to play the first Pop Warner West Virginia Bowl game against the Sistersville Pop Warner teams. The trip was sponsored through the efforts of the Elk Grove Village Athletic Association.

The Falcon Pee Wee team bested the Sistersville Little Tiers 13-6 before a crowd of approximately 500 people.

After punts by each side, the Falcons started to roll and inspired by a 55-yard end sweep by Steve Grachek to the 18-yard line, they punched the ball over in three plays, tallying on a 12-yard burst by Scott Chovanec making it 6-0.

In the second half, the Tigers put a drive together and on long runs by their tailback, Joe Heintzman, put the ball across for a 6-6 tie. His runs were for 20 and 14 and finally 40 yards for the TD.

After the Falcons received, Steve Grachek broke loose again and scored on a 58-yard run around end. Lance Schriner, bolted through left tackle for the extra point and the Falcons led 13-6, the eventual final score. The rest of the game was well-played on both sides, but the defenses stood out, allowing only short yardage.

Offensive standouts for the Falcons against a well-coached tough Tigers team were Jim Stromberg and Scott Curtin, guards, Ken Reem, end, Steve Thon, Bob Kraus, QB, Rich Hess and Mike Zahn, tackles, and Gordon Galloway, center. Defensive unit that held the Tigers to six points was keyed by Craig Kowalski, Jim Stromberg, Scott Shovanec, Marty Tiritilli, Randy Sanders, Grachek and Steve Thon.

The Knights played their finest game of the season by winning 20-6 over the Sistersville Tigers. They were in command throughout the game and out of a total of 40 minutes, controlled the ball for 31 minutes. Every boy who made the trip played more than a quarter.

The Knights scored on two passes to left half Ben Stogis on a play-action pass which fooled the Tiger defense. The passes were perfect and Stogis went untouched to the goal line.

All the boys played defense by attacking the offense which forced the Tigers into errors. Tackling and pursuit was the best of the season. The defensive line of Stogis, Glen Galloway, Steve Campbell, Kris Rudseth, Joe Cuccinato, Art Kowalski, and Phil DeMarie held the Tigers to only 26 yards gained on the ground. The only Tiger TD scored was on a pass play.

Ji Stanley, Ben Stogis, Tony Kees and Joe Woelfel were ably lead by the QB Dave Champa. The offensive line of DeMarie, Golowacz, Tom Duffey, Mike Gennardo, Campbell, Galloway, and Tom Curran opened the holes for the backs. Galloway carried the ball three times for a gain of 12 yards to the one-yard line. In DeMarie's attempt to carry the ball over, the ball was fumbled and Champa fell on it in the end zone for the third touchdown.

After the games, a buffet dinner was given at the Elks Club by the parents of the Sistersville players for the teams and guests. John Rader, councilman, represented Mayor Robert Wable who could not attend. Small trophies were given to all the players both the visitors and Sistersville. The Elk Grove coaches presented the trophies to Sistersville players and cheerleaders, and coaches Gilmore and Hunnard made the presentation to the Elk Grove teams.

Johnny Rodgers Tells Critics

'I Think I'm An All-Right Dude'

by IRA BERKOW

"I don't think I'll vote for Johnny Rodgers (for the Heisman trophy) no matter how many yards he gains for Nebraska, no matter how many touchdowns he scores. Johnny Rodgers runs wild off the field, too. He has had several scrapes with the law, including a gas station holdup, for which he was sentenced to two years' probation after a plea of guilty." — Dick Young, sports columnist for the New York Daily News.

Johnny Rodgers

NEW YORK — (NEA) — I called Johnny Rodgers in Lincoln, Neb., and read him the above. Following are the comments of Rodgers, a 5-9, 160-pound senior runner-receiver and two-time All-American from the University of Nebraska:

"I see articles like that and I get letters from people saying things, like that. From people who don't know me. They talk about me having bad character and that the Heisman award should go to someone who is a credit to his school, to himself, and a model to youth. But the Heisman award is supposed to go to the best football player in the country, which I think I am.

"Guys write, 'Johnny Rodgers is the flashiest back, the best back I've ever seen, but I'm not going to vote for him for Heisman.' If it's a character award, they should specify that. And then go around and meet the leading candidates. Some of these guys who vote can't know no more about me than what they read or see on TV. But how can you be an All-American and not be eligible for the Heisman award?

"There are a lot of people on my side. One of my tightest friends is Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma, who is one of my stiffest competitors for best player in the country. He said, 'Johnny, quit worrying about it, they're just trying to mess you around.'

"But I got to be fighting this bad character thing. What is a bad character? It's someone who constantly gets in trouble, who has detrimental things in mind. That's not me. I got into bad trouble one time in my life, made one bad mistake. The gas station thing. I was 17, I'm 21 now. The couple other things were traffic violations. It's surprising that someone from my background hasn't got in more trouble. I had to bring myself up, get up off my back from the beginning. I think I've shown good character.

"I grew up in the ghetto in Omaha. I didn't see my real father until I was 17. My mother had me when she was 16. So she was just a kid, too, when I was comin' up. I have a younger sister and brother. We were poor. We moved like seven or eight times before I was 13. I remember we lived in this big house, like an apartment house, but we lived on the sixth or seventh floor walkup. In the attic. We had two rooms. I had to sleep with my sister. My brother wasn't born yet. Then we moved to another apartment. One room, for four people.

"I was hanging around with all kinds of guys, playing ball with them. Some were better athletes than me. But a lot of them ended up in jail or reformatory or quit school. I could have got in trouble like 10 times, 11 times. Instead I got into one bad scape. That's all. It was a mistake, and Im sorry for it.

"But sports kept me from doing more bad stuff. And like after high school I wanted to go to college. My mother didn't understand. She wanted me to get a job. She said I wouldn't make it in college because I was too poor, too small and too black.

"Maybe she was right about the last, as far as my happiness in Lincoln. I've been made to feel like a nigger — away from football. It's a tough place for a black to live. There's no social life. It's dull. The boredom makes you want to do something. But I just stay in my apartment and watch TV every night. I feel like I'm being watched. Cops come to my apartment about four times a month, checkin' me out. They never come before 1 in the morning, and more like 2 or 3 in the morning, and get me out of bed. They say they're checin' about some disturbance.

"I was busted last summer for possession of marijuana. But I wasn't booked, wasn't charged with anything. I was cleared, because there was no marijuana. But there was national publicity.

"I had a detective check on my phone. He found it was tapped. Lot of people here not really for me. They're trying to catch me in trouble. I don't know, maybe they think I'm uppity, getting ahead too fast. I think I was being followed, too. I'm paranoid all the time here.

"I actually feel that after the football season is over, after January 1, I'm going to be a very nervous person. They won't need me any more to win football games. I want to leave here and go to school in Omaha but my probation officer won't let me. No, I won't graduate in four years. Very few athletes do. Besides, how can I keep my mind on studies with all this happening?

"I want the Heisman more than ever because so many people don't want me to have it. I have the stats for the award. I have the achievements. People gave me another chance to play. I played well, I kept straight. I think I'm an all-right dude."

Slated For Dec. 9

Road Rallye For Charity To Finish In Herald Area

The SUDDS Rallye team will be staging a special road event that will run through parts of the Herald area on Saturday, Dec. 9.

Hollyberry Havoc V., the annual charity gimmich road rallye of the SUDDS team, will be held through parts of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village with the finish at St. George and the Dragon Restaurant in Hanover Park.

The event is set to begin at 5:30 p.m. with registration at Unity Savings, Harlem Ave. near Harlem Irving Plaza. The first car should go off at 7:30 p.m. with the entire rallye set to conclude at approximately 10:30 p.m. in Hanover Park.

Since the Hollyberry Havoc was initiated, the SUDDS Rallye Team has donated hundreds of dollars worth of toys to underprivileged children and various orphanages in the Chicago area. This year the toys will go to Chapin Hall a residential treatment home caring for 65 boys and girls.

A gimmick road rallye, such as the forthcoming event, is a course written by a rallye master with tricks in it to try to get the participants to make an error. The participants with the least amount of errors in the course win trophies.

One hundred and forty cars participated in the event last year. The entry fee is at least $ $2.00 toy for the children of Chapin Hall and a fee that covers the cost of trophies and event's expenses.

At the end point, while the results are being scored, there will be numerous door prizes for the participants donated by various car dealers and businessmen in the area.

For any information on the gimmick road rallye call 255-1656 or 437-5110.

Zasadny Smashes School Record; Hersey Triumphs

Out of respect to Al Zasadny, the official title for the team he performs on should be called the Hersey diving and swimming team.

Zasadny smashed his own school record in diving against hosting West Leyden as the Huskies captured an easy victory Tuesday night, 71-24.

Zasadny, who was responsible for one of the 10 wins in 11 events, recorded a heady 211.00. Three judges passed out the points for six dives. His former mark was 197.00.

Two swimmers posted double victories — Bob Bosley and Kevin Taylor. Bosley won the 200-yard freestyle (2:02.1) and the 400 freestyle (4:34.0); Taylor took the 200 individual medley (2:24.0) and the 100 butterfly (1:03.0).

Other individual winners were Craig Bruce in the 100 freestyle (57.2), Marty Skeleton in the 100 breaststroke (1:13.2) and Bob Larue in the 100 backstroke (1:06.2).

The Huskies sandwiched these wins with firsts in both relays. The medley team of Larue, George Dodge, Dave Colburn and Dave Henderson posted a 1:55; Bruce, Henderson, Bosley and Taylor had 3:49 in the 400 freestyle.

Bob Butler had a pair of seconds — 100 freestyle (57.6) and the 200 freestyle (2:09.7).

Jeff Siler paced the frosh-soph team with two victories, but the young Huskies still lost, 48-43. Head coach Herb Parsons said that had he known the Leyden varsity was so weak, he would have kept Bruce on the lower level for a double victory. Siler captured the individual medley and the backstroke.

Also assisting in the closeness of the final score was the diving team of Tim Brennen, Randy Shaw and Pete Paulmann. They finished 1-2-3.

The Huskies will be idle until next Thursday when they are the guests of Woodstock.

Family Key To Emotional Distress?

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 125 bed psychiatric hospital, known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

The Search For Mental Health

When a psychiatrist sees a patient who is having some kind of emotional difficulty, chances are the patient is reflecting his family's problems.

"When a person living with a family and growing up with a family has developed a series of difficulties in interpersonal relationships," explained a Temple University psychiatry professor, "he can be treated more effectively along with his family."

According to Dr. David Rubinstein, who is affiliated with the Eastern Psychiatric Institute of Philadelphia, a person's ability or inability to form good interpersonal relationships depends a great deal on the kind of relationships which existed within his family.

"By studying the family," he explained, "we can find if there have been abnormalities in developing relationships. We can find out what is basically wrong in the ill person's attitude towards other and we could also find out what other aspects of his relationship with his family can be further explored, improved or ameliorated."

DR. RUBINSTEIN posed a hypothetical case. "If a parent called me to say his child was acting very strange I would ask to see the child and also to see the caller. I would then try to evaluate the patient who is having a crisis and also I would find out what his family has done to cope with this behavior.

"My experience has shown that family members can learn to do much more than they have to help a person in trouble. The fact that they haven't done more is not because they don't want to but because they don't know any better.

"Quite often," Dr. Rubinstein continued, "we have been able to prevent hospitalization of the psychiatric patient because the family cooperates as a therapeutic agent. This of course saves the family despair, anxiety and the fear of not knowing what will happen with this person in the future. When a family is helpful we have found the patient even recuperates much faster."

As a member of the social unit: the family; the patient should not be isolated, according to Dr. Rubinstein, from this unit so the family is involved with the patient throughout his hospital stay.

"We involve the entire family as soon as possible in regular sessions. We include all children in the family who can contribute to the sessions. By working on the family's role relationship we help not only the patient but we prevent further problems in the family as well."

WHAT IF A family doesn't want to participate in therapy? "Usually I give them an example," explained Dr. Rubinstein, "I tell them they are asking me to do something while at the same time they're asking me not to be able to do it. I explain the importance of their resources in helping their patient get rehabilitated.

"I tell them if they brought me a car for repair they would bring the whole car rather than the malnunctioning part. In turn, if they ask me to repair anything in the family then it's important that I handle all the difficulties of the unit.

"I find," Dr. Rubinstein added, "that if a family is given the opportunity to sit together and discuss their difficulties and find how much they can gain from sitting together -- they are more prone to come in.

"The whole principge of rehabilitation is that we can count on the positive healthy aspects of the family and the patient's personality and then utilize this in the cure of the so-called patient."

'Teen Lib' Movement Taking Shape

by DAVID E. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The crazy-quilt pattern of state medical laws, coupled with the freer lifestyle and mobility of teen-agers, has created a new "liberation movement" — teen medical rights.

Theodore Irwin, author and magazine writer, says that the growing freedom of teen-agers "has had a major impact on the health of many young people."

Irwin said that was underlined by the question:

Do minors have the right to seek out and obtain needed medical and related services without having to obtain the approval of their parents?

IN A RECENT public affairs pamphlet, published by a nonprofit educational organization, the Public Affairs Committee Inc., Irwin said that drugs and sex particularly caused health problems for minors.

Increased drug use can cause a variety of medical problems, he said, and venereal disease "has been reaching alarming epidemic proportions among adolescents."

"By far the greatest surge for legal rights of teen-agers has been, and continues to be, in the area of birth control guidance and devices," Irwin said.

He said that such rallying slogans as "abortion on demand," which have been part of the Women's Lib movement, now are also a part of the "teen liberation" movement.

"As they see it," Irwin said, "an integral part of sexual freedom is the right of access to effective methods of avoiding unwanted pregnancies."

SEX IS NOT the only area that causes difficulty or controversy. Irwin cited statistics from the American Public Health Association that show patients under 20 account for one-third of the work of outpatient psychiatric clinics.

"And a sharp increase is predicted in the relative number of young people in mental hospitals," he said.

Yet sexual and drug activity, in particular, are among the subjects teen-agers are least likely to discuss with their parents, Irwin said. In addition, there are about 3 million persons under 18 who do not live with their parents.

Instead, large numbers of teen-agers are seeking medical help on their own and demanding the right to be treated without parental consent and involvement.

BECAUSE OF what Irwin called "a crazy-quilt pattern of state laws," many doctors won't treat minors for fear they will be prosecuted, perhaps for malpractice or contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile.

"The current trend, however, is toward community acceptance of socio-medical care for minors," Irwin said. He added that both legislative and court decisions have begun to stress that "minors have rights, including constitutional rights."

In some states, Irwin said, if a parent refuses to agree to a child's needed treatment, the state will allow it." Catching on in state legislatures is an approach, generally termed the health services to minors act, under which a minor can go to any physician or medical facility and ask for medical treatment, including birth control information.

But, Irwin said, this liberalizing legislative trend also has generated opposition from people who see it "as threatening the primacy of the family." He said these people view the requirement for parental consent for medical treatment as protecting the minor. They are fearful of giving teens carte blanche in drug and sex areas.

WHILE THE subject is being debated, however, Irwin said that "where doctors and hospitals are legally free to minister to a teen-ager's health needs without parental approval, the results tend to be impressive."

He said an example of the kind of program needed was the Adolescent Family Life Service program at Baltimore's Sinai Hospital Adolescent Center.

"Sinai was the first hospital in the nation to offer a broad spectrum of health care for adolescents, including birth control and any 'sexually active' girl at the high risk of pregnancy is eligible for the services," Irwin said.

The growing tendency toward a liberalized view of teen-age medical rights creates problems as well as solving some, Irwin said. He said problems not yet answered include: do teen-agers have the right to reject medical services and who should foot the bills for services rendered.

"Not surprisingly," Irwin concluded, "most professionals involved in adolescent health care believe it is best when the teen-ager is backed up by an understanding parent.

"When teen-agers insist on medical care without informing their elders, obviously there's a problem or alienation — or at least communication."

Happy New Year! No January Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — No one will be drafted into the armed forces in January and the total draft for the first six months of 1973 will be less than 10,000, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said yesterday.

That would make the total draft for fiscal year 1973, which ends June 30, about 50,000.

The draft is scheduled to expire June 30. Laird said he anticipated no problem filling active duty forces after that date with volunteers.

However, he said if Congress did not approve enlistment bonuses for the National Guard and the reserves, there might have to be a special draft after June 30 to keep reserve forces up to strength.

The reserves and Guard are now about 45,000 men short of their authorized strength.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

THE REGENCY IS ONE of five models designed for maintenance ease and comfortable living at Leisure Village, a new planned community for retirement living 45 miles north of Chicago near Fox Lake. The Regency is a two bedroom home with a spacious enclosed jalousie porch, fully carpeted with indoor-outdoor carpeting; a separate dining room; two full baths with built-in vanities; and an attached garage with storage work area. Entry is through the porch to a hall foyer with access to all living areas. A spacious living room features insulated sliding glass doors which open onto the porch. In the rear of the home is a formal dining room with bay window and large, adjoining kitchen. Secluded from the living area is the bedroom wing. The master bedroom features its own dressing area and bath.

Style Of Apartments Changing With Times

Apartments are growing in number, decreasing in size, and changing in style.

Currently, apartments account for about 50 per cent of national housing starts, with estimates as high as 80 per cent of starts in some metropolitan areas. The traditional multi-storied structure, with flat roofs and "institutional" facades, is giving way to a new breed of building.

A study of modern multi-family units by the Bureau of Building Marketing Research, shows that eight out of ten apartment units are in low-rise buildings with a single-family "look." New apartments stress leisure, luxury, low-maintenance, design, color, and changing family life styles.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Three out of four apartment units have four rooms or less, to suit today's smaller-size families.

At the same time, apartment sizes are relatively large — units average 903 square feet (about the size of the typical single-family home of 20 years ago).

Luxury features are practically becoming standard. These range from air conditioning, dishwashers and garbage disposals to fireplaces, built-in bars, and separate dining rooms. Communities that don't already offer swimming pools, saunas, central vacuum cleaning systems and private security guards may soon be competing for tenants with those that do.

There's a growing emphasis on exterior eye-appeal, seen as a psychological shift away from the austere appearance of cold, old apartment "flats." It's reflected in the use of high-fashion building materials with built-in "decorator" features.

ONE EXAMPLE is the popularity of heavyweight asphalt shingle roofing in modern colors for garden and townhouse apartments. The variety of shingle colors allows wither individualization of separate units, or coordination of all units in the community.

The deep, attractive shadow lines of heavyweight shingles (those weighing 290 or more pounds per 100 square feet of roof area) give roof surfaces a modern "textured" look. For the increasing number of builder-owners, asphalt shingles offer the additional advantages of long life and minimal upkeep. Heavyweights are designed to provide up to 25 years of service with little or no maintenance.

A distaste for home and ground maintenance, and a desire to leisure also add to apartment appeal. The study shows that today's families want to escape mundane house chores and use their leisure time for relaxation.

In rented apartments, maintenance chores are the job of the landlord, not the tenant. In multi-family communities, a homeowners' association generally handles house maintenance and ground work.

Kole Announces Insurance Agency

Robert A. Kole, president of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., with nine offices serving the Northwest Suburban Area, has announced the formation of a new insurance agency, Calfa-Kole, Ltd. Kole, feels that with sales now reaching close to 1,000 homes per year, a more complete service is necessary to insure people who are purchasing properties, and to make sure they have adequate coverage. Kole stated that no one could be in a better position to know what coverage is needed on real estate property than the real estate man, the one who is involved in the market at the present time.

Kole has offices located in all the major northwest suburban areas, including a new office in the Village of Barrington.

Tanglewood III Townhomes 70% Sold

Larwin's Tanglewood III, a 111-home unit in Tanglewood Village, Greenbrook Country, is 70 per cent sold, and the company is moving ahead with plans to construct Tanglewood IV. The entire village is designed in seven clusters, each with approximately 100 homes.

"We're pleased that our special concept of resort-like townhome living is being received so well," commented Terry T. Bickel, director of marketing of Larwin Illinois region.

Tanglewood Village was created to enable townhome residents to live in the kind of sociable, recreation-oriented, maintenance-free environment that homeowners enjoy in California.

Maintenance at Tanglewood is handled by professionals and includes home exteriors, grounds, and facilities at a nominal monthly cost. Club Tangelwood is the central recreation facility with a spacious lounge, adult and children's game rooms, a snack bar, swimming pool, children's wading pool, shuffleboard courts, and areas for volleyball and badminton.

Residents of Tanglewood III also will have their own swimming pool, children's wading pool, and cabana in addition to the use of Club Tanglewood. Organized social and recreational programs are conducted by the Tanglewood Homeowners Association with the assistance of the full-time recreation director, Mrs. Jean Bates.

Townhome designs at Tanglewood also reflect the California influence. Spaciousness and openness is emphasized in all five of the models that are available. The three-bedroom, 2½-bath Miramar, for example, has a spacious kitchen with breakfast area and pantry, dramatic step-down living room, and a separate utility room.

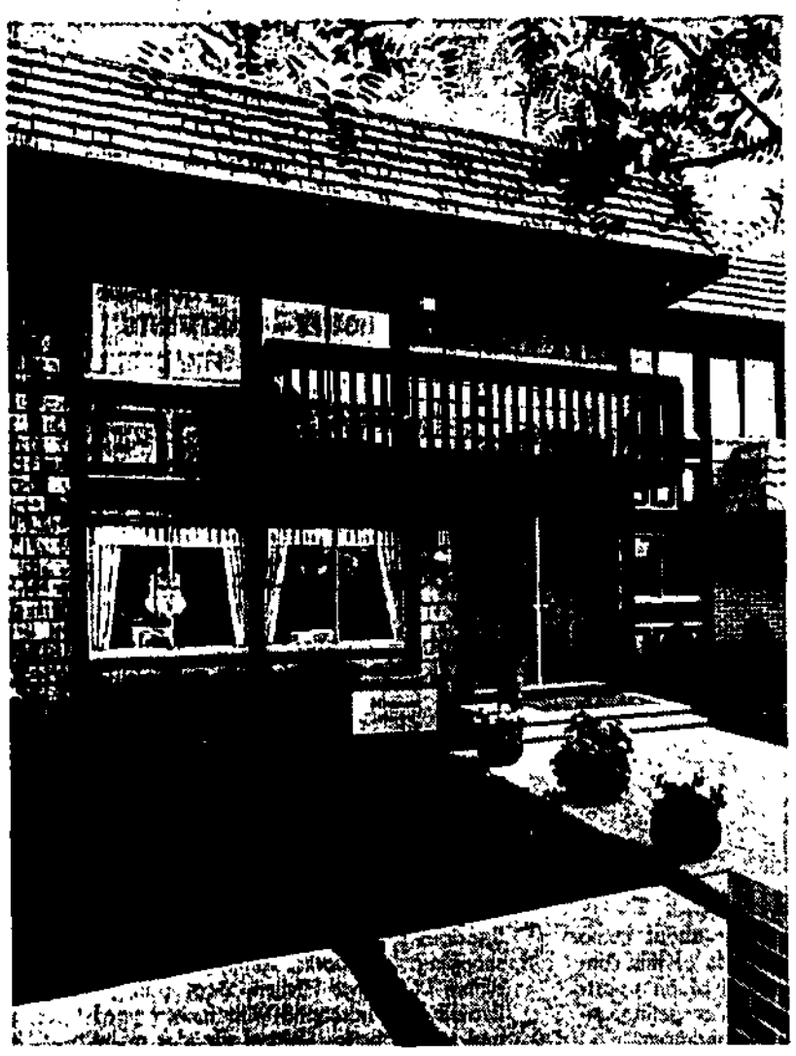
The two-bedroom Ventura appeals to smaller families with its spacious one-story design, formal dining area, pantry, and service area. A Garden View family room and living room, and convenient kitchen with breakfast bar are featured in the Tiburon model with three bedrooms.

The distinctive San Marino model has three bedroms and 1½ baths in an attractive two-story plan. One of the bedrooms may be ordered as a den/library with dry bar and "privacy" partition.

Largest of the townhomes is the Capri with four bedroms and 2½ baths, which offers a large master bedroom suite with private bath and wall-to-wall closet, formal dining room, and a Garden View family room.

Prices of the five townhome models start from $25,990 to $32,990 and include full house carpeting, dishwasher, waste disposal, refrigerator, range and oven, and automatic washer and dryer. Basements with eight-foot high walls may be ordered at the time of purchase at extra cost.

Decorator designed vinyl asbestos tile in the entry area, kitchens, family room, and bathroom are added Larwin extras that enhance the practicality and decor of the California-styled townhomes.



THE MIRAMAR, with three bedrooms, 2½ baths, a spacious kitchen with breakfast area and pantry, dramatic step-down living room, and a separate utility room, is one of five models on display at Larwin's Tanglewood townhome village in Greenbrook Country.

Free, professional decorating counsel is available from the Larwin Home Center at Tanglewood. The Home Center also offers a full line of home furnishings and accessories.

Master-planning of the community includes landscaped greenbelt walk and play areas, and extensive flood control preparations. Greenbrook Country's three villages, Tanglewood, Tempo, and Trend, did not suffer floods during the August torrential rains in contrast to the situation in some surrounding areas.

Flood control steps taken by Larwin in the development include: widening the west branch of the DuPage River and raising its banks; insuring that all building sites are three to four feet above projected water surface elevations; building a new bridge high enough and wide enough to insure unobstructed flow of the west branch of the DuPage River; exceeding design requirements of the Illinois Division of Waterways and obtaining advance approval of all plans from the FHA, State of Illinois, and Village of Hanover Park.

The 1,000-acre Greenbrook Country, located just off Lake Street (U.S. 20) just east of Barrington Road, in DuPage County, is being developed by the single-family housing division of The Larwin Group, headquartered in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Glow Of Warm Light Makes A Pretty Entry

How hospitable is your entry? When visitors first step into your home and see a setting that is bright and attractive, they quickly get the message that you welcome guests.

Anticipating holiday time, when entertaining and family gatherings make the front door "traffic" the heaviest of the year, take a good look at your entry. If it doesn't say "welcome," now is the time to act.

Today's interior design has never been more flexible, for freshening an old look or acquiring a new one. Your entry may be papered with posters, walled with mirrors, or covered with provincial fabric or wallpaper. Whether you have a marble-floored, spacious foyer, or a small carpeted apartment entry, it will present an image of individuality and dash when properly planned and illuminated.

Lighting today is designed to be seen, as well as a source of brightness and enhancer of surrounding decor. The selection of styles and sizes has never been so varied, or appealing. Many are fashioned for entries specifically, in gracefully hanging fixtures, wall-mounted matching sconces and lanterns, and scaled-down chandeliers.

The search for the right lighting to renew an entry (or any room in the house) can be simplified by trained lighting consultants of "Light for Living Centers," associates of the American Home Lighting Institute (AHLI).

IF YOUR HOME reflects a mood of traditional graciousness, you might select an entry wall lantern or pendant in pewter, burnished brass or copper, reminiscent of candle-lit colonial days. This would complement walls that are paneled, or papered with a charming mural of early Philadelphia or Williamsburg.

If your home is brightly contemporary, paint your entry in a vibrant selection of colors — each wall a different hue — or use the vivid dramatics of graphics. Innovative sculpture as illumination will accent the excitement.

A small apartment foyer will appear much larger and more elegant with the use of mirrors, reflecting either a cascade of smoked glass globes or a delicate drystal chandelier. A slim "Grandmother's clock" might be the only piece of furniture.

AHLI reports a constantly growing awareness by consumers in using the beauties of fixtures, in areas of the home never brightened properly before. Lighting enhances colors and textures, expands rooms visually, and creates varying atmospheres throughout the home or apartment.

These qualities are of particular importance in an entry.

Consider your lighting as you plan your entry. Let its hospitable glow reflect the warmth of the home within.

Wall Panels Can Cheer Up Laundry

Plastic-surfaced hardboard wall panels are often used to cheer up dreary apartment laundries.

The panels are available in attractive patterns, decorator colors, simulated tiles and good-looking woodgrains, and are easily installed over wall studs or on furring strips. For a nail-less application, a special cartridge-type adhesive can be used.

Hardboard panels are dent, mar and scuff-resistant. The plastic-surfaced variety withstands moisture and humidity. Stains and spills can be wiped clean with a damp cloth.

Bedrooms Getting Bigger

Builders of today's new homes and apartments, recognizing the importance and sales appeal of the bedroom, are devoting more and more floor space to sleeping quarters, especially for the master bedroom.

Not only are most new master bedrooms amply proportioned for queen-or king-size bedding; many are spacious enough to qualify as private suites, complete with full separate baths, dressing rooms, and even fireplaces, according to Mary Ann Wills, design consultant for a widely known manufacturer of home furnishings and accessories.

For those prepared to spend enough for a new house or apartment with "all the extras," a master bedroom may come equipped with such amenities as a truly separate dressing room and sitting room area, Miss Wills noted.

For the average couple, however, such livability will depend mainly upon ingenuity — and economic considerations. Remodeling "to suit" can be a costly proposition, but tailoring bedroom space with the aid of decorative space dividers can be both inexpensive and highly effective.

Such dividers, composed of floor-to-ceiling spring tension poles and easy-to-mount panels, are offered in a wide range of styles, finishes and prices by the Galway division of Burwood Products Company, Traverse City, Mich.

"By investing as little as $20 — or up to $75 — in a divider selected to complement bedroom furnishings, the home's interior architecture, or both, you can quickly transform any area into a separate room-within-a-room," the consultant explained.

The prices she mentioned represent the range for what Galway calls "basic units." These include a pair of poles scaled to fit average height ceilings, plus the panels required to form a single divider section.

Add-on units, which include one pole and a duplicate set of panels, can double the width of your divider for from $17 to $60. If you happen to have extra-high ceilings, you can obtain matching pole extensions for about $2 to $3 each, depending on style and finish.

Heat Distribution Location Important

To avoid chilling drafts, heating distributors should be placed on the outside walls especially under windows. Even if weather stripping and storm sash are used, hydronic (hot water) baseboard heating panels, when installed along the outside walls, blanket the walls and windows with heat.

Plumtree Ski Complex To Open In December

Plumtree Ski Area, Lake Carroll, is in the final stages of construction, with opening scheduled for late December this year. Lake Carroll, recreational second-home community, is a two-hour drive from Chicago, near Freeport, Ill.

Three ski slopes are graded, two of them off the highest hill, with a vertical drop just under 200 feet. Two Hedco snowmaking machines are installed, each with the capacity to cover one acre of ground with one foot of snow in one hour. This amount of snow requires 600 gallons of water per minute. The dam is built creating a reservoir for water for the snowmaking machinery. In addition to the three-acre pond created by the dam, a deep well is being drilled.

A double-chair lift, poma lift and T-bar, made by Stadell of Switzerland, and lighting for night skiing are now being installed.

Dick Carlson, director of skiing and a certified professional ski instructor of America (CPSIA), is also director of the ski school. He plans to specialize in lessons for beginning skiers at Plumtree. There will be two ski instructors for each class. The beginners' slope has a terrain garden, with bumps and ridges to familiarize the beginning skier with the natural terrain he will encounter when he skis bigger hills.

"We want beginners to have the best experience possible, since this is a critical stage of their skiing career. With two instructors, one to teach and one to demonstrate, we think we will give the best possible instruction."

Carlson will be assisted by Janet Carlson, his wife, a ski instructor, and Joseph Molena, operations manager.

The Plumtree ski complex will include a ski lodge with lounge, ski shop and ski equipment for purchase, a ski rental shop with 300 pairs of Hart skis and Besser bindings. Cross country skis are also available for rental. The terrain of Lake Carroll, with low rolling hills and valleys is ideal for cross country skiing. The community is 5,000 acres in size, (approximately nine square miles) all open country.

Next year an indoor/outdoor heated swimming pool will be built adjacent to the ski lodge, with concrete deck for sunning.

Starck Reports Sales Increase

Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, recently announced a record third quarter sales. Total transactions were 136 as compared to 91 sales in the same period for 1971 or a 50 per cent increase. A new office in Hoffman Estates, expanded facilities in Schaumburg and Arlington Heights, and an enlarged sales staff in the four offices have been instrumental in the record sales, according to Robert W. Starck, the firm's president.

Starck feels that Northwest suburban homes will remain an excellent investment because of the increasing amenities the area communities are offering, such as: improved shopping facilities offered by Woodfield and other centers, an expanding highway network serving the area, and the relocation of industry to the northwest suburbs. Corporations are again transferring more employes now that some of the wage "freeze" has been removed generating more interest in homebuying.

Robert W. Starck & Co. are the exclusive representatives for the Palace Guard service which offers buyers of homes knowledge that the heating, electrical and plumbing will operate or be serviced on the home they purchase.

EAGER FOR SKIING and too impatient to wait for snow, Barbara Radke tries out turf skis at Plumtree Ski area, Lake Carroll. Dick Carlson, director of skiing, instructs while his wife Janet, also an instructor at Plumtree, gives much needed advice. Snowmaking machines are now being installed for the opening in December. Lake Carroll is 26 miles southwest of Freeport, Ill and can be reached via I-90 to Rockford, U.S. 20 west to Freeport and south on Rt. 26, a two-hour drive from Chicago.

5th In Land Development Seminar Series Dec. 1-2

The fifth in a series of land development seminars put on by the Home Builders Association of Chicogaland over the last four years is planned for Dec. 1 and 2. Jerry Stone of Residential Planning Corp., chairman of the event, promises two full days devoted to important facets of land development — Friday, geared to the builder's point of view, and Saturday, to the municipal official's.

Prominent among the guest speakers are Lee Syracuse, nationally known land planning consultant; William Blaser of the Environmental Protection Agency of Illinois; Mayor Fred Dumke of Oak Lawn, all on Saturday's program. Also appearing will be two municipal employes — Capt. John Hayden of the Arlington Heights Fire Department, and Lt. Charles Henrici, Elk Grove Village Fire Department.

The seminars will be held at the Elk Grove Holiday Inn with registration at 8:30 a.m. both days. The program will start at 9 a.m. and the session will run all day until 4:30 p.m. with a mid-morning coffee break and luncheon at noon.

AS EVERY builder knows, said Stone, an informed municipal official is of enormous value when presenting plans for a new development. This series of seminars has proved to be one of the best possible ways to keep municipal officials educated to the latest from the builder/developer's point of view.

"The give-and-take of the dialogue has provided an excellent understanding among those present of the problems both community officials and builders face," said Stone.

Participating in the Friday session will be James Hemphill of C. A. Hemphill & Associates, making introductory remarks on behalf of the committee; Jerry Stone with Richard Ross of Market Facts, speaking on Accepting Inflation — or, New Ways to Lose Money in Residential Development; David Grupp of National Loss Control Service, discussing Putting Out Fires Before They Happen.

Finishing the morning session will be Jack Seigel, attorney; Joe Ash, Ash, Anos & Harris; and Robert Babbin, Babbin & Associates, Inc., presenting political and legal aspects of land development

Following luncheon, business and financial prospects for 1973 will be discussed by Richard Chamberlain of the First National Bank of Chicago; principles of planned-unit development within existing communities will be presented by John Hall of Land Design Research, Inc., and traffic problems in and around planned developments will be the final topic, presented by Neil Kenig of Barton/Ashman, Traffic Consultants.

FOR SATURDAY'S program, Robert Babbin will open the session and participants and their topics will be: Lee Syracuse — building our community; Neal Hunter of Lancer Corp.; Ed Burke, engineer; and Keith Lacy of Tekton Corporation — reviewing the flood water problems; Mayor Fred Dumke of Oak Lawn — "Bringing the builders and municipal officials closer together"; William Blaser of the Illinois EPA — the environment, the community and the builder.

Putting out fires before they happen will be discussed by David Grupp, National Loss Control Services; Hayden, and Henrici.

Closing out the Saturday meeting will be Lee Syracuse presenting a lecture and film on Building Our Community: Alterations to the Single-family Home.

For ticket information and to make reservations, call Kate Jones at the Home Builders Office, 782-8657.

Sales Representatives Complete Training Program

Fifteen Quinlan and Tyson sales representatives recently completed an intensive six-week residential sales training program.

The 14-session course — totaling 42 hours of class per person — was part of Q&T's ongoing effort to maintain a high degree of professionalism in serving the public.

The program covered all aspects of residential sales through presentations by management leaders of the 88-year-old real estate firm serving 45 North Shore and Northwest Suburban communities.

"This course was typical of our efforts to continually improve the professional service we provide the buying and selling public," said Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president.

"Our in-company training programs complement our employees' extensive participation in outside, professional real estate courses.

"The results can be seen in the fact that Quinlan and Tyson continues to provide sales leadership in the areas which we serve."

Topics covered in the program included sources of listings, inspecting property, pricing property, advertising, servicing listings, showing the property, preparing offers to purchase, financing, closings and the Q&T "QuesT" Transferee Program.

Instructors for the sessions included members of the company's management team — Rutledge and William G. Jennings, executive vice president and treasurer. Also taking part in the presentations were these real estate managers from Q&T area offices: Earle Collins, Winnetka; John Orchard, Highland Park; Amelia Way, Lake Forest; Robert Stirn, Palatine; Robert Amster, Glenview-Northbrook; Carl Sands, Evanston; Kenneth Koy, Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates; Gordon Meling, Libertyville-Mundelein; and Marv Kamps, Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect.

Presentations also were given by Robert Gannaway, assistant vice president and manager of the investment sales division; Cy Calloway, assistant vice president, property management division; Ann Falconer, vice president and manager of the closing department.

Others included Val Ericason, advertising department; Vivian Rasch, sales representative, Evanston area office; Veri Wild, sales representative, Glenview-Northbrook area office; and Naomi Murphy, sales representative, Lake Forest area office.

Private Mortgage Insurance Can Get You A Nice House

"Tea for two has been much sweeter this year for 43,000 couples who are serving it in their own home — their first home."

So says Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston.

IMIC is a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"These couples were in their own homes simply because our private mortgage insurance made it possible," Goss says.

"One surprise — more than 14,000 of these couples were in the 18 to 25 age bracket. It has been highly unusual, therefore, for this age group to be considered potential home buyers."

Goss says that "by lowering the cash amount for the down payment, our flexible private mortgage insurance plans made it possible for the hopeful homeowners to now become Harry and Mary Homeowner.

"THIS WAS particularly true in the case of the newly married, youthful contingent," he adds.

IMIC is conducting an educational campaign — step one — to make people aware that "they too can own their own home, whether they be young or old, by taking advantage of private mortgate insurance which enables them to achieve their goals with as low a cash down payment as 5 per cent.

"This is indeed a boon to those who are high on hopes but low on cash," Goss says.

He looks back on the days when "the rose-covered cottage, with the picket fence and flower-filled window sills was something many only heard about in love songs — or wistfully saw while out walking or driving.

"They just did not see how they could ever manage to live in their own dream dwelling.

"Times have changed. We expect home ownership in 1973 to multiply — a major cause will be the advent of the 95 per cent mortgage," Goss relates.

He predicts that in 1973 a greater number of Midwesterners will be taking advantage of the 95 per cent mortgage program — "As they become more familiar with its benefits.

"At this point, the greatest concentration of new homeowners who used the five per cent down payment route is in the seaboard areas — both East and West.

"Happiness and home ownership is not a song title at all. For nothing says love — quite as distinctly — as saying this is your own home," Goss says.

Recycled Material Home Construction Announced By Firm

Plans to build the first home ever constructed of recycled materials were announced recently by Reynolds Metals Co.

In making the announcement, David P. Reynolds, executive vice president and general manager of the corporation, said the house will demonstrate the feasibility of using recycled materials in residential construction.

"All the recycled materials we will use are already available from manufacturers, from aluminum and glass to concrete and masonry block," he said.

Reynolds Metals has signed a contract with Sam Kornblau, president of Realty Industries, Inc., for construction of the recycled house in Ednam Forest, located in Western Henrico County, near Richmond. The home is being designed by a leading Richmond architect, Robert H. Clark, AIA, of the firm of Carlton, Taylor and Clark.

"The opportunity presented us in building a house from recycled material is a challenge that we are delighted to accept. The home will be unique and first-rate in quality," Mr. Kornblau said.

"The emphasis in solid waste has shifted from disposal to resource recovery and this latest concept in the recycling of valuable natural resources is but a further step toward a total solution to the solid waste problem," Mr. Reynolds said.

According to the Reynolds executive, the tri-level, four-bedroom house will use recycled aluminum for its siding, rain-carrying equipment, soffit and fascia, windows and duct work.

Additionally, the company will introduce for the first time a new structural system called "Reynoframe," in which all structural members in the house, including floor joists and trusses, will be made from recycled aluminum.

Glass Containers Corporation, Fullerton, Calif., will furnish glass cullet going into some of the building materials, as well as technical assistance in the application of recycled glass in the products, Mr. Reynolds said.

Cullet, which is finely ground glass from bottle fragments, will also make up a portion of the brick used for exterior facing and in the spun glass insulation.

The brick, manufactured by a special process by Tekology Corporation, Hailsades Park N. J., will contain a mixture of 90 per cent recycled glass and mine tailings.

Subflooring and sheating materials will be recycled from old newspapers and manufactured commercially by Homasote Company, West Trenton, N. J.

Recycled spun glass insulation will come from Sealtite Insulation Manufacturing Corporation, Waukesha, Wis.

Even the foundation for the Reynolds house will contain reclaimed products, Mr. Reynolds revealed.

"We will use just as much recycled material as is possible and practical in the house. As our plans move forward, many other features in the house will utilize materials that otherwise would be discarded," he said.

Present plans call for construction to start in late fall and completion in the spring.

Reynolds Metals Company pioneered the concept of recycling on a massive scale in 1967 by introducing to the public an aluminum can recycling program. The program is now operating in 39 states. This year, it is forecast that the aluminum industry will recycle more than 1.5 billion all-aluminum beverage cans into new products.

BETTIE BLUE, Walden recreation director, helps a youthful resident get his game started correctly. Walden is located in Schaumburg on Algonquin Road west of the Route 53-Northwest Tollway interchange.

Make Room At The Top

If there is room at the top, your home expansion problems will be solved most easily and inexpensively. Finishing an attic is one of the least expensive major home improvement projects and one of the most practical.

Adding a room to an existing home can be very costly, especially if it requires additional foundation work. An attic, on the other hand, will only require interior finishing work, which is a lot less expensive, both in time and money.

If your home is equipped with hydronic (modern hot water) home heating, it may be easily expanded to the attic with a minimum of fuss and mess. In a hydronic system, water is heated in a boiler and circulated through finger-size tubing to baseboard heating panels mounted at ankle height on outside walls.

To extend heating to the attic, the tubing can be "snaked" through a closet without disturbing the existing section of the house. By installing a separate thermostat or zone valve, for the new room, it can be kept comfortable without affecting the rest of the house. This will keep fuel consumption down to a minimum.

A word of caution. Because the sun's rays shine directly on the roof, the attic may tend to overheat in the summer. To keep heat outside in the summer and inside during the winter, the attic should be well insulated. It will pay for itself in comfort and lower fuel bills.

Realtor Offers Moving Hints

Whether you're moving your family across town or across the country, Robert W. Starck, realtors has two free brochures that will be of interest to you.

"When It's Your Move" lists 10 helpful check points to help you save time and money and take much of the work and worry out of relocations. Starck described the second brochure, "What's New," as a "handy guide to disposing of your present home or apartment and acquiring a new residence in the most economical, and expedient, manner — a must for anyone on the move."

The brochures have been developed by the Inter-City Relocation Service (ICRS), the nation's leading not-for-profit representative in the Northwest suburbs. ICRS has more than 600 members covering key residential markets in more than 6,000 cities in this country and overseas.

Under the ICRS program, families on the move who list former residences for sale with members are advised of Inter-City's no-cost, no-obligation referral plan. Those interested are put in immediate contact with ICRS members at their destination. These realtors supply detailed information about that community and begin to select houses according to the moving family's needs.

"In this way," said Starck, "many days or even weeks of time are saved for home-seekers, in contrast with their arriving 'cold' in a strange city to begin house hunting from scratch.

"Whether or not you're interested in our ICRS service, feel free to drop by our offices in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Schaumburg, and Hoffman Estates and pick up your free copies of the brochures," Starck added.

Hydronic Heat

More and more homeowners are discovering the versatility of hydronic (modern hot water) home heating systems. It is possible to use the house boiler to heat the backyard swimming pool, supply hot faucet water (without a separate water heater), melt snow automatically, and even heat the bathtub.

. . . this says it all!

Yes, another home both listed and sold by Starck. Sure, some of our listings are sold by other brokers through MAP Multiple Listing Service, Inc. BUT, we sell a whole bunch of our listings and we do it FAST!

How?

In any successful business the most valuable resource is people. We are very proud of all the salesmen, managers and office personnel in our organization. We select them carefully, train them well and keep retraining so that our clients and customers get total real estate service.

In addition, our advertising and merchandising is aggressive and combines both quantity and quality. Every home we list has its own merchandising campaign put into writing. You are kept informed of all details and progress every step of the way until the property is sold.

An important part of merchandising is establishing the proper selling price for your property. Using established and accurate appraisal techniques we prepare a Value Analysis on your property. This results in a fast sale at top market price for you.

We offer three exclusive extras that greatly assist us in selling your property:

1. Inter-City Relocation Service Inc. 650 nationwide Realtors constantly are referring their transferred clients to us. In 1972 this has resulted in over $2,000,000 in additional sales.
2. Palace Guard, Inc. In this age of consumerism buyers expect to purchase things and know that they will work properly or will be fixed so that they do. Palace Guard Service is only offered through us.
3. The Starck Home Guarantee Purchase Plan and Potere PET Equity Program Permits us to sell a buyer your property and "take his home in trade" anywhere in the country.

Since 1960 Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors have sold thousands of homes in the great Northwest Suburbs. We have grown to four offices with over fifty associates.

We'd love to spotlight your home with our SOLD sign!

'Normandy' Recalls By-Gone Lifestyle

An outstanding example of home design for today, with more than a little touch of the gracious lifestyle of yesterday, is "The Normandy" — one of the several distinctive models now to be seen at The Windings of Ferson Creek, located a short distance west of St. Charles. Entrance to the wooded 259 acre residential park, developed by The Branigar Organization, is on Empire Road just off Burlington Road. Of the total 259 acres, 37 acres in The Windings have been left as private woods for the property owners. There will also be a private clubhouse, year-round swimming pool and tennis courts for the owners' families and guests — with construction of these facilities scheduled for spring.

"The Normandy," designed after the distinctive French manor homes of the Renaissance period, presents a striking exterior with its classic lines and mansard roof. And the model home's setting is most appropriate . . . at the end of the long, tree-lined lane (which is more like the formal approach to a baronial estate) leading the visitor into The Windings.

Space and comfort, for gracious living, is basic to the overall concept found in "The Normandy" — which offers two-and-a-half baths and five bedrooms, including a master suite with private bath and dressing room, and a bedroom over the garage with separate heating and air-conditioning.

THE ENTRY HALL of the home is unusually large, with the downstairs powder room immediately to one side, off the family room. The family room is approximately 17' by 12' in size, and semi-open to the kitchen. A massive fireplace with raised hearth dominates one corner of the room. There is also a convenient entrance from the attached two-car garage, which offers a large storage area.

The kitchen in this design continues the uncrowded, plenty-of-room concept with matching cabinets, appliances and work counters in a U-layout measuring well over 11' by 15'. There is a snack bar on the family-room side of the counter extension — and the breakfast and informal eating area looks out upon the unusually large and inviting garden terrace at the rear of the house.

In fact, the spacious terrace — in a rarely-found feature of design — extends over forty-four feet across the rear of "The Normandy" model, which allows those inside to enjoy the view via each of three large bay windows: from the kitchen, the formal dining room and the living room. The living room is over 27' in length and 15' in width, and features a second big, inviting fireplace.

Upstairs, each of the five bedrooms features one or more closets — and the compartmented, fully-tiled family bath has a large dressing area with double-basin vanity. The master bedroom measures 11'8" by 17'8" and, of course, boasts its own private, spacious bathroom and dressing room.

"The Normandy" and other outstanding model home designs at The Windings may be viewed daily until dusk. Homes at the park-like Branigar development range upwards in price from $58,000, plus lot. Lots are one-half to three-quarters of an acre, priced from $13,900 with water and sewer.

The Windings may easily be reached via North Avenue (Rt. 64) through St. Charles, turning right on Burlington Road — then left on Empire Road a short way to the entrance.

Million Dollar Sales Associates Honored

Dan Rutigliano and Al Streich, sales associates with Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors, reached coveted Million Dollar Sales goals in October.

Al Streich

Dan Rutigliano, a resident of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area for many years, has served the area from the company's Arlington Heights location for seven years. He has previously been cited as a Million Dollar associate and is a recipient of the firm's President's Club award.

Al Streich, with Annen & Busse, Inc. for almost a year in their Mount Prospect office, is also a long time resident of the area. Both of these men are well acquainted with the needs and desires of clients in the area. They are both members of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Annen & Busse, Inc. is a charter member of the MAP Multiple Listing Service and also a member of the National Multi-List Service, an organization serving families moving from city to city across the country.

Stop Pampering Your Garbage Disposer

"Ladies, please stop pampering your garbage disposer."

This plea comes from Ernest J. Priaulx, vice president-consumer product service for the In-Sink-Erator Division of Emerson Electric Co., Racine, Wis., the nation's largest maker of garbage disposers.

According to Priaulx, too many women refuse to put anything but soggy tomatoes, rotten oranges and other soft waste into their disposers.

"One result of this," Priaulx says, "is a loss of effectiveness in the self-cleaning action of the appliance.

"You normally don't have to take any special steps to clean a disposer. It will clean itself. To do so, it needs a diet of harder food wastes, such as bones, fruit pits and so forth.

"These harder wastes scour the grinding elements in the disposer's grind chamber, creating a cleansing action."

In addition, Priaulx pointed out that the constant disposal of fruits without the disposal of harder food wastes leaves a citric coating on the grinding elements which lessens their efficiency.

"Better model disposers, regardless of brand, are designed to take any food waste that will fit easily into the mouth of the unit," Priaulx says.

"The harder wastes sometimes cause additional noise and this might be a factor in frightening housewives away from the disposal of hard items. It's essential if the disposer is to remain in good service."

Phase IV At Abbey Springs Resort Begins

The developers of the Abbey Springs Resort Condominiums recently celebrated the opening of Phase IV of the single-family homesite section of the luxurious residential and recreation complex in Fontana-on-Geneva Lake, Wis.

The new phase will comprise 33 homesites, located along the 15th fairway of the golf course. The homesites, priced from $8,000 to $16,000 are between 1/3-1/2 acre in size — or even larger, depending upon purchasers' individual requirements.

Buyers may build their own custom homes on the sites while retaining all the benefits of condominium ownership, such as year-round exterior maintenance and membership privileges for the recreation core.

The designs of the homes, whether provided by the buyers themselves or chosen from the developers' portfolio of styles, are required to meet the high architectural standards set for the community. A contemporary rustic style is promoted through extensive use of rough-sawn wood used both on the exteriors and interiors of the homes. All the buildings have extensive balcony treatment and many windows and sliding glass doors to allow expansive views of the exceptionally beautiful, thickly wooded surroundings.

Sales at Abbey Springs have topped the $5 million mark since the community opened in June, 1971 with the completion of the Yacht Club. The homesite section alone has accounted for $1.38 million in sales, while the multiplex condominium section has accounted for $3.65 million.

"The second home market is really booming," said Romeo Mura, Marketing Director for East Fontana Associates, the developers. "During recent weekends, we've been averaging $¼ million worth of sales, with some weekends reaching the $1/2 million mark. We attribute our success not only to the rapidly-growing popularity of vacation homes but also to the unique concept and designs of the Abbey Springs community, with its extensive year-round residential and recreational facilities.

According to Mura, the average head of household at Abbey Springs is a family man close to 40 in age, with school-age children. Most buyers are professionals and top executives in various corporations.

The Chicago area is the source of the majority of the residents while others come from such places as Rockford, Ill. and Madison and Milwaukee.

The recreation core currently includes the Abbey Springs Yacht Club, with its docking facilities and beach, restaurant and bar; and the Abbey Springs Country Club, with its championship golf course, indoor and outdoor heated swimming pools, whirlpool and racquet club with indoor and outdoor tennis courts, and regulation handball or squash courts, locker rooms and pro shop. The clubhouse also has a fine dining room, bar and lounge. Plans for the core also include a private ski slope with ski chalet; and riding stables.

Abbey Springs is located at the southwest end of Geneva Lake at 484 South Shore Drive in Fontana. The sales office and furnished model condominiums are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

THIS RESIDENCE was built on one of the single-family condominium homesites at The Abbey Springs Resort Condominium community in Fontana-on-Geneva Lake, Wis. The two-story structure has four bedrooms, two on each floor, with two full bathrooms. A two-story living room, 13' by 26', has a natural beam, cathedral ceiling giving both interior and exterior a dramatic appearance. The first floor also has a dining room and kitchen, and the home has a full basement. A large outdoor deck is on two sides providing a spacious patio area.

Winter Heating Season's Here: Inspect Your Furnace

Underwriters' Laboratories reports that many home fires are caused by defective heating equipment and suggests the following inspections be performed to avoid the likelihood of fire loss or injury.

Before subjecting a furnace to the winter heating season, it should be checked by a competent heating man. His checkup should include:

—Inspection and cleanout of the furnace flues.

—A determination that the limit switch operates properly to shut down the furnace if the room thermostat circuit fails.

—A continuity check of the room thermostat circuit.

—A determination that the room thermostat settings are correct.

—Inspection of the stack connections between the furnace and the chimney.

—Inspection of the chimney itself.

—Lubrication of all motor bearings.

For oil burners:

—The burner nozzle should be inspected and replaced if worn.

—Arc electrodes should be examined, cleaned, adjusted and replaced if burned.

Since winter comfort depends upon proper humidity control, the humidifier system should be inspected and cleaned. For hot air systems, the air filters should be replaced in order to provide a maximum volume of heated air at minimum fuel cost. Lastly, the furnace area should be cleared of combustible materials.

If portable electric heaters are necessary for supplementary heat, be sure they bear the label of Underwriters' Laboratories. In use, heaters should be kept in an upright position and free at all times of draperies, towels, blankets or clothing.

Fix Thermostat To Fit Needs

Are you one of those people who feels that the temperature setting of the room thermostat must never be changed? If so, you are a victim of the 'rigid thermostat' syndrome, warns the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

Comfort, says the council, is an individual matter, and temperature is only one of several factors affecting it. There are times when 72 degrees may be the most comfortable setting. Yet, if the outside air is very cold and dry, this setting may not be warm enough. Unless there is a humidifier in the house to add moisture to the air, you will have to raise the thermostat.

Also, some people prefer lower temperatures when they sleep, and they should adjust their thermostats before going to bed.

Regardless of the temperature setting, the Council points out that a hydronic (hot water) baseboard heating system is designed to give even heating throughout the house. Unlike other systems, hydronic baseboard is installed along the length of the outside wall making for uniform temperatures from corner to corner.

The council advises people to set their thermostats at the most comfortable temperature. However, since their comfort levels are subject to change, the thermostat settings should reflect these changes.

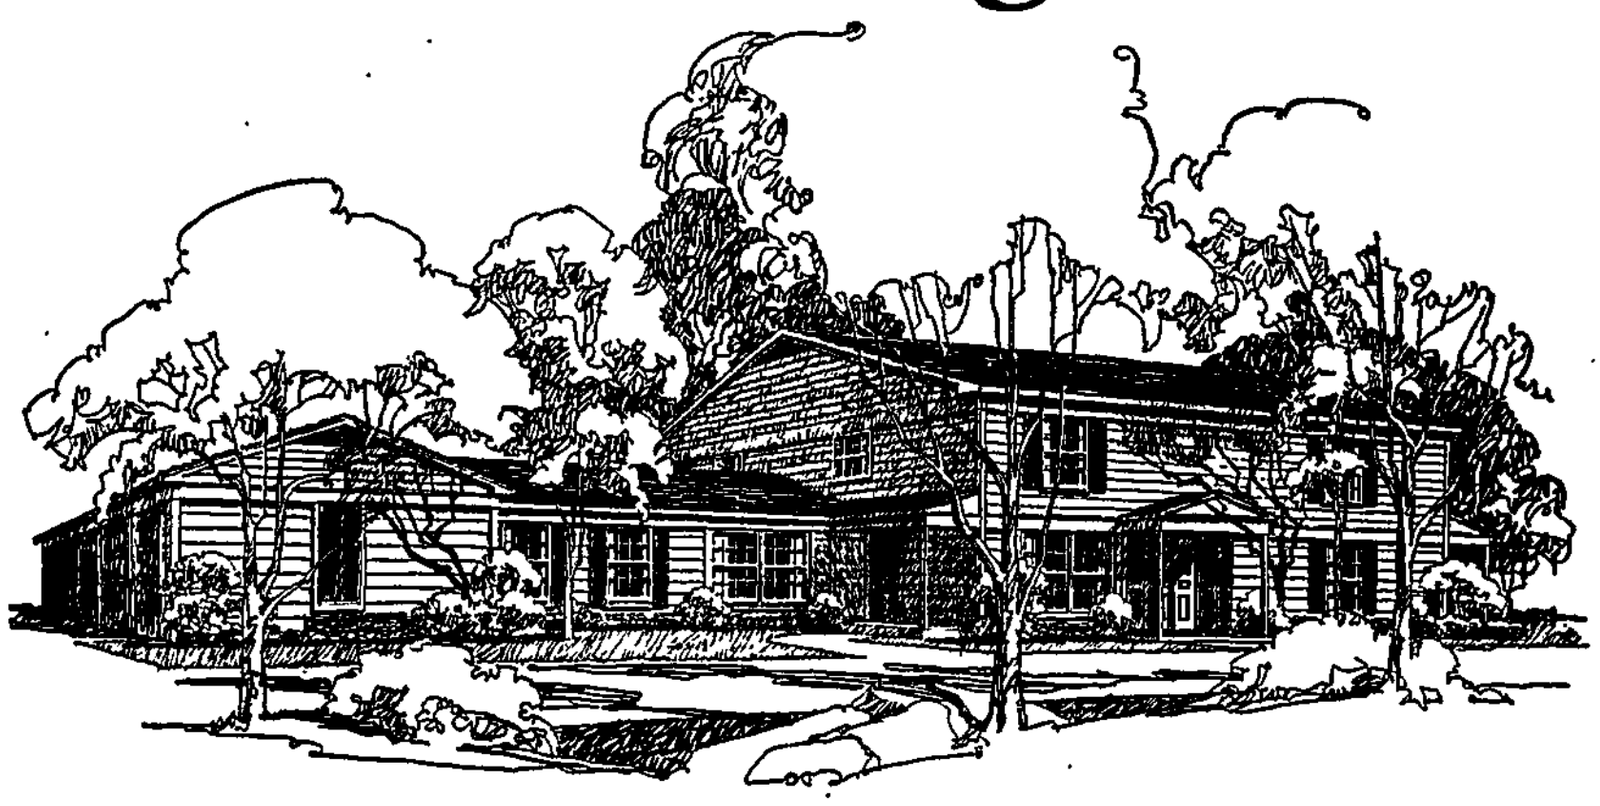
Carry Valuables When Moving To New House

If you're moving, be sure to check those bureau drawers for valuables before the moving van arrives.

Household goods movers will not accept responsibility for money, stamp or coin collections, documents, jewelry, watches or precious stones.

In addition, movers will not accept responsibility for articles of extraordinary value, such as a valuable vase or curio, unless each item is specifically brought to their attention and listed, with its declared value on the bill of lading.

Own a champagne house on a beer budget.



If you've got a taste for the better things in life, but not the bankroll to match, this house is made for you.

For just $21,990. For real. Thanks to a revolutionary way of building that does for houses what Henry Ford did for cars.

We put five fabulous homes under just one roof. So they'd look like just one very big, very handsome house. And so we could split up the cost five ways.

We also manufactured all the parts we could. So they'd cost less and be made better. And we built all our houses in clusters. So every one would look out on a super-colossal front yard (instead of the typical, tiny front- and backyard). So we could even save you money on land.

As for the inside, it's a dream. Big and cozy. Two bedrooms. Carpeting wall to wall. GE oven-range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and disposer. Individual central heating and air conditioning. Storage space. Enclosed garage. And privacy aplenty, from your own entrance to special sound-engineered walls that hush all the noise.

There's more. Something you'd hardly expect to get for $21,990. No maintenance. Nothing to interfere with the way you spend your free time. All for just $1,100 down and a total monthly payment of $153.* And the closing costs are on us.

Of course, you may want another bedroom. Fine. You've also got your choice of three-bedroom floor plans. And four- or five-family homes, in ten exterior designs and one or two stories. (We think variety is the spice of homes, too.) Whatever, you can't spend more than $25,750.

You're welcome to see our model homes Sun.-Fri. 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m.-6 p.m. We're in Palatine. On Baldwin Road, north of Dundee (Rt. 68) between Rand and I-53. At 1200 E. Gardenia Lane. Ivy Glen. Handsome two- and three-bedroom homes from $21,990. (312) 359-9212.

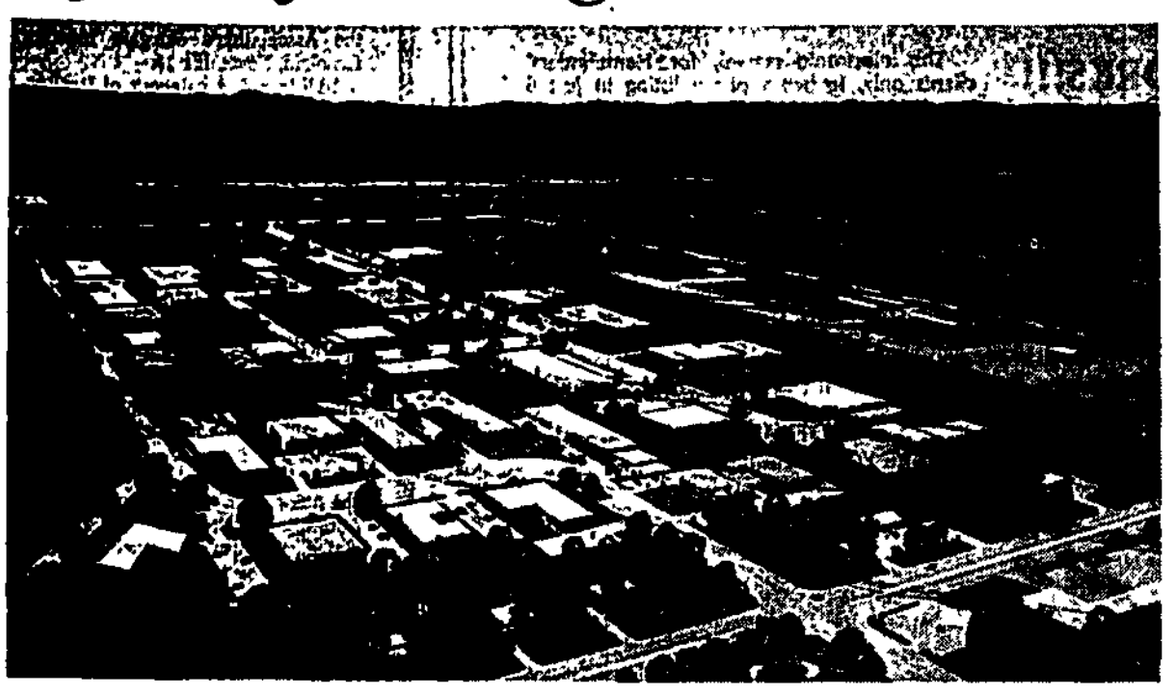
Skyharbor Site Is Chosen By Major Lingerie Maker



ARTHUR RUBLOFF & CO., exclusive agent for the new Sky Harbor Industrial Park in northwest Chicago suburban Northbrook, announced the $700,00 land sale for site of major lingerie manufacturer's plant and offices.

Arthur Rubloff & Co., Chicago-based developer of the new Sky Harbor Industrial Park in northwest suburban Northbrook, announced today the sale of a 20-acre land site to O'Bryan Bros. Inc., manufacturers of lingerie.

Industrial Properties Specialist Robert Reisinger and Vice President Leo Miglin of the Rubloff firm served as brokers on behalf of Sky Harbor, a 140-acre project co-sponsored by Arthur Rubloff & Co. and State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America. It is situated on Dundee Road between the Tri-State Tollway and Edens Expressway. John M. Murphy of Van C. Argiris & Co. represented O'Bryan Bros. Inc. in the negotiations. Fred I. Feinstein of McDermitt, Will & Emery, was legal counsel for O'Bryan.

THE MANUFACTURER, whose offices and plants are presently divided between two locations on Belmont Avenue in Chicago, will consolidate both their manufacturing operations and corporate offices in a new 240,000 square foot, one-story building at Sky Harbor. Construction is scheduled to begin in the spring.

Arthur Rubloff & Co., Exclusive Agent for Sky Harbor Industrial Park, stated that all utilities now have been installed in the new park. Negotiations with seven additional firms, which will locate facilities there, are currently being finalized. Details on these will be disclosed later this month, Reisinger said. The price for the O'Bryan Bros. Inc. land was reported to be approximately $700,000.

It's Time To Spruce Up Your Bathroom

Remodeling an older bathroom sometimes is like discarding an outdated coat. You're so used to it, even though you know it has seen its day, that it's hard to make the final decision.

Once the decision is made, you'll be glad you started. An old-fashioned bathroom not only affects your daily life style, but reduces the resale value of the house.

Before starting a bathroom remodeling, check the bathroom and its potential. Don't overspend. Establish a budget and stick with it. If you don't need extensive plumbing or electrical work, you probably can handle much of the work yourself.

An old washstand, radiator, window, and tub gave a bathroom an unsightly appearance. To get away from the cut-up look fostered by different materials on the upper and lower wall sections, Marlite paneling in a pleasant linen stripe pattern can be chosen. This prefinished textured hardboard paneling comes in 16 foot by 8 foot planks, which are easy to install. Tongue-and-grooved edges simplify fitting.

Additional privacy can be gained by installing a sliding door in the tub-shower area. Beads give a window a "new" look and their vertical lines tie in with paneling. New lavatory lights and accessories also help update a room.

Age Makes Difference In Apartments

Age of tenants makes a difference in apartment preferences.

According to Apartment Construction News, the wide range of recreational amenities being offered in many multi-family communities has definite appeal to singles, young marrieds and couples with children.

The publication notes that older tenants are much more concerned with "essentials," such as sound control, large room sizes and easy maintenance.

Sensitivity to sound can be particularly noted among "empty nesters," probably because they are "new" apartment dwellers, and, having had homes of their own, are not used to noises that generally accompany life in a multi-family unit.

All tenants, however, are likely to raise loud complaints about noisy buildings. And an increasing number of apartment owners are sound controlling their buildings to avoid these problems.

Many apartment owners have taken steps to reduce excessive noise, whether it is caused by transmission (noises coming into the apartment through windows and walls) or reverberation (noise that bounces off walls and ceilings inside a room).

Wall materials can make a substantial difference. Hardboards, for example, have proven sound-deadening qualities. Tests show that hardboard wall paneling installed over a drywall or plaster partition, or on both sides of an insulated cavity wall, makes an excellent deadener of sound transmission.

This advantage, plus the decorative and low-maintenance qualities of prefinished hardboard, makes it a practical choice for individual apartment units and for public rooms and hallways.

An increasing number of apartments either provide carpeting or specify that tenants must install it. Carpets cushion sound, while bare floors transmit noises to the apartment below.

Ceilings can also become echo chambers. In many apartments, acoustical ceiling tiles are installed to quiet things down.

Give Tired Heating System A New Ticker

Did your sluggish heating system make you mad enough to want to kick it last winter? Well, now is the time to do something about it.

Generally, when a heating system is slow to respond to the call from the thermostat, the chances are it functions on the old "gravity flow" principle where the water in the boiler must reach a certain temperature before it will circulate through the system.

There is a remedy to imrrove this condition. Engineers advise homeowners who have two-pipe hot water or steam heating to install a small pump known as a circulator and convert to forced circulation hydronic (modern hot water) heating.

With a forced circulation hydronic system, the homeowner will have a system which will respond quickly to the thermostat, giving heat when it is needed, and just as important, cutting it off when the thermostat is satisfied. Having the heat you want when you want it, that's comfort.

We'll help make you the new guy on the block.

At Village Square Realtors, we'll work extra hard to find just the right home for you.

We've got more at stake than just a commission. We live here, too. And when nice people are moving out, we like to see other nice people moving in.

After all, everyone likes nice neighbors.

We work where we live.

Association Of Realtors Name Adopted Nov. 14

National Association of Realtors was adopted as the name of the organization representing the Realtors of America at the Association's delegate meeting in Honolulu, November 14.

Additionally a category of Realtor Associate membership was established which will add to the organization approximately 400,000 independent contractors and salesmen affiliated with or employed by Realtors.

The two changes become effective January 1, 1974, allowing individual Realtors to adjust their instruments of public contact to reflect the change, and to permit the national organization to develop programs that will especially serve the enlarged membership.

With a total membership of over a half million, the National Association of Realtors will become the largest business association in the world.

"These decisions reflect a change in the Association's image and vision of the future," President Fred C. Tucker Jr., stated. "It also takes note of the true nature of the organization — not just a conglomerate of 1,600 real estate boards, but actually a National Association of Realtors."

Tucker added that the new membership category is "not intended for income purposes," but to enable the Association to provide more complete educational and government relations services for the entire real estate profession. "If we're going to be heard at the national level and provide service to the full profession, we must have the support and membership of these additional practitioners."

Here're Some Tips On Packing Goods

To many families, the move to a new home begins when the van pulls up in front. To those most concerned with a successful change of households, the move begins with the packing.

In a long distance move, one involving a shipment of hundreds of miles, all household goods movers strongly advise that families take advantage of the professional packing services offered by the moving agent. Even in local moves — down the street or to the other side of town — most families do not have the proper equipment or knowhow to pack their goods efficiently and safely. It is worth nothing here that movers have the right to repack, or refuse acceptance of articles improperly packed.

However, for those housewives embarking on a local move who are accumulating cartons from the grocery store for the purpose of doing their own packing, Allied Van Lines offers the following packing pointers:

It's trite, but it's also often disregarded: place the heavier items on the bottom of the container, the lighter ones on top.

Nothing small should ever be put in the bottom of a large container such as those used for wardrobe, lamp, large mirror, etc. It might be overlooked in unpacking and thrown out with the container.

Never pack large pictures and mirrors between layers of bedding or linen.

Don't leave trays and similar articles loose in refrigerators and stoves.

Don't use newspaper to wrap books, lamp shades, linens and other light colored items; the printing ink will rub off.

Don't pack soap, furniture polish, medicine, cleaning compounds or other flammable materisals in the same carton with groceries.

When not contrary to good packing procedure, pairs, and other items and articles which are used together should be packed in the same container.

Whenever possible, articles from the same room should be grouped in the same container.

After packing, mark all containers to show the contents. If the carton is closed, mark the top side. When feasible, secure tops of cartons with masking tape.

Gladstone Puts Realty Course On Candid Camera

ROBERT A. POLTZER, general manager of Gladstone, Realtors, videotapes a class session "live." Gladstone partner Vincent A. Bolger teaches the course, which prepares students for the Real Estate Salesman's License Examination. Prospective real estate salesmen and women can take the course in 18 hours at their own convenience via closed circuit television in the Gladstone offices. The TV series also serves as a make-up session for a missed class or a pre-exam brush-up.

The man who wants to change careers in midstream or the woman who wants to embark on a career when her youngsters are off to school can find a ready answer to their problem in this electronic age.

Providing, of course, they're interested in homes, people, and bringing the two together in the real estate field.

Gladstone, Realtors, a rapidly expanding firm in the northwest and west suburbs, has for some years taught a Real Estate License Preparatory course. Now the course has been videotaped and can be viewed at any of the firm's offices on closed circuit television.

This provides an entire course (or any makeup lesson) for those housewives or businessmen unable to meet the schedule of the live class sessions. The program is tailored to the individual's time schedule — it can be crammed into three days or slowly paced at three weeks.

THE STUDENT will watch Gladstone partner Vincent J. Bolger teaching a group, hear him ask questions, and listen to class members answering. Bolger, with both bachelor's and juris doctor's degrees from DePaul University Law School, teaches real estate procedures at the college level in addition to the Gladstone courses. The filming and recording were done by Robert A. Poltzer, the firm's general manager.

The full course, which prepares the student for the Illinois State licensing exam, runs 18 hours. Those who make good grades in the test are hired by Gladstone, where they are enrolled in an advanced training program in listing and selling offered free by the company. The current advanced course is now being filmed and recorded by Poltzer. When complete, the tape may run about 90 hours, he says.

While Gladstone offers live courses at regular intervals, the taped course is available at any time. It also serves to review the course before taking the exam and provides an ideal way to make up a missed class.

THIS YEAR, Gladstone opened offices in Mount Prospect and Villa Park, in addition to its existing offices in Franklin Park, Des Plaines, and Elk Grove Village. The two new offices have already enlarged their square footage and more than doubled the size of the staffs they had when they opened.

"The northwest and west suburbs are booming," says John L. Markay, Bolger's partner. "In addition, there's a tremendous amount of movement from smaller to larger and larger to smaller homes as children arrive, grow up, and finally depart from their parents' homes. Anyone with a sincere liking for people and a strong desire to be of service will enjoy greeting the huge influx of newcomers to the area and working to fulfill the needs of growing families. It's a rewarding business in terms of personal satisfaction as well as finance, and we need an increased staff to work with and assist our present sales associates."

Home Fix-Up More Than A 'Face Lift'

What constitutes home modernization?

"Admittedly this includes a wide range of projects," says Robert Huff, home improvement director for Marlite Paneling, "but more and more we are seeing families get into projects that really change the character of their homes. That's what home modernization is all about."

He mentioned lowering ceilings, squaring off arches, removing old-fashioned trim and other techniques that bring a house into the 1970s.

People no longer are satisfied with just a new version of what they already have in the room. They want a room that has a new spirit. That can be achieved by altering the floor plan, using different floor and wall coverings, or by changing the furnishings.

Huff added that today's decorative paneling gives the homeowner many options. For instance, Marlite offers a wide range of prefinished hardboard paneling, including a simulated travertine marble panel that is a real eye-stopper. Other textured panels can be utilized in a modernization project to give a room a new look.

"Local building material dealers have current information and samples," Huff points out, "and they are excellent idea sources."

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

IS NOW A GOOD TIME TO BUY?

Inflation, recessed economy, bear market, fluctuating interest rates . . . can this be the best time to buy a home? Cost experts say yes. Waiting for interest rates to come down probably will cost you more in the long run as labor, materials and Real Estate continue to become more expensive. Home prices are expected to climb as the housing shortage becomes more apparent.

Housing will have to be provided for 100 million more Americans in the next 30 years — in addition to replacing about half of all existing housing.

A home is an excellent long range investment, but it's important to buy wisely and carefully. Prudent purchasing begins with becoming well informed on home buying before you enter into an actual transaction. There are numerous factors that effect your investment and safeguard your financial interest.

The many local Real Estate offices that display the big gold and black "MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service" sign can help you make the right move. Call or stop in anytime and meet the "PROS" . . . the people of MAP Multiple Listing Service who work together for efficient, satisfactory Real Estate service to the community.

Buying or Selling . . . call a MAP office . . . and relax!

Starck Wins Certification

Realtor Robert W. Starck, of Mount Prospect, has been designated a certified residential broker of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

This professional designation is awarded to individuals who have completed an academic program and demonstrated their skill in residential brokerage.

In announcing the award, Institute Pres. Art S. Leitch, said "many years of diligent study and conscientious application are needed to become a certified residential broker. Those seeking to buy, sell, rent, or exchange residential real estate may rely fully on the designee's knowledge and integrity."

Mr. Starck is president of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, since 1960. He has served as the president of MAP Multiple Listing Service in 1968 and is a member of the National Farm and Land Brokers. In addition, he is past treasurer of Inter-City Relocation Service, Inc. and currently a member of the board of directors.

NIREB, with a membership of 22,000 brokers and sales associates throughout the United States, is the largest educational affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It awards the CRB and CCIM designations for which credits are earned through successful completion of educational courses sponsored by NIREB and state real estate associations also, for college studies and degrees, for applied experience in residential or commercial-investment brokerage, and for elective offices held within local, state, and national real estate organizations.

Moving Tips

Let's face it. Moving is a sizeable undertaking. It's a happy situation if the expense of a move can be reduced to basic costs.

To this end, Allied Van Lines makes the following cost-cutting suggestions to the family planning a move.

The accuracy of the mover's estimate depends not only on the experience and integrity of the mover but also on the cooperation of the family in showing everything that is to be moved. The customer often forgets to show items to be moved that are in the attic, garage or basement.

Also, if you have things you want to throw out, do it before you move and not after. If you think you have items you won't be using in the new home, sell them or give them away before moving and you'll save on the overall cost of the shipment.

This is especially true on long distance moves where the cost is based on the actual weight of the goods and the distance shipped.

Another pointer: dismantle or disconnect curtain and drapery fixtures, window fans, air conditioners, television antennas, hi-fi and stereo sets, large wall clocks and the like. If the mover must do these things on his own it is reflected in the charge.

Packing services provided by the mover cost extra, but when dishes, china, glassware and other breakables are involved it can be a good investment, as the mover uses specially designed cartons, containers, and materials. If you pack these items yourself, the mover is not responsible for breakage resulting from improper packing.

Homes Gain 3-5% In Value Each Year

Did you ever think you'd be living in a $50,000 house? If you bought your home 10 years ago for $25,000 - $30,000, you probably are.

Homes in the Northwest suburbs have appreciated at a rate of 3 to 5 per cent per year for the last 10 years, making that $40,000 - $50,000 home a bit less of an impossible dream.

Norman Falkanger, of Homes North by Northwest in Palatine, is certified to appraise homes for the Veterans Administration, the Federal Housing Administration, as well as for individual homeowners. He feels that too many homeowners are unaware of their home's current value. This lack of knowledge, Falkanger feels, can result in financial disaster.

The obvious need for awareness of current market values, of course, is in selling your home. Price your home too low, you lose money. Price your home too high — no sale. Knowing what your home is currently worth can help you assess your personal achievement in terms of net worth, and is important information in estate planning and updating.

According to Falkanger, probably the most hazardous is the possibility of under insuring your home against fire or hazard. Too many homeowners have learned too late that their insurance, adequate when their home was purchased, may not begin to replace that home if destroyed by fire or other hazards.

Mobile Home Industry To Prosper, Says Exec

"The mobile home and the modular home will continue to grow as major factors in America's housing picture because of changing attitudes in zoning, consumer acceptance, increased financial attraction and the failure of other types of construction to meet the under $15,000 market," John M. Martin, president of the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association said.

Martin, speaking to a luncheon gathering at the annual meeting of the Indiana Manufactured Housing Association, predicted that by 1975 virtually all single-family housing starts will originate in a factory. "The industry has many new opportunities in the modular and sectional housing fields," he added.

Citing Indiana as one of 35 states which has adopted the national safety standard A119.1, Martin said the acceptance of a uniform construction law by all states will permit the industry to expand its markets to all areas.

"Because ours is a mobile industry, a market may be across state lines. This situation increases the importance of a single national standard for mobile homes," he said.

Uniform taxation, Martin said, is another important industry goal. He indicated that MHMA may recommend uniform taxation as a national basis after the remaining 15 states adopt the ANSI A119.1 construction standard.

"Contrary to a popular belief, in most states the mobile home owner does not get a tax break. If he does, it does not occur until the fifth or sixth year of ownership," he said.

Village Sq. Realtors Tops $2 Million Sales

Village Square Realtors announces sales of more than $2 million, some in cooperation with other brokers.

Bob Lotka, who along with Marge and Dave Yeats started Village Square only six months ago, stated that the firm is well along the way toward becoming a major factor in the Palatine Real Estate Market.

Memberships in MAP Multiple Listing Service and the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors have helped the firm gain wide public acceptance.

In addition to the principals, Village Square Realtors employs eight full-time salesmen.

New Vice President For Keepper Nagel

Alfred L. Polenzani of Lake Bluff has been named vice president of Keepper Nagel, Inc., Lake Forest Realtors. He will head their Commercial Investment Division.

"Al's ability to assist his clients in establishing investment goals and achieving them is responsible for his success," said John Keepper, CCIM, president of Keepper Nagel.

Polenzani joined Keepper Nagel in 1971 with a background in trust banking. A native of Chicago, he holds a bachelor of arts degree in economics from St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa.

Recently, Polenzani was elected vice president of the O'Hare Group, brokers for business and industry, a professional association of Chicagoland commercial investment Realtors.

Polenzani also teaches an adult education course in real estate investment in Waukegan. He and his family live in Lake Bluff.

She'll never understand "better late than never."

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY training seminar is being conducted through Dec. 1 by the Chicago area office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The training session is for the recently appointed equal opportunity officers representing 15 major cities throughout Illinois, said John Waner, director of the HUD Chicago area office. The course will feature a coordinated approach to eliminate discrimination and promote equal employment and minority opportunity on local and federal projects. "The concept of equal opportunity may in some instances turn people off," said Waner, "just as does the idea of low-income housing. The real meaning of equal opportunity must be identified and presented to the public as good business." He said George D. Arnold of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland will participate in the program.

THE BOARD OF directors of the Mount Prospect State Bank approved the transfer of $500,000 from undivided profits to the bank's surplus account at its November meeting. The announcement was made by Howard W. Alton, chairman of the board and president. The new total of $4,500,000 in capital and surplus will raise the bank's legal lending limit to a single borrower to $675,000 and marks the 12th consecutive year that Mount Prospect State Bank has made additions to its capital account. In other action, the board declared a cash dividend of 45 cents a share, payable Dec. 14 to shareholders of record Dec. 8. This brings the total dividends to be paid in 1972 to 90 cents a share.

NEW HEADQUARTERS of the Ben Pekin Corp. is located at 308 Wainwright Dr., Northbrook. The building and development firm previously maintained offices in Arlington Heights. Ben Pekin, president, said the move was dictated by a need for added personnel and larger facilities. The expanded staff operating in the Northbrook offices is involved with Pekin developments in several area communities. Among these are sites for 1800 condominium units in Wheeling and Palatine. BP Construction Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the firm, will also be housed in the Northbrook offices.

PLANT EXPANSION was recently announced by PreFinish Metals, a coil coating company, at its Plant No. 2 in Elk Grove Village. The firm is adding 42,000 square feet to its plant at 2300 Pratt Blvd. "The increasing technical complexity of our industry and intensifying research necessary to retain our innovative position within the industry required us to consolidate and expand our various laboratories," said F. D. Graziano, vice president and technical director. Quality assurance, materials testing and the research and development groups will share the same quarters, according to H. J. Schneider, executive vice president. The new laboratory facilities utilize some 5,000 square feet of the addition, with the remaining space to be used as for equipment and warehousing. The addition is set for completion in January, 1973.

ILLINOIS COUNCIL of the Society of American Registered Architects arranged a tour through the Commonwealth Edison nuclear generating station and the Westinghouse Reactor Training Center, both located in Zion. The Dec. 5 tour will include the regular meeting of the council. The program will start with a 6 p.m. meeting for dinner and cocktails at the Illinois Beach State Park Lodge in Zion.

TENTH ANNUAL dinner of Chicago Business Leaders will be held Dec. 6 in the Grand Ballroom of the Hilton Hotel, Chicago. All proceeds from the dinner are donated to the Protestant Foundation of Greater Chicago and are used to support interdenominational projects. Citations will be presented at the dinner to Olympic skaters Diane Holum and Ann Henning; Robert E. Brooker, chairman of the executive committee of Marcor, Inc., and Montgomery Ward, for work on civic and charitable projects; and Louis Sudler, founder and partner in Sudler and Co., will be cited for service to the Orchestral Association and Chicago Symphony Orchestra. William F. Murray, chairman of the board of Harris Trust and Savings Bank, is chairman of the dinner. Arlington Heights resident George L. Morrow, president of Peoples Light, Gas, Light & Coke Co. is among the dinner vice chairmen.

Kitchen Lights Turn You On?

The properly lighted kitchen should be a pleasure both to the eye and for the eye. It should contribute to both beauty and function. The typical kitchen, however, falls short of potentials on both counts.

To help you tell whether your kitchen is suitably "enlightened," "Light for Living Centers," showroom associates of the American Home Lighting Institute, suggest the following quiz:

1. Does your kitchen have a bright and cheerful look, instead of drab and dark?
2. Do the lighting fixtures add to the decor with their own interest of design, materials and colors?
3. Do you find it hard to read the markings on a measuring cup or spoon at range or work counter, without moving to a window or light?
4. Do you often have to wash dishes or tableware a second time?
5. In reading a recipe, do you have to dodge your shadow to see?
6. Do you have trouble judging the color of food to whether it's done?

If your answers to the first two are "no," you should look into the decorative possibilities of up-to-date lighting for your kitchen.

If your answers to the others are "yes," you probably need more and better illumination.

Trained lighting consultants at AHLI "Light for Living Centers" showrooms offer help in diagnosing a kitchen's lighting ills and prescribing remedies that give it vitality in both decor and function.

REAL ESTATE QUOTES FROM WELL KNOWN PEOPLE

THEODORE ROOSEVELT said: "Every person who invests in well selected real estate in a growing section of a prosperous community adopts the surest and safest method of becoming independent, for real estate is the basis of wealth."

MARSHALL FIELD said: "Buying real estate is not only the best way, the quickest way, and the safest way, but the only way to become wealthy."

HETTY GREEN said: "Real estate is an imperishable asset, increasing in value. It is the most solid security that human ingenuity has devised. It is the collateral to be preferred above all others, and the safest means of investing money."

ANDREW CARNEGIE said: "Ninety per cent of all millionaries become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments. The wise young man or wage earner of today invests his money in real estate."

ARLINGTON REALTY MANAGEMENT says: "The best time to buy your next new home is now! Mortgage money is available at attractive rates and terms. Most experts predict higher prices for homes in 1973."

ARLINGTON REALTY SALES STAFF says: "Choose your realtor carefully and wisely and you will very likely choose Arlington Realty."

The D...

DEAR DR. LAMB — Thank you for your response to the sudden infant death (crib death) question in your column. It is obvious that you are aware of the great need of parents to have assurance that they are in no way responsible for the death of their child. Would it be possible fir you to refer any future family to the Foundation? We have found it is a great help for the bereaved family to be able to communicate with another family who has experienced the same tragedy. Since this tragedy strikes at least 10,000 babies a year in the United States, there are a great many of us.

Dear Reader — I am glad to know that your organization, The Nastional Foundation for Sudden Infant Death, Inc. (203 N. Wabash Ave., Suite 1804, Chicago, Illinois, 60601, and in New York, 1501 Broadway, New York, N.Y., 10036) is helping bereaved families with this problem. After the column on crib deaths I received a great deal of mail as you would guess because of the frequency of this problem. Your organization is providing a great service in educating people about the nature of this disease. The literature that you provide to people is on target.

As you know, the cause of crib deaths is not known although there are several theories. The basic facts cited in one of your pamphlets should be useful to many people pointing out that these deaths are not caused by suffocation, aspiration, or regurgitation; that the disease is not contagious, and it is not hereditary.

Many of the letters I have received suggest that people think that this is caused by modern problems of pollution, water supply and the like, and I was pleased to note that one of your booklets points out that this disorder is as old as the Old Testament, and was at least as frequent in the 18th century as it is now, before we had some of our problems of modern civilization.

It certainly is a tragedy that when a family is faced with this problem, they may be accused of being negligent or having mistreated the child. I suspect this probelm is even worse now that child abuse has become a common social problem. It is only natural that law enforecement officers might raise this question when a sudden unexplained death such as a crib death occurs. Such a question could hardly be raised at a more inappropriate time as far as the bereaved parents are concerned. I also like the point that a babysitter or a sibling caught in one of these events may have a problem afterward. I hope your organization will help to educate people that these deaths may occur suddenly within less than five minutes in apparently healthy children and for on apparent cause.

Because I have done a lot of work on irregularities of the heart, I personally suspect that a good many of these may be related to a sudden stopping of the heart. If the heart doesn't resume beating effectively within five minutes time, it is usually too late, and there is nothing to see on examination afterward.

I hope readers of this column who know parents who are faced with this problem will refer them to the National Foundation at the address given above.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "I know the Hatter is mad but lots of good bridge players in the real world are mad and this madness hasn't seemed to affect his game here in Wonderland."

She had led her six of spades against the Hatter's three no-trump contract. The dormouse sitting East had played the jack. The Hatter had won with the queen, entered dummy with the king of diamonds and led the jack of clubs for a finesse.

Alice had taken the trick with her king and now had to decide whether or not to lay down the ace of spades.

The point to consider was that the Hatter had won with the queen and therefore had clearly shown that he also held the king. Had he false-carded and won the trick with the king Alice would not have known where the king was because the dormouse would play the king if he held king-jack, but would play the jack if he held queen-jack.

Had the Hatter's play of the queen been carelessness or was there method in his madness and had his play been designed to tell Alice that he held the king so as to get her to lead some other suit?

Alice decided this latter was the case. She laid down her ace of spades; dropped the king and ran off enough spades to set the contract.

Actors Hit Road On Sagebrush Circuit

DALLAS (UPI) — The set for "Adam and Eve" is two barstools and a frame of burlap and ribbons that folds up at the slip of a hingepin.

"Endgame" takes a raised throne on metal casters, but it too breaks down into an unimpressive stack of jig-sawed plywood and little wheels.

The lighting is a system of knobs and television lamps that fits into two black boxes and the stage, well, the stage might be a small-town sanctuary or a rodeo arena.

The stage changes nearly every performance for the Alpha-Omega Players, more than 600 times a season. At that rate they are American touring repertory theater at its broadest, a tedious booking of 90-minute performances to minute audiences, a break-down bundle of artistic endeavor packed into Ford vans and put on the road from Maine to Oregon to Texas.

"I REALLY think that the point of what we are doing is if we can make art cheap enough for the masses, so the average guy can buy it, we can make up for it in quantity," says producer-director Drexel Riley. "We are trying to appeal to groups that are not normally exposed to live theater."

"In many places, not too many, but some, we are the only cultural event of the year," said booking agent John Hancock, an actor who toured in 1969. "Once you get out there, you get the feeling that 'what I'm doing is highly important.'"

Riley, 38, a former resident artist at the Dallas Theater Center and a native of Portland, Tex., formed the A-O Players five years ago from the remains of Bishops Company, a touring rep theater since the 1930s. He moved it to Dallas to cut travel costs and runs it all from a second floor office in what was once an athletic dorm near Southern Methodist University.

The building serves as home for the actors during the six-week rehearsal period. Then the casts, who usually come straight from college and work for an admittedly low wage, pack sets, costumes and personal belongings into the vans and hit the road.

"OPENING NIGHT may be 600 miles from where they rehearsed," Riley says. Actors must handle the driving themselve. They often arrive in town shortly before curtain time and leave for another date soon afterward.

This season, which began in September and will run until late spring, the A-O Players are presenting "Adam and Eve" by Mark Twain; "Endgame" by Samuel Beckett, and two one-acts, "Aria Da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay and "The Last Word" by James Broughton.

The actors are young but enthusiastic. The level of performance is not of Broadway caliber but then that is not what the "average guys" of Beebe, Ark., and Grinnell, Iowa, are paying for.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the Dow Jones Industrial Average recently topped the 1000 mark for the first time in history, it was more than just an smashing victory for the Bulls over the Bears.

Beyond that, it was a day of vindication for Ernie Pops Waterstock, the grizzled veteran coach of the Wall Street Blue Chips.

There had been complaints among capital gain fans that Waterstock was too cautious and conservative. His critics contended he was holding back speculation and should be replaced.

But Waterstock had faith in the old fashioned fundamentals of playing the market and refused to alter his game plan under fire.

"We felt in order for the Blue Chips to win we would have to buy low and sell high," the canny old mentor told financial reporters. "And that is what we did.

"We knew that if we stuck to that system, and refused to panic during periods of economic panic, we would emerge triumphant."

BREAKING THE 1000 barrier was the culmination of a rebuilding program that began in the fall of 1929 when the Blue Chips lost 38 33 points on the Dow Jones scale in a single day.

Waterstock then came under heavy pressure to draft some promising young issues and hold them as "futures." Instead, he began trading for older, established securities to fill in at weak spots in his portfolio.

"The future is now," the beloved wizard of the big board philosophized.

Waterstock declined to single out individual stars in the climb above 1000. He said the triumph of the Blue Chips was a "team victory."

"IN A BIG WIN like this you've got to have all 30 stocks on the industrial average roster performing at the top of their particular capability," the coach remarked.

"If one stock gets hurt by an antitrust suit or a Ralph Nader investigation, the other 29 have to close ranks and pull together for the good of the team."

It should be noted, however, that after the 1000 breakthrough, Waterstock awarded game balls to Eastman Kodak, Procter & Gamble and Sears Roebuck, each of which gained more than 100 per cent in the final two years of the Blue Chip drive.

All three are expected to be elected to the Stock Exchange Hall of Fame, with Eastman Kodak winning the 1972 "most valuable holding" trophy.

TV Notes

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Everyone likes good news, so here is some good news about television:

— "KUNG FU," ABC-TV's unique occasional hours about a sensitive but fugitive Chinese-American Buddhist priest (David Carradine) who roams the frontier of the Old West, will become a regular weekly series at midseason, airing Thursdays. Unfortunately, it will be up against CBS-TV's motion pictures and the popular "Ironside" series on NBC-TV.

—THE EXCELLENT one-hour CBS-TV series "The Waltons," about a large and affectionate American Mountain family in the 1930s depression moved up to 37th among 84 broadcasts in the national audience ratings for the week ending Nov. 5. The series' producer has expressed appreciation for the "heart-warming support" given it.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — This is a landmark for two of network television's longest-running and most-honored series, "Meet the Press" and the "Hallmark Hall of Fame."

For NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," November marks the 25th anniversary of the news-interview program that has become a broadcasting institution.

For Hallmark, which offers occasional specials, also on NBC-TV, it is the month of the 100th "Hall of Fame" telecast.

The 100th telecast, an excellent drama called "The Hands of Cormac Joyce," focused on an Irish fishing family that decided to fight out a killer storm on its small island rather than flee with others. It was presented last Friday.

THE SECOND hundred began Wednesday when Hallmark offered its version of the famous stage and movie comedy "The Man Who Came to Dinner," with Orson Welles, Lee Remick, Don Knotts, Joan Collins, Edward Andrews and Mary Wickes.

The George S. Kaufman-Moss Hart play, which has been updated, concerned a learned, flamboyant and egocentric personality, Sheridan Whiteside (Welles), who literally takes over an Ohio household when he slips and is temporarily immobilized.

With its two productions this month, the "Hall of Fame" began its 22nd network video season.

It was radio, in 1939, that launched Hallmark Cards Inc. as a national broadcast sponsor. The show was "The Tony Wons Radio Scrapbook," and it featured the host reading poetry.

The "Hall of Fame" has ranged in scope from six plays by Shakespeare to five by Shaw to "Inherit the Wind" and "Harvey" and "The Fantasticks."

Performers on the series have included the best there are, among them Julie Harris, James Stewart, George C. Scott, Jose Ferrer, Lunt and Fontanne, and, like the productions listed here, many others.

HALLMARK HAS invested about $50 million in the series, and says it will "support its dedication to television drama" by spending another $60 million in the next decade alone for the "Hall of Fame."

It has even announced several of its projects for next season, including Clifford Odets' "The Country Girl" and a musical version of O. Henry's "The Gift of the Magi."

Hallmark's entire backlog of video productions has been contributed to the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for housing at an academy library at UCLA. The library was established in 1966 in cooperation with the school's theater arts department as a central storage facility for television films, video tapes and kinescopes, and is available for use by teachers, students and researchers.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actors, directors, writers and producers kid themselves that they are the vital elements in motion pictures and televisiong They are all wet.

The most important single component is the camera.

While acting techniques have improved somewhat and directors hone old skills, writers and producers are mired to the old ways.

But the camera has undergone some astonishing changes, not the least of which is a new silent, lightweight beauty called the Panaflex.

IT IS IMPORTANT to audiences and filmakers alike because it is the smallest, quietest professional movie camera ever built. Panaflex will take viewers into areas they haven't seen before.

The man responsible for the camera is Robert Gottschalk, president of Panavision Inc. which already is the standard of movie cameras.

At his factory in Los Angeles Gottschalk explained: "The Panaflex doesn't have a blimp — the housing or case that fits around other cameras to keep the noise of the camera from interfering with the soundtrack."

Laymen have seen enough studio movie cameras to recognize their bulk-being pushed around on dollies, hoisted by heavy cranes and resting on giant tripods.

Not the Panaflex. It weighs only 25 pounds and can be hand-carried by camera operators. Instead of dollies they've been used by an operator sitting in a wheel chair.

"WHEN SOUND first came along, cameras were so noisy they had to be shot on one side of a wall through a window," Gottschalk said. "Then they built bungalows for cameras in which three crew members could isolate themselves and the noise of the machine.

"Eventually a 300-pound blimp surrounded the camera. It was heavy and awkward. For years they used the Blimped Noiseless Camera (BNC) until we came along with this revolutionary development.

"It will open the door to new ways of making pictures. There is new scope in placing the camera and it will cut costs by allowing many more set-ups a day and eliminating the necessity for dubbing and looping."

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Stamp Notes

Do Your Stamp Shopping By Mail

If any of your friends or family are stamp collectors, or might become collectors with a bit of encouragement, at least some of your Christmas shopping could be done at the nation's post offices or by mail from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C.

Many local post offices have available the 1972 Mini-Album and the paperback book, "Stamps and Stories."

The mini-album sells for $3 and includes all the special and commemorative stamps issued during 1972. It contains acetate strips for mounting the stamps and a brief description of each postal issue.

"Stamps and Stories" illustrates all U.S. stamps and tells the stories behind them. It is a very helpful publication for the new collector and sells for $2. A clothbound edition is available from the Philatelic Sales Unit for $5.95 plus a 50-cent handling charge.

SOUVENIR PAGES, 8 x 10½ inches in size, are similar to the stamp announcement posters you've seen in local postoffices. The pages include a photo of a stamp, the stamp itself with a first day cancellation and other data about the stamp. The pages are available through a deposit account which insures automatic delivery of a page for each new stamp issued. Each page costs 50 cents each plus the cost of the stamps affixed. Your account can be opened for $10 through the Philatelic Automatic Distribution Service, Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C. 20036.

The 1972 Souvenir Christmas Folders are $1 each. They are available from the Philatelic Sales Unit and, after Dec. 1, at selected post offices throughout the country at specific locations yet to be announced. Both Christmas stamps are included with the first day of issue cancellation. If ordered separately by mail, the usual service fee will be waived.

Selected post offices will also have for sale the 1971 Souvenir Christmas folders which featured the "partridge in a pear tree" stamp.

Stamp panels in the American Commemorative Series are available at $2. Eight different panels have been produced including the Wildlife Conservation Series and later 1972 issues. These can be ordered from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C. 20036.

THE UNITED Nations Postal Administration has initiated a gift certificate program. Now you can start a Customer Deposit Account with the UNPA for a friend for $20 which will insure his receipt of new United Nations issues until the balance has been used up. Your friend is then free to add to the account or to stop it at that point. You may specify how many stamps, blocks and/or first day covers are requested and either New York or Geneva (or both) issues will be included. The UNPA will send the gift certificate to the person you specify. Address: United Nations Postal Administration, P.O. Box 5900 — Grand Central Station, New York, New York 10017.

If you would like a free sample of Linn's Stamp Weekly, send me your name and your complete address on a post card and I will see that you receive a copy.

Atlanta, Houston and Columbia, S.C., will open "Postique" stamp sales units during December.

Special cacheted envelopes will be issued marking each opening. The envelopes, with special cancellations, are available at 35 cents each or three for $1. A self-addressed, stamped No. 10 (long) envelope should be included with your request for return of the cachets.

REQUESTS SHOULD be sent to "Postique," Postmaster, Atlanta, Ga. 30304 or Columbia, S.C. 29201 or Houston, Texas, 77013.

The Titusville, Fla. post office will accept mail to be postmarked from the public for an 18-hour period beginning at 8 a.m. Dec. 6, when Apollo 17 is scheduled to be launched at 9:53 p.m.

This mail will be taken to the Kennedy Space Center post office, cancelled and placed in the mail stream. In case of a delay in lift-off, mail will be held until the shot takes place and then cancelled with the new date.

NASA will be responsible for the Florida cancellations which are limited to five envelopes per person. They should be sent to "Special Philatelic Cancellation, IS-DOC-M, NASA, Kennedy Space Center, Fla. 32899."

Five envelopes will also be the limit accepted by the Postal Services in Houston. They should be addressed to "Space Cancellation, Main Post Office Window Service, Houston, Tex., 77013."

Social Security and You

Q — I WAS IN A bad automobile accident and was laid up for three months with serious bone fractures. Since I had no earnings during this period, could I collect Social Security disability benefits?

A — No, monthly Social Security Disability benefits can be paid only for a severe disability that is expected to last a year or longer. Depending on the date a person becomes disabled, monthly payments may start with the sixth or seventh month of disability. In addition, the disability must be so severe that it makes it impossible for the worker to engage in any substantial employment.

Q — I RECENTLY heard something about monthly social security payments for adults who have been severely disabled since childhood. I'm 25 but I was severely hurt in a car accident when I was 19 and I'm not able to work. Since my father is going to retire this year and get social security payments, will I be eligible for payments, too?

A — You may be. Under the new law, severely disabled adults who were disabled before 22 are eligible for monthly social security payments if a parent insured under social security retires, dies, or becomes severely disabled. This law becomes effective Jan. 1, 1973. Your father should ask about social security payments for you when he applies for his retirement benefits. Have your father call 255-7512 to find out what information he will need to furnish.

Q — MY HUSBAND and I both get monthly social security retirement checks and have Medicare coverage. Last week, a man who said he was from social security stopped in to see us and tried to talk us into taking out an additional health insurance policy. Does social security sell heath insurance to supplement Medicare?

A — No. The Social Security Administration does not sell health insurance to supplement Medicare. The man who visited you and your husband sounds like an imposter. Social Security representatives have identification cards, showing their pictures and other identifying information. Always ask them for identification, and, if you are not satisfied, call any social security office.

JOB HUNTING? READ THESE COLUMNS

WHEN THE WEDDING IS OVER . . .

Let your friends read about it in the HERALD

But remember our deadlines . . .

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions and a listing of attendants) wedding information is due in Herald office within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only, or caption.

For publication the Herald requests a 5x7 black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. Depending on color tones, contrast and clarity, color photos may possibly be used at the discretion of the editors. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

Ask Your Photographer To Make the Selection

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proofs. Better yet, ask the photographer to make the selection to avoid delay.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

Wedding forms are available in the Herald offices. There is no charge for publishing wedding stories or photos.

AND ABOUT ENGAGEMENTS:

Just write up the information (include your phone number) or fill out one of the forms available at the Herald offices and bring or mail, along with a wallet-size photo. Larger photos are also acceptable. Glossy photos are preferable although a dull finish is often usable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors.

Photos accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes will be returned.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. They will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

High-Risk Nursery Increases The Odds With Special Care

by DOROTHY OLIVER

An alarm sounds and a well-scrubbed, gowned nurse hastens across the room. She thrusts her hands through the two openings in the glass box protecting her patient. Behind the glass a two-pound bundle of life has stopped breathing.

His nurse peers through the glass of the incubator, tickles his foot, waits and coos, "Come on . . . That's better . . . That's a boy . . ."

"They're so little, so underdeveloped, sometimes they just forget to breathe and we have to remind them," smiled Dr. Henry Mangurten as he looked over his tiny charges in the new high-risk nursery at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

Set around the compact room adjoining the regular nursery on the maternity floor of the hospital are the Isolettes, monitoring units, fluid infusion pumps and other equipment which help the premature and sick infants to survive.

"THE HIGH-RISK nursery is providing aggressive care for these babies," Dr. Mangurten said. "They were receiving good care before but we are giving more intensive, sophisticated care and increasing the nurse-baby ratio. The high-risk nursery just increases the odds for them."

The nursery has operated since July. Dr. Mangurten has worked with the hospital administration and staff since he came to Lutheran General last February.

He was hired by the hospital as a full-time staff member after spending two years at the University of Illinois Hospital with a fellowship in neonatology, a sub-specialty of pediatrics dealing with the health care problems of critically ill newborn infants. Joining him when the nursery began operations was Charlyn Slade, who left her position as head nurse in the premature and high risk nursery at the U. of I. hospital to take a like position at Lutheran General.

"THIS HOSPITAL has one of the highest delivery rates in all of Chicago. With more than 3,000 babies born here each year, the percentage of high-risk infants is higher than in any average hospital," Dr. Mangurten said. "Also there is no nearby nursery equipped to care for high risk newborns. If we had a really sick baby, he would have been sent to a Chicago hospital. This nursery was born out of the necessity of having one here for this rapidly growing area."

It has been estimated that one out of every 12 newborns falls into the high-risk category. Since July more than 125 such infants have been cared for in the specialized nursery.

"All babies who are born four or more weeks early come to us," Dr. Mangurten explained. "When a baby is born too early, he has the potential to be sick. It may never happen but as long as the potential is there, we care for him. We take care of sick and potentially sick newborns."

TWIN GIRLS, both weighing just over three pounds, wiggle around in their Isolettes crying hungrily for their first feeding. Mrs. Slade watches a doctor examine the infants and murmurs, "Nice babies . . . They have good color . . ."

Next to them are two "graduates." The little boy and girl have moved from their Isolettes and sleep soundly in their bassinets. They will be going home soon.

Across the room are two sick babies — both born prematurely with incompletely developed lungs. "We have babies in here I feel would otherwise be dead today," Dr. Mangurten said. "Our success can be measured by advances in the field of neonatology, equipment and staff."

Babies in incubators live in an enclosed environment. Temperature, humidity and oxygen are controlled by the needs of each infant. The monitoring devices, attached by wires to the babies' bodies, record heart and respiratory rate and oxygen concentration. Any malfunction — in either baby or machine — is signaled by the ring of an alarm. ("It gives the nurses an extra set of eyes and ears," Mrs. Slade said.)

THE BABIES' temperature can be monitored with one machine; another, the respirator, can literally breathe for a sick newborn.

"Even with all the equipment we have, we couldn't run the nursery without specialized nurses," Dr. Mangurten said.

"Dealing with high-risk newborns is a very specialized area — not just medically but nursing-wise," Mrs. Slade added. "We have a unique staff that works only in the high-risk nursery."

Before the nursery was established, nurses would switch from caring for sick infants to healthy ones. Nurses in the high-risk nursery now work only in that area.

"BY WORKING WITH only these babies a nurse is able to build her ability to deal with their problems," Mrs. Slade said. "We also have a one-to-two or one-to-four nurse-baby ratio so we can give intensive care. If a very sick baby needs eight hours of consistent care, he will get it from one nurse."

"We believe a baby should get the same care at 2 a.m. as at 10 a.m. so there are no skeleton shifts for the nurses," Dr. Mangurten added. "The care is consistent and ongoing."

Nurses receive in-service training once a week on caring for sick and potentially sick infants, but, Mrs. Slade pointed out, "You have to learn by doing. This is a new kind of nursing and you have to seek out your own training."

Working consistently with such a small number of babies, the high-risk nurses form strong attachments. "We love them while they're here and miss them when they leave," Mrs. Slade said. "Very often the mothers come back in with the kids as they grow up or they send pictures and letters."

PARENTS ALSO FEEL free to call Dr. Mangurten, Mrs. Slade or any staff member if they are having problems with their baby and can't reach their physician.

"The parents feel good about the nursery," Dr. Mangurten said. "We try to develop excellent communication with the parents and make them part of the team. We include them in every phase of their baby's progress.

"In the old premature nurseries the babies were kept secluded; the parents were kept out and uninformed. We try to avoid any harm in the maternal-infant relationship that would be caused by prolonged separation. We encourage parents to touch and hold their baby so they are not strangers when they take the baby home."

The high-risk nursery is still in developmental stages, according to Dr. Mangurten. The present nursery can care for 10 babies; plans include expanding the facility to care for 20.

HE SPECULATES that in the future a third, transitional-care nursery will be operating at Lutheran General for babies who need more than average care but not high-risk care. "Not all premature infants are sick; not all require intensive care," he said.

The high-risk nursery could also be expanded to care for all sick infants. "A baby is considered a newborn until he is 28 days old," Mrs. Slade said. "If any baby needed our kind of care, we hope it will eventually be admitted to our nursery even if the baby has gone home for a few days."

While looking towards the future, Dr. Mangurten is very much involved in the present. "Like anybody doing this kind of work we will take a very critical look at what has happened at the end of one year. I feel we have done very well."

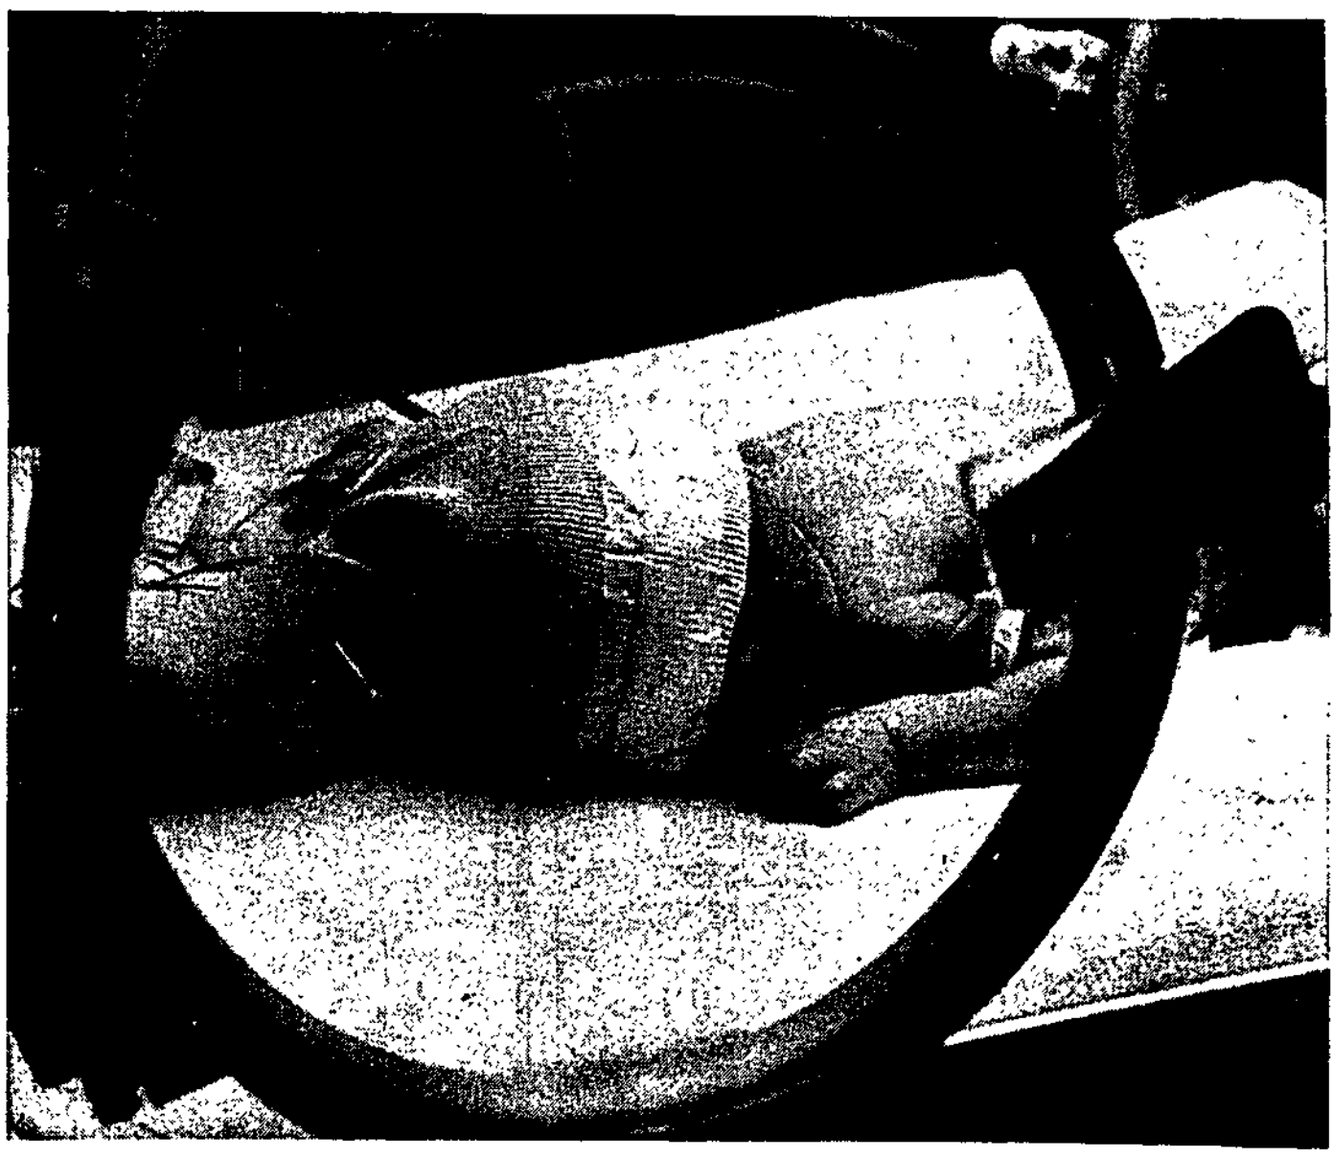
MONITORING UNITS PROVIDE an extra set of eyes and ears for the nurses in the high-risk nursery at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. Charlyn Slade, head nurse of the specialized nursery, checks the heart and respiration rates of twin girls born recently at the hospital. Monitors also check oxygen concentration, temperature and humidity in the incubators.

Suburban Living
ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

"AT FIRST, WORKING through the portholes in the incubators was so awkward, but after a while it becomes second nature," smiled Dr. Henry Mangurten, full-time neonatologist in charge of the high-risk nursery. Dr. Mangurten worked with Lutheran General's administration and staff to create the intensive care nursery which cares for sick and potentially sick newborns.



WHILE THIS TINY BABY sleeps quietly in his incubator, he receives phototherapy for jaundice. The stocking cap protects his eyes from the light of the bilirubin lamp which reduces the level of bilirubin in the blood level, eliminating the jaundice. Wires attached to the baby's body lead to monitoring units that record his vital functions.

Plan June 'N January Weddings

Sandra Henn

Sandra Jean Henn's engagement to John M. Zellmer of Bethesda, Md., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Henn, 115 S. Harvard, Arlington Heights.

The wedding is set for next June 9.

Sandra attended Sacred Heart of Mary High School and will graduate next May from Marquette University, Milwaukee.

Her finance graduated there this year and works in Milwaukee. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Zeller of Bethsda.

Diana Evans

The engagement of Diana Evans to Richard Kirchhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Kirchhoff of Arlington Heights, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Evans Jr. of McHenry.

The couple plan to be married next June 23 in Zion Lutheran Church, McHenry.

Diana will receive a degree in education from Bradley University, Peoria, in May. Her fiance is a graduate of Bradley and works in Chicago as a cost accountant.

Judith Gustafson

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gustafson, 1909 Cholo Lane, Mount Prospect, announce their daughter Judith's engagement to Bernard M. Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Powers of Park Forest.

The wedding is planned for Jan. 27 in St. Emily Church.

Judith and her fiance have attended Northern Illinois University where he will graduate in January. He is a Vietnam veteran and formerly taught at the finance school of Ft. Benjamin Harrison in Indianapolis. Judith now works at Lutheran General Hospital.

Sharon McCarthy

A Jan. 6 wedding is planned by Sharon Kathleen McCarthy and Mitchel L. Rooker, son of Clarence Rooker, Freeport, Texas, and Mrs. Alice Rooker, Lawton, Okla. Sharon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. McCarthy, Wheeling, are announcing the couple's engagement and approaching marriage.

Sharon is a graduate of Wheeling High School and attends the University of Oklahoma. Her fiance will graduate from the university in December.

Truly A Family Affair

All of the bride's and groom's sisters and brothers took part in the recent wedding of Kathleen A. Goebbert and Thomas S. McCallum of Arlington Heights. The couple exchanged vows in an ecumenical service Nov. 4 in St. James Catholic Church.

Kathleen's sister Suzanne was her maid of honor, and Tom's three brothers served him, Robert as best man and Timothy and Kevin as ushers. Also coming down the aisle were the couple's young sisters, Vickie, 10, and Kathy McCallum, 7, as flower girls. The bride's brother Allen played the organ for the three o'clock ceremony while his friend, Ron Roma, sang.

The only other person outside the family in the wedding party was bridesmaid Laura Godzicki of Arlington Heights.

THE BRIDE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Goebbert Jr. of 817 N. Patton, chose a royal blue and white color scheme for the wedding.

Her attendants wore the blue velvet in their Empire gowns which were accented with white cluny lace. They wore matching Camelot bonnets and carried blue carnations, yellow baby's breath and deep blue bachelor buttons in a nosegay arrangement.

The two flower girls were dressed identically to the adult attendants but carried their flowers in baskets instead of the noseguys.

Kathleen came down the aisle wearing a Nottingham lace bridal gown, Empire styled with a chapel train. It featured a cameo neckline and bertha collar of the lace. The bride wore a matching lace Camelot bonnet with her nylon two-tiered veil and carried orchids, stephanotis and ivy in her bouquet.

TOM IS THE SON of Mr. and Mrs. William Robert McCallum, 2610 N. Ridge Ave., Arlington. He and his bride were feted at a reception in St. Peter Lutheran Church hall after the ceremony. Then, after a short honeymoon at Lake Geneva, they moved into a Buffalo Grove apartment.

Both are attending Harper College and have jobs in the area, Kathleen at Illinois Bell Telephone in Arlington and Tom at Standard Oil, Des Plaines.

She is a '72 graduate of Arlington High School, he graduated in '71 from Hersey High.

Charles Carlsons Married 65 Years

Not many couples reach their 65th wedding anniversary so that was a real milestone on Nov. 25 for the Charles J. Carlsons of Rolling Meadows.

Now in their eighties, Charles and Anna celebrated the special date quietly at home, 2902 Meadow Drive, with their son and family, the Harold F. Carlsons, who live around the corner from them at 2415 South St.

The anniversary pair were married on Thanksgiving Eve in 1907. They lived in Chicago for 33 years while Charles was a city fireman, then moved to Lake Geneva upon retirement. After 25 years there, they decided to settle near their son and have been at the Meadow Drive address for the past seven years.

The couple had another son Edward who is deceased. They have five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Here's How To Announce Engagement In The Herald

Paddock Suburban Living department is often called by those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help.

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized photograph is not available, a larger one can be used.

Bring or mail picture and copy to the Herald office in Arlington Heights or Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. Usually they will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

Social Therapist Training Open To All Degreed Women

Orientation is now underway for the social therapist training program offered by Forest Hospital Postgraduate Center, 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines. Men and women with bachelor degrees are invited to contact the Center, 827-8811, for information on the program, scheduled to begin Dec. 11.

Social therapists (STs) are para-professionals in the psychiatric field.

"The psychiatric community can't possibly produce enough standard professionals to meet the needs of the country," said Dr. Robert Willford, director of the Postgraduate Center. "There is a greater incidence of mental health disorders today than there has ever been before. The ST is a vital ingredient if the tide is ever to be turned."

The year-long program is divided into three parts. The first 12 weeks are spent with trainees learning at the hospital. Four areas are emphasized: psychopathology, group systems, leadership and personal growth. After the causes and symptoms of mental disorders are studied, STs are taught the techniques and learn to lead nine groups systems: encounter, sensitivity, transactional analysis, Gestalt, psychodrama, bioenergetics, psychomotor, family and marital therapy and crisis intervention.

TRAINEES SPEND eight weeks interning at hospitals, youth centers and other institutions in the area to put their knowledge into practice. STs are placed in the area in which they wish to specialize, such as working with the mentally ill, with adolescents, the elderly, etc.

Throughout the 20 weeks STs participate in personal growth sessions. "We believe an ST is more than a technician who understands group dynamics," Willford said. "He must be a representative of good mental health. His own personality and the way he conducts his own life are as important as his knowledge of other people. We expect a commitment from each person to pay attention to his own problems and hang-ups."

The remaining 32 weeks of the program are spent by the STs working at full-time jobs. The Postgraduate Center assists in job placement and staff members provide professional supervision for the remainder of the year.

The social therapist program is credited by Northeastern Illinois University. STs receive 16 credit hours towards a master's degree from the University.

"IN THE PAST the program has been especially attractive to women who wish to enter or re-enter the mental health field," Willford said. "A person's age makes no difference — we have had successful STs from their 20s on up."

The role of the social therapist is to react between and with people in a therapeutic way. STs have gone on to work in community health centers, in schools as counselors and special education teachers and in hospitals.

"We must take mental health to the community rather than waiting in an institution for it to come to us," Willford said. "Much of the ST concept is to get out of the office and into the community to serve its needs."

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Just polishing off the last of the Thanksgiving turkey as I write this, and already Christmas is barking down the door.

Are you, also, knee-deep in making things for Christmas?

The Arlington Heights Garden Club will have its annual wreath-making workshop next week, and I know from previous years it's the best place in town to learn the Christmas crafts.

I learned how to make totally professional-looking bows from the women, as well as elegant swags, wreaths and centerpieces.

If you can't attend the workshop, let me tell you the secret of making a good-looking wreath is an adequate form — store-bought straw, metal or Styrofoam wreath-form preferred.

WIRE COAT hangers can be used if you keep the wreath small. It won't take the weight of anything bigger than a hatbox, and putting two coat hangers together is bad mechanics. There is nothing quite as depressing as a saggy wreath after the wreath-maker has put so much time into it.

The best choice of boughs for the wreath is balsam — believe me I've tried everything in the last 15 years — with a little white pine for accent. Balsam is easy to work with and not too sappy. Spruce is sharp. Pine is too soft and tends to mat down instead of being bushy.

Other inside tips for best wreath results include using only the tips of the branches. Don't try to shove two or three foot-long boughs into the form. It will look slipshod. If you go to all the trouble of getting boughs, forms, wire, ribbon, decorations, plan to spend an hour putting it together.

THE PROFESSIONALS use a wreath-making machine, but you can whip yours up fairly quick with a continuous spool of No. 26 green florist wire.

Slip the branches into the form one from the outside, one from the inside and one at right angles to out and in. Fill in any bare spots as you progress.

Some people cover both front and back of the form with boughs or felt, but if it hangs against a wall or door, the wreath doesn't really need a back cover.

In my neighborhood the gift stores charge $4.95 to send a box of boughs with a big bow and a red bird. You might want to fix up a box of your own and send it to someone far away.

Club To Use Donated Fabrics For Drapes In Community Center

More than $900 worth of drapery fabrics have been donated to the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club.

Jerome Gaftman, who recently closed his fabrics store in Palatine, presented the goods to club members for their renovation project; namely, refurbishing the old Hoffman Estates village hall into a community center.

Decorating co-chairmen Mrs. Michael White and Mrs. John Llautaud plan to make draperies for each of the 15 rooms in the building. The material includes antique satins, sheers and open weave fabrics in earth tone shades of gold, beige, brown, avocado and orange.

Mrs. White plans to hold a drapery making workshop in the building soon.

Women's Rights Conference Next Week At YWCA

A three-day conference on women's rights will be held at the loop YWCA, 37 S. Wabash, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 5, 6 and 7.

Called by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, the conference is intended to produce recommendations on implementing women's rights in several areas.

Paul J. Wisner, director of the Governor's Office of Human Resources, will open the conference Tuesday at 10 a.m. Following an address by Governor Ogilvie, there will be panels on "Women in Employment," at 10:30 a.m., "Women in Business," at 2 p.m. and "Day Care" at 3 p.m., ending in the late afternoon.

The second day will include discussions on "Women and the Media" at 10 a.m. "The Women's Movement: What It Means" at 11 a.m. and "Women and Education" at 1:30 p.m.

Topics for the closing day are "The Non-Paid Working Woman," at 10 a.m. "The Psychology of Being a Woman" at 11 and "Women and the Law" at 1:30 p.m.

Women are invited to attend any and all sessions. Free day care will be provided. Further information is available from Shirley Starr, conference coordinator, 793-3660.

Safe Candles

Candles look nice in windows at Christmas time, provided they are electric. Not for an instant entertain the idea of putting a real candle in a window — even a window that seems a safe place for a lighted candle. Even with electric candles keep curtains and other flammable material pulled back.

Also for a safe Christmas: turn off all Christmas lights at night when everyone is out of the house. The accident prevention tips are from fire fighters. (UPI)

Gideon Wives Give Bibles To Nurses

Anyone who travels knows of the Gideons placing Bibles in hotels and motels all over the world to offer religious sustenance, but few know of the Gideon Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary is made up of wives of the Gideons who present testaments to nurses at capping ceremonies or in hospitals and medical centers wherever they will be read.

Arlington Heights Camp of the Gideon Auxiliary has been donating white testaments, designed with the Florence Nightingale pledge on the inside, to nurses at hospitals throughout the northwest suburbs. Just recently the women distributed several hundred testaments to those in the nursing field at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove.

LAST FRIDAY the women stationed themselves at the cafeteria entrance in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, to do the same. They were headed by Mrs. Myrtle J. Berry, Elk Grove, president of the local camp.

Mrs. Dorothy Nordlander, Palatine, is vice president of the group and Mrs. Virginia Gaw, Mount Prospect, secretary-treasurer.

Organized in 1901, the Auxiliary is active in over 90 countries around the world. However, the testaments were not offered until World War II when nurses in the armed forces requested them. The books include Psalms and Proverbs and are given free to all who will read them.

ONE DAY DELIVERY

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

With Thanksgiving over, the Christmas shopping rush is on. If you are considering purchasing an artificial Christmas tree this year, the National Safety Council has these warnings: Metallic trees can give you an electrical shock if you ry to wire them. Never string lights on this type of tree, but use an offtree spotlight for illumination. If you are buying a nonmetallic artificial tree, make sure that it has been flame-proofed.

Decorations also should be non-flammable, regardless of whether your tree is real or artificial. Angel hair made of glass wool won't burn, but some other materials might. Likewise, most spray-on flocking snow is non-flammable, although I found some in a local variety store that was labeled flammable. Any kind of flammable spray — whether snow or scent or whatever — should not be used anywhere.

In addition, even non-flammable snow, when sprayed on angel hair, creates a combustible combination. Put the snow on the tree before the angel hair. Be sure the adhesive used on commercially flocked trees is non-flammable, also.

CHRISTMAS MEANS small shining faces surveying the new toys Santa left under the tree. Santa, of course, knows just what to bring each child, but parents must take care in selecting gifts for their tots, lest a toy be inappropriate or unsafe. The National Safety Council offers these guidelines:

• Babies up to one year of age like to feel, chew, hold, drop and look at things. Buy brightly colored toys to hang where the baby can see them, or toys that squeak or rattle. But be sure that the toys are too large to be swallowed and that they have no small attachments that might come loose.

• Toddlers from 1 to 2 years of age love to investigae the world. Choose playthings that they can take apart and put back together, or move from one place to another.

• Between 2 and 3 years of age children love to experiment. They like to build things with blocks, turn the pages of books, dabble with finger paints. But they still may try to swallow small objects, so be careful about the size of the toy.

• AT 3 OR 4 years of age, the child often tries to imitate adults. Good "let's pretend" gifts include small brooms and carpet sweepers, toy telephones, dolls, miniature tools, trucks and tractors and suitcases to pack and unpack.

• Little people start to be more creative in their ,lay around ages 4 to 6. They enjoy paints and paint books, dools that have clothes or a doll house and furniture, small sports equipment, simple construction set and even costumes for dramatic play.

• By age 6 children like to test their manipulative ability. Select play equipment that will help to develop the child's skills, but be sure the toys are not too complicated. Simple games and puzzles, construction sets, or a sled will all make good Christmas gifts.

The interests of children 8 years and older vary widely, so select a toy with the child specifically in mind.

A NEW TWIST to the popular chemistry set might interest some children in this age group. It's called "Ecology & You" kit. Marketed by Bradley Associates, the 34-piece environmental pollution test set provides materials and instructions for performing various tests on air, water and soil.

After you have made your selections, check the toys for hazards such as sharp edges, points, wires, etc. Look for nontoxic labels on art supplies and painted toys and the UL label on electrical toys. Buy only battery-operated toys for young children, not electrical.

Earth-bound Santas might be intersted in a new publication called "Toy Review," which rates over 100 toys based on the opinions of children and parents. Edited by MIT graduae Lewis C. Clapp, father of one, the quarterly magazine offers parents the results of both the experiences of its readers as well as tests by its staff.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Intrigued by your comment about carbon tetrachloride and wonder if there might be any danger in a home fire extinguisher containing this stuff? — Marie C.

If you haven't bought one, don't. If you've got one, get rid of it. Matter of fact, I don't know how you'd get one now since a federal regulation prohibits carbon tet (or mixtures containing it) from sale for any home use. But just in case there's been a slip somewhere, don't use it. It isn't flammability (carbon tet is nonflammable); its the toxic quality of the fumes. If you're puzzled as to how to get rid of an extinguisher containing carbon tet, call the fire department. They ought to be glad to help.

Tip for new cooks: If coconut is a favorite around your place, pull a surprise with a toasted coconut pie shell plus whatever kind of filling pleases your fancy. All you have to do is stir 1½ cup of coconut in a large skillet over low heat until toasted; then stir into this 3 tablespoons of butter or margarine. Press this mixture evenly into an 8-inch pie pan and chill. I said any kind of filling, and you can even ladle ice cream into the shell aand put in the freezer for a few minutes until it sets.

Dear Dorothy: Just discovered that some of my lovely linen tablecloths (unused for some time) have brown spots on them. How do I remove these spots? — Mrs. G. E. McKinney

This isn't uncommon. Happily, most winens with such spots come out snowy white after a good laundering. You can help make sure by using one of the dry oxygen bleaches in the laundering.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

SIGN OF THE TIMES — Best read with a mirror — is held up by Mrs. Ronald Saathoff, Mrs. Eugene Gorman, Mrs. William Lindrum and Mrs. Tom Nolan, members of St. Marcelline Council of Catholic Women, Schaumburg. The message mirrors a big two-day bazaar Dec. 9-10 at the church social center, 820 Springinsguth Road. Sale hours that Saturday will be noon to 9 p.m.; Sunday (Dec 10), am. to 5 p.m.

Puppet Show Entertainment At Prospect Heights Lunch

A special Christmas buffet and marionete show are planned for next Wednesday's meeting of Prospect Heights Woman's Club.

Peeko Puppet Productions will present "Christmas in the Bell Shop," a three-act play adapted from a booklet published by Hallmark Cards and directed by Miss Billie Logan and Miss Elly Reed.

The program at Old Orchard Country Club was arranged by Mrs. Philip Glazer, club program chairman.

"Christmas in the Bell Shop" is the tender story of a bellmaker named Oden and his fatherly attachment to Jingle, an orphan boy.

Miss Logan holds a master of arts degree from the University of Michigan and attended special classes of the Chicago Art Institute. Miss Reed has a bachelor of science degree from the University of Wisconsin.

IT REQUIRED 150 hours to create each of their marionettes, which they designed and constructed themselves. The women also built the pint-sized stage they use for the 10 puppet shows which they take all over the Midwest.

Puppet voices previously recorded by experienced actors are combined with appropriate musical background.

Guests are welcome for the buffet and puppet show or for the show only. The combination costs $3.50, the puppet show alone is $1.50.

A short meeting of the club at 11 a.m. will precede the buffet. The puppet show starts at 1:30 p.m.

Luncheon reservations should be made by Monday at 6 p.m. with Mrs. Donald Colby, LE 7-0838.

Scarf Can Harm

A new scarf for Christmas and a snowmobile ride could be a deadly combination. In Wisconsin one year, an 11-year-old boy was choked when the long wool scarf he was wearing while snowmobiling wrapped around the machine's spinning flywheel pulley. A 12-year-old girl in the same kind of accident wasn't so lucky. She was strangled when her scarf got caught.

And that's why the National Safety Council says: avoid wearing long scarves or other loose-fitting apparel which may become entangled in moving parts of snowmobiles. Dress comfortably for wind and weather conditions. (UPI)

Mail Early

Mail your Christmas cards early. You can make sure that your Christmas cards will arrive on time if you will plan the mailing of them so that those for the most distant places are mailed between Dec. 1 and 15, depending on the distance.

Those for nearby and local destinations should go no later than the week before Christmas. To help both yourself and the post office, use the free slips which enable you to label cards "For Out of Town Delivery" and "For Local Delivery." (UPI)

Janis Jacoby Weds Chicagoan

Fall colors in gold, yellow and brown surrounded Janis L. Jacoby of Arlington Heights for her Nov. 4 wedding in the First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights. Janis became the bride of Walter J. Egebergh Jr. of Chicago at a three o'clock ceremony.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Jacoby, 805 Talbot St. Walter's parents are the Walter Egeberghs of Chicago.

The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias with yellow Sweetheart roses, and her attendants carried nosegays of straw flowers with multi-colored fresh flowers for the double ring rites.

THE GIRLS wore faille dresses, floor length, with ruffled stand-up collar and cuffs. Floral embroidery trimmed the Empire lines.

The maid of honor appeared in gold faille, the bridesmaids in brown.

Janis' dress was of ivory sata peau with lace trim. The lantern sleeves and Empire waist were edged with lace as was chapel-length train. The bride made her own headpiece, a bonnet of sata peau and lace and tied under the chin.

Dyane O. Gors of Chicago was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janis' three sisters — Mrs. Marcia Bowen and Patty and Carolyn Jacoby; also Ellen Egebergh, the groom's sister.

David Egebergh of Chicago was his brother's best man. Ushers included Mark Jacoby, brother of the bride; Gregory Neylon, Urbana; Conrad Clark and Stephen Meyer, both of Chicago.

A RECEPTION for 120 guests followed at the Brass Rail in Arlington Heights.

The newlyweds honeymooned for two weeks on the island of Barbados and are now back living in Chicago.

A '68 graduate of Arlington High School and '71 graduate of James Thorne School of Nursing at Passavant Hospital, Chicago, Janis worked at Passavant for one year.

Her husband attended Western Illinois University and Midwestern College in Iowa and is associated with his father in real estate in Chicago.

Married During Army Leave

Kenneth Raymond Wade had to talk fast to get the army to give him a thirty-day leave to come home to marry Gail Diane Wheeler of Palatine.

The bridegroom, a specialist four, is the son of Frederik Wade of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Helen Roberts of Trevor, Wis. His bride's parents are the Roger Wheelers of Palatine.

The couple were married Nov. 4 in a candlelight ceremony in Cumberland Baptist Church, Mount Prospect, with a reception following in the church hall.

CYNTHIA WHEELER was her sister's maid of honor, while two younger sisters, Janet and Judi, served as candlelighters.

Robert Huey, Rolling Meadows, was best man and John Lutsch, Crystal Lake, and Yorgen Nor, Richmond, ushered.

After a short honeymoon in northern Wisconsin, the newlyweds left for Darmstad, Germany, where the bridegroom has eleven more months of military service.

Christmas Seals

Christmas seals belong on the reverse side of the envelope, according to the Post Office. This avoids conflict with the postage stamp on the face of the envelope. (UPI)

Party For Kiwi Kids

Area members of the Chicago Kiwi Club will be traveling to Oak Park with their children Sunday, Dec. 10, for the club's annual Christmas Party for Kiwi Kids. The party will be held in the Oak Park Club from 2 to 5 p.m. with Santa Claus, cookies, punch and a puppet show.

Mrs. Robert Fridlund, Elk Grove Village, 369-7699, has further information on the party.

Sharon Elmore Becomes Thomas Buhrke's Bride

A 5 p.m. candlelight ceremony in St. Paul Lutheran Church of Mount Prospect Nov. 4 united in marriage Sharon Ann Elmore and Thomas Walter Buhrke.

Sharon Ann is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Elmore of 618 N. Prospect Manor, Mount Prospect, and Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Buhrke of 209 N. Fairview in the same village.

For her wedding the bride wore an A-line dress of satin with cathedral train. Its jewel neckline and long sleeves were of reembroidered lace. A Juliet cap of the same lace trimmed with pearls held her three-tiered elbow-length veil of illusion. She carried a nosegay of bachelor buttons, pink bridal roses, miniature white carnations and baby's breath.

Cindy Straub of Mount Prospect was Sharon Ann's maid of honor and two other Mount Prospect friends, Barbara Jenko and Danielle Straub, were her bridesmaids.

ALL THREE attendants wore long-sleeved crepe gowns with vest type bodice. The tops were orchid and the A-line skirts were purple. They carried nosegays of blue bachelor buttons, white miniature carnations and baby's breath.

James Brady of Arlington Heights served as best man, and Joe Santucci of Arlington Heights and Donald J. Elmore, the bride's brother, of Mount Prospect, were the ushers.

The 100 guests attended a reception at Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect after the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buhrke

The couple honeymooned at Pheasant Run near St. Charles.

Both graduated from Prospect High School, Thomas in 1970 and Sharon Ann in 1971. The bridegroom works for Arlington Oil Company in Park Ridge.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

A holiday bazaar will take the place of the next regular meeting of the Republican Women's Organization of Elk Grove Township.

The women are inviting guests to the affair, to be held Wednesday, Dec. 6, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Road. Admission will be by one or more handcraft items or baked goods.

A special attraction is a candle making demonstration by Mrs. Ray Berg.

Mrs. Donald Sharp can be called at 253-5247 for details.

HOFFMAN ESTATES

The Episcopal Church Women of the Church of the Holy Innocents, 238 Illinois Blvd., will host their annual holiday bazaar on Saturday, Dec. 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the church undercroft.

The bazaar includes 18 participating church and civic organizations offering a variety of handcrafted items. Children can purchase gifts reasonably in the Lilliput Shop and afterwards see a movie while mothers browse.

There will be a salad bar luncheon from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and cookies, milk and coffee will be served throughout the day.

Mrs. Harriet McGeath is in charge of the event.

SCHAUMBURG

St. Marcelline Council of Catholic Women will hold a holiday bazaar Saturday, Dec. 9, noon to 9 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 10, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., in the church social center, 820 Springingsguth Road.

Items made by the churchwomen will be displayed in nine booths featuring Sesame Street toys, needlecraft, children's gifts, games, ornaments, decorations, candles and a country store.

Personalized gingerbread cookies will also be sold, along with a variety of baked goods.

SCHAUMBURG

The second annual Christmas boutique sponsored by Sheffield Towne Women's Club is Saturday, Dec. 9, from noon to 6 p.m. in the clubhouse, 1001 Walnut Lane.

Children's wear, hostess gowns, toys and holiday decorations will be featured. Home-baked goods and canned goods will also be sold.

DURING AN OPEN HOUSE at the new Prospect Heights Library Dec 9 Prospect Heights Woman's Club will be selling handmade Christmas boutique gift items such as the candleholder admired by Mrs. Robert Wroble, standing, and Mrs. Robert Houston, membership chairman. Sale hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and there will be complimentary refreshments. Sale items were made by the club art group, under Mrs. Wroble's leadership.

"THE CHRISTMAS WAGON" is pulling a load of goodies for next Wednesday morning's brunch, boutique and bake sale at St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. Sponsored by the local Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club, it is "pulled" by Mrs. Jane Nelson and Mrs. Gloria Van Dyke. Brunch will be served all morning from 9:30 to noon; tickets at $1 for adults, 50 cents, children. They are sold by Mrs. D. McDonald, 253-4066, or can be purchased at the door. There will be no babysitting. The sale includes cookbooks, handcrafted gifts and baked goods.

Phony Price Tags

Watch out for phony price tags when doing your Christmas shopping. The same for retailers who continually claim they are selling things at wholesale prices. In both cases there is one price that appears to have been slashed — giving you the impression that you are getting a huge bargain.

The Better Business Bureau says don't believe retailers who continually make such claims. What's phony about the price tag before it's slashed? The price. Usually it's been hiked a lot for your benefit so the real price — much less — would seem like a bargain too great to pass up. (UPI)

Headstart Given Shoes By Phi Mu

Northwest Suburban Chapter of Ph Mu Alumnae recently donated several pair of shoes to youngsters connected with Project Headstart.

The shoes were purchased with proceeds from a postmark auction held earlier in the fall. Youthful Shoes, in the Randhurst Shopping Center, aided the group by providing shoes at a reduced price.

Heading up the "Shoes for Headstart" effort was Mrs. Larry L. Underwood, Mount Prospect, the group's social service chairman.

Project Headstart is Northwest Suburban's local philanthropic project. In addition, the group joins with other Phi Mu alumnae and collegiate chapters on a nationwide level to support the hospital ship HOPE.

Cambridge Luncheon

Cambridge Countryside Women's Club will hold its annual Christmas luncheon Wednesday at the Millionaire's Club in the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.

The affair will include decorating a Christmas tree to be given to the Clearbrook Center for Retarded.

Hostesses for the 12:30 luncheon are Vicki Troch, Audrey Driscoll and Johnnie Franke. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Ross Bowen, club president, 537-5938.

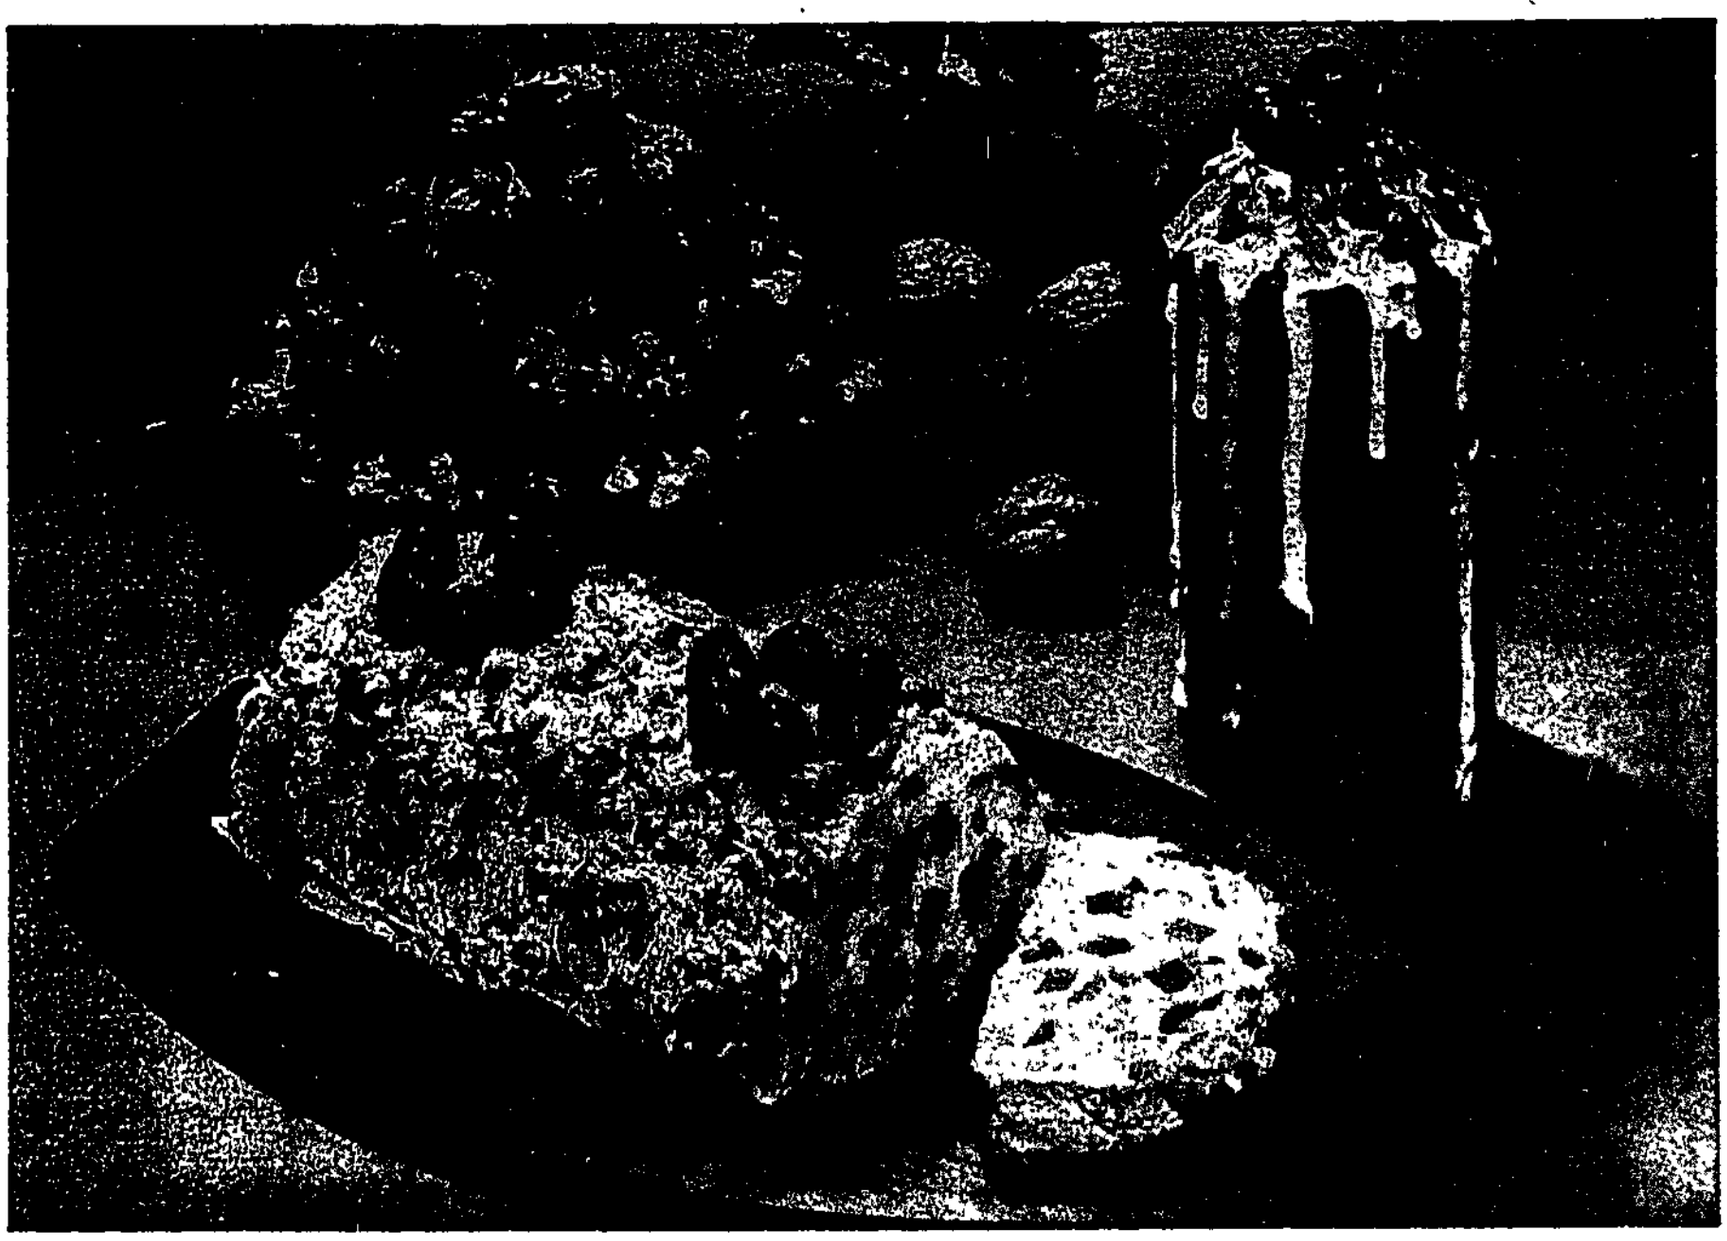
AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD



Bake A Holiday Treasure!

Holiday festivities suffer without fruitcake cookery — gone would be the bustle of chopping, measuring, mixing and finally, the fragrant spicy scents wafting from the kitchen. Cooks of yesteryear, who spent days of preparing candied fruits, nuts, raisins, spices and spirits, would marvel at the ease with which today's homemakers do preliminary tasks before actual baking. Pre-packaged and canned items save on time and energy.

The American fruitcake is a many splendored thing; variations and methods would astound the British whose taste traditionally is limited to the dark fruitcake. Today there is a selection of procedures, flavors, shapes and sizes to pick from as shown in the following variety of fruitcakes.

The type of fruitcake one favors is a personal affair, subject to taste fancy, time needed for preparation, and purpose, be it for gifting, entertaining or family nibbling. Choose one starting from scratch, a quicker modified version with a cake mix base, or a no-bake kind. Or better yet, try more than one.

CONFECTION FRUITCAKE BALLS

½ cup butter
½ cup honey
1 cup finely chopped mixed candied fruits and peels
1 cup chopped pitted dates
½ cup chopped seeded raisins
½ cup finely chopped candied pineapple
½ cup finely chopped candied cherries
1 cup California walnuts, chopped medium-fine
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon cloves
3½ cups finely crushed graham cracker crumbs

Cream butter; beat in honey until fluffy. Add all remaining ingredients, except crumbs. Mix together well. Let stand covered several hours or overnight. Mix crumbs in well. Shape into small balls. Store tightly covered in refrigerator with waxed paper between layers. Makes four dozen, 1½-inch balls. Mixture measures about 4½ cups and weighs about 2 pounds, 15½ ounces.

Note: Balls may be rolled in finely chopped California walnuts, powdered sugar, flaked coconut; or, dipped in melted semi-sweet or milk chocolate. Mixture may be packed firmly into wax paper lined 4x9-inch loaf pan; cover and refrigerate 24 hours before slicing with thin-bladed, sharp knife.

FROZEN FRUITCAKE

1¼ cups California walnuts
1 cup milk
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon allspice
⅛ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
¾ cup diced mixed candied fruits
¼ cup quartered candied cherries
¾ cup whipping cream
Candied cherries for decoration

Chop walnuts medium fine; set aside. Scald milk. Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir into hot milk; cook over moderate heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir slowly into egg. Return to very low heat; cook a minute longer, stirring briskly. Remove from heat; stir in spices and vanilla. Cool. Stir in wafer crumbs, candied fruits and ¾ cup walnuts. Whip cream and fold in. Turn into 1-quart mold. Freeze until firm. Unmold; sprinkle with remaining ½ cup walnuts. Decorate with candied cherries. Cut into slices to serve. Makes eight servings.

KITCHEN TIPS FOR BAKED FRUITCAKES

- grease pan for a large cake, then line with cooking parchment or greased heavy brown paper to keep crust from becoming too dark and heavy. Non-stick pans can also be lined. Pans for smaller or muffin size cakes need greasing only.
- position cake below center of oven and regardless of shape and size, be watchful of oven time.
- a shallow pan of hot water on lowest oven shelf keeps cake moist and crust lighter during baking.
- cake is done when center remains firm or springs back while pressed lightly with fingertip. Toothpick test is not always accurate for fruits stick to the toothpick even though batter is cooked.
- trim with additional candied fruit and California walnut halves dipped in corn syrup for hold and shine. Seal in foil or plastic warp, shaping to keep out air and moisture.
- aging fruitcake makes for neater cut slices, melds all the delicate flavors and gives the fruits time to impart their moisture into the batter. Storage depends on type: a rich-in-fruit cake should be aged for a month or more whereas a quick fruitcake is better after 48 hours.

FRUITCAKE TOWERS

1 1 pound, 3½-ounce package Spice 'n Apple cake mix
¾ cup boiling water
3 cups California walnuts
1½ cups raisins
2½ cups mixed candied fruits and peels
1 cup candied cherries
1 3½-ounce can flaked coconut
½ cup butter, softened
4 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons brandy or orange juice
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour

Beat cake mix with water; let stand 30 to 40 minutes. Chop walnuts, raisins and mixed fruits; halve cherries. Combine with coconut. Add remaining ingredients to cake mix. Beat 4 minutes at medium speed, scraping bowl frequently. Stir in fruit mixture and walnuts. Spoon batter into greased and lined pans or cans*, filling about ¾ full. Bake at 300 degrees about 2 hours or until cake tests done. Cool, then remove cakes from pans; wrap in foil and store in a cool place. Makes two 32-ounce cans and one 3½x7¼x2-inch loaf. Batter measures about 9½ cups and weighs about 5 pounds, 4 ounces.
*32-ounce juice cans were used for cakes shown in photograph.

Note: May use caramel apple cake mix or spice cake mix — most any of spicy mixes. Package weight may vary slightly but product will be good. Beating cake mix with water and letting stand removes some of leavening which is not needed in fruitcakes. Top of cake may be drizzled with powdered sugar mixed with water to thick paste.

SPICY WALNUT FRUITCAKE

1 cup California walnuts
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup pitted dates
⅔ cup currants
½ cup sliced dried apricots
½ cup halved candied cherries
¼ cup chopped candied orange peel
¼ cup chopped candied lemon peel
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon mace
¼teaspoon ginger
2 large eggs, beaten
⅛ teaspoon soda
¼ cup golden molasses
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour

Coarsely chop walnuts, raisins and dates; rinse and drain currants. Combine well with remaining fruits and peels. Cream butter, sugar, salt and spices until fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add soda, molasses and flour; mix to moderately stiff batter. Combine with walnut-fruit mixture. Pack batter into 6-cup mold or pan. Bake at 275 degrees about 2½ hours until cake tests done. Cool, then remove from pan; wrap in foil and store in a cool place. Makes one cake. Batter measures about 5½ cups and weights about 2 pounds, 10 ounces.

Note: Cake can be baked in any pan or mold (fill ¾ full); may be eaten after 48 hours storing.

New O'Hare Tower Hotel To Feature Ethnic Cuisine

EXECUTIVE CHEF Denis Ellis has been testing foods for the ethnic restaurants which will be opening at the new International Tower hotel, located in O'Hare Airport. Ploska Vica is an offering from the Balkan Grill.

by FRAN HECKART

A bowl of hearty Serbian bean soup and the delightful luncheon company of Louis Nye turned up a combination of excellent fare and lively conversation recently.

Louis Nye was appearing at Arlington Park Theater and because of his appreciation of fine food, was called upon to participate in a taste-testing for a few dishes which will be available in restaurants of the new O'Hare International Tower. The luxury hotel, scheduled to open mid-December, is located within the airport complex immediately across from the passenger terminal buildings.

The Serbian bean soup, a blend of shredded cabbage, beans and tomatoes, will be found on the menus of the Balkan Grill; one of the seven different restaurants in the International Tower, according to the new executive chef Denis Ellis.

The Balkan Grill will feature a menu typifying the fare of eastern and middle Europe. Kabob cookery, including beef-oriented shashlic, will be the highlight, together with a great deal of savory usage of grilled pork, veal and a variety of sausage.

The kebab approach will be used both for main meal entrees and for appetizer service.

Ellis had prepared a sampling of Pleska Vica, a flat ground beef patty with various seasoning for the recent luncheon entree. Accompaniments for the Balkin Grill main dish included Oriental Rice flecked with pine nuts and a cheese-topped broiled tomato half.

Ellis also prepared an Athenian green salad complete with Feta cheese and imported Greek olives. The salad will be included on the International Dining Room menu which will also feature a special entree from a different country everyday.

LOUIS NYE LENDS his tossing skills to Denis Ellis' cheese, the salad will be offered on the menu of Athenian salad. Sparked with imported Greek olives, a well-seasoned oil dressing and Feta the new International Dining Room.

A classic cream caramel appeared for dessert. The traditional cream custard with caramel sauce will also be served in the International Dining Room.

Ellis has been testing about five recipes a day for the last two months in an attempt to coordinate the operation of restaurants of the new Tower complex.

In addition to the Balkan Grill, three other ethnic dining rooms will be opening. The European-style restaurants will include the Crown Pub, Swiss Hutte, and Le Monde, a French bistro as well as the Balkan room. Japanese cuisine will be served in elaborate far eastern surroundings.

An all American coffee shop and the International restaurant will also be in operation.

LE MONDE, THE French bistro, will offer the classic French Onion Soup and sandwiches like Croque Monsieur (slices of Swiss cheese and breast of chicken).

The Crown Pub will be designed to reflect the growing U. S. trend towards British pubs. The fast-serve, limited menu operation will feature a menu format of two soups (English Steak Soup and Cheddar Cheese Soup), potato salad and sandwiches.

Swiss and German style cuisine will be offered in the Swiss Hutte. This is an uptempo U.S. take-off on a true Swiss delicatessen. The main menu achievement will be based on a wide variety of cheeses, including Brie, Muenster, Provolone and Austrian Rahm Caesse.

Continental Cheese plates will also be featured. Other cheese achievements such as Swss Fondue Bourguignon and Quiche Lorraine will also be available.

The overwhelming task of managing the Ethnic operations has shed a new light on Ellis' position as chef. Besides directing all of the recipe testing, he has become a businessman, manager, mother and father; as well as chef for the immense operations.

There are weights and servings to be determined on a cost per portion basis. Pictures must be taken so the ethnic chefs will know where a food should be placed on the serving plate. All of the equipment must be in working order and managed efficiently. Ordering proper quantities of food is one more of Ellis' responsibilities.

"IT'S JUST NOT true that a chef's job is dull if you aren't cooking," said Ellis as he discussed his varying responsibilities. "You can make the job more interesting by experimenting with new dishes all of the time."

Having worked in hotels in Canada, Boston, Houston and Nassau, to mention a few, this is the chef's first experience in the Midwest. Ellis plans to take advantage of the area's abundance of fresh vegetables in all of his operations.

He also feels that the International Tower is a prime target area for the ethnic menus. With the large numbers of ethnic people passing through, it is only logical to cater to them, said Ellis.

Amid all the preparations for next month's opening Ellis admitted that one of the biggest problems would be orientation of the help. In a totally new kitchen, it takes time to get organized as no one knows where equipment will be kept or exactly how it operates

Although much of the food will be prepared in a main kitchen, each restaurant will have a fully staffed and equipped kitchen of its own. And although Ellis has his own office, chances are, when the big day arrives and for sometime after, he can be found hopping from kitchen to kitchen in any one of the many roles as executive chef.

ENTERTAINER LOUIS Nye's natural wit added a touch of color to a recent taste-testing luncheon held in Arlington Park Towers Hotel. Complete with chef's attire Nye expounds on the pleasurable pastime of eating well-prepared and flavored food.

Mrs. Richard David

She Bakes Gingerbread People

by LOIS SEILER

A variety of gingerbread boys and girls, festively decorated, add merriment to the Christmas season at the Richard C. David home in Arlington Heights.

Connie David bakes dozens of these cookies for her children, Carol, 10; Richard, 8; Michael, 6; and Debra, 4. They help decorate the cookies, and eat them almost as quickly as they are made!

"I tried several gingerbread cookie recipes but never liked any until I found this one about three years ago," Connie said. "Grated orange peel enhances the flavor of the cinnamon, ginger and cloves which give these cookies their spicy taste.

Her children also like to make "hand" cookies from this recipe, that is tracing around their hands on the rolled-out dough. It matters little how much the dough is handled; the cookies are always crispy and never tough.

Connie uses large and small gingerbread cutters, and after the cookies are baked she and her helpers decorate them with icing making skirts on the girls, pants on the boys, facial features, hair, etc. "You can use your imagination and decorate them almost any way you wish," she said.

Although this good cook likes to please her children with holiday treats, she is also conscious of good nutrition and stresses vegetables in her daily meals. She grows her own vegetables during the summer months and freezes quantites to use during the winter. Even zucchini can be frozen successfully with Connie's recipe.

She prepares this popular squash according to an authentic Italian method which has been handed down in her family for generations. It is simmered with onions in a tomato sauce seasoned with garlic powder and basil. "The zucchini can be served with elbow macaroni as a whole meal or with a meat," Connie said.

Another specialty of hers is a low calorie beef burgundy that is easy yet elegant dinner fare. "There's no need for family meals to be humdrum when you can serve a dish such as this with little effort," she remarked, "and it is nice enough for guests."

Cubed beef is baked in an ample amount of burgundy wine that both flavors and tenderizes the meat. It is served over buttered noodles or rice.

As accompaniments Connie suggests a green vegetable such as broccoli, crescent rolls and tossed salad. It is a favorite meal of her husband Rick, and their children.

For dessert she recommends an old fashioned rice pudding that is astonishingly simple to prepare. The rice need not be pre-cooked; it is simply baked with milk and sugar for three hours. A dash of nutmeg adds flavor. This is a firm pudding, full of nourishing goodness, and may be served plain or with milk or cream.

In addition to cooking and gardening, Connie's interests include flower arranging, crocheting, crewel work and playing the piano.

GINGER COOKIE BOYS

1 cup butter or margarine
1½ cups granulated sugar
1 egg
4 teaspoons grated orange peel
2 tablespoons dark corn syrup
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon salt

Thoroughly cream together butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy. Add orange peel and corn syrup. Mix well.

Sift dry ingredients together and mix into creamed mixture. Chill dough thoroughly.

On lightly-floured surface, roll dough to ¼-inch thickness. Cut with gingerbread man cookie cutter. Place one inch apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool one minute before removing from pan. Cool thoroughly. Decorate with icing and raisins, if desired. Makes 2 dozen large cookies.

ZUCCHINI

4 to 5 medium zucchini
1 medium onion, thinly-sliced
2 tablespoons oil
¼ teaspoon basil
Dash of garlic powder
Few grains pepper
1 small can (8 ounces) tomato sauce

Scrape skins of zucchini and cube.

Saute onion in oil about five minutes or until tender. Add seasonings and cubed zucchini; saute, stirring, for a few minutes. Stir in tomato sauce, cover and simmer slowly until tender.

BEEF BURGUNDY

2 tablespoons olive oil
2 pounds boneless beef chuck, cubed
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
2 cups Burgundy wine
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper

Heat oil in a large skillet. Add beef cubes and cook over moderate heat until lightly browned. Remove meat to a two quart casserole.

Add onion to the skillet and cook about five minutes until tender. Add remaining ingredients and bring to a boil, stirring to loosen any meat particles. Pour over meat in casserole. Cover and bake at 350 degrees until meat is very tender, about three hours. Check during baking time; if necessary, add a little more water to keep meat from sticking. Serve over buttered noodles or rice. Serves 4.

OLD FASHIONED RICE PUDDING

4 cups milk
½ cup sugar
1/3 cup raw regular white rice
1 tablespoon grated orange peel (optional)
Dash of nutmeg

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. In a 1½-quart casserole, combine milk, sugar and rice. Orange peel may be added, if desired. Mix ingredients well. Sprinkle top with nutmeg.

Bake, uncovered, for three hours. It is important to stir the pudding three times during the first hour. Stir two more times during the next two hours.

Remove from oven and let stand two hours before serving. Pudding will become thicker. Refrigerate if you prefer a cold pudding. Serve plain or with milk or cream. Serves 6.

Stretch Dollars While Pleasing The Taste Buds

Stretching meat dishes while pleasing the taste buds is possible. One way is to cook up a lean brisket of corned beef. And you may want to try it in a see-through cooking wrap. Such a cut serves as the basis for a family meal or one with several friends. The left-overs make excellent cold sandwiches for those who brown-bag it (take their lunches) to work or to school. Those who are dieting will find approximately 316 calories in a three-ounce or diet serving. With this, serve low-calorie carrots and broccoli and possibly a salad with lemon juice or a dash of vinegar rather than a high calorie dressing.

GLAZED BRISKET OF CORNED BEEF

3½ pound corned beef brisket
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon mustard
¼ cup orange marmalade
1 onion, peeled and sliced
1 clove garlic, minced

Dust a tablespoon of flour on see-through wrap. Place corned beef, fat side up, on wrap. Combine brown sugar, mustard and marmalade and place on surface of meat. Place sliced onion and garlic around meat. Double fold see-through reveal wrap over corned beef and twist metalized foil edges tighly at either end. Place in baking pan at least 2½-inches deep. Pierce top of wrap several times with a fork. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven for 2 hours 15 minutes. Remove from oven and allow to stand 10 minutes before slicing. Makes 6 servings.

If You Care for Him, Care for Your Skin

The man in your life loves you, and you know it. But he may not show it, as life settles into a routine. Then you may not care for your skin properly, and so begin to look older. And your man thinks you don't care for him as you once did.

A unique beauty blend was created by beauty researchers for women like you, to help reawaken a more youthful skin appearance, easing away dryness that accents the lines and wrinkles that make you look older. Younger-looking women round the world have long known the benefits of this precious fluid. Now share their secret.

The secret of Oil of Olay moisturizing lotion. Your skin soon grows smoother and softer with regular use of Oil Of Olay. Suppleness and resiliency begin to return.

The blend of tropical moisturizing oils, natural moisture and other emollients helps retain your skin's own fluids and works with nature to maintain the oil-moisture balance needed for younger looking skin. You will find Oil of Olay® (and the genesis of a more youthful look) at your drugstore.

Hanukkah

Festival Of Lights And Latkes

How did potato pancakes or latkes come to be associated with Hanukkah? Perhaps the homemakers of Maccabeean days served a type of griddle cake to their heroic husbands. Or, another possibility is that latkes are fried in oil to remind us of the substance of the miracle of Hanukkah.

Hanukkah is a favorite holiday with young and old, marking the spiritual aspects of the Maccabee victory over the Syrians in 165 B.C.E. (Before Common Era).

It concerns the legend of the child who found the precious cruse of consecrated oil for use in the Temple after the Syrians were routed. There was only enough oil for one day but miraculously it burned for eight days — long enough for the preparation of a new supply of oil. The eternally-burning light of the Temple symbolized the light of learning, helping to drive away spiritual darkness and evil.

Over the years, generations of parents have delighted their children with Hanukkah gelt (money) or gifts after lighting candles in tribute to the child who found the miraculous cruse of oil.

However each festival really starts in the kitchen with preparation of the traditional recipes plus the special touches each cook adds for her family and guests.

This Hanukkah, make the occasion memorable by adding a little extra to a traditional dinner of a handsome rib roast and the feather-light, crisp, potato latkes. Ac'cent, certified kosher, wakes up and helps retain natural flavors of foods. Shake it generously over the beef before roasting and add it to your latke mixture.

POTATO LATKES

1½ pounds potatoes (4 medium), pared
1 small onion, grated
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons potato starch
½ teaspoon Ac'cent
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
3 tablespoons salad oil

Grate potatoes on coarse or medium grater; drain well. Stir in onion. Add slightly beaten eggs. Sprinkle with potato starch, Ac'cent, salt and nutmeg; mix well. Heat oil in skillet over medium heat. Drop potato mixture by rounded tablespoonfuls into skillet. Spread into flat cakes. Fry until golden brown on the bottom side. Turn and brown the other side. Serve with Orange Applesauce. Yield: 12 pancakes.

Orange Applesauce

Mix together 1 can (1 pound) applesauce and ¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted.

RIB ROAST OF BEEF

5 to 7 pounds standing or rolled rib roast
1 tablespoon Ac'cent
Salt and pepper

If standing rib roast, stand on rib bones in shallow open pan. If rolled rib roast, place on rack with fat side up. Sprinkle meat with Ac'cent. Insert meat thermometer. Make sure pointed end of thermometer does not rest on bone, fat or gristle. Roast in 325 degree oven as follows. For standing rib roast: rare, 22 minutes per pound (internal temperature 140 degrees); medium, 25 minutes per pound (internal temperature 160 degrees); well done, 30 minutes per pound (internal temperature 170 degrees). For rolled rib roast: rare, 30 minutes per pound (internal temperature 140 degrees); medium, 35 minutes per pound (internal temperature 160 degrees); well done, 40 minutes per pound (internal temperature 170 degrees.)

Yield: Allow 1/3 to ½ pound bone-in roast per serving, or ¼ pound boned roast per serving.

Franfare

Turkeys will continue to be good buys for consumers in December, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Turkeys will be featured on USDA's Plentiful Foods List next month. Other foods on the list are broiler-fryers, eggs, fresh cranberries, cranberry sauce, applesauce, fresh oranges, tangelos, tangerines, and dry beans.

New-crop turkey marketings are estimated to be eight per cent greater than in December, 1971, and cold storage holdings for December will probably top last year's total.

Broiler-fryer production is forecast at about five per cent more than a year ago.

Although egg production is expected to be slightly below last year's high level, eggs will continue to be in ample supply. And turkeys, broiler-fryers, and eggs remain economical sources of protein.

SORBITOL, A CLEAR faintly sweet liquid found naturally in various fruits and berries, will be permitted in frankfurters and knockwurst beginning Dec. 10.

The additive may be used in place of corn syrup. It effectively flavors these cooked sausage products, facilitates removal of their casings, and reduces the charring that often occurs during cooking in direct contact with metal surfaces, officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said.

Reduced charring is helpful at lunch counters where hot dogs are grilled on roller bars.

The change in Federal meat inspection regulations will limit sorbitol to two per cent of the sausage formula in products labeled "frankfurter," "frank," "furter" and "knockwurst."

The Food and Drug Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has declared sorbitol to be safe for the use that was proposed. Sorbitol is already widely used in candies, shredded sweetened coconut, and certain pharmaceuticals such as vitamin supplements.

Copies of the amendment, which was published in the Federal Register Nov. 9 are available from APHIS, Room 4342-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

By January 1, 1973, the entire Post cereal line will carry open date labels on its packages.

The Post Division of General Foods Corporation is the first major cereal manufacturer to announce the use of open date labeling on its entire cereal line.

Last May, packages of Post Bran Flakes were the first to come off the packaging line with words, "best when used by this date" with an arrow pointing to a stamped month, day and year on the top flap. The date stamped on the boxes does not represent a day when the product inside has gone stale. Instead, the label tells consumers that if they use the product by the date stamped on top, they'll be sure of getting consistent high quality in the cereal.

Consumer Hints

Packaged precooked rice is long-grained, white rice that has been cooked and dried. It takes less preparation time than regular white rice . . . but it costs more.

Create a delightful cranberry fruit medley for the holidays. Mix coarsely chopped fresh cranberries and cored chopped apples with diced bananas and sweeten to taste with powdered sugar. Refrigerate several hours to allow flavors to mingle.

Canned fruit will retain its quality up to a year from the date of purchase. Be sure to check cans for rust or dents which could cause perforations and break the seal.

Bake A Holiday Greeting

When you want to send a holiday greeting which is a little more important than a card, yet not a real "present," why not a charming loaf of Vanilla White Fruit Cake? You can get two 8-inch cakes or seven small loaves, each weighing a pound, from the recipe which follows. Why not make these in the less busy days of November or early December, wrap them tightly in foil or enclose in a plastic bag. You can even gift-wrap and package those which must be mailed.

Pure vanilla extract is an ideal flavoring for fruit cake because it steps up the deliciousness of the dried fruits and nuts and, of course, is delightful in its own right and doesn't "bake out" during its long stay in the oven.

This fruit cake is rich enough that it won't dry out quickly if properly wrapped, but, if you want to moisten it during storage, use a fruit-flavored liqueur and a pleasing amount of pure vanilla extract.

A few fruit cake success hints may come in handy.

Use a couple of spoonfuls of the total flour, sprinkling it over the chopped fruit. This lessens the stickiness and makes it easier to stir into the batter.

Bake in a low oven, either 275 or 300 degrees with a pan of hot water in the oven under the cake pans. These temperatures are right for almost all sizes and shapes of fruit cakes. Obviously, the little cakes will be done in a shorter time than the large ones.

If you prefer a lightly fruited pound cake type, do try the alternate recipe, Vanilla Pound Fruit Cake. It should keep two weeks — if you hide it.

VANILLA WHITE FRUIT CAKE

1 pound candied cherries
1 pound candied pineapple
1 pound nuts
1 pound butter or margarine, softened
1 pound confectioners' sugar
12 eggs, separated
1 pound (3½ cups) all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup pure vanilla extract
½ cup orange juice

Dice fruits and coarsely chop nuts; set aside. In a large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and blend well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add to fruit-nut mixture; toss to coat. Add to butter mixture; blend with wooden spoon. Gradually stir in vanilla extract and orange juice. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Turn batter into 2 well greased 8-inch tube pans, lined on the bottom with waxed or heavy brown paper.

Bake in a preheated very slow oven (275 degrees) 2 hours 15 minutes or until a cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Place a pan of hot water on rack underneath cake during baking period. If desired, turn batter into seven well greased and lined 4½x2½-inch loaf pans. Bake in a preheated very slow oven (275 degrees) for 1 hour or until a cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool cakes in pan on rack ½ hour. Remove from pans; peel off paper and cool completely.

Yield: 2 8-inch cakes or 7 4-inch loaves (makes 7½ pounds of fruit cake.)

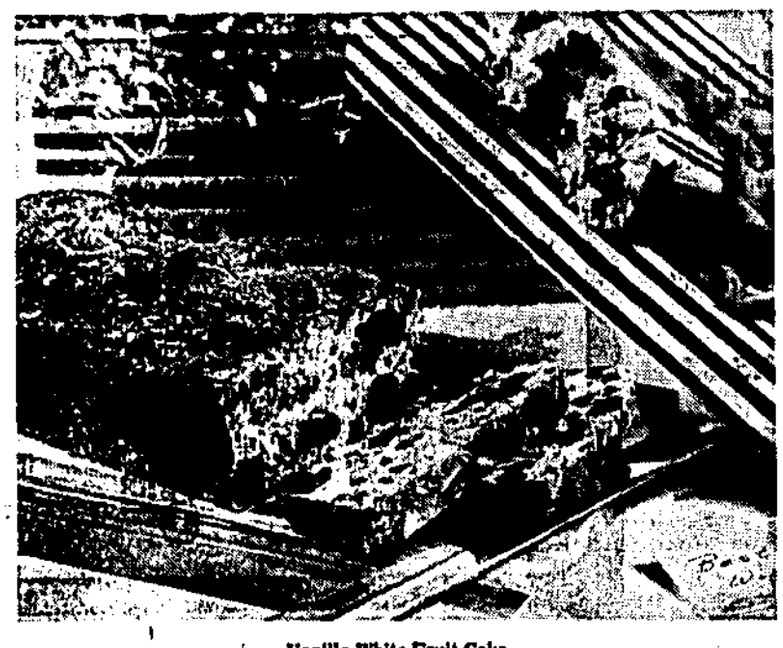
VANILLA POUND FRUIT CAKE

1 cup golden seedless raisins
¾ cup candied green and red cherries, diced
½ cup candied pineapple, diced
½ cup chopped pitted dates
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
4 cups all-purpose flour, divided
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 cups butter or margarine
2 cups sugar, divided
12 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon salt

Combine the fruits and nuts with ¼ cup of the flour mixed with cream of tartar; toss lightly and set aside. In a large mixing bowl cream butter with ½ cup of the sugar. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in vanilla extract, orange peel and nutmeg; set aside. In another large mixing bowl beat egg whites and salt until soft peaks form. Gradually add remaining 1½ cups of sugar; beat until stiff.

Thoroughly fold ¼ of the beaten egg whites into butter mixture. Then pour mixture over remaining egg whites. Fold in reserved fruit mixture. Fold in remaining flour a little at a time. Turn batter into two well buttered and lightly floured 9-inch tube pans. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour and 10 minutes or until a cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pans on racks for 10 minutes. Remove from pans and cool completely.

Yield: 2 9-inch cakes (makes 6 pounds of fruit cake).



Vanilla White Fruit Cake

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

Many Russian dishes which I have prepared have resulted in coarse, heavy products not to my liking, thus I was delighted to find this one for a cheese pastry which is a taste-tempting and delightful appetizer.

In fact, it's a little more than an ordinary appetizer because the calorie count reaches quite high. However, I think you'll like it.

Cut ½ pound of butter into 2 cups flour. Add 2 tablespoons of sour cream and work together. Roll into a ball, wrap in wax paper and chill in the refrigerator until firm.

Flour a board and roll out the dough to thickness of about 1/8-inch, then cut into 1½-inch circles. A cookie cutter serves this purpose nicely.

Pinch each circle into a cup shape and place on pastry cups or small muffin tins. I prefer the tins because the crust browns more evenly.

For the filling, combine 1 cup sour cream with 2 beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, and 2 large (8-ounce) packages of cream cheese which have been allowed to soften.

Mix thoroughly. Fill each pastry crust with 2 teaspoons of the mixture. Preheat the oven to 375 or 400 degrees and bake for about 25 minutes or until the filling, which will puff up, is lightly browned. Serve hot. Recipe makes 3 dozen pastries about 2 inches in diameter.

In answer to numerous questions, butter, margarine, or bacon drippings should not be used in deep frying. When these fats reach a temperature of 350 degrees they break down and scorch, discoloring whatever is being fried.

For the deep-fry method use shortening, salad oil, or improved lard all of which will not break down in high heat.

Do you have a favorite appetizer recipe, or a question about food?

Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope.

Holiday Happiness With Diamond-Bright Fruit Cake

All the goodness of California walnuts and dried fruits is caught up in a single cake that sparkles with the jewel tones of a child's kaleidescope.

The accompanying recipe makes one 9-inch square cake. Or, you may double the recipe, and bake it in graduated pans (about 4½-inches, 6-inches and 9-inchs square) to match the photograph. Save the sugar syrup used to candy the dried apricots and glaze your baked cake with it.

The fruits and walnuts are left whole to delight the eye and palate. Omitting the usual step of soaking and chopping, provides you with an added bonus of precious minutes saved.

DIAMOND-BRIGHT FRUIT CAKE

¾ cup dried apricots
¾ cup water
1½ cups granulated sugar
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup pitted ready-to-eat prunes
¾ cup pitted fresh dates
¾ cup candied cherries
3 cups California walnut halves and large pieces
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Simmer apricots in water five minutes. Add ¾ cup sugar and cook slowly 10 minutes longer, until apricots are transparent and glazed. Lift out of syrup with a fork, and drain well on a wire rack. Save syrup to glaze cake. Resift flour with remaining ¾ cup sugar, baking powder and salt. Combine prunes, dates, cherries, walnuts and apricots. Add sifted dry mixture, and mix gently. Beat eggs with vanilla. Add to fruit mixture and mix carefully to avoid breaking up fruit. Turn into greased 9-inch square pan. Bake at 300 degrees about 1½ hours, until cake is set in center. Cool in pan. When cake is cold, turn out, and brush with heated syrup from glazing apricots. Makes one 9-inch square cake.

Note: Or recipe may be doubled and baked in graduated pans (about 4½ inches, 6-inches and 9-inches square).

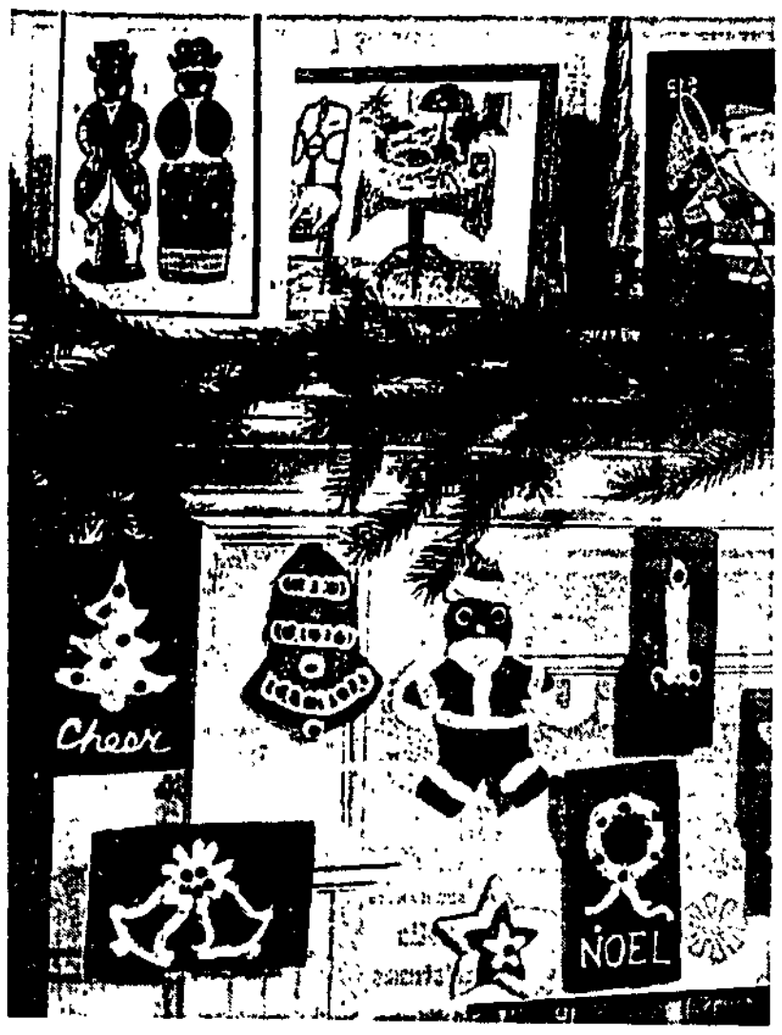
Edible Christmas Cards:

Easy To Bake, Fun To Eat

Molasses cookies are one of the most traditional of holiday treats. The fragrant sweetness of molasses gives cookies that very special flavor that is associated with the Christmas celebration.

To make the baking — and the eating — more fun, here is a recipe for totally edible Christmas cards. The molasses cookie dough is simple to assemble. There's a slight chilling period that firms up the dough so that it is easy to cut. The dough can be rolled out in a rectangular sheet and marked for the card shapes — or cut as gingerbread boys, stars and bells. In fact, this dough takes kindly to even young hands dealing with cookie making for the first time as it can be rolled and cut — or re-cut — without fear of a cookie failure.



COOKIES AND cards decorate at Christmas. Let Christmas cards and cookies give a decorative touch to the living room mantel or book shelf this holiday season. Just as American artists have created cards with beauty, color and skillful design; so family members can frost festive trims on Christmas cookie greeting cards.

MOLASSES CHRISTMAS CARD COOKIES

½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg yolk
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream together shortening, sugar and molasses. Add egg yolk; mix well. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, baking soda and spices. Stir into molasses mixture; blend well. Chill until firm enough to roll. On lightly floured baking sheet, roll out half of dough into 10x12-inch rectangle; cut into 3x5-inch rectangles but do not separate them. Bake in 350 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Immediately cut again on original cutting lines; remove to rack and cool. Roll out remaining half of dough ¼ inch thick on lightly floured surface; cut with cookie cutters with shapes suitable for Christmas cards (bell, tree, Santa, etc.). Place on ungreased baking sheets; bake in 350 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool on rack. Decorate like Christmas cards with Ornamental Frosting. Yield: 12 rectangular and 12 shaped "cards."

Ornamental Frosting

1¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 egg white
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Beat all ingredients together with rotary or electric beater until frosting holds its shape. Cover with damp cloth until ready to use. If desired, tint part of frosting with food coloring.

Handbook To Help Cut Food Costs

by JEANNE LESEM

UPI — If your holiday food bills overshadow your Christmas shopping list, a new consumer handbook may help.

The paperback, sponsored by the National Association of Food Chains (NAFC), is designed to help cut family food costs in general. But its advice is especially pertinent at holiday time when entertaining puts an extra strain on the budget.

Careful shopping can save as much as 15 per cent on your food budget, writes Jean Rainey in "How to Shop for Food" Barnes and Noble division of Harper & Row. That can add up to $12,000 out of the $80,000 a family spends for food during a 17-to-70 year life span. The life span figures take into account the number of persons fed at various stages of a family's life cycle.

Mrs. Rainey, in cooperation with the consumer advisory committee of the NAFC, made these points:

—Convenience foods save precious meal preparation time but they rarely save money. Exceptions include frozen french fries in 2-pound poly bags, which are two cents a pound cheaper per serving than making them yourself. Dehydrated mashed potatoes cost less than three cents a serving when bought in a 2-pound package. Frozen orange concentrate is the cheapest way to buy orange juice, at 3.7 cents per half cup serving, when bought in 12 or 16-ounce cans. Home squeezed fresh oranges are the most expensive, at 9.1 cents per half cup serving.

—Frozen chicken chow mein costs less than the same dish prepared at home. So do canned bake-and-serve biscuits from the refrigerated dairy case, at about one cent per biscuit.

—When you buy turkey, other poultry, meat and fish, save money by figuring on cost per serving basis instead of cost per pound.

Whole turkey usually is cheaper per pound than parts, just as whole roasts usually are cheaper per pound than chops, steaks and other small cuts. And the number of servings you get from larger cuts can reduce the cost per serving substantiall.

ON THIS BASIS, boneless turkey roast at $1.03 per pound costs no more than whole turkey at 59 cents a pound. A pound of flank steak or London broil marked $1.49 per pound yields four servings from that pound at about 37 cents each, compared with short ribs, at 69 cents a pound and one serving per pound.

—Homemade rice and macaroni or noodle mixes also save money, even if you use packaged salad dressing or dip mix for seasoning instead of individual herbs and spices.

Preseasoned rice and macaroni or noodle mixes cost about five or seven cents an ounce because they come in small packages. The same size mix made at home from a 2-pound package of regular rice costs only about one cent an ounce, or two cents, if made with enriched, parboiled rice.

The cost on both homemade mixes is cheaper than the commercial variety even if you use a packet of salad seasoning or dip mix at 20 or 25 cents per pack. One makes enough seasoning for a half pound of rice.

—If you can spare freezer space temporarily for bulky items such as bread and rolls, watch the day-old table in supermarkets for reduced price house brand loaves to be used for holiday turkey stuffing. National brands don't get marked down there because bakeries pick up the unsold products to be sold at their own thrift stores.

—SAVE MONEY on fresh fruit by choosing small apples, oranges and bananas for children and other persons with small appetites. Even if small fruit costs slightly more per pound, you'll save by eliminating waste.

—Don't buy large quantities of any food, no matter how low the price, unless you can use it before it spoils or loses valuable nutrients. Vitamin loss from most fruits and vegetables is rapid at room temperature and it even occurs, although more slowly, during long-term refrigeration.

Storage information in the book covers 14 pages in condensed chart form. In addition, individual chapters on meat, dairy products, produce, breads and cereals, dried beans, rice and pasta, shortening, oils and salad dressings and beverages provide detailed information on buying, storing and cooking. Included are the seasons for fruits and vegetables and ways to recognize ripeness and quality.

"How to Shop for Food" is distributed by Family Circle magazine and will be sold in supermarkets.

Holiday Ideas

Here are a few thoughtful gift ideas to bring to your holiday hostess. Wrap your homemade butter cookies individually in cellophane and decorate a pine wreath with these edible ornaments. Or fill a small picnic basket with your hostess' favorite cheeses. That special friend deserves this personal gift: A collection of your best recipes (the ones she's admired for years) in a gaily decorated index box.

Butter cookies will stay flavorful if you follow these few suggestions for storing. Bar cookies should be stored uncut in a tightly covered baking pan. Store soft cookies in a tightly covered container, crisp cookies in a loosely covered container. Keep all in a cool place and do not mix soft and crisp cookies together.

Hamburger Is King

The hamburger is still king among American lunch crowds, according to a national food and refreshment service firm.

Chefs of Servomation Corp. report the hamburger is the all-around favorite noontime meal at business, education and Red Barn drive-in restaurant locations. The firm, which operates in 40 states, estimates it serves 270,000 hamburgers a day — a whopping 16 million pounds of meat a year.

Versatile Eggnog

Have a cup of Christmas. Coffee Eggnog is a delicious accompaniment for holiday cookies and cakes. In a mixing bowl beat together 4 cups eggnog, 2 tablespoons instant coffee, and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Chill. Fold all but 4 tablespoons of 1 cup whipped cream into the coffee mixture. Pour eggnog into cups. Top with remaining whipped cream and sprinkle with nutmeg.

Serve holiday visitors this flavorful yuletide salute. Just before serving time, combine 4 cups dairy eggnog, 2 bottles (10 oz.) chilled ginger ale, and 1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrated orange juice. Break away from the party occasionally to stir the punch.

Most everyone garnishes a bowl of eggnog with a sprinkling of nutmeg. For a variation, though, use shaved chocolate curls, fluffy whipped cream, or red and green maraschino cherries. If you're planning on serving the adults a "spiked" eggnog punch, garnish the children's variation with mini-scoops of vanilla ice cream.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Herald Newspaper does not knowingly accept HELP WANTED ads that indicate a preference based on age from employers covered by the AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT.

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. For further information contact the Wage and Hour Division Office of U.S. Department of Labor at 4032 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, Illinois. Telephone (312) 736-2909.

Manufacturing Engineer

Unprecedented expansion of our manufacturing operations indicates a definite need for an additional "shirt sleeve" manufacturing engineer with an extensive background in processing and tooling manufacturing operations for high speed, high volume production of a diversified electro-mechanical product line. Successful applicant must be thoroughly familiar with automated and semi-automated fabrications and assembly operations and have the ability to debug and trouble shoot progressive and compound dies, complex fixtures, jigs, gauges and intricate tools as well as manufacturing processes. A proven record for achieving significant manufacturing cost reductions is extremely important. In addition to excellent renumeration our company offers a wide array of attractive fringe benefits including profit sharing. Interested applicants are requested to contact Jim Deering to establish an interview.

First To Announce Candidacy

Trustee Nanci Vanderweel To Seek New 4-Year Term

Elk Grove Village Trustee Nanci Vanderweel became the first member of the village board to announce she would seek another term, saying she would work best for the community by serving on the board.

So far, Mrs. Vanderweel is the only candidate to pick up a petition for the election next April 17. Candidates must collect between 155 and 247 signatures of eligible voters in the village to be placed on the ballot. Petitions may be turned in from Jan. 8 to Feb. 12.

Nanci Vanderweel

This year village board offices up for election are president, clerk, one 2-year trustee term and four 4-year trustee terms.

Mrs. Vanderweel, 215 Fleetwood Ln., said she discussed running for reelection with her husband, Leonard, and their daughter Kitty, 12, before making her decision to run for a four-year trusteeship. "They both said they would back me and assist in the campaign," she said. "They helped me when I was elected to a two-year term (in 1971), and I need their support."

MRS. VANDERWEEL, a nine-year resident of the village, said it was too early to predict what issues will be important during the campaign, but budgeting, village services, land development, annexation and zoning probably will be discussed.

Concerning financing, Mrs. Vanderweel said she was strongly opposed to deficit spending. "One thing I take great pride in is that we have never once in the history of the village gone into deficit spending. I don't run my household on it, and I don't believe the village should use it.

She said the property tax freeze proposed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie would have a great impact on the village budget if it is passed by the state legislature. "It (the proposal) scares me basically because of our growth," she said.

"In the next five years we may start more housing developments west of Rte. 53," she said. "If we have this growth and can't get additional funds to support it, the municipal services people have come to enjoy and expect will have to be cut back."

IN REGARD TO new developments, Mrs. Vanderweel said the village should have some control of new housing projects being proposed. "We should look at land development with an eye of getting the best for the village. We can do this by putting the projects under the direction of the community."

Mrs. Vanderweel said the program with which she was most proud to be associated during the last two years was the community blood donor plan recently approved by the village board.

"I also am very proud of my attendance record," she said. "I attended many board meetings during the five years before I was elected, and in the last two years I have attended every board meeting and committee meeting I was involved in."

Board Opposes Property Tax Freeze

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees voted unanimously Tuesday to go on record opposing Gov. Richard Ogilvie's proposed property tax freeze, saying the freeze would be injurious to the community.

Ogilvie's plan would freeze the total dollar amount of tax revenue from local property taxes, but would not freeze village expenses, trustees complained. The freeze has been proposed for a five-year period.

The trustees passed a resolution on their position to be sent to state legislators. A letter may be mailed to village residents at a later date explaining why the freeze would be detrimental to the community.

"We'll be clobbered," if the proposed bill is passed, said Trustee Ed Kenna. "We should go on record against the inequity of such a bill on a growing community. It (the proposal) is phony, and it will not accomplish what it is supposed to do."

KENNA SAID, "If the bill is put on the books, we'll spend the next four years fighting an insurmountable financial problem. We could build 300 or 400 houses and not be able to add one policeman or fireman."

Also at the board meeting, a $25 payment was authorized to the Des Plaines River Basin Steering Committee to help defray mailing and incidental expenses. Tom Hamilton, village plan commission member and representative on the steering committee, told trustees of the progress being made in preparing a river basin flood control plan.

In other business:

—An $84 fee for village fire protection and ambulance service was waived for the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

—A resolution was adopted authorizing Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., certified public accountants, to conduct the village audit for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1973, at a cost not to exceed $6,950.

—A resolution was adopted authorizing the village to cast its ballot for executive trustee of the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund Board for Delmar Ward, Jackson County clerk.

—Resolutions were passed honoring the Elk Grove High School and St. Viator football teams for winning the championships in their respective conferences.

—A $100 expenditure was approved for postage for the new community blood donor program. Trustee Nanci Vanderweel said the first blood drawing is scheduled for Jan. 13 at the headquarters fire station on Biesterfield Road.

—The plan commission was directed to hold hearings on the Roumtree property west of Ill. Rte. 53 proposed for a housing project and on a fence variation for the village.

—Trustees Kenna and Ron Chernick, Village Mgr. Charles Willis and Finance Director George Coney were appointed to the budget committee.

—The village attorney was directed to draw up a text amendment on rezoning for indoor tennis facilities to provide for six parking spaces per court plus one space for every employe on duty at one time.

U.S. Studies Watershed Agreement

Federal agencies in Washington, D.C., will have until mid-January to study and comment on the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement, according to Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee.

Hamilton said yesterday that the agreement was circulated about two weeks ago and the agencies were given a 60-day time limit in which to reply.

Comments from the various agencies will then be included in the report to the Senate public works commission.

The commission will then make a recommendation on possible federal funding for the project.

If the commission recommends federal funding, and the Congress acts on it in the next legislative session, money would be available for the 1974 fiscal year which starts July 1, 1973.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement is a $26.5 million project to build flood controls across Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost are being sought. These funds would be administered through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The remainder of the funds would come from state and local government agencies. Sixteen state and local agencies signed the agreement before it was sent to Washington in mid-September.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington, Gov. Richard Ogilvie announced that the state was not going to wait for federal funding, but would proceed immediately on the project using state funds.

A spokesman for Gov.-elect Daniel Walker, Ogilvie's successor, has said that Walker will continue to support the state's plan to proceed on the project.

New Building Code Approved

Elk Grove Village trustees passed a new village building code Tuesday based on the national Building Officials and Code Administration (BOCA) building code.

A building fee schedule presented with the new code also was adopted, but a proposed fire prevention code was given only a first reading. Building Comr. Tom Rettenbacher said the revised fee schedule was based on volume of the building instead of construction value.

He said the new method of computing fees was not a significant increase over past fees, but using volume statistics was more in keeping with BOCA code.

The fire prevention code deals with construction involving hazardous materials and the inspection of facilities used to store dangerous substances.

The village has been studying adoption of a new building code for the past two years and held talks with local developers and engineers before drawing up the final draft of the ordinance. During discussions last month trustees decided to follow BOCA for the new village code with a few exceptions. BOCA is a performance-oriented code in that it doesn't specify what materials must be used in building, but rather the performance standards of those materials.

Youth Service Forum Chairman Is Named

Paul Paprocki, Elk Grove Township youth worker, has accepted the chairmanship of the Youth Services Forum.

The forum is a voluntary group made up of area youth workers and designed to coordinate services and programs among the various youth service agencies in the Northwest suburbs.

The forum will attempt to establish three subcommittees which will coordinate hotline training programs, publish a newsletter, and develop fund raising projects.

At a meeting of the forum Tuesday, Paprocki announced that future meetings will be held on a monthly basis. No date was set for the next meeting.

2 Park Commissioners To Seek New Terms

Of the three Elk Grove Park District commissioners whose terms expire in April, two are planning to run again, but the third is not sure.

Edward Hauser, president of the park district, said, "I would have to say I am going to run, at this point in time. I am involved and would like to stay involved."

Bart Dill said, "Yes, I am running."

David von Schaumburg said that until a few days ago his answer would have been a "very definite 'no', but now I am sliding a little bit. If I did run it would be for the two-year term."

The two year term is the unexpired portion of Daniel Gilbert's term. Dill was appointed to the park board after Gilbert left two years ago.

Hauser and Dill will be running for the regular six-year term.

The Elk Grove Park District elections will be held at the same time as the village municipal election, April 17.

According to an interpretation of a recent amendment to the Park District Code made by Robert A. Stuart, general counsel for the Illinois Association of Park Districts, petitions to run for park district commissioner must be filed no more than 99 days, but not less than 92 days, before the election.

The filing dates for the Elk Grove Park District election would then be Jan. 8-14.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The government reported that retail food prices dropped slightly in October, led by declines in fresh fruits and frying chickens, and helped along by decreases in bread and beef prices.

Woodfield Rightly Assessed, Pays Fair Tax Share: Atcher

Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg is properly assessed and pays a fair share of property taxes, Village Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Atcher responded to charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP), the Illinois Education Association (IEA), Dist. 211 Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association (Dist. 54).

Atcher said higher assessments on commercial properties like Woodfield would discourage their construction, and indirectly place a greater burden on individual homeowners.

"I don't have just a flat statement to make. Naturally I think it's proper that all properties be on the tax rolls at a fair figure. But I think much more study should have been done before they released this current release," said the Schaumburg mayor.

THE FOUR organizations charged underassessments of Woodfield, land owned by Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex are costing homeowners in the township $4.7 million in tax revenue.

Atcher said the charge that Woodfield is worth $100 million is untrue. When the entire Woodfield complex is completed "there is no doubt it will be worth $100 million," Atcher said. But he noted a twin theater building, office buildings, bank buildings and ancillary land development will be included in that figure, when they are finished. If Woodfield proper (the mall and parking area) were worth $100 million alone, "it would have cost $50 to $60 per square foot, which is way beyond the cost of construction for facilities such as that," said Atcher.

The mayor also quarreled with the CAP assessment on open land, saying "the same people are making speeches about needing open space." Placing high assessments on open land would make the property too valuable to lie dormant, said the mayor. Developers would be forced to cover all land with buildings, or sell it to someone else who would, if the CAP assessment figures were used, he said.

Land values already have made farming too expensive in the township, said Atcher, pointing out the low number of farms in the area. Assessing open land in a development at the CAP rates would make it just as prohibitive to leave green area, he said.

Atcher also charged overly high assessments would discourage construction and other development to the point it would no longer take place.

"No developer of commerce and industry is going to look at land, much less purchase it for development, if the assessment is high," said the mayor. Lack of development would mean no growth in the tax base, he said.

"IN THE LAST four years Schaumburg will have placed on the land somewhere in the neighborhood of $300 million" worth of development, he said. "In the neighborhood of $100 million will go on the tax rolls this year. A huge percentage is commercial and industrial, which is picking up about half of the tax load. The only reason we have those is because of the assessment practices of the county office," said Atcher.

"If they did anything bordering on what is proposed by the IEA, Schaumburg may as well just fold up and quit," said Atcher.

The mayor also noted Schaumburg has a minimum home lot size of 10,000 square feet, much of which is open land in each lot. Changing the assessment policy for open land would also increase the assessment for individual homeowners, he said. "Assessment practices have to be equal," he said.

Atcher has tentatively scheduled a meeting Dec. 14 with the school board of Dist. 211.

"I would hope they do not make a statement or take a stand until I have an opportunity to talk with them," said the mayor. He has not requested a meeting with officials in Dist. 54, but has asked Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, to explain statements he has made relating to the CAP charges.

...But Does Village Want Centex Streets?

Residents of the Centex townhouse development west of Chelmsford Lane want to turn their streets over to the village, but it is not apparent that the village is willing to accept maintainance of the byways.

At a meeting Tuesday, village trustees said they would think about the proposition of the townhouse owners but made no commitment about what, if any, action would be taken.

The residents say that "dedicating" the streets to the village will be more economical for them in the long run.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek told townshouse residents Jim Hock and Richard McGrenera that as far as he was concerned "anytime we can get a developer or residents to maintain streets in a private area, it is to the advantage of the village.

McGrenera said the residents had two main questions: what would be required of the residents to bring the streets up to village standards, and whether the village would be interested in taking over the streets. He said the residents were contributing to the motor fuel tax revenue which was used to maintain streets.

ZETTEK SAID he felt that payment of motor fuel tax was paid by everyone in the village whether or not he used the streets in the development. "Payment of motor fuel tax is not a valid argument," he said.

"The thing that is nagging at me is how can I say to all the other people in the village that the village will take over the repair, maintenance and ultimate replacement of the townhouse streets while the village doesn't have the responsibility now," Zettek said. "Why should the village take over an expense it doesn't have now?"

Hock said there are 144 townhouse owners now responsible for the streets in the area. He said that they realized it could be costly to bring those streets up to village standards, but that it might be more economical in the long run.

Trustee Ron Chernick said the streets in their present state were like driveways, and much would have to be done to make them acceptable.

THE TOWNHOUSES were built as a planned-unit development that allowed the developer to take certain exceptions to the village building code, such as standards of streets, yards and setback of houses off the streets. Village Mgr. Charles Willis said to accept the streets would be altering the original planned development, and the village board must consider how it will handle equal requests from other areas in the future.

"We also must examine the setting of a precedent relative to apartments, quadrominiums and condominiums and access to private property," Willis said.

Village Atty. Ed Hofert added that the implications of a decision on private streets in all future developments must be considered.

Firemen Have Something To Crow About

by STEVE BROWN

The trusty dalmatian, long the traditional mascot of fire departments across the nation, has been replaced with a totally different type of animal by the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District.

Charley the Crow has taken up residence in Fire Station No. 1 in Hoffman Estates, and according to many of the firefighters there, he fills the bill in the mascot department.

"Some of the men found the crow while out on a call about three weeks ago," said Fire Chief Carl Selke, while explaining the department did not purposely look for a crow to become its mascot.

But in a few short weeks, Charley has found a home and many friends in the firehouse. Shortly after his arrival, Charley had a wire cage, complete with perches and a mirror, built for him by some of the firefighters.

"HOW MANY fire departments do you know that have a crow for a mascot?" one fireman asked a recent visitor. Most of the firefighters take the distinction lightheartedly.

"He really likes chicken," said Firefighter Richard Knapik. Charley has been fed a variety of foods including steak, but most of the men agree chicken is his favorite meal.

The crow, which had a broken wing, seems to be getting better each day. Now the bird can hop from the floor of his cage to a wooden perch, a task that posed some difficulty when Charley first arrived.

Charley has proved to be a popular attraction around the station. Visitors are quick to notice the big black crow perched in the station when they first arrive, said one fireman. He added that if they do not see him, they are sure to hear when he lets out with a crow's all-familiar cawing sound.

"HE DOES not like things inside the cage," said Red Williamson, another firefighter who has shown much interest in Charley. Williamson said a paper crow was placed in the cage recently and Charley tore it up.

Chief Selke said Charley may be only a temporary mascot for the fire district. He said he has received several reports that the animal may be a child's pet.

"We plan to check this out," Selke said. He added the department would not think of keeping the bird if it was a family pet.

But if Charley has to leave his perch in the firehouse, he may still be the only crow in the world that has been a fire department mascot, even if it was only temporary.

Wheeling Businessman 1 Of 60 Killed In Moscow Crash

Wheeling businessman Norman R. Sackheim, 56, was listed early Wednesday as one of 60 persons killed in Moscow when a Japan Air Lines plane crashed shortly after takeoff Tuesday.

Mr. Sackheim, a long-time resident of Highland Park, was chairman of the board of Strum and Drum, 177 W. Hintz Rd., and chairman of the board of XL Screw Corp., located in the same building.

Strum and Drum, founded by Mr. Sackheim in 1965, moved to its Wheeling building in 1968. The $290,000 structure has 44,500 square feet of space for offices, display rooms, manufacturing and warehouse space.

Strum and Drum imports music instruments and accessories, and the XL Screw Corp., established in 1968, imports screws, nuts and bolts. Mr. Sackheim originated the concept of importing nuts and screws meeting American standards, and has been called a pioneer in that field. The firm is in the process of planning a new building.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, Mr. Sackheim founded Heads and Threads Corp., which produced fasteners. The firm was sold in 1960 to MLS Industries, Inc. He was a director and vice chairman of the board of MLS until he founded Strum and Drum.

The family was notified of Mr. Sackheim's death early Tuesday morning, several hours after officials had announced he was one of 76 passengers on the plane. The jet flight, bound for Tokyo, had originated in Copenhagen. Mr. Sackheim was on a business rip.

Reports were that the plane exploded before it plunged to the ground. Officials estimated 16 persons had survived the crash.

Family survivors include Mr. Sackheim's wife, Pauline, two daughters, Mrs. Troy (Nancy) Weidenheimer and Mrs. Jeffrey (Barbara) Weiner, and a son, Ron A. Sackheim, president of Strum and Drum.

Funeral arrangements are indefinite. They will be delayed by a Russian inquiry into the crash.

From The Library

The North American Indian gets special attention on the new-books shelf at the Elk Grove Village Public Library this week.

Poetry as we know it was foreign to the North American Indians — their whole literary tradition was oral. In "Shaking the Pumpkin" poet Jerome Rotheberg has translated and collected from other sources the poems, theater pieces and narratives of Indians from Mexico to Alaska.

The life of a Sioux medicine man who, while a young man received a vision of how to live his life, and was a rodeo clown, sign painter and prisoner in a white man's jail before returning to the Indian world, is told in "Lame Deer, Seeker of Visions" by John Fire/Lame Deer and Richard Erdoes.

The history of the Hopi Indians of northern Arizona is told, not with the aid of archaeologist and anthropologist, but through the oral tradition of the tribe in "The Fourth World of the Hopis" by Harold Courlander. The story starts with the Hopi version of creation, and takes the tribe through its migrations and 800-year occupation of the Black Mesa country where they live today.

THREE NEW novels have Indian themes. "The Second Kiss" by Gayle Rogers is the tale of a white captive who falls in love with her Indian captor, and their struggles to remain together despite the opposition of the tribe.

Sam Slate's "As Long as the River Runs" is the story of the attempt of the Cherokee Indians to establish their own nation within the United States, told through the adventures of a revengeful white man.

"Okla Hannali" is a novel by R. A. Lafferty which tells the nineteenth century history of the Choctaw Indians, especially the story of the untitled but revered leader Hannali Innominee, a Paul Bunyan figure who puts across both colorful details of everyday life and new perspectives which show the destruction of a flourishing and sophisticated culture to make way for another culture — that of the white man.

Elk Grove Teams Win In W. Va.

Elk Grove Village Athletic Association recently took the two of their Pop Warner League football teams to West Virginia for a post-season bowl game.

Both teams were successful. The Falcons beat the Sistersville, W. Va., team 13-6 and the Knights won 20-6.

Vi Galloway, EGVAA secretary, said the association plans to host the Sistersville teams in bowl games next year.

Area Girl Ready To Ship Out With 500 Sailors

by CINDY TEW

Joyce Peckenpaugh of Palatine won't be home for Christmas, but she says she's not homesick and she certainly isn't lonesome.

Joyce, 20, is in Hunter's Point, Calif., preparing for a cruise to Greece in May aboard the U.S.S. Sanctuary along with 500 other sailors — and only about 15 per cent are women.

Hospital Corpsman 3.C. Peckenpaugh is a member of the first company of female seamen.

"There have been nurses aboard hospital ships before, but we have women in our company who will be swabbing the decks and performing other seaman tasks right along with the men," said Joyce.

She added that the women seamen in her comapny love their jobs. But Joyce enjoys her work in the medical department and says she wouldn't want to trade places with her seaman sisters.

JOINING the Navy was no spur-of-the moment decision for Joyce — she has wanted to be a sailor since she was 12 years old.

"I decided to enlist for sure after talking to a girl who was in the Navy who said it was a lot of fun."

She enlisted in March, 1971, and was sent to boot camp in Maryland. After a few months of training she was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital for additional training as a hospital corpsman.

Before her transfer to California, Joyce worked for a year in Memphis.

"So far it's been half work and half fun — I don't regret joining at all," said Joyce. She's already thinking of reenlisting for six months if the upcoming Mediterranean tour lasts longer than expected.

"I'm not sure if I'd re-up for another three years. It depends on how this coming trip goes," she said. Joyce has never been on an ocean going ship before, and isn't sure if she'll get seasick in a big storm.

Joyce Peckenpaugh

According to Joyce's mother, however, the sailor never has been known to get any sort of motion sickness.

"She goes on all the rides at carnivals, so she'll probably love the trip," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. While Joyce's mother has gone along with her daughter's Naval career, her father has been somewhat hesitant.

"He was against it at first because he thought the Navy would make Joyce too tough," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. "I never saw anything wrong with it. The Navy's strict, and it's really no different than if she were working on her own."

JOYCE has been working "on her own" since she left Fremd High School her junior year, but she has always lived at home. Joyce said she quit school because she couldn't stand sitting in class all day. To enlist, however, Joyce had to take a high school equivalency test.

"She passed all her tests with flying colors," said Roger Johnson of the Palatine U.S. Naval Recruiting office.

So far, Joyce says that life in the Navy isn't too difficult, and she doesn't even mind living in barracks — being one of six children, she says she's used to having a lot of people around.

"We live in the same barracks as the men, but on different floors," she said. "We don't bother them and they don't bother us."

Zoning Approved For 225-Unit Townhouse Plan

by LYNN ASINOF

The Wheeling Zoning Board Tuesday night recommended that zoning be granted for a 225-unit condominium townhouse complex south of Manchester Drive and east of Wolf Road.

The 27.5-acre project is the second planned development in the Meadowbrook area to come before the zoning board in the past two weeks.

The project is designed as a series of clusters around a central retention basin and recreation area. The individual townhouses will be a combination of split-level and two-story units.

Architect Albert Osran said the project is being designed on the idea of Spanish or Portuguese villas, which vary in elevation, setback and design.

"We have 27 acres of prairie, and we're trying to make this as interesting as possible," Osran said.

THE UNITS WILL all have three bedrooms and developers estimate that the project will generate 210 school children in the elementary schools. Developers have already contacted School Dist. 21 to discuss making a donation to compensate for growth in the school population.

During the hearing, developers stressed that the proposed site is not located in the flood plain and that the Wheeling Drainage Ditch does not run across the property.

The retention basin for the complex will be designed to handle a 100-year storm (an extreme storm not likely to occur within a 11 years) and will maintain a minimal level of two to three feet of water at all times. The engineer for the project said that, if necessary, the retention basin would be fed by a pump to maintain this water level. He also said the pond would be aerated if stagnation developed.

The pond will be used for ice skating in the winter and light boating in the summer. It will not be stocked with fish, however, because a minimum of nine feet of water is needed to support water life in the winter months.

THE DEVELOPERS have agreed to grant the village a 40-foot dedication on Manchester Drive to allow for the widening of the road at a further date. According to the traffic plan of the complex, Wolf Road would be the major entrance and Manchester Drive would be a secondary entrance.

The design of the townhouses will leave 55.16 per cent of the land as green space and 80.16 as open space. The density of the townhouses is 8.3 units per acre, even though Wheeling's ordinance allows 16 per acre.

Zoning board member Alan Martin said he found it refreshing to find a developer who was not trying to fit the maximum number of units into a development.

The developer said that since the townhouses are designed to sell for $35,000 and up, it would be impractical to reduce the quality of the project by building more units.

Recreational facilities will include a swimming pool, walks around the retention basin and a recreation building. Maintenance of the project will be handled by a condominium association once the complex is completed.

It is estimated that once the project is approved by the village it will take 18 to 24 months to complete construction.

ALL I WANT FOR CHRISTMAS: Cathy Lieske and her sister Andre get in an early visit with Santa Claus at his special home in Santaland at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. Santa will be at Randhurst every day from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. until Christmas eve.

Grant Sought To Purchase Rescue Tool

In an effort to continue improving the efficiency of the Wheeling Fire Department Rescue unit, an official said plans are being made to order a Hurst Rescue Tool.

The tool is used to pry and pull apart almost any kind of wreckage. Two other communities in the state are believed to have use of the Hurst tool — Chicago and Lake Forest.

According to Wheeling Public Safety Director Roger Stricker, both of those tools were pressed into action during the recent Illinois Central Gulf train crash in Chicago.

THE COST of the equipment is listed at $3,775. However, if a grant from the Illinois Division of Highways is approved, the village will pay half the cost. The rest of the funds will come from the grant.

Stricker said yesterday the application for the grant has been submitted and the order for the tool should be sent out shortly. He was confident the grant will be awarded.

"We show a need for such a tool since every main roadway in our village is either a state or county road. We are also bordered by the tollway on the east and a tool like this may be necessary," said Stricker.

He added that the accident rate in the village for the period of July to August this past year increased 22.4 per cent over last year. "It's things like this I hope will convince the state we need the grant," said Stricker.

THE HURST tool is considered one of the safest rescue units available. When it is used no sparks are created, as with similar equipment, thus eliminating the chance of fire.

According to officials, several Wheeling firemen are trained in the use of the tool and once it is received the entire rescue force will be able to use it. After all the rescue personnel are trained the Wheeling Civil Defense units will receive instruction.

The power unit for the tool weighs 40 pounds, while the tool itself weighs 55 pounds. The entire unit can be hand-held and operated by one man. It operates at maximum pressure output of 10,000 pounds at the tips of the jaws.

The unit is a self-contained spreading and pulling device and is maintenance free. Several different cutting heads can also be adapted to the unit.

No date has been set for receiving the tool.

Stricker also said yesterday that he and several fire department officials are looking over resumes from different ambulance companies. Last week the village board gave him approval to begin the search for purchase of a second emergency vehicle.

"We think we found the one we want, but we are still looking. We want a rescue vehicle that will serve our every need," he said.

The village will again pay half the cost of the new vehicle, if a grant from the federal government is received. The grant would also supply the village with a new radio for the ambulance free of cost.

Boy Hit By Car Still Critical; Driver Cleared

Kenneth Stanley, 1441 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, remained in critical condition in Holy Family Hospital yesterday.

The 10-year-old boy has had a few periods of consciousness during the last two days, according to hospital officials. However, he is still unconscious a majority of the time.

Meanwhile, Wheeling police have officially cleared Steven Tuchten, 11 N. Dryden Ave., Arlington Heights, of any charges in the accident that sent the youth to the hospital more than two weeks ago.

Police said yesterday that Tuchten was not at fault when his car struck Stanley as the boy tried to cross Wolf Road on his bicycle. They said Tuchten did everything possible to avoid hitting him.

Police also said no one will be issued tickets in this case.

A fourth grader at James Whitcomb Riley School in Arlington Heights, Stanley was on his way to buy gifts for his brother and sister when he was injured.

Hospital officials would make no statement yesterday on whether the youth is improving or remaining the same.

Where To Buy 8-Cent Christmas Stamps

As a special holiday service to residents of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area, three businesses are selling eight-cent Christmas stamps.

The Bank of Buffalo Grove, Logo's Book Store in Lynn Plaza, Wheeling, and Jennifer's Gift Shop in the Buffalo Grove Mall are providing the service at no extra charge. They will sell only the eight-cent stamps, to help motorists avoid traffic congestion at the Wheeling Post office.

Mark's Drugs in the Ranchmart Shopping Center also sells the stamps, but it is a contract station, and provides other postal services as well.

Consumer Fraud Official To Visit

Beginning this Saturday, area residents with complaints about the practices of all types of businesses may air their feelings to a local representative of the Consumer Fraud Division of the attorney general's office.

Mary Runion will be available each Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to noon in the Buffalo Grove Village Hall to provide this free service. The village hall is at 50 Raupp Blvd.

Mrs. Runion can handle complaints about companies from anywhere in the country. The grievances will be referred to the proper authorities in each state.

Village Trustee Ed Osmon arranged for the service, which will be operated at no cost to the community.

Troubles In Cambridge?

by STEVE FORSYTH

The Cambridge subdivision in Buffalo Grove is a perfect example — of everything that can go wrong for a hip-pocket community.

This is not to question the value of the homes or the quality of the residents there. It is a question of the circumstances that have backfired in almost every case.

A call from one resident of Cambridge summed up the growing feeling of many who live there, when he said, "They're short-changing us all the time."

Probably one of the greatest disappointments was the announcement this week that Cambridge would not be included in the Buffalo Grove High School attendance boundaries. The tragic part of the decision was that the residents were not interested in getting AWAY from Wheeling High School, as some other persons had implied during a public hearing.

THEY WANTED to go with Buffalo Grove High School to maintain identity with the village, and their intentions were unusual, since Dist. 214 usually has a fight convincing people to go to a new school.

If that was the only problem they have, it could be overlooked, or at least tolerated.

But the village inspection for illegal connections of the sanitary sewers turned up another interesting angle. Most of the homes in Cambridge apparently have no concrete base or bottom, and the homeowners have now been told to get the work done. The violation was not discovered when the homes were approved for occupancy, but now it will cost the residents some money.

And there is the problem of park districts. It seems that the Wheeling Park District claimed some of the Cambridge area before it was in the Village of Buffalo Grove. Now the residents complain they can't disannex, because they would still have to pay taxes to pay off bonds issued by the Wheeling Park District, plus absorb the burden of the Buffalo Grove district.

SO THEY REMAIN in the Wheeling district, but you can be sure "their" park district does not exactly cater to their needs.

What can you do when you have bought an expensive home and the world seems to be crashing down around your ears?

It must be said, upon looking at the map, that this is a problem of point-to-point annexing, although technically that is not what was done. But realistically, Cambridge is attached to Buffalo Grove by one tiny corner — and they are getting benefits proportional to that. The only thing to do now is wait and see what else can go wrong.

A FEATHERED FRIEND. . . Charley the Crow has become the new mascot for the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District. School Board Ratifies New Contract

A 2.6 per cent cost of living increase for returning teachers and a $21,825 merit pay fund are part of a 1972-73 teacher contract ratified by the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board last night.

The Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA) last week ratified the agreement, reached earlier this month during a four-hour mediations session. The two sides agred to hire a mediator when they couldn't agree on salary or merit pay.

Teachers are granted merit raises based on ratings given at the end of each year. Merit raises for the 1972-73 school year are $420 for a superior teacher as compared to $350 last year; $270 for an above average teacher as compared to $175 last year; and $121 for a competent teacher as compared to $100 last year. Ratings of unsatisfactory and below average do not carry a pay increase.

The new contract also includes a $100 raise for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree. Those teachers will now receive $7,541. Extra duty pay funds were approved as follows: $1,291.50 for John Muir School; $2,898 50 for Anne Sullivan School; $1,291.50 for Eisenhower School; $1,050 for Betsy Ross School; and $4,677.75 for MacArthur Junior High School.

The contract also includes 20 sick days for teachers plus two personal leave days a year.

Dist. 23 is the last school district in the Northwest suburbs to reach a contract agreement. The two sides called for mediation after the thirteenth open bargaining session. At that time, the board's latest contract offer included a total merit pay fund of $16,725, the same as granted teachers last year, and $14,438 in extra-duty pay funds. The board had also offered the 2.6 per cent cost-of-living pay hike, which will cost the district $19,238 more than last year.

The PHEA's last proposal included $47,000 in merit funds and negotiators for teachers indicated they would agree to a 2.6 per cent salary increase if they received the merit pay request.

Village Gives OK To Join Police Dispatch Network

The Buffalo Grove Village Board gave its approval to Police Chief Harry Walsh Monday night to apply for federal funds and join the combined communications dispatch network.

The network now includes Police departments in Mount Prospect, Elk Grove and Arlington Heights. If Buffalo Grove receives a favorable reply to its request for federal funds it will be the fourth village to join the network.

"With the acceptance of our request for the grant we would receive more than $24,000 in radio equipment," said Walsh. "This equipment would be ours whether we stayed with the program or decided to get out of it after a year."

Walsh said there are three reasons why his department and the citizens of Buffalo Grove should benefit from the new program.

THE FIRST reason is that the departments will be working from a central dispatching location. All calls can come in and be monitored at this location.

Secondly,the departments involved will be using UHF rather than VHF frequencies. This will give them clearer channels of communication with every policeman on duty.

"Through very technical means we will be able to communicate with a patrolman whether he is in his car or out walking around. There also will be satellite receivers in the area so a signal never weakens.

"Finally, the move to change the communications system of the police department with the help of a federal grant will cost the taxpayers of the village almost nothing. The only cost incurred by the department will be the hiring of another radio operator.

"This is a pilot program and if we don't agree with it we can always withdraw," Walsh said. "From the looks of it, the program is a sound one and we will benefit from being one of the first departments to take part in this new concept."

According to one official, "It could be five years before other departments in the area go to this system."

WALSH added that he can't forsee any problems communicating with other departments in the area, even if they aren't in the central dispatch program. "We always have used the ISPERN channel and we will continue to do so."

The Buffalo Grove chief said the new program should be started, if the grant is approved, either late this winter or next spring.

Firemen Have Something To Crow About

by STEVE BROWN

The trusty dalmatian, long the traditional mascot of fire departments across the nation, has been replaced with a totally different type of animal by the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District.

Charley the Crow has taken up residence in Fire Station No. 1 in Hoffman Estates, and according to many of the firefighters there, he fills the bill in the mascot department.

"Some of the men found the crow while out on a call about three weeks ago," said Fire Chief Carl Selke, while explaining the department did not purposely look for a crow to become its mascot.

But in a few short weeks, Charley has found a home and many friends in the firehouse. Shortly after his arrival, Charley had a wire cage, complete with perches and a mirror, built for him by some of the firefighters.

"HOW MANY fire departments do you know that have a crow for a mascot?" one fireman asked a recent visitor. Most of the firefighters take the distinction lightheartedly.

"He really likes chicken," said Firefighter Richard Knapik. Charley has been fed a variety of foods including steak, but most of the men agree chicken is his favorite meat.

The crow, which had a broken wing, seems to be getting better each day. Now the bird can hop from the floor of his cage to a wooden perch, a task that posed some difficulty when Charley first arrived.

Charley has proved to be a popular attraction around the station. Visitors are quick to notice the big black crow perched in the station when they first arrive, said one fireman. He added that if they do not see him, they are sure to hear when he lets out with a crow's afmmillar cawing sound.

"HE DOES not like things inside the cage," said Red Williamson, another firefighter who has shown much interest in Charley. Williamson said a paper crow was placed in the cage recently and Charley tore it up.

Chief Selke said Charley may be only a temporary mascot for the fire district. He said he has received several reports that the animal may be a child's pet.

"We plan to check this out," Selke said. He added the department would not think of keeping the bird if it was a family pet.

But if Charley has to leave his perch in the firehouse, he may still be the only crow in the world that has been a fire department mascot, even if it was only temporary.

Village Board Wants Out Of NMAD

The movement in the Village of Schaumburg to end affiliation with the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) is not dead, although the village attorney has indicated it could be a tough job.

"This is not impossible, but it is difficult," Village Atty. Jack Siegel told the board of trustees.

On Tuesday, however, the board indicated it will continue its efforts in spite of the difficulty.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher responded favorably to a suggestion by Trustee Herb Aigner that the board begin enlisting citizen support, perhaps in a citizens' action committee which could attempt to spread its message to other communities.

But Atcher suggested the board first try working through an established organization. Atcher directed Village Administrator John Coste to speak on the issue at the next meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference Dec. 13 at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights. Atcher cannot attend the session himself, because of a conflict in engagements.

COSTE IS to urge conference members to begin steps to circulate a petition among NMAD member communities for abolition of the district. Success would require 5 per cent of registered voters within each town in the territory, file a court petition seeking dissolution of the district.

If the municipal conference does not indicate favor and support for Coste's request, Atcher agreed the citizens' group can be appointed. But Atcher and Siegel both noted support can be expected from one conference member, the Village of Palatine. Palatine in involved with Schaumburg in a suit with NMAD concerning village ordinances prohibiting the use of malathion and other environmentally hazardous insecticides. NMAD uses malathion.

Member Didn't Vote On Issue

Wheeling Zoning Board member Alan Martin abstained from voting on a recent zoning request because his firm had previously done work on the property in question.

Martin said Country Service and Supply Co. had dug a small drainage ditch on property jest south of Meadowbrook West on Wolf Road at the request of Di Com Corp., owner of the property.

When a zoning request for the property came before the zoning board, Martin said he felt he should abstain in the case.

"THAT WAS all that was involved," Martin said. "We have nothing to do with any builder."

Martin said he voted for variations on the property because he did not feel there was any conflict of interest involved once the zoning board had voted to recommend granting the zoning request.

Mailboxes To Santa At Shopping Centers

Buffalo Grove youngsters will have a special direct mail route to the North Pole this year with the help of the Buffalo Grove Jaycees.

Special Santa's mailboxes will be set up in the Ranchmart Shopping Center and the Buffalo Grove Mall to collect Christmas lists for forwarding to the North Pole.

Santa has asked all youngsters to include return addresses so he can reply to their letters.

Regular pickups from the mailboxes will continue from Dec. 2 through Dec. 16.

Hanukkah Party At Kilmer School

The Temple Chai first annual Hanukkah party will be from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove.

Games, songs and refreshments are planned, with entertainment by the Temple Chai Sunday School pupils. Adults and guests are invited.

School News Notes

"Seek and you shall find."

That old saying was used to its fullest by Judy Sommerfeld's second grade class at Joyce Kilmer School to try to find out if kangaroos hibernate.

The students tried all different types of books and encyclopedias and finally ended up writing to Lester Fisher, director of Lincoln Park Zoo.

Fisher told the students that the animal does not hibernate in the winter, but does eat extra food and gets a thicker coat for the colder weather. The students were investigating the project as part of a reading unit on factual stories about animals preparing for winter.

Everyone can learn a little something from the kindergarten students at Mark Twain School. They are trying to show consideration and love for others by spontaneously doing something for someone else.

The students call the program "Our Gifts of Love" and try to give the gifts at home. With the holiday season upon us the students are hoping people in the community will also pick up on the "Gifts of Love" program.

Kindergarten and first grade students at Nathaniel Hawthorne School had a Thanksgiving feast in their classes last week.

Teachers Barb Elder and Amy Kosznecki helped the children bake cornbread and make butter and maple sugar.

Students made costumes to resemble pilgrims. Girls wore bonnets and aprons while the boys dressed in hand-made hats and carried muskets.

To emphasize the serious nature of the activity the first graders composed an introductory speech, which they presented in a choral reading: "What Thanksgiving Means to Us."

After studying a unit on energy, Lori Kandl's fourth grade class at Louisa May Alcott School presented a show to demonstrate their learning. The program, which included singing and original acts, was presented on separate days for parents and students.

A chorus of 46 sixth graders at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School took part in a pre-Thanksgiving assembly. The students, all interested in music, were directed by Florence Calahan.

The singers are a group of students who met three times a week during their noon recess to rehearse and improve their singing.

Open House Slated At Carmel Schools

Carmel High School for Girls and Carmel High School for Boys will have an open house from 2 - 5 p.m. Sunday for all prospective students and their parents and elementary school teachers. A short program consisting of music by the Carmelaires, a dramatic performance, fashion and art displays and a tour of the building are planned.

Correction

In yesterday's Herald, Rich Heinrich, 635 Patton Dr., was incorrectly identified as a member of the Concerned Citizens of Buffalo Grove (CCBG).

Heinrich has charged Village Trustee Randall Rathjen with a conflict of interest because he is negotiating a land purchase deal for the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District. Rathjen is a broker for Homefinders Realty Co. in Palatine.

Heinrich, a member of the zoning board of appeals, made the charge at Monday night's village board meeting.

The new program will give residents in Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and several other local communities the benefit of being in direct radio contact with doctors at the hospital during emergencies.*

'Love'...And A Bit Of Schmaltz

'Sexy Radio' Hits The Scene

by DAVID MAHSMAN

"Tell me what you think about virginity. Did you hang onto yours? Call me now at 398-1212."

Disc jockey Jonathan Kingsley had a coaxing tone to his voice, a voice that rolls out over the airwaves in a heavy English accent. He was trying to get a listener to call in, to tell him and the listening audience what she thinks about virginity.

Kingsley's radio show, a combination of sex talk and music, had come on the air three hours earlier to the strains of "Sheer Fascination." The show, called "Love in the Afternoon," is just one example of what WWMM-FM, Arlington Heights, is doing these days.

Broadcasting at 92.7 on your FM dial, WWMM, has replaced WEXI, a radio station that the newowners say "was not listened to very much." But WWMM is more than a change in call letters. "WEXI is dead," WWMM owner-manager John DeWitt said flatly. DeWitt is a middle-aged broadcaster who peers through very thick eyeglasses. He wishes everyone would forgot there ever was a WEXI.

"WM is alive and kicking," said De Witt, who often uses the short form of the station's call letters. "It is a new radio station. Everything about it is new."

DE WITT AND HIS staff took over the station Oct. 1 and completely revamped the programming. The new programming went on the air Oct. 23.

Kingsley's is perhaps the most startling program, at least to some suburbanites. But De Witt says he has received only two complaints about the Britisher's frank and open discussion of sex from noon to 4 p.m. weekdays.

A Lake Geneva, Wis., woman called to say sex shouldn't be discussed on the radio. Another woman charged that Kingsley must be "love-starved and sex-mad." On the other hand, a Waukegan woman called to say she likes the show, adding that she thinks a woman should never say "no" to any man.

It was De Witt's idea to air the program, and to bring Kingsley over from England to broadcast it. But DeWitt says the show is not a new idea. It has been introduced elsewhere in the country, but WWMM's version is the first show of its type in the Chicago area.

As De Witt talked, he turned up his monitor when a woman called in saying she is a lesbian.

"Jonathan's isn't our only program," he said, turning the monitor down again.

THE STATION IS on the air 24 hours a day, and it can't have talk shows all the time. In the early morning hours, from 1 to 4 a.m. you can hear some really strange things from WWMM. For 90 minutes each, the station plays the sound of ocean waves, gongs and bird calls — all in stereo, of course. The only interruption is a soft female voice that occasionally announces the station's call letters.

De Witt said the time slots were not sold to advertisers, and he was curious about listener reaction to the sound effects. He listened himself the other night, and the sounds lulled him to sleep, he said.

"We're not going to do this forever," De Witt said. "After four or five weeks of it, we'll probably wear out our welcome. But radio should be fun, and this is fun."

WWMM HAS ANOTHER program that is love-oriented, but in a very different way from Kingsley's. From 9 to 11 a.m., repeated from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m., is "Voices of Love." The personalities are two nameless men "with super voices," De Witt said.

The subject matter of "Voices" is not necessarily sex. The voices may talk about love of friends, family or country. They write all their own material.

"The program is very nostalgic, sentimental, almost purple prose," De Witt explained. Their prose is sometimes "tear-jerking," he added, admitting that it sometimes makes even him cry. The program is mostly music, music that mellows the mood leading up to a prose reading once very half hour, De Witt said.

Dr. Freda Kehm, a child psychologist, follows the voices for 45 minutes daily, answering callers' questions about family problems.

"Many people have mentioned that social problems are more important than physical problems in this community," De Witt said, explaining the reason for Dr. Kehm's program.

AND DE WITT SAYS his station wants to become involved in matters of importance to the community, to the 50-mile radius the station reaches. Indeed, WWMM wants to be an important part of the community, he says.

This policy, if it can be so called, De Witt says has led him to program more local news, more public affairs and public service shows, than did WWMM's predecessor. Thus the reason for the station's many listener participation programs.

And beginning soon, De Witt will give the audience a chance to really talk back. He is planning a program, to be called "Free Forum," which would allow the public to get back at the station.

"All of us have been annoyed at some time or other over something we heard on the radio — an ad, a comment or the like," De Witt said. "We wish we had the chance to express ourselves on the air. We want to give the public that chance."

PLANS ARE FOR the program to start at 8 p.m Sundays and run until there is no one to be heard, be it two minutes or four hours. Listeners will be invited to come to the station in northernmost Arington Heights to tape their comments, and they can criticize the station, its advertisers or anything else, De Witt said.

WWMM is not all experimental programming. The music is popular, called middle-of-the-road in the broadcasting business, and is definitely not rock. Jack Stockton comes on from 6 to 9 a.m. to get the day started, and Bob Brynteson winds the day down from 4 to 8 p.m. A fellow named Stan Adams described as a soft personality, soon will be on from 8 to 11 p.m. to lull the community into the evening hours.

But De Witt doesn't want his station to be known as a typical suburban FM radio station.

"We'll never be satisfied with what we do today," he said. "We'll always try to be better. We'll do our damndest to make this station cook."

Board Approves Lowering Levy; Allot MFT Fund

The Wheeling Village Board Monday night approved an ordinance lowering the 1972 tax levy requirements to compensate for money provided by state motor fuel tax funds.

The money was allotted in the levy to cover the retirement and interest on bonds issued after an $825,000 referendum for street improvements. State motor fuel tax funds have been used to cover the street improvements program.

In other business, the board awarded the installation of a new sewer line at Wayne Place and Dennis Road to D. Di Orio Co. for $7,972.20.

The trustees also approved an ordinance granting planned development zoning for a private road in the Chelsea Cove project.

The village attorney was directed to draw up the necessary papers for a zoning change for property on Wolf Road south of Meadowbrook West. A 400-unit apartment complex has been proposed for the site.

After completeing other business, the board met in executive session to diecuss pending litigation.

Parks Plan Outing To Bulls Cage Game

Signup is now under way for a trip to the Jan. 9 Chicago Bulls basketball game, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

The cost of a ticket and transportation will be $4.50 a person. Seats will be along sidecourt, on the first balcony for the game with Philadelphia. Adults must accompany children.

Buses to the game will leave Frontier and Pioneer parks at 6 p.m. Jan. 9. The signup deadline is Dec. 23.

Area Girl Ready To Ship Out With 500 Sailors

by CINDY TEW

Joyce Peckenpaugh of Palatine won't be home for Christmas, but she says she's not homesick and she certainly isn't lonesome.

Joyce, 20, is in Hunter's Point, Calif., preparing for a cruise to Greece in May aboard the U.S.S. Sanctuary along with 500 other sailors — and only about 15 per cent are women.

Hospital Corpsman 3.C. Peckenpaugh is a member of the first company of female seamen.

"There have been nurses aboard hospital ships before, but we have women in our company who will be swabbing the decks and performing other seaman tasks right along with the men," said Joyce.

She added that the women seamen in her comapny love their jobs. But Joyce enjoys her work in the medical department and says she wouldn't want to trade places with her seaman sisters.

JOINING the Navy was no spur-of-the moment decision for Joyce — she has wanted to be a sailor since she was 12 years old.

"I decided to enlist for sure after talking to a girl who was in the Navy who said it was a lot of fun."

She enlisted in March, 1971, and was sent to boot camp in Maryland. After a few months of training she was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital for additional training as a hospital corpsman.

Before her transfer to California, Joyce worked for a year in Memphis.

"So far it's been half work and half fun — I don't regret joining at all," said Joyce. She's already thinking of reenlisting for six months if the upcoming Mediterranean tour lasts longer than expected.

"I'm not sure if I'd re-up for another three years. It depends on how this coming trip goes," she said. Joyce has never been on an ocean going ship before, and isn't sure if she'll get seasick in a big storm.

According to Joyce's mother, however, the sailor never has been known to get any sort of motion sickness.

"She goes on all the rides at carnivals, so she'll probably love the trip," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. While Joyce's mother has gone along with her daughter's Naval career, her father has been somewhat hesitant.

"He was against it at first because he thought the Navy would make Joyce too tough," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. "I never saw anything wrong with it. The Navy's strict, and it's really no different than if she were working on her own."

JOYCE has been working "on her own" since she left Fremd High School her junior year, but she has always lived at home. Joyce said she quit school because she couldn't stand sitting in class all day. To enlist, however, Joyce had to take a high school equivalency test.

"She passed all her tests with flying colors," said Roger Johnson of the Palatine U.S. Naval Recruiting office.

So far, Joyce says that life in the Navy isn't too difficult, and she doesn't even mind living in barracks — being one of six children, she says she's used to having a lot of people around.

"We live in the same barracks as the men, but on different floors," she said. "We don't bother them and they don't bother us."

Woodfield Rightly Assessed: Atcher

Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg is properly assessed and pays a fair share of property taxes, Village Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Atcher responded to charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP), the Illinois Education Association (IEA), Dist. 211 Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association (Dist. 54).

Atcher said higher assessments on commercial properties like Woodfield would discourage their construction, and indirectly place a greater burden on individual homeowners.

"I don't have just a flat statement to make. Naturally I think it's proper that all properties be on the tax rolls at a fair figure. But I think much more study should have been done before they released this current release," said the Schaumburg mayor.

THE FOUR organizations charged underassessments of Woodfield, land owned by Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex are costing homeowners in the township $4.7 million in tax revenue.

Atcher said the charge that Woodfield is worth $100 million is untrue. When the entire Woodfield complex is completed "there is no doubt it will be worth $100 million," Atcher said. But he noted a twin theater building, office buildings, bank buildings and ancillary land development will be included in that figure, when they are finished. If Woodfield proper (the mall and parking area) were worth $100 million alone, "it would have cost $50 to $60 per square foot, which is way beyond the cost of construction for facilities such as that," said Atcher.

The mayor also quarreled with the CAP assessment on open land, saying "the same people are making speeches about needing open space." Placing high assessments on open land would make the property too valuable to lie dormant, said the mayor. Developers would be forced to cover all land with buildings, or sell it to someone else who would, if the CAP assessment figures were used, he said.

Land values already have made farming too expensive in the township, said Atcher, pointing out the low number of farms in the area. Assessing open land in a development at the CAP rates would make it just as prohibitive to leave green area, he said.

Atcher also charged overly high assessments would discourage construction and other development to the point it would no longer take place.

"No developer of commerce and industry is going to look at land, much less purchase it for development, if the assessment is high," said the mayor. Lack of development would mean no growth in the tax base, he said.

"IN THE LAST four years Schaumburg will have placed on the land somewhere in the neighborhood of $300 million" worth of development, he said. "In the neighborhood of $100 million will go on the tax rolls this year. A huge percentage is commercial and industrial, which is picking up about half of the tax load. The only reason we have those is because of the assessment practices of the county office," said Atcher.

"If they did anything bordering on what is proposed by the IEA, Schaumburg may as well just fold up and quit," said Atcher.

The mayor also noted Schaumburg has a minimum home lot size of 10,000 square feet, much of which is open land in each lot. Changing the assessment policy for open land would also increase the assessment for individual homeowners, he said. "Assessment practices have to be equal," he said.

Atcher has tentatively scheduled a meeting Dec. 14 with the school board of Dist. 211.

"I would hope they do not make a statement or take a stand until I have an opportunity to talk with them," said the mayor. He has not requested a meeting with officials in Dist. 54, but has asked Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, to explain statements he has made relating to the CAP charges.

Village Board OKs Resident To Complete Circle Drive

In a 4-to-1 vote Monday night, the Buffalo Grove Village Board agreed to allow Steve Tenvoorde, 490 Burnt Ember Ln., to complete a circle driveway that was partially installed by the former owner of his home.

Trustee Tom Mahoney voted against the motion to approve the request, saying he felt all circle driveways were "esthetically offensive."

A village ordinance prohibits homeowners from crossing the parkway with a driveway more than once. Village Atty. Richard Raysa said the ordinance was instituted mainly for safety reasons and to reduce the cost of maintaining curbs and parkways.

Currently, there are only a few circle drivewnys in the village.

WHEN Tenvoorde purchased the home, the original owner, Alan Bresloff, promised to complete the driveway as part of the purchase agreement with Lieberman Realty Co. However, Breslof's request for a variation to the driveway ordinance was denied.

The village board reversed the decision of the Zoning Board of Appeals in giving Tenvoorde permission to complete the driveway. The concensus of opinion among the zoning board members was that Tenvoorde could not prove the unfinished driveway created enough of a hardship to warrant a variation to the driveway ordinance.

The trustees agreed with Tenvoorde's position that the incomplete driveway is an eyesore that could lower the resale value of his property, and the gravel installed by Bresloff is a safety hazard to neighborhood children.

Jack London Junior High Honor Students Announced

Gerald Kiffel, principal of Jack London Junior High School, has announced the names of the students on merit and honor rolls for the first quarter of the school year.

Court Sides With Village On Sewer Hook-Ups

A local court is supporting the effort of the Buffalo Grove Public Works Department to force residents with illegal sump pump connections to correct the violations. The unlawful hook-ups contribute to area flooding problems.

Two Buffalo Grove homeowners opted to go to court last week rather than disonnect their sump pumps from the sanitary sewer.

Associate Judge Thomas O'Malley, Arlington Heights Circuit Court, ordered Elmer Bebeau, 14 Crestview Terr., Tuesday to disconnect his sump pump by Dec. 19. Emil Ciolli, 13 Crestview Terr., was asked to reappear Dec. 19 because his attorney could not be present Tuesday.

Both residents received letters notifying them of the violations following the house-to-house survey conducted this fall by the public works department. They were given 30 days to correct the problem and after that, a 15-day extension. When the two failed to comply, they were issued subpoenas.

"I THINK THE court realizes the pressure on the Northwest suburbs in regards to flooding," said Bill Davis, public works director. "I'm sure they'll do anything they can to aid us in solving the problem."

Neither Ciolli nor Bebeau could be reached for comment on why they chose to go to court rather than correct the illegal hook-ups. Davis said the residents protested that the connections were put in before they bought their homes and they should not have to pay the estimated $300 to fix them.

Judge O'Malley ruled the corrections were required because they were in violation of the village ordinance governing water and sewer operations.

Of the 1,600 homes inspected in the survey, 63 violations were found in the older portion of the village and 242 in the subdivision. About 70 residents in the Cambridge area have been ordered to correct violations or they will receive subpoenas sometime in December.

Yule Trees Of 6 Nations Due At Mall

Christmas trees representing six nations will adorn the Buffalo Grove Mall next week.

The Buffalo Grove Junior Woman's Club will decorate each tree in the style of a different nation, and open the display Saturday morning.

Trees will represent Germany, England, Colonial America, Mexico, Denmark, and the Ukraine. There will also be a program for Hanukkah. Beginning Monday, a different nation will be featured in a short program each night at 7 p.m.

Monday, children from the Unkrainian school in Chicago and Junior Girl Scouts from Troop 426 (Longfellow School) will honor the Ukraine. The tree will be festooned with sprayed wild plant life and wire spiderwebs painted to glisten.

Tuesday, a representative of the Wheeling High School speech department will read "How the Grinch Stole Christmas," with the Danish tree.

Children from Temple Chai will sing for Hanukkah on Wednesday.

SONGS HONORING Germany will be featured Thursday, with a performance by the Deutsch-Amerikanischer Kinderchor of Chicago.

Mexico is the featured tree on Friday, and Pam Menas, Wheeling High School student, will play guitar. A large pinata full of candy will be broken for the children.

On Saturday the performance will begin at 2 p.m., with the Adlai Stevenson High School Madrigal Singers honoring the Colonial American tree.

Sunday's 2 p.m. performance, based around the English tree, will be the Wheeling High School Madrigal Singers.

Bingo! A Little Christmas Cheer For A Needy Family

The Buffalo Grove Fire Department is one of the first organizations to officially start spreading the Christmas spirit from within the village.

Following the department's regular schedule of bingo games tonight, it will sponsor a special game. The proceeds of that game will be split, with half going to the winner and the other half going to a needy family.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter said the game will be an experiment. "If we can get the people to play, we will try it every week until Christmas. If the people do not respond, we will have to drop the idea."

The department will close its regular session of games tonight and then resell cards for the charity game. Winter said the men chose to do it this way rather than sell two sets of cards at the beginning of the evening.

The proceeds from the charity game this week are earmarked for a Chicago family of nine, in which niether of the parents is able to work.

Consumer Fraud Official To Visit

Beginning this Saturday, area residents with complaints about the practices of all types of businesses may air their feelings to a local representative of the Consumer Fraud Division of the attorney general's office.

Mary Runion will be available each Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to noon in the Buffalo Grove Village Hall to provide this free service. The village hall is at 50 Raupp Blvd.

Mrs. Runion can handle complaints about companies from anywhere in the country. The grievances will be referred to the proper authorities in each state.

Village Trustee Ed Osmon arranged for the service, which will be operated at no cost to the community.

Where To Buy 8-Cent Christmas Stamps

As a special holiday service to residents of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area, three businesses are selling eight-cent Christmas stamps.

The Bank of Buffalo Grove, Logo's Book Store in Lynn Plaza, Wheeling, and Jennifer's Gift Shop in the Buffalo Grove Mall are providing the service at no extra charge. They will sell only the eight-cent stamps, to help motorists avoid traffic congestion at the Wheeling Post office.

Mark's Drugs in the Ranchmart Shopping Center also sells the stamps, but it is a contract station, and provides other postal services as well.

Everything You Want To Know About Village

Buffalo Grove Census Report Issued

by STEVE FORSYTH

Almost everything you might want to know about Buffalo Grove — and some things you don't — are in the 1970 census reports issued recently.

Although the statistics already are out of date, the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) recently gave several villages in the area copies of computer printouts of their census details.

Facts are varied, and some seem equally useless. Did you know that in 1970, 54 persons said they walked to work in Buffalo Grove?

More understandably in a motorized society, 2,983 said they drive to work, and 411 travel as passengers in automobiles. Twelve persons ride buses to work, 6 said they take a subway or El, and none take taxis. Of the remainder, 42 work at home and 94 use other means, the report says.

ON THE SUBJECT of nativity, it might be obvious to village residents that the largest portion of foreign-born are from Germany. Of 1,585 natives of foreign countries, Germany accounts for 288, or 18 per cent.

Italy was second with 171, followed by Russia, 133, Poland, 131, and Great Britain, 103. The census lists 26 other countries, some of which were not represented in the village.

The census figures also showed that 58 per cent of the men and 35 per cent of the women in the village had at least one year of college. Less than 2 per cent of the adults between the ages of 20-49 had less than high school educations.

The young age of the village was reflected in the history of its war veterans. The figures listed 348 Vietnam veterans, 494 Korean War veterans, 483 World War II vets, and only 16 World War I veterans.

AT THE TENDER age of 14 years, the village also has shown most of its growth in the past four years. Although the census only included three of those years — 1968-70 — the pattern is clear, as 33.9 per cent of the residents moved in during 1969 and 1970. In 1968, 27.9 per cent of the residents moved in, compared with only 7.9 per cent in 1967. Persons listed as always living here numbered 516, or 4.3 per cent.

Average income listed in the census was $15,488. Total income for all residents was an eye-blinking $42,822,800.

The census listed five persons with income less than $1,000 and five with income more than $50,000. Incomes of $15,000 to $24,999 accounted for 1,183 persons, or 42 per cent.

For families below a figure set as poverty level, average income was $2,220. The census showed 212 family members below poverty level.

SCHOOL-AGE members of families totaled 3,514 in public schools, 542 parochial and 276 private. The statistics include college students.

The working force included 2,616 men and 956 women, with 1,653 women unemployed (most of them presumably housewives), of 91 handicapped men and 38 handicapped women listed in the census results, all were employed.

The census is a detailed list that goes much deeper than these statistics, including types of employment of persons in the village, numbers of married, single, divorced and widowed or widowers, place of work, and other related facts. But who wants to know everything?

Ed Mashek Named To Zoning Board

Edward Mashek, 855 Saratoga Ln., was appointed by the Buffalo Grove village board Monday night to serve on the zoning board of appeals.

Mashek, a resident of the Mill Creek subdivision since August, is the seventh member of the board.

A corporate lawyer in the areas of real estate financing, Mashek has said he will have no conflict of interest because he does not handle clients in Buffalo Grove.

Mashek's term of office is scheduled to expire Sept. 27, 1976.

Palatine Girl Ready To Ship Out With 500 Sailors

by CINDY TEW

Joyce Peckenpaugh of Palatine won't be home for Christmas, but she says she's not homesick and she certainly isn't lonesome.

Joyce, 20, is in Hunter's Point, Calif., preparing for a cruise to Greece in May aboard the U.S.S. Sanctuary along with 500 other sailors — and only about 15 per cent are women.

Hospital Corpsman 3.C. Peckenpaugh is a member of the first company of female seamen.

"There have been nurses aboard hospital ships before, but we have women in our company who will be swabbing the decks and performing other seaman tasks right along with the men," said Joyce.

Joyce Peckenpaugh

She added that the women seamen in her comapny love their jobs. But Joyce enjoys her work in the medical department and says she wouldn't want to trade places with her seaman sisters.

JOINING the Navy was no spur-of-the moment decision for Joyce — she has wanted to be a sailor since she was 12 years old.

"I decided to enlist for sure after talking to a girl who was in the Navy who said it was a lot of fun."

She enlisted in March, 1971, and was sent to boot camp in Maryland. After a few months of training she was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital for additional training as a hospital corpsman.

Before her transfer to California, Joyce worked for a year in Memphis.

"So far it's been half work and half fun — I don't regret joining at all," said Joyce. She's already thinking of reenlisting for six months if the upcoming Mediterranean tour lasts longer than expected.

"I'm not sure if I'd re-up for another three years. It depends on how this coming trip goes," she said. Joyce has never been on an ocean going ship before, and isn't sure if she'll get seasick in a big storm.

According to Joyce's mother, however, the sailor never has been known to get any sort of motion sickness.

"She goes on all the rides at carnivals, so she'll probably love the trip," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. While Joyce's mother has gone along with her daughter's Naval career, her father has been somewhat hesitant.

"He was against it at first because he thought the Navy would make Joyce too tough," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. "I never saw anything wrong with it. The Navy's strict, and it's really no different than if she were working on her own."

JOYCE has been working "on her own" since she left Fremd High School her junior year, but she has always lived at home. Joyce said she quit school because she couldn't stand sitting in class all day. To enlist, however, Joyce had to take a high school equivalency test.

"She passed all her tests with flying colors," said Roger Johnson of the Palatine U.S. Naval Recruiting office.

So far, Joyce says that life in the Navy isn't too difficult, and she doesn't even mind living in barracks — being one of six children, she says she's used to having a lot of people around.

"We live in the same barracks as the men, but on different floors," she said. "We don't bother them and they don't bother us."

Creek Watershed Plan Being Eyed By U.S. Panel

Federal agencies in Washington, D.C., will have until mid-January to study and comment on the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement, according to Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee.

Hamilton said yesterday that the agreement was circulated about two weeks ago and the agencies were given a 60-day time limit in which to reply.

Comments from the various agencies will then be included in the report to the Senate public works commission.

The commission will then make a recommendation on possible federal funding for the project.

If the commission recommends federal funding, and the Congress acts on it in the next legislative session, money would be available for the 1974 fiscal year which starts July 1, 1973.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement is a $26.5 million project to build flood controls across Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost are being sought. These funds would be administered through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The remainder of the funds would come from state and local government agencies. Sixteen state and local agencies signed the agreement before it was sent to Washington in mid-September.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington, Gov. Richard Ogilvie announced that the state was not going to wait for federal funding, but would proceed immediately on the project using state funds.

A spokesman for Gov.-elect Daniel Walker, Ogilvie's successor, has said that Walker will continue to support the state's plan to proceed on the project.

BOOTS, SKATES, sticks and skis are part of the scene at the Palatine Park District administration building through next week. The annual skate, hockey and ski equipment exchange and sale is in full swing through Wednesday from 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. Here, recreation supervisor Duane S. Hosimer and Bruce G. Beiner, assistant director of parks and recreation, check out the goods for sale or trade.

Ski Novices Can Get Free Lesson Dec. 9

A Fox Trails ski instructor will lead a free presenson orientation session Dec. 9 for youths and adults planning to take Palatine Park District ski lessons beginning in January.

Registrations are being taken for the program now at the park district office, 262 E. Palatine Rd.

Saturday ski lessons are offered for residents 9 years and older. Youths 16 and under are charged $44 for the course, while older skiers have a $50 fee. Charges for non-residents are $5 more in both categories.

Adult ski lessons are offered on Friday evenings, starting Jan. 5. Fees for the Friday classes are $44 per resident.

Both programs include five one-hour lessons, tow ticket, unlimited skiing until a specified time, full equipment rental and bus transportation. A student with his own equipment will receive a $10 discount.

Six different skill levels are used, with students grouped according to ability.

The Dec. 9 presentation will include demonstrations of ski equipment, advice on proper clothing, exercises to get in shape and a question-and-answer period. The 1 p.m. meeting at the Community Park Recreation Building will end with a ski movie.

Registrations for the program will continue through Jan. 2.

OK Browne Land Rezoning

The Palatine Village Board this week gave its stamp of approval for rezoning the seven-acre Browne property on Northwest Highway.

The site, on the south side of the road between Plum Grove Road and Benton Street, has been earmarked by developers for construction of a bank and office-shop complex.

An application for a state charter for the bank is being reviewed by the state.

WINN C. DAVIDSON, attorney for the developers, had indicated that space would be set aside on the property for the Palatine Public Library, but the library was withdrawn from the overall project at his request several weeks ago to hasten the zoning change.

THOUGH THE library's board of directors was interested in the site, opposition would likely have been encountered at the village board level, because the trustees prefer that the new library be near downtown Palatine.

Davidson agreed that appropriate street dedications would be made for Northwest Highway, Plum Grove and Benton.

In addition, he will provide improvement of Benton and Plum Grove adjacent to the property.

Area residents expressed concern at public hearings on the project that construction on the Browne property may add to flooding problems, but they were assured by the plan commission and village board that engineering plans would have to meet the approval of both village and Metropolitan Sanitary District officials.

The property is owned by Royal S., Phoebe R., Robert S. and Elsie H. Browne, and Lee J. and June B. Boston. Mrs. Boston is the deputy clerk of Palatine.

Homeowners Group Schedules Dance

The Orchard Hills Homeowners Association in Palatine will sponsor a "Frosty in Wonderland" dance from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dec. 8 at the Slade Street fire station.

Music will be provided by The Moonlighters. Refreshments will be available.

Reservations, free to homeowners association members and $2.50 for non-member couples, can be made with Mrs. Raisa Armatys at 358-7683. Assisting in the planning of the dance are Mrs. Millie Selk and Mrs. Lilo Juris.

Track Officials Refuse Comment

Maximum Racing Days Were Denied

Arlington Park Race Track officials refused comment yesterday on the 1973 summer racing schedule here, which is far short of what had been anticipated.

Arlington Park was awarded a total of 83 days of racing. Of that, 77 days are for consecutive meets of the Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey Clubs and six days for the Sun-Times/Daily News charity meet.

The charity meet will run from April 19 to 25, making it the racing season opener in the Chicago area. The 77-day jockey club meets will run from April 26 to July 24.

"Those are the dates we got, and that's that," said William Thayer, general manager of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corp. He declined further comment, adding that neither he nor other track officials would say any more about the schedule.

TRACK OFFICIALS had requested a total of 126 days of racing, the maximum allowed by law. And Thayer told the Illinois Racing Board that the track deserves that many days, even if it would mean leaving only 55 racing days to be divided up among three other thoroughbred tracks in the Chicago area.

Even though the 1973 racing season will be six days longer than this year's, track officials can't be too happy with that consolation. Thayer told the racing board that Arlington Park will not be able to make future improvements to the track and backstretch without a longer racing season and the additional funds that that brings with it.

But track officials aren't the only ones unhappy with the Cook County racing schedule approved by a 4-3 vote of the racing board Tuesday. Board Chairman Alexander MacArthur resigned as a result of the schedule, along with approval of racing dates for tracks owned in part by an indicted ex-board chairman and reinstatement of gimmick betting.

MacArthur, aware of the diminishing quality of Illinois horse racing and quantity of revenue to the state, wanted a schedule that would start at Sportsman's Park, move to Arlington Park, then come back to Sportsman's and Hawthorne Park. He feels that that would have been the answer to the problem.

"WE BUILT a schedule that would bring in revenue 'legitimately,' " MacArthur said. "Our schedule would have provided one-and-a-half times the 1972 revenue next year. And it would have done it without gimmick betting."

Gimmick betting includes perfectas, trifectas and quinellas. All these are variations of picking the top finishing horses in a race in the order in which they finish. The board, at MacArthur's insistence, voted last June to restrict wagering to win, place, show and daily double betting. This was done after discovery of what MacArthur called "irregularities and improprieties" related to exotic wagering at some state tracks.

Track owners, and some track enthusiasts, wanted to see the return of gimmick betting, which they said would make them and the state more money. They got their way by a 5-2 board vote on that one, even if they didn't get as many racing days as they would have liked.

Even though Arlington Park will host the season opener next year, it won't be the earliest the track has opened. In 1971, the first race of the season was held on April 17, two days earlier than the opening date for 1973. Still, the track stayed open until Aug. 23, 1971, a season much closer to the 110 days the track had grown accustomed to until the 1972 season.

ALTHOUGH IT may not be much of a consolation, the earlier season next year does mean that Arlington Park will be open over two holidays — Memorial Day and Independence Day (July 4). The track was open only during the July 4 holiday this year. Holidays are always welcome by the tracks, because they usually mean good attendance and heavy betting.

Even though the last horse race will be held July 24 next summer, that date won't mark the end of action at Arlington Park The Future of America Fair to be held at the track apparently will be held sometime in August or early September.

The fair will be similar to any state fair in the country, according to organizers of the event. Organizers expect the 10-day affair to host some 400,000 persons.

Featured at the fair will be entertainers, carnival rides and exhibits.

Merchants Plan 'Old Time Open House'

Downtown Palatine stores will sponsor an "old fashioned open house "on Friday to attract shoppers.

Some of the stores will give gifts or refreshments with purchases. Others plan merchandise discounts.

Santa Claus will make his first appearance downtown during the Christmas season on Saturday, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Palatine Road and Brockway Street.

Santa also will be downtown from 3 to 5 p.m. daily, in addition to 7 to 9 p.m. Fridays and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays until Dec. 23.

First Steps Taken Toward Hoffman High Boundaries

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education will begin the considerations that will lead to setting attendance boundaries for Hoffman Estates High School at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine.

Several parents with children attending Schaumburg High School have asked to address the board about their preferences for the boundaries, according to Supt. Richard Kolze.

In addition, Kolze said he will present a list of criteria for setting boundaries that he will suggest the board use in making its final decision.

"We thought it would be a good idea to have some criteria set up before we present alternatives for the boundary lines," Kolze said. Criteria include achieving optimum enrollments at all schools, drawing lines along major natural boundaries where possible and establishing boundaries with the greatest possible permanence.

Also scheduled for the board meeting is a discussion of "open campus" policies which would allow students at the district's high schools to leave the grounds during lunch hour.

DONALD TUTTLE of Schaumburg has been scheduled to appear before the board to discuss the open campus issue. In October, Tuttle asked the board to reconsider policies prohibiting an open held at Schaumburg High School demanding the privilege.

Also on the agenda is a report from the Dist. 211 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, asking the board to take action to increase assessments on several properties in Schaumburg Township which are allegedly underassessed.

The Dist. 211 association, in cooperation with the Citizens Action Program (CAP), Illinois Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association, recently released a report charging that taxing bodies in Schaumburg Township are losing about $7 million because of underassessment of four properties.

According to the CAP-IEA charges, Dist. 211 stands to lose about $1.6 million in taxes next year because of the underassessments. The four properties are Woodfield Mall, Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division, and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex.

Loop Shopping Set For Feminique Trip

Holiday shopping in the Loop Dec. 14 is the next outing planned by the Palatine Park District for their Feminique Trip. Registration will close Dec. 8.

The trip will begin at 11 a.m., when a bus leaves from the park district office, 282 E. Palatine Road. It is scheduled to return at approximately 4:30 p.m.

After a luncheon at Marshall Field's, women will be free to shop in the Loop until the bus leaves. The cost of the trip is $8.50 per person. Registrations can be taken by phone or mail, but phone reservations must be paid within a week after they are made. The park district's phone number is 359-0333.

Virginia Lake 1 Of 60 In Running

School Seeks State Grant

Selection of 10 Illinois schools to participate in the Illinois Network for School Development is expected soon.

Virginia Lake School in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 is one of more than 60 schools from throughout the state which has submitted an application for a planning contract to the Illinois Network for School Development.

Marion Omiatek, assistant superintendent of instruction in Dist. 15, said 10 schools to participate in the network will be recommended to Michael J. Bakalis, Illinois Superintendent of public instruction, by Dec. 16. District officials expect to hear if Virginia Lake School in Palatine is one of the 10 schools recommended before that date.

Participation in the Illinois Network for School Development, a new network designed to encourage the implementation of innovative educational programs, would entitle Virginia Lake School to a maximum $10,000 grant to plan educational programs.

THE PLANNING of innovative educational programs at the 10 target schools selected will start in January and include workshops, visits to other schools and seminars conducted by consultants.

Implementation of the educational programs would start in the fall. The grant is only for the planning stage but if the state legislature approves additional funds more grants may be available to the 10 schools for implementation of the programs. However, the target schools selected will be warned to plan programs that could be implemented without the additional state funds.

Every school applying for the planning contract is required to make two commitments. First, they must agree to designate a planning group to define a distinctive direction for educational practices. Second, the schools selected must have substantial planning and operation autonomy within the confines of the Illinois School Code.

A final stipulation is the programs implemented at the 10 target schools must have a direct impact on no less than 2,000 students beyond the population of the target school.

Omiatek said Virginia Lake School would try to implement the plans outlined in its application whether it is recognized or not but the grant would help facilitate and accelerate the program.

WE FEEL Virginia Lake School has already started the implementaion of innovative educational programs with the multi-age grouping of eight classes and stress on individualization of instruction in several other classes, said Omiatek.

In regard to the two commitments, Omiatek said the board of education currently operates under the principle of building autonomy for all 19 schools. The principal in each school is responsible for planning, organizing, implementing and evaluating the actions of the building.

Teachers are involved in all curriculum planning, according to Omiatek. This year more than 225 teachers have volunteered to serve on various curriculum planning committees.

To get parent involvement in planning and evaluating letters were sent home to all parents of children at Virginia Lake School to ask if they would be interested in serving on an advisory committee. Fifty parents indicated they would be interested in serving on the committee and an organization meeting of the group was held last night.

All interested parents will be able to serve on the committee and a smaller steering committee will be formed to help gather and disseminate information from the larger group. The steering committee will probably be composed of nine people, a member of the board, an administrator from the central office, the principal, a teacher at the school and five parents, according to Omiatek.

Parents have been involved in curriculum planning in the past but this will be the first time in the district a group of parents has been designated as an advisory group, said Omiatek.

Omiatek said the purpose of the Illinois Network for School Development is to bring more attention to the innovative educational programs being implemented in Illinois schools.

Builder Seeks Use Of Access Road

A private developer has asked the Palatine Park District for permission to use a Palatine Hills golf course road as access to his proposed Cobblestone Court condominium project on Northwest Highway.

LeMoine D. Stitt, attorney for the developer of the 42 three-bedroom condominiums on what is now the Talbot Ranch property, told commissioners that use of the access road is desirable to avoid another entrance along heavily traveled Northwest Highway.

In return for using the park drive, Stitt offered to improve the lane to village standards, including curbs and gutters, as far as the first bend in the road.

ALTHOUGH they didn't reject the request at their Tuesday meeting, commissioners were wary of the plan because they feared it would hurt golf course use and possible create greater flooding on the 15 and 16th greens.

Public good is probably the only factor that could sway the commissioners at this point. If it can be shown that another access road onto Northwest Highway will create a serious problem, park commissioners said they would consider the proposal in a different light. But for now, they have an "enthusiastic lack of interest," in the words of Board Pres. Paul Jensen.

Palatine Hills golf course is located just north of Northwest Highway. If developers get final approval for Cobblestone Court, it will be built on the west side of the access road.

"I just can't see us adding anything that might cause problems with our golf revenue. I see this as a problem," Comr. Robert Dellamaria said.

WITH HEAVY rains during the past summer, the 15th and 16th greens on the course have frequently been flooded. As part of the developer's plans, storm water from the 4.2 acres would run into the park district's lake. Water from the lake runs through a culvert and gradually seeps into Salt Creek, near the two soggy greens.

Once the development is completed, a heavy rain could raise the current level of the lake water by about two inches, according to the project's engineer, Thomas Moody.

Representatives of the park district will attend the Tuesday meeting of the plan commission to hear further details of the project.

If park commissioners refuse to share the road, access to the development would be from Northwest Highway, a short distance west of the golf course entrance.

Funeral Parlor Is Proposed

A funeral parlor and home combination has been proposed for the northeast corner of Palatine and Ela roads in an unincorporated portion of Palatine Township.

The four-acre site just west of Inverness will be the subject of a public hearing set for Dec. 15 by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals. Applicant Louis A. Kolssak II, has requested the zoning change from single-family residential to a B-2 classification allowing a restricted service district. His proposal includes a first-floor funeral parlor with a dwelling above it.

At the southeast corner of the intersection, a Lutheran church is scheduled for construction. The area has been a major concern of Inverness residents, who fear the crossroads might be developed in high-density residences or commercial businesses.

A COMPREHENSIVE plan for directing the growth of Inverness recommended that the village annex and somehow purchase the land at Ela and Palatine roads to prevent commercial development of the region.

"Although such a project is desirable, the commission does not consider such a course feasible at this time," members of the Inverness plan commission reported to the village board in September.

The village trustees still are studying the master plan and recommendations. They may discuss the results of committee investigations at their Dec. 12 meeting.

The development of the area is important "to preserve the character of the western gateway to Inverness," according to the proposed Barton-Aschman Associates master plan.

Youth Arrested For Liquor Possession

A Des Plaines youth was arrested by Rolling Meadows police early Tuesday for driving without a license and for illegal possession of liquor.

The 15-year-old youth was stopped by police on the suspicion of illegally operating the vehicle. Police found the liquor in the car.

Police could not reveal the name of the youth, but did say the case would be taken to Circuit Court.

Bond was set at $2,500, but the youth was released when $250, or 10 per cent of the bond, was posted.

Unmarked Olds Squad Car Ordered

Palatine police detectives will soon have a new, unmarked squad car.

The fifth such vehicle, an Oldsmobile Cutlass, is being ordered from Weil Oldsmobile, Libertyville, for $3,297.

Village trustees appropriated the funds for the car at their meeting this week.

Youth Guilty Of 'Pot' Possession

A Palatine youth was found guilty of possession of marijuana and placed on a year's probation Tuesday in Niles Court.

According to the court clerk's office, Mark Ernst, 18, of 442 Everett Dr., Palatine, was placed on probation through Nov. 27, 1973. Ernst was arrested Oct. 20 with two other youths after a raid at 718 N. Fairview Ave., Mount Prospect.

The cases of Gary, 20, and Glenn Bourassa, 18, of that address, were continued until Jan. 9 after a motion by the defense. Both youths were also charged with possession of marijuana. About three pounds of the drug was seized in the raid.

Building Approval Given For Nursing Home Near Fremd

Final approval was given this week for construction of a nursing home across from William Fremd High School in Palatine.

The village board agreed to grant a special use to Alexander Webster, operator of a nursing home in Chicago and another under construction in Waukegan, for a 300-bed facility.

The home is to include an equal number of shelter, intermediate and skilled care beds for the varying amounts of attention needed by patients.

The Palatine Plan Commission had recommended approval of the special use in the R-1, single-family residential district, area. The site is at 1011 S. Quentin Rd.

MALCOLM D. MacCoun, president of Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, stated in a letter he has "serious reservations" whether additional skilled care nursing home beds are needed at this time.

"There seems to be no need for facilities for sick elderly people, but there is a real need for facilities to take care of those members of our population who are not actually ill, but who require some help in the management of their personal lives," he stated.

Animal Clinic Given Tentative OK By Village

Tentative approval has been given to an animal clinic near Harper College in Palatine.

The Palatine Village Board this week agreed in a preliminary vote to grant a special use to Dr. David Aul to operate a clinic on the north side of Algonquin Road, just west of Roselle Road. Final approval is expected Dec. 11.

The clinic would primarily serve Palatine, Inverness, Rolling Meadows and Hoffman Estates.

Village board approval would supersede a recommendation by the plan commission to deny the application for a special use.

THE PLAN commission based its objection to the clinic on the desire for large-scale development of the property near Harper College, rather than each parcel being developed independently. The plan commission also preferred that use of the site be complementary to the nearby college.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said it was his understanding that a large parcel near the Aul property will be developed as one piece, possibly as a restaurant.

He also said a check showed that Dr. Aul has retained ownership of the animal clinic site. Confusion of the ownership had delayed approval of the petition earlier this month.

Dr. Aul has indicated that the animal clinic would not have facilities for boarding pets or keeping them outside.

Dr. Aul operates the Care Animal Clinic on Palatine Road east of Rand Road, near Arlington Heights.

The PTA decided this fall to include students in the group to help bridge the generation gap. A representative was selected from each grade. Dale Hallberg will represent the eighth grade and Richard Perry the seventh grade. Eleanor Flavin and Rosemary Feuerschwenger were elected as alternates.

They will have all membership privileges, assume as much responsibility as is possible and may participate as fully as their time, energy and other duties permit.

It is hoped the student role in the PSA will help bridge the gap between generations by easing the parent teacher role from authority.

It is hoped the student role on the PTSA will help bridge the gap between generations by easing the parental teacher role from authoritarian to friend and co-worker. Also it is hoped the students will realize that one's relationship with his parents and teachers is a two-way affair and that one shares with them the obligation to make the relationships constructive and pleasant.

Crossing Guard OKd At Colfax And Benton St.

Youngsters who dodge cars on Colfax Street in Palatine as they make their way to four area schools will soon have a crossing guard to ease the way.

The Palatine Village Board this week approved the hiring of a crossing guard to be stationed at Colfax and Benton Street.

Authorization was made following a request for a crossing guard by school PTAs.

Elementary schools in the area are Joel Wood, Gray M. Sanborn, Immanuel Lutheran and St. Theresa.

Traffic checks showed about 40 youngsters crossing the Colfax-Benton intersection between 7:30 and 9 a.m., and about 70 between 2:30 and 3 p.m.

Numerous other children were observed crossing Colfax at other corners, but village trustees expressed the hope that the youngsters could be channeled to Benton Street to cross.

A suggestion by Martin Moon, principal of Sanborn School, for a crossing guard at Colfax and Plum Grove was rejected because there is a four-way stop at the intersection.

Members of the trustees' public safety committee indicated that traffic volume on Colfax attributed to the commuter station necessitates a crossing guard.

Colfax is a through street at Benton, but traffic on Benton stops for Colfax.

City Resolution Opposes Realty Freeze Proposal

The Rolling Meadows City Council has passed a resolution opposing Gov. Richard Ogilvie's proposed real estate tax freeze.

The resolution, drafted and approved during a city council meeting Tuesday, authorizes City Mgr. James Watson to explain the city's opposition to the freeze by testifying before a joint House-Senate committee now considering the bill. It further states that the city opposes the freeze in general because it does not take into consideration the natural annexation and expansion of a city and undermines the concept of home rule granted in the new Illinois constitution.

A special session of the General Assembly is currently meeting in Springfield to consider Ogilvie's freeze proposal, which was announced in mid-October. The controversial freeze would affect the total dollar amount of revenue collected by a taxing body, rather than the tax rate.

Under Ogilvie's plan, a ceiling would be imposed on the amount of revenue a taxing district could collect for the next four years. This ceiling would be set at the amount of money a district will collect in 1973.

THE RESOLUTION was drafted at the suggestion of Ald. Fredrick Jacobson (5th), chairman of the city's finance committee. Jacobson said passage of the proposal in its present form would immobilize the growth potential of local municipalities.

"We have a large development coming into the city with more than 200 apartments," he said, referring to the Meadowedge project, one of several multiple family developments being planned for the city. "We would derive no benefit from it if this is passed," he added, noting that while no additional revenue would be realized from the project, a greater demand for services would be placed on the city.

"Our concern is that because we are not levying a tax now, what happens to us?" he asked. "The crux seems to be that we will have to revert back to the last rate we had," Watson then told the council the city's last levy was two years ago. Some $225,000 was collected then, he said.

Watson also said at a city managers convention he attended Saturday, the freeze had also been discussed and a strongly-worded resolution in opposition to it had been adopted. Watson said he had offered to testify against the bill in behalf of the city manager's organization and so could present the city's resolution at the same time.

During the discussion, Jacobson noted that he was not against the idea of tax relief but rather to the proposal offered by Ogilvie.

"I THINK we realize that some tax restriction is needed, but rather than the dollar amount, the taxing rates should be frozen," he suggested.

Ald. Daniel Weber (4th) then contradicted Jacobson, saying he was not in favor of any kind of freeze, but if such a measure was passed, it should contain some amendments that would give municipalities that have no tax rate the right to levy one.

At that point Ald. Thomas Waldron (2nd) reminded the council that most observers feel the bill will not be approved. "My friends in the legislature say there is not even a prayer of this passing," he said, but added that a city resolution officially opposing the proposal would still be in order.

Jacobson agreed, and later called the freeze "An can of worms." He said the freeze proposal amounted to the state asking local governments to use "diluted funds for providing more services." He said he did not think the bill could benefit any taxing body, even school districts and municipalies which will be entitled to revenue sharing funds.

"We all realize the taxpayer needs a break," he added, "but this is not a good way."

Jaycee-ettes Set Up 'Santa's Mailbox'

The Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes are providing a way for children to save themselves the postage costs of mailing Christmas request letters to Santa Claus.

The group will set up "Santa's Mailbox" starting Saturday in the Rolling Meadows shopping center mall near Santa's greeting station. Children may bring letters to the box any time through Dec. 21. All letters which include names and addresses will be answered by Santa by return mail.

Chamber Seeks Info On Village Groups

Contributions are being accepted by the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce to raise money for the cost of Christmas decorations for the downtown business district of the city along Kirchoff Road.

According to Al Jordan, chairman of the decorations committee, only one-fourth of the needed $2,625 has been raised to date. Last year, the first in which the Chamber undertook the decorating project, funds were raised by contributions from local businesses.

Contributions may be sent to the Chamber of Commerce, 3240 Kirchoff Road.

Vehicle Stickers Go On Sale Friday

Dog licenses and vehicle stickers for 1973 will be available beginning Friday at the Rolling Meadows City Hall, 3600 Kirchoff Rd.

Both dog licenses and auto stickers cost $3.

Vehicle stickers must be displayed by Feb. 15, 1973, according to City Mgr. Jim Watson. Cars failing to display the sticker after the Feb. 15 deadline will be ticketed and fined $5 in addition to the $3 cost of the sticker.

City Acts Again To Annex Fire District

Rolling Meadows officials took another step toward completion of the plan to annex the fire protection district by Jan. 1 when the city council Tuesday unanimously approved the adoption of an ordinance providing fire protection for the city.

The measure originally had been presented to the council two weeks ago for final action, but officials decided the proposal needed further clarification of personnel benefits. Approval Tuesday came after only minor discussion of the measure.

Tuesday's action leaves one more legal matter to be arranged before the annexation, namely adoption by the fire district trustees of an ordinance dissolving the fire protection district. City Treasurer Robert Cole, chairman of the fire district committee, said that action was contingent upon the city passing its resolution first.

Cole said the fire district trustees would call a special meeting before Jan. 1 to enact their ordinance.

ONE ADDITION was made to the conditions of the ordinance when City Atty. Don Rose asked the councilmen to insert a clause requiring that six new probationary firemen be added to the force before the annexation. Rose said the new men will be chosen from the department's present eligibility list.

Other conditions in the ordinance include that the fire district will transfer and assign to the city all property and monies due the fire district, and that the city will respect the rights of all present full-time fire personnel as well as the rights of their dependents in regard to benefit arrangements.

The annexation plan was authorized in August when a referendum on the matter was approved by voters. The referendum called for the city to assume the responsibility for fire protection service for the city. It also authorized the city to levy an annual tax not to exceed .40 per cent to support the service.

The takeover of fire protection service by the city was originally recommended because the fire district was faced with rising costs and a stable .40 per cent levy. Rather than present a referendum seeking a rate increase, the city offered to assume the fire protection services. The move was offered since it was felt that the city could provide additional funds for services without an increase in the taxing rate.

U.S. Studies Watershed Agreement

Federal agencies in Washington, D.C., will have until mid-January to study and comment on the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement, according to Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee.

Hamilton said yesterday that the agreement was circulated about two weeks ago and the agencies were given a 60-day time limit in which to reply.

Comments from the various agencies will then be included in the report to the Senate public works commission.

The commission will then make a recommendation on possible federal funding for the project.

If the commission recommends federal funding, and the Congress acts on it in the next legislative session, money would be available for the 1974 fiscal year which starts July 1, 1973.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement is a $26.5 million project to build flood controls across Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost are being sought. These funds would be administered through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The remainder of the funds would come from state and local government agencies. Sixteen state and local agencies signed the agreement before it was sent to Washington in mid-September.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington, Gov. Richard Ogilvie announced that the state was not going to wait for federal funding, but would proceed immediately on the project using state funds.

A spokesman for Gov.-elect Daniel Walker, Ogilvie's successor, has said that Walker will continue to support the state's plan to proceed on the project.

Give Ice Skating As Christmas Gift

Christmas gift certificates for season skating passes, figure skating lessons, and merchandise from the pro shop are available from the Rolling Meadows Park District.

Certificates for season skating passes, either family or individual, may be purchased at the Administrative Office, 1 Park Meadow Place. Certificates for skating lessons or the pro shop may be purchased at the Sports Complex, 3900 Owl Dr.

Track Officials Are Mum On Racing Days Issue

Arlington Park Race Track officials refused comment yesterday on the 1973 summer racing schedule here, which is far short of what had been anticipated.

Arlington Park was awarded a total of 83 days of racing. Of that, 77 days are for consecutive meets of the Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey Clubs and six days for the Sun-Times/Daily News charity meet.

The charity meet will run from April 19 to 25, making it the racing season opener in the Chicago area. The 77-day jockey club meets will run from April 26 to July 24.

"Those are the dates we got, and that's that," said William Thayer, general manager of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corp. He declined further comment, adding that neither he nor other track officials would say any more about the schedule.

TRACK OFFICIALS had requested a total of 126 days of racing, the maximum allowed by law. And Thayer told the Illinois Racing Board that the track deserves that many days, even if it would mean leaving only 55 racing days to be divided up among three other thoroughbred tracks in the Chicago area.

Even though the 1973 racing season will be six days longer than this year's, track officials can't be too happy with that consolation. Thayer told the racing board that Arlington Park will not be able to make future improvements to the track and backstretch without a longer racing season and the additional funds that that brings with it.

But track officials aren't the only ones unhappy with the Cook County racing schedule approved by a 4-3 vote of the racing board Tuesday. Board Chairman Alexander MacArthur resigned as a result of the schedule, along with approval of racing dates for tracks owned in part by an indicted ex-board chairman and reinstatement of gimmick betting.

MacArthur, aware of the diminishing quality of Illinois horse racing and quantity of revenue to the state, wanted a schedule that would start at Sportsman's Park, move to Arlington Park, then come back to Sportsman's and Hawthorne Park. He feels that that would have been the answer to the problem.

"WE BUILT a schedule that would bring in revenue 'legitimately,'" MacArthur said. "Our schedule would have provided one-and-a-half times the 1972 revenue next year. And it would have done it without gimmick betting."

Gimmick betting includes perfectas, trifectas and quinellas. All these are variations of picking the top finishing horses in a race in the order in which they finish. The board, at MacArthur's insistence, voted last June to restrict wagering to win, place, show and daily double betting. This was done after discovery of what MacArthur called "irregularities and improprieties" related to exotic wagering at some state tracks.

Track owners, and some track enthusiasts, wanted to see the return of gimmick betting, which they said would make them and the state more money. They got their way by a 5-2 board vote on that one, even if they didn't get as many racing days as they would have liked.

Even though Arlington Park will host the season opener next year, it won't be the earliest the track has opened. In 1971, the first race of the season was held on April 17, two days earlier than the opening date for 1973. Still, the track stayed open until Aug. 23, 1971, a season much closer to the 110 days the track had grown accustomed to until the 1972 season.

ALTHOUGH IT may not be much of a consolation, the earlier season next year does mean that Arlington Park will be open over two holidays — Memorial Day and Independence Day (July 4). The track was open only during the July 4 holiday this year. Holidays are always welcome by the tracks, because they usually mean good attendance and heavy betting.

Even though the last horse race will be held July 24 next summer, that date won't mark the end of action at Arlington Park The Future of America Fair to be held at the track apparently will be held sometime in August or early September.

The fair will be similar to any state fair in the country, according to organizers of the event. Organizers expect the 10-day affair to host some 400,000 persons.

Featured at the fall will be entertainers, carnival rides and exhibits.

Hope To Resolve Plum Grove Alley Issue Rift

A dispute between residents of Plum Grove Village and the Plum Grove Shopping Center concerning the use of an alley as a loading zone for the center may be resolved by Dec. 12.

That date was specified Tuesday by Ald. William Ahrens, mayor pro tem of Rolling Meadows, as the deadline for a special committee to produce a solution to the 11-month-old controversy. The dispute centers around the use of a 22-foot alley located between the properties which the residents contend is being illegally used as a loading berth by the center.

The residents say delivery trucks using the alley have caused repeated damage to fences on their property.

Ahrens, acting at the city council meeting in the absence of Mayor Roland Meyer, appointed Ald. Tom Waldron to chair a four-man committee to arrive at an answer to the dispute. Others on the committee include Ald. Stephen Eberhard, City Atty. Don Rose, and Building Officer Sverre Haug.

The appointments were made after Plum Grove director Harold Brissenden, leading a delegation of about 40 persons, asked that the council act to enforce either of two city ordinances requiring a suitable barrier be constructed between the properties.

BRISSENDEN CHARGED the city has "left no stone unturned" to excuse shopping center owner Ben Trapani from the requirement that a restricting barrier be constructed along the shopping center's eastern boundary which borders the residential property.

His statement further implied that the city had permitted a violation of the zoning laws by allowing construction of establishments, including a gas station and liquor store, not allowed in the center's C-1 designated zoning classification.

Brissenden compared the case with a recent incident between the Topps store on Kirchoff Road and the city in which the city instructed the store to erect proper fencing along its border with residential property. That act had been ordered to bring he store into compliance with Article XI, Sec. 3.6 of the zoning code which requires that rear yards of C-2 community shopping districts be fenced.

He then charged that the Plum Grove Shopping Center was made "a C-2 use disguised as C-1" so that the fencing regulation would not be mandatory.

City Mgr. James Watson told the council that the center's C-1 designation was issued in 1961 when the center was annexed to the city. At that time the city's original zoning code permitted a gas station in a C-1 area. When the ordinance was revised, the city attorney recommended the center be treated as a C-3 area, since the old C-1 classification no longer applied, Watson said.

"Unfortunately, our zoning map, which is revised every year, failed to pick up the change in this area," he added.

ALTHOUGH TRAPANI was not present at the meeting, Ahrens said he had contacted him earlier but could not arrive at a settlement in time for the Tuesday meeting. He then asked Brissenden what his delegation was seeking specifically.

Brissenden said the residents would agree to pay for repairs to their fences if the city and the shopping center would pay for the construction of an appropriate guard rail along the alley. The rail would cost approximately $2,400, Brissenden said.

When Ahrens asked if Brissenden would accept the formation of a committee to consider the matter and suggest a settlement in time for action at the next council meeting, Brissenden said he would, adding, "We've had a lot of deaf ears turned to us in the past 11 months."

He was referring to past efforts in which meetings between the city, the shopping center, and Brissenden failed to produce results.

The appearance before the council Tuesday by the Plum Grove residents was the second time in three months the group has confronted the council demanding action in the dispute.

Topps Grand Opening

The Topps Store in Rolling Meadows will begin grand opening festivities today. The department store on Kirchoff Road in the downtown area, recently has been remodeled and expanded to accommodate an increase in merchandise.

Honor Students Listed

Plum Grove Junior High School in Rolling Meadows has named 282 students to the honor roll for their achievement during the first grading period.

Those honored were:

Schaumburg Still Wants Out Of Mosquito Unit

The movement in the Village of Schaumburg to end affiliation with the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) is not dead, although the village attorney has indicated it could be a tough job.

"This is not impossible, but it is difficult," Village Atty. Jack Siegel told the board of trustees.

On Tuesday, however, the board indicated it will continue its efforts in spite of the difficulty.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher responded favorably to a suggestion by Trustee Herb Aigner that the board begin enlisting citizen support, perhaps in a citizens' action committee which could attempt to spread its message to other communities.

But Atcher suggested the board first try working through an established organization. Atcher directed Village Administrator John Costo to speak on the issue at the next meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference Dec. 13 at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights. Atcher cannot attend the session himself, because of a conflict in engagements.

COSTE IS to urge conference members to begin steps to circulate a petition among NMAD member communities for abolition of the district. Success would require 5 per cent of registered voters within each town in the territory, file a court petition seeking dissolution of the district.

If the municipal conference does not indicate favor and support for Costo's request, Atcher agreed the citizens' group can be appointed. But Atcher and Siegel both noted support can be expected from one conference member, the Village of Palatine. Palatine in involved with Schaumburg in a suit with NMAD concerning village ordinances prohibiting the use of malathion and other environmentally hazardous insecticides. NMAD uses malathion.

Jaycee-ettes Set Up 'Santa's Mailbox'

The Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes are providing a way for children to save themselves the postage costs of mailing Christmas request letters to Santa Claus.

The group will set up "Santa's Mailbox" starting Saturday in the Rolling Meadows shopping center mall near Santa's greeting station. Children may bring letters to the box any time through Dec. 21. All letters which include names and addresses will be answered by Santa by return mail.

Track Officials Are Mum On Racing Days Issue

Arlington Park Race Track officials refused comment yesterday on the 1973 summer racing schedule here, which is far short of what had been anticipated.

Arlington Park was awarded a total of 83 days of racing. Of that, 77 days are for consecutive meets of the Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey Clubs and six days for the Sun-Times/Daily News charity meet.

The charity meet will run from April 19 to 25, making it the racing season opener in the Chicago area. The 77-day jockey club meets will run from April 26 to July 24.

Gov.-Elect Walker Comes To Busse School Tomorrow

Gov.-elect Daniel Walker is coming to Mount Prospect tomorrow.

Walker will be the guest of honor tomorrow morning at Statehood Day at Busse School, 101 N. Owen St.

Walker has been invited to participate in ceremonies along with State Representatives Eugene Schlickman, David Regner and Eugenia Chapman. Mayor Robert Teichert and Mount Prospect Dist. 57 Board Pres. Robert Novy also are expected to attend.

Dan Walker

Ceremonies will begin at 10 a.m. with a parade of students, each carrying a sign designating the name of a county in the state. Immediately following, Walker is expected to give a short speech on Illinois' admittance in 1818 as the 21st state in the union.

AFTER the speech, the fourth grade students will give a demonstration on the symbols of Illinois, including the state flower and the state bird. Students in the fifth grade will present information on the geography of the state, while the students in the sixth grade plan a speech on the history of Illinois. Several students also will be dressed in the costume of some famous Illinois figures, such as Abraham Lincoln.

The coordinator of Statehood Day is Patty Panula, a sixth-grade student at the school. Patty, along with members of her class, decided to plan a celebration of Statehood Day after studying a unit on Illinois history in class.

All parents of students at Busse School, as well as any other interested residents are invited to attend Friday's ceremonies.

SOMETIMES, TESTING can be fun as this preschooler shows while having his vision tested in the SLIDESmobile, a soundproof vehicle for testing preschoolers in vision and hearing. The SLIDESmobile will be at Feehanville School, 140 E. Kensington Road, Mount Prospect Dec 11, 12, 13, and 14 for screening. Registration will be held at the school from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday. For more information, call 297-4120. There is no charge.

Groundbreaking Sunday For St. John's School

A groundbreaking ceremony for a $350,000 addition to St. John's Lutheran School, 1101 Linnemann Rd., Mount Prospect, will be held at noon Sunday on the school grounds.

The new addition, an open classroom measuring approximately 22,000 square feet, will accommodate about 180 students, according to Alan Hattendorf, a spokesman for St. John's.

About 120 students now attend the school, which is housed in two buildings. One of the buildings was built in 1901, the other in 1959. When the addition is built, the older building will be remodeled for use as offices and conference rooms.

It is expected that the addition will be ready for use in September, 1973, Hattendorf said. This is also the date of the 125th anniversary of St. John's Lutheran Church. The first church building was constructed in 1848.

The church began a drive to raise funds for the new addition to the school last May. With donations and pledges made during the drive, Hattendorf estimated that the church should be left with a debt of about $100,000 after the three-year pledge period.

Church members plan to take out a loan now to begin construction. They will take out a mortgage to pay off the debt left after money from the fund-raising drive runs out, said Warren Ford, principal at the school.

Yule Play Slated

Counselors at the ICE House Counseling Center in Mount Prospect will perform an improvisational play Dec. 15 and 16 to raise funds for training of counselors.

"Twas the Night Before Christmas — Scrooge and Company" will depict what goes on at the ICE House and "tell a story at the same time," according to Jackie Kruse social therapist at the ICE House. The play will begin at 8 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 See-Gwun Ave.

Tickets are $2.50 and can be purchased by calling 394-8400. Anyone 16 years or older can buy a ticket, according to Mrs. Kruse.

Vehicle Stickers Go On Sale Friday

Mount Prospect 1973 vehicle stickers go on sale Friday.

The stickers, costing $10 for automobiles, can be picked up at the finance department, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., or by mail. Deadline for display of stickers is midnight Feb. 15.

As was done last year, senior citizens over 65 may purchase stickers for $5 with a limit of one per household. Other charges are $8 for motorcycles and between $12 and $22 for trucks, dependong on weight.

Sale of dog licenses will also begin. They cost $3 if purchased prior to Jan. 31 and $5 afterwards.

School Contract Ratified

A 2.6 per cent cost of living increase for returning teachers and a $21,825 merit pay fund are part of a 1972-73 teacher contract ratified by the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board last night.

The Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA) last week ratified the agreement, reached earlier this month during a four-hour mediations session. The two sides agred to hire a mediator when they couldn't agree on salary or merit pay.

Teachers are granted merit raises based on ratings given at the end of each year. Merit raises for the 1972-73 school year are $420 for a superior teacher as compared to $350 last year; $270 for an above average teacher as compared to $175 last year; and $121 for a competent teacher as compared to $100 last year. Ratings of unsatisfactory and below average do not carry a pay increase.

The new contract also includes a $100 raise for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree. Those teachers will now receive $7,541. Extra duty pay funds were approved as follows: $1,291.50 for John Muir School; $2,898.50 for Anne Sullivan School; $1,291.50 for Eisenhower School; $1,050 for Betsy Ross School; and $4,677.75 for MacArthur Junior High School.

The contract also includes 20 sick days for teachers plus two personal leave days a year.

Dist. 23 is the last school district in the Northwest suburbs to reach a contract agreement. The two sides called for mediation after the thirteenth open bargaining session. At that time, the board's latest contract offer included a total merit pay fund of $16,725, the same as granted teachers last year, and $14,438 in extra-duty pay funds. The board had also offered the 2.6 per cent cost-of-living pay hike, which will cost the district $19,238 more than last year.

The PHEA's last proposal included $47,000 in merit funds and negotiators for teachers indicated they would agree to a 2.6 per cent salary increase if they received the merit pay request.

Crisis Phone Hurting; Seek Volunteer Aid

The Mount Prospect Pump House Hotline, a telephone crisis intervention center operated by the Mount Prospect Community Action Plan (CAP), is in trouble because of lack of volunteers.

Opinions vary on just how serious the trouble is.

Mike Meehan, social therapist hired by CAP to supervise the hotline, said yesterday the hotline will have to close if it doesn't get more volunteers by Jan. 15. He said there are currently only 10 volunteers, four of them in training, to answer the telephones.

But Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert said yesterday the problem isn't that serious. "The problem is just one of lack of communication. We didn't plan ahead enough to make sure we'd have more volunteers," said Teichert, who originated CAP and is now involved in its reorganization. "I don't see this problem any differently than any others we've had to cope with for the past two years."

THE PUMP HOUSE Hotline, the first CAP project, opened in March, 1971, to handle calls from persons with drug-related problems. Its scope has been expanded, however, because most of the calls dealt with problems other than drug abuse.

Teichert said he will meet with students representing Forest View and Prospect high schools next Wednesday to talk about the future of the hotline. The meeting will begin at 3 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Village Hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

"Originally the idea for having a hotline came from youth," Teichert said. "We want to find out their feelings about the hotline and how to keep it going if they want it going." Teichert said they also will discuss ways to get more volunteers.

Meehan said it would be "ridiculous" to keep the hotline open with so few volunteers. Calls for help have not decreased, he said.

The hotline is only open now Sunday through Thursday nights from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Formerly it was open from noon until 1 a.m. on weekdays and 24 hours on weekends. He said the number of volunteers has steadily declined since 35 of them opened the hotline.

"A lot of volunteers have gone back to school. Some left because they felt their own needs have been met," Meehan said. He said some also left because they believed in "a collective philosophy" and did not want supervision.

MEEHAN said he is optimistic that the hotline can get new volunteers, although past efforts have failed. "I'd like to have a broad range, high school students and grandparents, and maybe married couples," he said. He said CAP plans to approach senior citizens about becoming volunteers. He said he plans to lift some of the rigid requirements of past volunteers, such as serving at least 20 hours a week. The screening process, however, will be the same, he said.

Teichert said the meeting Wednesday will be to "revitalize" the hotline just as the CAP organizational structure is being revitalized. Teichert Monday sent letters to about 30 local civic organizations asking them to officially become members of an advisory council that would help formulate policy. The council would then select a CAP board to make month-to-month decisions.

Nominating Petitions Ready Monday

Park Hopefuls To Line Up

Nominating petitions for the April 3, 1972 elections of Mount Prospect Park District commissioners will be available Monday at the park district office, 411 S. Maple, Mount Prospect, said Thomas Cooper, park district director.

Because of a change in the park district code, all candidates must file their nominating petitions between Dec. 26 and Dec. 30 of this year to qualify for election. Each candidate must file a petition containing the signatures of at least 2 per cent of the number of people in the district who voted in the last election. But in no case can the number of signatures be fewer than 25. Since only 143 residents voted in the last park district election, candidates must collect at least 25 signatures.

Two Mount Prospect Park District commissioner seats are up for election in April, those of Roland Becker and richard Ward. Becker said he plans to run for election. He said there would be "no problem" in getting the petitions ready for the filing date.

THIS IS BECKER'S first campaign for park district commissioner. He was appointed to replace Charles Paine, who resigned in 1966.

Ward, who was appointed to fill out the term of Edward Keller four years ago, said that he would "definitely run again if there is no other interest in the park district." But, Ward said, "I'm not going to commit myself yet."

Ward said he was surprised at the change in the amount of time allowed for filing petitions. "I think one or two months is a more reasonble time," Ward explained.

At River Trails Park District in Mount Prospect, there are also two seats open for nomination in April, those of George Meier and Patrick Link. Meier said he plans to run for reelection.

Link, who was appointed a village trustee last spring, will resign from the park board "before the end of this year," he said. It will be up to the park board to appoint someone to fill his seat until the election in April.

Woodfield Mall Properly Assessed, Says Atcher

Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg is properly assessed and pays a fair share of property taxes, Village Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Atcher responded to charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP), the Illinois Education Association (IEA), Dist. 211 Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association (Dist. 54).

Atcher said higher assessments on commercial properties like Woodfield would discourage their construction, and indirectly place a greater burden on individual homeowners.

"I don't have just a flat statement to make. Naturally I think it's proper that all properties be on the tax rolls at a fair figure. But I think much more study should have been done before they released this current release," said the Schaumburg mayor.

THE FOUR organizations charged underassessments of Woodfield, land owned by Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex are costing homeowners in the township $4.7 million in tax revenue.

Atcher said the charge that Woodfield is worth $100 million is untrue. When the entire Woodfield complex is completed "there is no doubt it will be worth $100 million," Atcher said. But he noted a twin theater building, office buildings, bank buildings and ancillary land development will be included in that figure, when they are finished. If Woodfield proper (the mall and parking area) were worth $100 million alone, "it would have cost $50 to $60 per square foot, which is way beyond the cost of construction for facilities such as that," said Atcher.

The mayor also quarreled with the CAP assessment on open land, saying "the same people are making speeches about needing open space." Placing high assessments on open land would make the property too valuable to lie dormant, said the mayor. Developers would be forced to cover all land with buildings, or sell it to someone else who would, if the CAP assessment figures were used, he said.

Land values already have made farming too expensive in the township, said Atcher, pointing out the low number of farms in the area. Assessing open land in a development at the CAP rates would make it just as prohibitive to leave green area, he said.

Atcher also charged overly high assessments would discourage construction and other development to the point it would no longer take place.

"No developer of commerce and industry is going to look at land, much less purchase it for development, if the assessment is high;" said the mayor. Lack of development would mean no growth in the tax base, he said.

"IN THE LAST four years Schaumburg will have placed on the land somewhere in the neighborhood of $300 million" worth of development, he said. "In the neighborhood of $100 million will go on the tax rolls this year. A huge percentage is commercial and industrial, which is picking up about half of the tax load. The only reason we have those is because of the assessment practices of the county office," said Atcher.

"If they did anything bordering on what is proposed by the IEA, Schaumburg may as well just fold up and quit," said Atcher.

The mayor also noted Schaumburg has a minimum home lot size of 10,000 square feet, much of which is open land in each lot. Changing the assessment policy for open land would also increase the assessment for individual homeowners, he said. "Assessment practices have to be equal," he said.

Atcher has tentatively scheduled a meeting Dec. 14 with the school board of Dist. 211.

"I would hope they do not make a statement or take a stand until I have an opportunity to talk with them," said the mayor. He has not requested a meeting with officials in Dist. 54, but has asked Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, to explain statements he has made relating to the CAP charges.

Wheeling Businessman 1 Of 60 Killed In Moscow Crash

Wheeling businessman Norman R. Sackheim, 56, was listed early Wednesday as one of 60 persons killed in Moscow when a Japan Air Lines plane crashed shortly after takeoff Tuesday.

Mr. Sackheim, a long-time resident of Highland Park, was chairman of the board of Strum and Drum, 177 W. Hintz Rd., and chairman of the board of XL Screw Corp., located in the same building.

Strum and Drum, founded by Mr. Sackheim in 1965, moved to its Wheeling building in 1968. The $290,000 structure has 44,500 square feet of space for offices, display rooms, manufacturing and warehouse space.

Strum and Drum imports music instruments and accessories, and the XL Screw Corp., established in 1968, imports screws, nuts and bolts. Mr. Sackheim originated the concept of importing nuts and screws meeting American standards, and has been called a pioneer in that field. The firm is in the process of planning a new building.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, Mr. Sackheim founded Heads and Threads Corp., which produced fasteners. The firm was sold in 1960 to MLS Industries, Inc. He was a director and vice chairman of the board of MLS until he founded Strum and Drum.

The family was notified of Mr. Sackheim's death early Tuesday morning, several hours after officials had announced he was one of 76 passengers on the plane. The jet flight, bound for Tokyo, had originated in Copenhagen. Mr. Sackheim was on a business rip.

Reports were that the plane exploded before it plunged to the ground. Officials estimated 16 persons had survived the crash.

Family survivors include Mr. Sackheim's wife, Pauline, two daughters, Mrs. Troy (Nancy) Weidenheimer and Mrs. Jeffrey (Barbara) Weiner, and a son, Ron A. Sackheim, president of Strum and Drum.

Funeral arrangements are indefinite. They will be delayed by a Russian inquiry into the crash.

Track Officials Refuse Comment

Maximum Racing Days Were Denied

Arlington Park Race Track officials refused comment yesterday on the 1973 summer racing schedule here, which is far short of what had been anticipated.

Arlington Park was awarded a total of 83 days of racing. Of that, 77 days are for consecutive meets of the Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey Clubs and six days for the Sun-Times/Daily News charity meet.

The charity meet will run from April 19 to 25, making it the racing season opener in the Chicago area. The 77-day jockey club meets will run from April 26 to July 24.

"Those are the dates we got, and that's that," said William Thayer, general manager of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corp. He declined further comment, adding that neither he nor other track officials would say any more about the schedule.

TRACK OFFICIALS had requested a total of 126 days of racing, the maximum allowed by law. And Thayer told the Illinois Racing Board that the track deserves that many days, even if it would mean leaving only 55 racing days to be divided up among three other thoroughbred tracks in the Chicago area.

Even though the 1973 racing season will be six days longer than this year's, track officials can't be too happy with that consolation. Thayer told the racing board that Arlington Park will not be able to make future improvements to the track and backstretch without a longer racing season and the additional funds that that brings with it.

But track officials aren't the only ones unhappy with the Cook County racing schedule approved by a 4-3 vote of the racing board Tuesday. Board Chairman Alexander MacArthur resigned as a result of the schedule, along with approval of racing dates for tracks owned in part by an indicted ex-board chairman and reinstatement of gimmick betting.

MacArthur, aware of the diminishing quality of Illinois horse racing and quantity of revenue to the state, wanted a schedule that would start at Sportsman's Park, move to Arlington Park, then come back to Sportsman's and Hawthorne Park. He feels that that would have been the answer to the problem.

"WE BUILT a schedule that would bring in revenue 'legitimately,'" MacArthur said. "Our schedule would have provided one-and-a-half times the 1972 revenue next year. And it would have done it without gimmick betting."

Gimmick betting includes perfectas, trifectas and quinellas. All these are variations of picking the top finishing horses in a race in the order in which they finish. The board, at MacArthur's insistence, voted last June to restrict wagering to win, place, show and daily double betting. This was done after discovery of what MacArthur called "irregularities and improprieties" related to exotic wagering at some state tracks.

Track owners, and some track enthusiasts, wanted to see the return of gimmick betting, which they said would make them and the state more money. They got their way by a 5-2 board vote on that one, even if they didn't get as many racing days as they would have liked.

Even though Arlington Park will host the season opener next year, it won't be the earliest the track has opened. In 1971, the first race of the season was held on April 17, two days earlier than the opening date for 1973. Still, the track stayed open until Aug. 23, 1971, a season much closer to the 110 days the track had grown accustomed to until the 1972 season.

ALTHOUGH IT may not be much of a consolation, the earlier season next year does mean that Arlington Park will be open over two holidays — Memorial Day and Independence Day (July 4). The track was open only during the July 4 holiday this year. Holidays are always welcome by the tracks, because they usually mean good attendance and heavy betting.

Even though the last horse race will be held July 24 next summer, that date won't mark the end of action at Arlington Park The Future of America Fair to be held at the track apparently will be held sometime in August or early September.

The fair will be similar to any state fair in the country, according to organizers of the event. Organizers expect the 10-day affair to host some 400,000 persons.

Featured at the fair will be entertainers, carnival rides and exhibits.

Construction Program At Forest View OKd

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education unanimously revived the Forest View High School practical architecture construction program Monday after cuts were made in the program budget.

The action reversed an earlier board position denying extra funds to the program, which will allow 12 students to spend next summer building a house near Lake Geneva, Wis.

Supt. Edward Gilbert and Forest View Prin. Larry Jenness said they have cut the proposed budget for the program by $2,090 since the board took its action two weeks ago. As a result, the board was only asked to approve $3,592 in supplemental funds rather than the more than $5,000 first requested.

The board also received three letters from parents with children in the program asking them to reconsider the action.

IN THE PROGRAM two teachers and a class of students contract to design and build a house for a private owner. Work is done on prefabrication during the school year and actual construction is completed during the summer.

Gilbert said he hopes the program will become financially self-sufficient if the class can save an owner enough money over regular construction costs. The contract with the owner will provide that half of the saving between construction cost and appraised value will be rebated to the school district, Gilbert explained.

Last summer was the first year for the program and the house built cost nearly as much as the eventual appraised value. The teachers had said they believe they can cut back construction costs this year.

Board members expressed pleasure that the budget had been cut back, but pointed out that per-pupil cost for the program remains very high. Board Member Richard Bachhuber said he would vote to continue the program one more year, but added, "At this price we can't afford to put it in the other schools and we can't spend this kind of money year after year."

TOTAL BUDGET for the program is now $10,092, with most of the funds coming from the Forest View budget and from research and development funds set aside by the district.

In other action, the board increased the pay scales for substitute teachers and teachers for home-bound students. Daily rate for substitutes was raised from $26.50 to $27.50. After 10 days on a single job, the rate will be $33 a day, up from a rate of $31.80.

Rates for teachers of home-bound students were raised 20 cents from $5.30 to $5.50 per hour.

Recommend 4 Basins For Arlington Heights

Four new retention basins, including a 100-acre lake along McDonald Creek, were presented as the cornerstones of an Arlington Heights' flood control program in a preliminary report Tuesday night.

R. J. Peterson, a consulting engineer who has been hired by the village to prepare a $14,000 flood control study, recommended the basins during a verbal report to the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

He also recommended a number of sewer line improvements.

Peterson proposed retention basins at Volz Park, Pioneer Park and the site of the old sewage treatment works along Northwest Highway.

He further recommended that a three-quarter-mile-long lake be created along McDonald Creek south of the Commonwealth Edison Co. right-of-way on land that is now outside the village in unincorporated Wheeling Township.

Ski Lessons Slated

Registration is now open for two adult ski programs being sponsored by the River Trails Park District this winter.

The first program consists of five lessons at Holiday Park in Ingleside, Ill. Lessons will be held on Jan. 5, 12, 19, 26 and Feb. 2. Cost of the lessons is $25 for those with their own equipment and $32.50 without equipment.

The second program, also at Holiday Park, includes three lessons to be offered on Jan. 5, 12, and 19. Cost of the lessons is $16.50 with equipment and $21.50 without equipment.

All fees include transportation to and from Holiday Park. Residents may register at the Park District office, 1313 Burning Bush Ln., in Mount Prospect. For further information, call 298-4445.

Freighter Stall Snarls Traffic

Crosstown Mount Prospect traffic was delayed for almost an hour Tuesday night when a 110-car freight train stalled in the middle of town.

According to police, the train had an air hose break in the brake system. The train was stopped from 7:20 p.m. until 8:10 p.m. and police officers were sent to control traffic at all four road intersections with the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks. These intersections are at Mount Prospect Road, Emerson Street, Main Street and Central Road.

Griffith To Head Caucus; Sparse Crowd Attends

by KURT BAER

The Arlington Heights Caucus last night elected Bill Griffith chairman of its candidate recommendation committee during a sparsely attended meeting void of any apparent conflict or political intrigue.

Griffith succeeds Alfred Lindsey as head of the 20-man committee which, in the next two months, will interview and nominate a slate of candidates for the village board election next April.

Last night's meeting lacked the drama of the 1970 Caucus session when an alliance of homeowners associations won control of the Caucus and attached a controversial amendment opposing the use of spot zoning for multi-family developments to the Caucus's statement of goals and objectives.

All Caucus-endorsed candidates must agree to support the statement which is in effect a party platform.

THERE WERE NO amendments proposed this year to the nine-point statement of goals which pledges Caucus candidates to:

—Maintain maximum efficiency and economy in village government and keep taxes at the lowest practicable level.

—Promote civic pride and community spirit.

—Enforce the law fairly and justly.

—Conduct village affairs without favoritism.

—Appoint only qualified persons to the various boards and commissions.

—Support the village manager form of government, embodying a board of trustees elected from the village at large.

—UTILIZE SOUND planning and zoning principles in the promotion, control and development of desirable commercial and industrial growth in the village.

—Maintain the single family residential nature of the community and protect residential areas by prohibiting the use of spot zoning for multiple family units in these areas.

—Preserve the autonomy of village government.

One important amendment was made to the Caucus by-laws.

Candidates recommended by the candidate committee now will be open to the press during the five days between the time the committee reveals its selections and the time the Caucus reconvenes to vote on its candidate slate.

IT IS THE responsibility of the candidate recommendation committee to put forth two names for each village board vacancy. The full Caucus then reconvenes to endorse one candidate for each position.

Presiding over the second Caucus meeting, which probably will be held sometime in January, will be J. Burton Thompson, a former village trustee who was elected Caucus chairman; Alfred Barboro, president of the Hasbrook Civic Association, was elected vice chairman; Sally Dodd, secretary; and Rand Burdette, treasurer.

All four officers were nominated and elected without opposition.

Signifying the lack of the kind of political rivalry that characterized the 1970 Caucus and the ensuing election in which three of the four Caucus-endorsed candidates were defeated, out-going Chairman Lindsey said after the election of new officers:

"I ONLY WON one out of four two years ago, and I only won one out of four tonight. Don't hitch your wagons to my star."

Burdette, a past president of the Arlington Terrace Homeowners Association which Lindsey now heads, is the only one of the four new officers associated with the 1970 homeowners' coup.

Retiring Caucus Chairman John White urged the approximately 140 residents who attended last night's meeting to encourage persons, whom they felt were qualified and interested, to appear before the candidate committee.

"The name of the ball game is to get out into the neighborhoods and community organizations and find competent and resourceful people," White said.

At a minimum, the Caucus is faced with finding three candidates for the village board and a village president nominee.

If a Dec. 16 referendum to increase the village board by two more trustees passes, the Caucus will be faced with nominating five trustee candidates as well as an aspirant for the village president position.

Seats were plentiful at last nights Arlington Heights Caucus meeting.

Lack Of Issue Kills Political Intrigue

by DOUG RAY

The total delegation was small — some 140 Arlington Heights residents — but the special interest groups from throughout the village were present.

Al Lindsey's group from Arlington Terrace, many who helped the maverick politician take control of the caucus two years ago, huddled near the speaker's platform. Al Lindsey had told them to show up and they did.

But instead of talking politics, they were grumbling about the upcoming Arlington Heights Park District referendum. "We seem to be left out in the cold," said Delmer Manning, a past president of the homeowner's association.

He's determined to find out why. "If you look at this referendum, we're the only part of town left out," referring to the lack of park improvement proposed for his area. A woman sitting next to him said she planned to make plenty of noise about the referendum. "We're going to be like a squeaking wheel . . . a squeaking wheel gets oil."

THE ARLINGTON TERRACE leaders had anticipated a turnout of 50 residents. Only 20 came to the meeting, a similar situation which existed in all other village homeowner's associations present at the Caucus.

Only two persons from the Surrey Ridge West subdivision in south Arlington Heights were present. A lone Heritage Park homeowner was nearby.

"I was elected to attend this meeting and then I'll go back and tell the others about it." That was the theme of the evening. Because of the apparent lack of election issues, only a few attended. During the next Caucus meeting in January, when candidates are chosen, more residents will turn out, homeowners said.

But one veteran Arlington Heights political observer noted the issues just aren't the same as they were two years ago, when 600 fiery homeowners gathered at the first caucus session.

"We had the utility tax (village imposed tax on utilities) last time and the Viatorian project," he said. The Viatorian project, units of low and moderate-income housing, proposed at Euclid and Dryden, brought the real crowds, he added.

BUT THE VILLAGE board turned down the project over a year ago and opponents of the project who were so vocal then, seemed to have no issue to rally behind last night.

Howard Kaygay, one of the leaders opposing the Viatorian project, however, said people in that area still are concerned about low income housing there. "It's not like it used to be," he said, but indicated the low and moderate-income housing issue in Arlington Heights will be an election issue in April. Only 20 persons who live near the Viatorian land turned out for the session last night.

Although the issues weren't as burning as two years ago, residents still have concerns. Traffic congestion, parks, taxes — the issues are there waiting to be pulled to the forefront as the April vote draws near.

Stonegate Homeowners don't want Arthur Street extended across Northwest Highway. For them the construction of the road is a major election issue.

But traffic congestion, parks, and even flooding, which may already be forgotten by some, are not the kinds of annoyances which bring out the throngs.

Christmas Pops Concert Set For Sunday In Grace Gym

The Arlington High School music department will present the annual Christmas Pops Concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, in Grace Gym.

Four traditional carols, "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," "Silent Night" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," will be among selections sung by the Senior Choir under the direction of Jerome Pugsley. Cindy Bunting and Dennis Steele will accompany the choir.

The Symphonic Band, conducted by Fredrick Schmoyer, will present Haydn's "Toy Symphony," selections from Man of La Mancha, and "Home for Christmas." Junior Dale Corfman and Tom Ellasek and sophomore Douglas Scott will perform "Carnival Variations," a trio for trumpets and band.

Jazz Band selections will include "Hank's Opener" by Hank Levy, "Soft Cell" by Don Sebesky, and "Chiapas" also by Hank Levy. The Jazz Band is directed by Ralph Converse.

The band and choir will join to perform Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and Bruckner's "Gloria."

There is no charge to attend this Christmas concert.

U.S. Studies Watershed Agreement

Federal agencies in Washington, D.C., will have until mid-January to study and comment on the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement, according to Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee.

Hamilton said yesterday that the agreement was circulated about two weeks ago and the agencies were given a 60-day time limit in which to reply.

Comments from the various agencies will then be included in the report to the Senate public works commission.

The commission will then make a recommendation on possible federal funding for the project.

If the commission recommends federal funding, and the Congress acts on it in the next legislative session, money would be available for the 1974 fiscal year which starts July 1, 1973.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement is a $26.5 million project to build flood controls across Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost are being sought. These funds would be administered through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The remainder of the funds would come from state and local government agencies. Sixteen state and local agencies signed the agreement before it was sent to Washington in mid-September.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington, Gov. Richard Ogilvie announced that the state was not going to wait for federal funding, but would proceed immediately on the project using state funds.

A spokesman for Gov.-elect Daniel Walker, Ogilvie's successor, has said that Walker will continue to support the state's plan to proceed on the project.

Makes Dean's List

James M. Degraff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Degraff, 424 S. Evanston, Arlington Heights, was one of 89 students at Michigan Technological University to achieve placement on the summer quarter dean's list.

To earn a place on the list, students must achieve a 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale. Degraff is a freshman majoring in geology.

2,000 Questionnaires On Flooding Returned

R. J. Peterson, a consulting engineer who is preparing a village-wide flood prevention program, reported that nearly 2,000 of the flooding questionnaires mailed to residents this fall have been returned.

"A substantial majority of these reported flooding," Peterson told a meeting of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

Peterson is using the surveys in the preparation of a comprehensive flood-control program. The village board has agreed to pay $14,000 for the engineering work.

From the returned cards, Peterson estimated that Arlington Heights residents suffered a total of $1 million in property damage as a result of the Aug. 25 storm that flooded homes throughout the Northwest suburbs and in DuPage County.

PETERSON told the committee that rainfall records indicate that Arlington Heights weathered three storms in the past five years that should have occurred only once in 10 to 25 years.

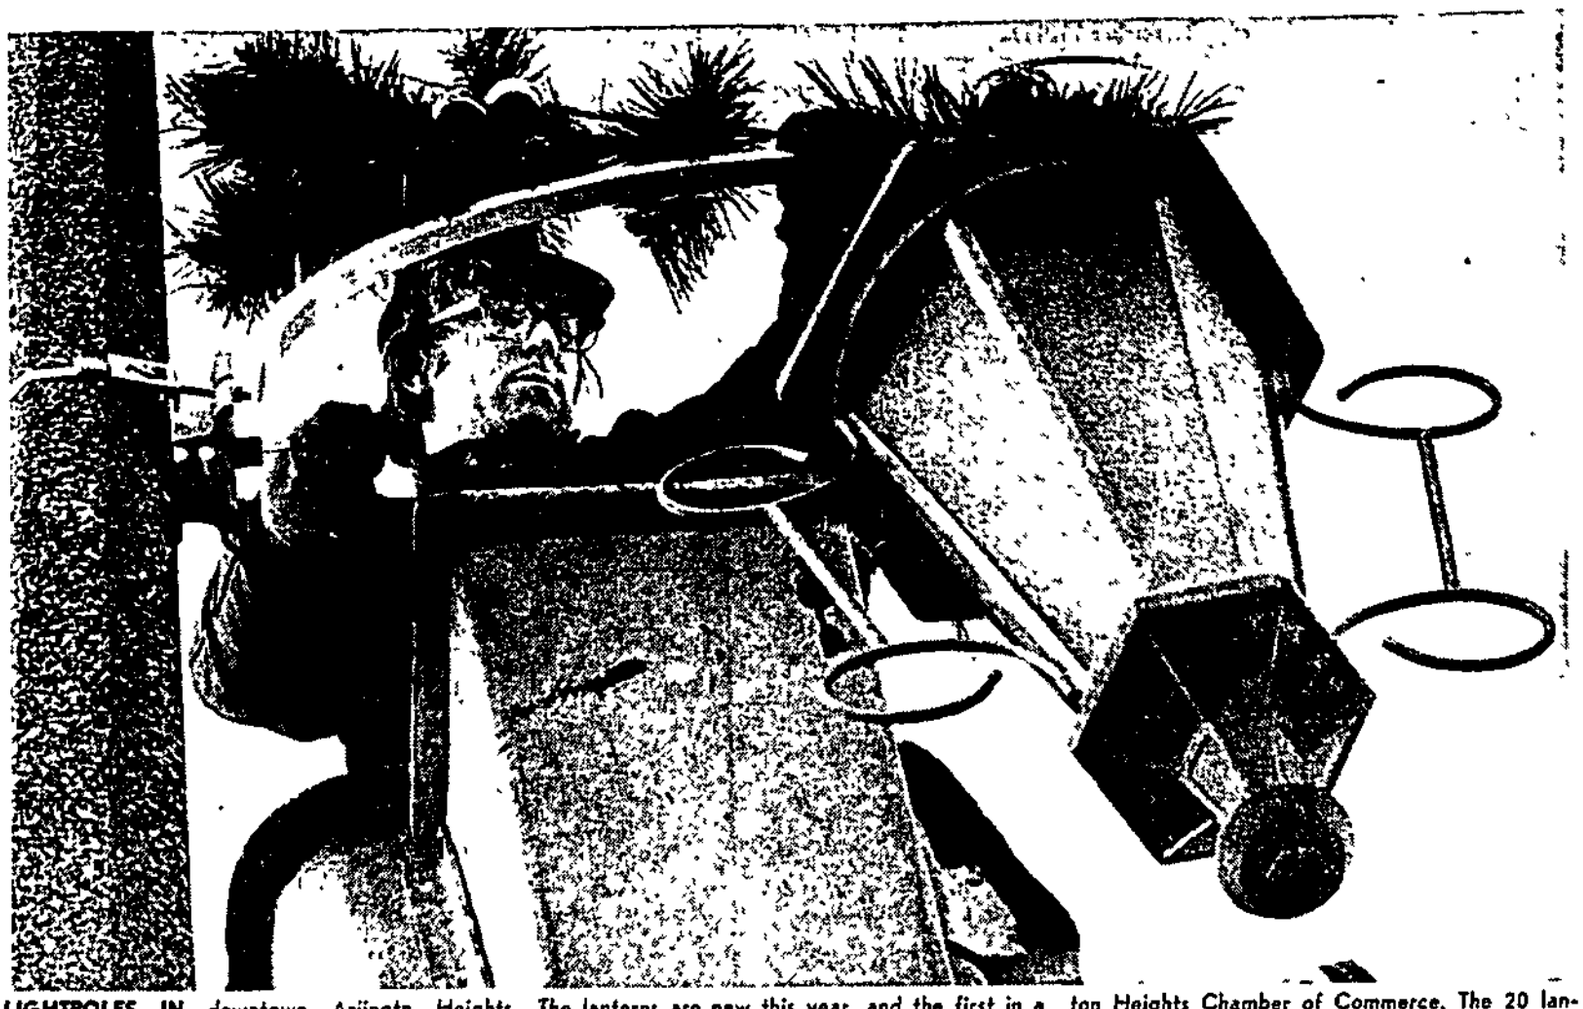
"This doesn't make too much difference. We should have a design that will safeguard Arlington Heights against the storms Arlington Heights has been exposed to," Peterson said.

Referring to the rapid growth of Arlington Heights through the addition of new subdivisions, Peterson told the citizens committee that "the biggest dollar volume of sewers have been built by somebody whose interest may not always have been in line with the village's."

"The village itself should be the controlling agency for storm water construction," he said.

Peterson's final written report is expected sometime around Christmas.

In an interim report to the committee, he outlined the need for four new retention basins, including a 100-acre lake along McDonald Creek south of the Commonwealth Edison Co. right-of-way.



LIGHTPOLES IN downtown Arlington Heights were decked with lanterns and greenery yesterday by Fred Krempl of the public works department to help brighten the spirits of Christmas shoppers. The lanterns are new this year, and the first in a series of Christmas ornaments which will be purchased over the next several years by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. The 20 lanterns cost about $4,000, according to a chamber spokesman.

Retention Lake Was First Proposed Seven Years Ago

A proposal to build a large retention lake along McDonald Creek, recently presented as part of a $14,000 flood prevention study, was first proposed in a McDonald Creek study seven years ago.

John Best, Village Planning Engr., and Tom Thornton, director of parks and recreation for the Arlington Heights Park District, recommended in 1965 that land along McDonald Creek be preserved as open space and that a 60-70 acre lake be constructed for flood control and recreational purposes.

R. J. Peterson, a consulting engineer, revived the lake proposal in an interim report to the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding earlier this week.

Peterson recommended a 100-acre lake that would run for three-quarters of a mile along the creek south of the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way.

THORNTON SAID the 1965 study recommended the lake in an area between Windsor Drive and Schoenbeck Road.

Meister-Neiberg development company has a proposal now pending before the plan commission to build 450 condominium units on 50 acres of land west of Windsor Drive. The southeast corner of this parcel is cut by McDonald Creek.

The exact engineering on the Peterson-proposed lake, which has not been completed, could have a profound effect on the Meister-Neiberg development plan.

All of the McDonald Creek land under discussion now lies outside the village boundaries in unincorporated Wheeling Township.

Although Peterson said he has not yet arrived at a cost estimate for the lake project, acquisition of the property and excavation of the lake would certainly be a multi-million project.

John Woods, Arlington Heights village pres., said yesterday that while the project's cost would be beyond Arlington Height's ability to finance by itself, the possibility of sharing the cost with other agencies should be explored.

Woods said a growing regional awareness of the flooding problem has improved the chances of finding other sources of funding. He cited neighboring municipalities, the Metropolitan Sanitary District and federal funds for open land preservation as possibilities.

Woodfield Mall Properly Assessed, Says Atcher

Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg is properly assessed and pays a fair share of property taxes, Village Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Atcher responded to charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP), the Illinois Education Association (IEA), Dist. 211 Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association (Dist. 54).

Atcher said higher assessments on commercial properties like Woodfield would discourage their construction, and indirectly place a greater burden on individual homeowners.

"I don't have just a flat statement to make. Naturally I think it's proper that all properties be on the tax rolls at a fair figure. But I think much more study should have been done before they released this current release," said the Schaumburg mayor.

THE FOUR organizations charged underassessments of Woodfield, land owned by Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex are costing homeowners in the township $4.7 million in tax revenue.

Atcher said the charge that Woodfield is worth $100 million is untrue. When the entire Woodfield complex is completed "there is no doubt it will be worth $100 million," Atcher said. But he noted a twin theater building, office buildings, bank buildings and ancillary land development will be included in that figure, when they are finished. If Woodfield proper (the mall and parking area) were worth $100 million alone, "it would have cost $50 to $60 per square foot, which is way beyond the cost of construction for facilities such as that," said Atcher.

The mayor also quarreled with the CAP assessment on open land, saying "the same people are making speeches about needing open space." Placing high assessments on open land would make the property too valuable to lie dormant, said the mayor. Developers would be forced to cover all land with buildings, or sell it to someone else who would, if the CAP assessment figures were used, he said.

Land values already have made farming too expensive in the township, said Atcher, pointing out the low number of farms in the area. Assessing open land in a development at the CAP rates would make it just as prohibitive to leave green area, he said.

Atcher also charged overly high assessments would discourage construction and other development to the point it would no longer take place.

"No developer of commerce and industry is going to look at land, much less purchase it for development, if the assessment is high," said the mayor. Lack

Track Officials Are Mum On Racing Days Issue

Arlington Park Race Track officials refused comment yesterday on the 1973 summer racing schedule here, which is far short of what had been anticipated.

Arlington Park was awarded a total of 83 days of racing. Of that, 77 days are for consecutive meets of the Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey Clubs and six days for the Sun-Times/Daily News charity meet.

The charity meet will run from April 19 to 25, making it the racing season opener in the Chicago area. The 77-day jockey club meets will run from April 26 to July 24.

"Those are the dates we got, and that's that," said William Thayer, general manager of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corp. He declined further comment, adding that neither he nor other track officials would say any more about the schedule.

TRACK OFFICIALS had requested a total of 126 days of racing, the maximum allowed by law. And Thayer told the Illinois Racing Board that the track deserves that many days, even if it would mean leaving only 55 racing days to be divided up among three other thoroughbred tracks in the Chicago area.

Even though the 1973 racing season will be six days longer than this year's, track officials can't be too happy with that consolation. Thayer told the racing board that Arlington Park will not be able to make future improvements to the track and backstretch without a longer racing season and the additional funds that that brings with it.

But track officials aren't the only ones unhappy with the Cook County racing schedule approved by a 4-3 vote of the racing board Tuesday. Board Chairman Alexander MacArthur resigned as a result of the schedule, along with approval of racing dates for tracks owned in part by an indicted ex-board chairman and reinstatement of gimmick betting.

MacArthur, aware of the diminishing quality of Illinois horse racing and quantity of revenue to the state, wanted a schedule that would start at Sportsman's Park, move to Arlington Park, then come back to Sportsman's and Hawthorne Park. He feels that that would have been the answer to the problem.

"WE BUILT a schedule that would bring in revenue 'legitimately,'" MacArthur said. "Our schedule would have provided one-and-a-half times the 1972 revenue next year. And it would have done it without gimmick betting."

Gimmick betting includes perfectas, trifectas and quinellas. All these are variations of picking the top finishing horses in a race in the order in which they finish. The board, at MacArthur's insistence, voted last June to restrict wagering to win, place, show and daily double betting. This was done after discovery of what MacArthur called "irregularities and improprieties" related to exotic wagering at some state tracks.

Track owners, and some track enthusiasts, wanted to see the return of gimmick betting, which they said would make them and the state more money. They got their way by a 5-2 board vote on that one, even if they didn't get as many racing days as they would have liked.

Even though Arlington Park will host the season opener next year, it won't be the earliest the track has opened. In 1971, the first race of the season was held on April 17, two days earlier than the opening date for 1973. Still, the track stayed open until Aug. 23, 1971, a season much closer to the 110 days the track had grown accustomed to until the 1972 season.

ALTHOUGH IT may not be much of a consolation, the earlier season next year does mean that Arlington Park will be open over two holidays — Memorial Day and Independence Day (July 4). The track was open only during the July 4 holiday this year. Holidays are always welcome by the tracks, because they usually mean good attendance and heavy betting.

Even though the last horse race will be held July 24 next summer, that date won't mark the end of action at Arlington Park The Future of America Fair to be held at the track apparently will be held sometime in August or early September.

The fair will be similar to any state fair in the country, according to organizers of the event. Organizers expect the 10-day affair to host some 400,000 persons.

Featured at the fail will be entertainers, carnival rides and exhibits.

Area Girl Ready To Ship Out With 500 Sailors

by CINDY TEW

Joyce Peckenpaugh of Palatine won't be home for Christmas, but she says she's not homesick and she certainly isn't lonesome.

Joyce, 20, is in Hunter's Point, Calif., preparing for a cruise to Greece in May aboard the U.S.S. Sanctuary along with 500 other sailors — and only about 15 per cent are women.

Hospital Corpsman 3.C. Peckenpaugh is a member of the first company of female seamen.

"There have been nurses aboard hospital ships before, but we have women in our company who will be swabbing the decks and performing other seaman tasks right along with the men," said

Joyce Peckenpaugh

Joyce.

She added that the women seamen in her comapny love their jobs. But Joyce enjoys her work in the medical department and says she wouldn't want to trade places with her seaman sisters.

JOINING the Navy was no spur-of-the moment decision for Joyce — she has wanted to be a sailor since she was 12 years old.

"I decided to enlist for sure after talking to a girl who was in the Navy who said it was a lot of fun."

She enlisted in March, 1971, and was sent to boot camp in Maryland. After a few months of training she was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital for additional training as a hospital corpsman.

Before her transfer to California, Joyce worked for a year in Memphis.

"So far it's been half work and half fun — I don't regret joining at all," said Joyce. She's already thinking of reenlisting for six months if the upcoming Mediterranean tour lasts longer than expected.

"I'm not sure if I'd re-up for another three years. It depends on how this coming trip goes," she said. Joyce has never been on an ocean going ship before, and isn't sure if she'll get seasick in a big storm.

According to Joyce's mother, however, the sailor never has been known to get any sort of motion sickness.

"She goes on all the rides at carnivals, so she'll probably love the trip," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. While Joyce's mother has gone along with her daughter's Naval career, her father has been somewhat hesitant.

"He was against it at first because he thought the Navy would make Joyce too tough," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. "I never saw anything wrong with it. The Navy's strict, and it's really no different than if she were working on her own."

JOYCE has been working "on her own" since she left Fremd High School her junior year, but she has always lived at home. Joyce said she quit school because she couldn't stand sitting in class all day. To enlist, however, Joyce had to take a high school equivalency test.

"She passed all her tests with flying colors," said Roger Johnson of the Palatine U.S. Naval Recruiting office.

So far, Joyce says that life in the Navy isn't too difficult, and she doesn't even mind living in barracks — being one of six children, she says she's used to having a lot of people around.

"We live in the same barracks as the men, but on different floors," she said. "We don't bother them and they don't bother us."

Church To Form Senior Citizen Club

St. James Parish in Arlington Heights is considering forming a club for persons 50-years-old and over.

A church committee has been formed and the Archdiocese of Chicago is assisting the group to establish the senior citizens' club.

The first organizational meeting is scheduled for Dec. 6 in the St. James Convent basement, 820 N. Arlington Heights Rd. The session begins at 12:30 p.m. Reservations are necessary and any one interested may call Mrs. Thomas Bannon, 394-1262 or Mrs. Edward Laban, 259-8055.

Wheeling Businessman 1 Of 60 Killed In Moscow Crash

Wheeling businessman Norman R. Sackheim, 56, was listed early Wednesday as one of 60 persons killed in Moscow when a Japan Air Lines plane crashed shortly after takeoff Tuesday.

Mr. Sackheim, a long-time resident of Highland Park, was chairman of the board of Strum and Drum, 177 W. Hintz Rd., and chairman of the board of XL Screw Corp., located in the same building.

Strum and Drum, founded by Mr. Sackheim in 1965, moved to its Wheeling building in 1968. The $290,000 structure has 44,500 square feet of space for offices, display rooms, manufacturing and warehouse space.

Strum and Drum imports music instruments and accessories, and the XL Screw Corp., established in 1968, imports screws, nuts and bolts. Mr. Sackheim originated the concept of importing nuts and screws meeting American standards, and has been called a pioneer in that field. The firm is in the process of planning a new building.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, Mr. Sackheim founded Heads and Threads Corp., which produced fasteners. The firm was sold in 1960 to MLS Industries, Inc. He was a director and vice chairman of the board of MLS until he founded Strum and Drum.

The family was notified of Mr. Sackheim's death early Tuesday morning, several hours after officials had announced he was one of 76 passengers on the plane. The jet flight, bound for Tokyo, had originated in Copenhagen. Mr. Sackheim was on a business rip.

Reports were that the plane exploded before it plunged to the ground. Officials estimated 16 persons had survived the crash.

Family survivors include Mr. Sackheim's wife, Pauline, two daughters, Mrs. Troy (Nancy) Weidenheimer and Mrs. Jeffrey (Barbara) Weiner, and a son, Ron A. Sackheim, president of Strum and Drum.

Funeral arrangements are indefinite. They will be delayed by a Russian inquiry into the crash.

Construction Program At Forest View OKd

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education unanimously revived the Forest View High School practical architecture construction program Monday after cuts were made in the program budget.

The action reversed an earlier board position denying extra funds to the program, which will allow 12 students to spend next summer building a house near Lake Geneva, Wis.

Supt. Edward Gilbert and Forest View Prin. Larry Jenness said they have cut the proposed budget for the program by $2,098 since the board took its action two weeks ago. As a result, the board was only asked to approve $3,592 in supplemental funds rather than the more than $5,000 first requested.

The board also received three letters from parents with children in the program asking them to reconsider the action.

IN THE PROGRAM two teachers and a class of students contract to design and build a house for a private owner. Work is done on prefabrication during the school year and actual construction is completed during the summer.

Gilbert said he hopes the program will become financially self-sufficient if the class can save an owner enough money over regular construction costs. The contract with the owner will provide that half of the saving between construction cost and appraised value will be rebated to the school district, Gilbert explained.

Last summer was the first year for the program and the house built cost nearly as much as the eventual appraised value. The teachers had said they believe they can cut back construction costs this year.

Board members expressed pleasure that the budget had been cut back, but pointed out that per-pupil cost for the program remains very high. Board Member Richard Bachhuber said he would vote to continue the program one more year, but added, "At this price we can't afford to put it in the other schools and we can't spend this kind of money year after year."

TOTAL BUDGET for the program is now $10,092, with most of the funds coming from the Forest View budget and from research and development funds set aside by the district.

In other action, the board increased the pay scales for substitute teachers and teachers for home-bound students. Daily rate for substitutes was raised from $26.50 to $27.50. After 10 days on a single job, the rate will be $33 a day, up from a rate of $31.80.

Rates for teachers of home-bound students were raised 20 cents from $5.30 to $5.50 per hour.

School Officials Investigate Plumbing

Officials of High School Dist. 214 are investigating charges that the plumbing work at Buffalo Grove High School is being installed unsatisfactorily by their plumbing contractor.

The charges were made this week at a meeting of the Dist. 214 Board of Education by Robert Pina, of 22 N. Salem Ave., a plumber who was formerly employed by the contractor, William Ziegler and Sons Inc. of Round Lake.

Pina charged that plumbing installations in building A, the main part of the school now under construction at Dundee and Arlington Heights roads in Buffalo Grove, were being made contrary to accepted codes.

He said, "I could go into building A and point out at least 10 violations." He added the contractor is using a highly flammable plastic pipe in the installation and said a representative of the plumbers union had been on the job trying to get Ziegler employes to correct the situation.

Supt. Edward Gilbert said yesterday he had contacted representatives of Orput-Orput and Associates, the building's architects, about the charges and said the architects were investigating.

He added that Ziegler was the same plumbing contractor who had worked at Rolling Meadows High School and said, "We were always very much impressed with him on Rolling Meadows."

MIKE HAVLIN, a representative of Ziegler who works on the Buffalo Grove site, said he had been notified of the charges by Orput's representatives and added "It doesn't bother me too much."

Havlin said he had fired Pina recently because of unsatisfactory work and added, "I don't think he knows what he's talking about. We use the architects' plans and specifications all the time and I don't think Mr. Pina is qualified to say what he did."

Raymond J. Smith, a representative of the Journeyman Plumbers Local 130, confirmed that he had, as Pina said, been on the job site because of what he termed "minor irregularities."

Smith said, "It is my understanding that the minor violation is being repaired. It was a minor oversight that happens on a lot of jobs."

Smith declined to specify what the irregularity was and said, "I'm surprised that Mr. Pina went to the school board and that he didn't call the state plumbing inspector." Smith added that as a union official, "I have no power to say that they have to change something on the job."

Mrs. Johns Teaching

April Cranmer Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Cranmer, 206 E. Maude Ave., Arlington Heights, has begun a student teaching internship at Audubon School in Rock Island. Mrs. Johns is a student at Augustana College in Rock Island.

At Ill. Wesleyan

Four Arlington Heights students earned a grade point average of over 3.25 on a 4.0 scale at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, during the past semester, and were named to the dean's list.

Named were Fred H. Alford, 1720 Chesterfield; Janet R. Laier, 2410 N. Pine, Ralph F. Soper Jr., 316 N. Gibbons and Florence P. Weir, 304 N. Drury Ln.

Village Board Wants Out Of NMAD

The movement in the Village of Schaumburg to end affiliation with the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) is not dead, although the village attorney has indicated it could be a tough job.

"This is not impossible, but it is difficult," Village Atty. Jack Siegel told the board of trustees.

On Tuesday, however, the board indicated it will continue its efforts in spite of the difficulty.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher responded favorably to a suggestion by Trustee Herb Aigner that the board begin enlisting citizen support, perhaps in a citizens' action committee which could attempt to spread its message to other communities.

But Atcher suggested the board first try working through an established organization. Atcher directed Village Administrator John Coste to speak on the issue at the next meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference Dec. 13 at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights. Atcher cannot attend the session himself, because of a conflict in engagements.

COSTE IS to urge conference members to begin steps to circulate a petition among NMAD member communities for abolition of the district. Success would require 5 per cent of registered voters within each town in the territory, file a court petition seeking dissolution of the district.

If the municipal conference does not indicate favor and support for Coste's request, Atcher agreed the citizens' group can be appointed. But Atcher and Siegel both noted support can be expected from one conference member, the Village of Palatine. Palatine in involved with Schaumburg in a suit with NMAD concerning village ordinances prohibiting the use of malathion and other environmentally hazardous insecticides. NMAD uses malathion.

Execution Murder Victim Linked To Other Killings

by JACK PENCHOFF

Investigators are seeking a connection between the execution style killing of a man found buried near Des Plaines last week and several other recent murders in the Chicago area.

The name of the dead man has been learned by the Herald, but is being withheld because neither Cook County Sheriff's police nor officials at the county morgue will confirm the man's identity.

The murder victim, a 44-year-old Chicago man, was reportedly killed by a gunshot wound in his head. The man's hands were tied behind his back and a pillow case covered his head. There are reports five more bullets were found in his back.

The Herald has learned the murder victim was linked to the crime syndicate and it has been confirmed the man is wanted by police in Boone County, Ill., Elgin, and Chicago. The man also reportedly has a criminal record in Washington, California, Florida and served time in an Illinois prison after a felony conviction.

THE MURDERED man was arrested in rural Belvidere, Ill. in Boone County last January after he allegedly broke into a home there. The Boone County sheriff's office said the man was captured before he could get away.

He was released on a $20,000 bond, but never appeared in court on the scheduled date.

In June the same man was arrested by Elgin police for breaking into the home of an Illinois State Trooper. He was indicted for the crime shortly afterwards but later disappeared while on bond and police in that city are still looking for him.

There have been reports the man is linked to two other murder victims found in the Chicago area but Cook County sheriff's police who are handling the investigation have denied those reports.

Dental charts of the man, who has been tentatively identified by sheriff's police, have been made and will be compared today to dental records of the man believed to be the murder victim.

Police have said they don't know how long the body was buried, however indications are it couldnt have been in the grave more than a couple of months because the body was only partially decomposed.

A leather magnifying glass case with the name of a Chicago stamp and coin shop on it and a set of upper dentures found on the body were reportedly the only clues police had.

The body was found Friday afternoon in a wooded area about 100 feet north of Algonquin Road and 100 yards west of the Tri-State Tollway just east of Des Plaines.

THE COOK COUNTY sheriff's police investigators on the case have continued to keep themselves unavailable to reporters for comment on the case. However the Herald has learned that the FBI is working on the case and detectives for the Chicago police department have also been looking into the murder.

The other murders reportedly linked to the man whose body was found near Des Plaines are also being linked to the underworld, presumably with drug traffic.

It has been learned that the apparent murder victim may have a more extensive criminal record than is now known and that police are withholding the man's name in order to check further into his background for connections with the crime syndicate.

Sheriff's police have said the man's identity will be released today.

A FOUR-STORY multi-million-dollar office building going up at 2454 Dempster St., Des Plaines, will feature an unusual health club, sauna and hand ball court for executives of tenant companies. The reinforced steel and concrete structure will have 65,400 square feet of space and be ready for occupancy next year. Leasing agent is Thomas Realty.

Charge Youth With Drug Possession

A Des Plaines youth was arrested on drug charges Tuesday after police reportedly found a quantity of drugs at the youth's home.

Police charged Anton Schorsch, 17, of 1775 Spruce St. with possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana after detectives allegedly found 19 grams of marijuana and 75 grams of barbiturates in the youth's bedroom.

According to reports, detectives Robert Zeimet and Bill Tarver went to the Schorsch home after obtaining a search warrant.

The youth was released on a $2,500 bond and is scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court Dec. 21 at 1:30 p.m.

Evaluation Team Hits Oakton College

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Oakton Community College yesterday was handed a bad report card that may mean its chances of receiving full accreditation next year are in jeopardy.

A five-member evaluation team from the North Central Association, a school accreditation organization, has been examining the goals, resources, organization, programs, and student achievement at Oakton this week.

In a summary oral report held at the college yesterday, the team combined some praise and a lot of stinging criticism of Oakton. Unlike most schools, Oakton allowed the report to be given in public, with faculty, students, community residents and the press in attendance.

NORMAN HARRIS, professor of higher education at the University of Michigan, told college officials there is "considerable room for improvement in classroom teaching." Harris said the team had been visiting Oakton classrooms since Monday and recognizes poor acoustics and temperature control as handicaps to teaching but added that even under these handicaps, classroom teaching is still below par.

Many of the classes visited appeared to be poorly planned, said Harris, with "students strolling in and out at will." There is not enough emphasis placed by teachers on learning outside of the classroom and very few books are checked out of the college library, the panel found.

Harris said the need for expanding vocational programs at Oakton is critical. He said there is a good selection of vocational courses at the college and enrollment in those courses is adequate, but questioned whether vocational programs received enough priority in light of the number of job opportunities available in Oakton's district.

Harris said he toured some of the industrial complexes in Maine and Niles townships and believes local industry "would be very eager to employ community college graduates." He said he is "concerned that career education is not receiving as much emphasis as it should," at Oakton.

THE RIGOR and standards of some of the transfer courses are "not up to par," for a student who wanted to transfer to a school like the University of Illinois after completing two years at Oakton, said Harris. He said there are some students in transfer courses at Oakton who are not adequately prepared to transfer to an upper level university.

Harris said Oakton has many pieces of audio-visual equipment that are very useful in the classroom but added that there are not enough materials for individual student study, such as films and programmed tapes.

Phyllis Drennan, assistant professor of nursing at the University of Iowa, said Oakton needs more uniform guidelines in faculty and program evaluation. She said the college needs an administrator to coordinate and innovate college programs.

Mrs. Drennan praised Oakton's student-oriented philosophy of education, which strives to meet the individual needs of each student. She said students felt that the faculty was really interested in them and that the faculty was well informed on the needs of its students.

John S. Goff, professor of social science at Phoenix Community College, Phoenix, Ariz., said the faculty is "dedicated and highly committed" but should

Food Drive For Poor

A food drive for poor residents of the Uptown area of Chicago will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the city parking lot at Lee and Miner streets in downtown Des Plaines.

Several Catholic churches in the north side community as well as the American Indian Center will store the donated food and distribute it to families in need. Any food donations will be welcome, according to sponsors of the drive.

Power Failure Hits 1,500 Homes In City

A power failure hit some 1,500 homes and businesses on the west side of Des Plaines yesterday morning after an underground cable was accidentally severed at a construction site.

According to Jerome Quilty, assistant area manager for Commonwealth Edison Co., the cable was cut on Thacker Street near the Chicago and North Western Ry. outerbelt tracks about mid-morning.

The accident caused a power cable near Algonquin Road and Third Avenue to burn, knocking out electricity for as long as two hours in some areas.

Power was off at Algonquin Junior High School and Maine West High School. Students at Maine West were sent home but normal classes will be held today, a spokesman said.

Quilty said Commonwealth Edison did not know yesterday what caused the cable break.

Holy Family Staff Officers Are Reelected

Dr. William Bagnuolo and Dr. Kenneth Maier have been reelected president and vice president respectively of the 180-member medical-dental staff of Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. With Dr. Feridun Altan, who was elected secretary-treasurer, the new staff officers will serve for 1973.

Formerly chairman of the department of medicine at Holy Family, Dr. Bagnuolo has been a member of the hospital medical staff for 11 years. After graduation from Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine, he served his internship at Cook County hospital and residency at Hines Veterans. He served as a captain in the U.S. Army Medical Corps, 1947-49.

A member of the American Board of Internal Medicine, Dr. Bagnuolo is a Fellow in the American College of Chest Physicians and a faculty member of the Stritch School of Medicine. He practices internal medicine in Mount Prospect and lives in Palatine.

Dr. Maier was graduated from the Medical College of Wisconsin (Marquette University) and served his internship and residency in radiology at Evanston hospital. Dr. Maier is a Diplomat of the American Board of Radiology and formerly a clinical instructor in radiology at the University of Illinois and a staff physician in the department of radiology, Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital. He has been director of the diagnostic radiology-nuclear medicine department at Holy Family since 1962 and lives in Glenview.

Dr. Altan was graduated from the Medical School of the University of Istanbul, Turkey. He served a one year internship at Jackson Park Hospital and 4½ years of medical residencies at St. Francis Hospital, Wichita, Kan. and St. Francis in Evanston.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Office Gear Stolen

A typewriter, a dictaphone and two portable radios worth a total value of $660 were stolen Tuesday from the office of a Des Plaines firm.

Police said thieves forced in the rear door of the Mopass Gauge Co., 23 N. Broadway, and took the items.

Tests Reveal Gas Leaks At Bud's Texaco Station

Leaks have been discovered in the underground gasoline storage tanks of yet another Des Plaines service station, it was learned yesterday.

Tests last Friday at Bud's Texaco, Busse Highway and Miner Street, revealed leaks in two of the station's three gasoline storage tanks, Lt. Richard Arthur of the city's fire prevention bureau, said yesterday.

The remaining gasoline was pumped out of the two leaky tanks and they will be removed and replaced, Arthur said.

This is the third station where leaks have been discovered since a controversy arose earlier this year over gasoline leaking from tanks at Ross Automotive, 607 River Rd.

Complaints from a next door neighbor, Burton Kosmen, 709 River Rd., forced the permanent removal of the storage tanks at Ross Automotive, after a dispute with Cities Service Oil Co. and the city.

Since then, leaks have been discovered and steps taken to correct them at Jeff's River Rand Standard Station, 1530 Rand Rd., and Maine Automotive Supply, 1300 Miner St.

The leak problems here have prompted a study by the Illinois Institute of Environmental Quality of the adequacy of state laws and regulations governing underground gasoline storage tanks.

In addition, the fire prevention bureau has promised to ask for changes in the city code that would help detect leaking tanks. Arthur said yesterday that fire prevention officials also plan to set up a regular inspection program next year for all storage tanks in the city.

Dorothy Oliver

The kitchen has always been my domain. In my stay-at-home days I loved to cook and spent many an hour over a flakey pie crust, wine gravy or doctored up stew.

One of my greatest joys was to get a new recipe and then change all the ingredients to suit my family's tastebuds until it bore no resemblance to the original.

Now those time consuming dishes are reserved for weekends only; the rest of the time we settle for get-it-made-and-on-the-table-in-a-half-hour - cause - the-kids-are-screaming-with-hunger meals. Even when you've learned 104 different ways to cook hamburger and camouflage tuna fish, some of the glamour seems to fade from concocting the evening's meal.

The kids have been satisfied with their meals in the past but Thanksgiving week changed all that. Suddenly my kitchen has been invaded by my sons the cooks. They are full of suggestions, on which pan I should use, tips on how to mix and stir, and hints on how to measure and pour.

IT STARTED with Scott. All the 5-year-olds in his class at nursery school got to stuff and bake an enormous turkey two days before Thanksgiving. The teacher stood back while 14 children took turns adding ingredients, stirring, dressing and stuffing the bird.

Pure excitement ran through the school while the finished product cooked in the oven. As parents came by to pick up their offspring, they were ushered into the kitchen to view their miraculous creation.

All the children at nursery school sat down to their very own turkey dinner the next day and they couldn't seem to eat enough.

So, now Scott is a cook and he never lets me forget it.

Billy was next. The day of the great turkey bake, Billy came home and said he needed a half cup of sugar to bring to school the next day. He wouldn't tell me why but being a loving and understanding mother, I plopped his sugar into a plastic bag and retreated to my Hamburger a la Oliver.

BY WEDNESDAY there were three cooks in the family — Scott, me and Billy. Bill's class, under the supervision of his teacher Alice Beyer, had combined their ingredients to prepare pumpkin bread.

Each kid was allowed to put their flour, sugar, eggs, spices and oil in the big bowl and give it a few stirs. Then they poured the bread into pans and baked it in a toaster oven in their classroom.

The class enjoyed their first piece of pumpkin bread together — complete with homemade butter which they had also mixed up. Then each one got to bring two pieces home to their families.

Under no circumstances would I have not eaten that piece of pumpkin bread that had been made and wrapped so lovingly. I didn't even consider the fact that I hate pumpkin anything and even smelling pumpkin pie makes me turn yellow.

You can't fake it when your own flesh and blood is standing a foot from your face anticipating your reaction when you take the first bite.

FORTUNATELY, the first bite was great as was every one thereafter. In fact it was truly delicious and didn't taste at all like pumpkin anything. (Thank you Mrs. Beyer. If your recipe had tasted awful I would have been one parent in the dog house.)

The pumpkin bread was such a success we are planning to make it for Christmas and Billy is spending his free time typing up recipes to give to anyone and everyone.

He asked me to print his recipe in my column so all of Des Plaines could share his treat. Even confirmed pumpkin haters will like it. Consider it Billy's pre-Christmas present to you.

PUMKIN BREAD
(as typed by Billy Oliver)

3 and one half cups of flour
2 cups of wite suger
1 cup of brown suger
2 tea spoons of baking soada
one half tea spoons of baking powder one and a half tea spoons of salt one teaspoon each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg one cup of Crisco oil
one cup of water
4 eggs
one and a half cups of nuts
2 cans of pumkin — small

Blend all dry ingredients then add oil, water and eggs, pumkin and nuts. Blend thoroughly. Make 2 large loaves. Bake at least one hour at 350 dreges or until dry in center.

While we're at it here's a little pre-Christmas something from Billy's mother. This one is for a Christmas cookie we feel is the best around. It's the egg yolk that makes the difference and I think if you try it . . .

NORWEGIAN CROWN
SPRITZ COOKIES

1 cup butter
½ cup sugar
2 cups flour
4 hard cooked egg yolks
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Separate egg yolks from whites and drop yolks into a pan of boiling water. Set whites aside. When egg yolks are solid remove from water and press through a fine sieve into creamed butter. Mix thoroughly. Gradually add sugar and continue creaming until well blended. Add sifted flour and extract. Force the mixture through a cookie press. (We always make wreaths, trees, animals and stars.) Brush tops with beaten egg whites, decorate with sprinkles or pieces of cherries. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 10 minutes or until the edges of the cookies are slightly brown.

... you'll like it.

Judge Questions ACLU Housing Plan

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Federal District Court Judge Richard Austin indicated yesterday he would probably not issue either of two proposed judgment orders in a suit involving locating low-income housing in the suburbs.

Judge Austin raised serious questions about an American Civil Liberties (ACLU) plan to force low-income housing in the suburbs as a means of keeping Chicago from becoming all black

The judge also said, however, he was "not overly impressed" with the past efforts of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to end segregation in Chicago public housing.

The six-year-old suit has led to several earlier orders including requirements that the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) locate public housing within white, city neighborhoods.

Judge Austin will not rule on the current motions before Jan. 3.

THE JUDGE GAVE attorneys at yesterday's hearing 35 days to file findings, conclusions and other legal memoranda with the court.

At yesterday's concluding session of the three-day hearing, ACLU Atty. Alexander Polikoff argued that public housing in the suburbs is needed in order to enforce the original order to locate low-income housing in white neighborhoods.

HUD Atty. James Murray argued, however, that suburban towns and their officials have not had a chance to be heard in the case. He said they should not be used as a "remedy to the city's discrimination."

CHA Atty. Patrick O'Brien told Judge Austin the CHA believes in a metropolitan approach to public housing. However, he said, the ACLU should sue suburban towns and counties for discrimination rather than use the CHA to build public housing in the suburbs. O'Brien said the proposed ACLU Order would send the CHA, "on a great, big snipe hunt."

"We don't think this case was ever about housing in the suburbs," he added.

Murray questioned only one witness yesterday, HUD employe Joseph P. Sabella, who said Congress had allocated little money this year to finance public housing in this area. He estimated there are funds for only 300 new, low-income housing units in Chicago this fiscal year and 500 more in the next fiscal year.

THE ACLU PLAN, initially, calls for 750 units in the suburbs in addition to 1,500 already required in the city.

The ACLU long-range proposal would have 20,000 units built in the suburbs and 40,000 in the city.

In his closing argument Polikoff predicted an appeal by HUD and the CHA to any new order handed down by Judge Austin other than an order that HUD put forth its "best effort" to stop segregation in low-income housing. He argued that Judge Austin should lay ground rules in order for a future time when money is appropriated by Congress.

Polikoff said suburban towns have not cooperated in building low-income housing so far. They should be threatened that the court will force it on them if they don't allow it voluntarily, he said.

If the judge doesn't act he will be "letting the CHA off the hook," according to Polikoff. He argued that suburbs should be forced to take low-income housing "because the evidence shows there is no other way to provide relief for Chicago residents."

JUDGE AUSTIN raised the question of whether suburban discrimination is economic rather than racial. He questioned forcing suburban towns to provide services to public housing residents without additional tax revenue.

The judge charged some sociologists "want to make the suburbs the same as the city" in order to stop "white flight to the suburbs." He also said he might wait for a U.S. Circuit Court opinion on a similar case before ruling on the ACLU and HUD proposed judgment orders.

Murray said the ACLU plan would not work. The HUD attorney said it would only lead to more lawsuits. He said, "the suburban communities have not been found guilty of any crime. CHA's discriminatory conduct can't be assigned to them."

He said the ACLU proposed order would lead to "more court transcripts, not more public housing" for poor urban blacks.

Hanukkah Service Dec. 7 In Maine Twp.

A special Hanukkah service featuring students of the first year of Sunday School will highlight the Maine Township Jewish Congregation Family service Dec. 8 at 8:30 p.m., at 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines.

A program of traditional music will be played by the 22 members of the religious school class. An early service at 4 p.m. will be recited in the chapel to welcome the Sabbath.

Ricky Pohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pohn, 9231 Merrill, Morton Grove, will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah during morning services Dec. 9 at 9:30 a.m. The Sabbath will conclude with Mincha-Maariv services at 4 p.m.

The junior congregation will be guests of the Chicago Bulls Saturday evening, Dec. 9. Eighty youngsters; led by Rabbi and Mrs. Jay Karzen, will attend the pro basketball game at the Chicago Stadium that evening.

The annual membership lunch of the MTJC Sisterhood is scheduled for Dec. 14 at 12:30 p.m. All paid-up members and prospective members are invited to an afternoon of fellowship and entertainment.

Former 'Mr.X' Charged With Bilking Church

Des Plaines police charged a Chicago man with theft Tuesday after he allegedly tried to bilk the pastor of a Des Plaines church out of $425 in a phoney parking lot paving scheme.

Lawrence Collins, 42, of 5550 N. Kenmore, Chicago, was arrested by detectives Al Freitag and George Neuman at his apartment Tuesday.

Freitag said Collins was also charged with the unlawful use of weapons after police allegedly found a pearl-handled revolver in his possession.

According to police, Collins, using the name Robert L. Goodman, signed a contract with the Rev. Martin Farrell, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, 794 Pearson St. Collins reportedly was to blacktop 2,623 feet of the church parking lot for $850 and was given $425 as partial payment.

Police said the church reported Collins when he had failed to do the job two weeks after he was supposed to and could not be contacted.

Neuman and Freitag, using the address and phone number in Collins' newspaper advertisement, traced him to the Chicago apartment.

Freitag said Collins was formerly a professional wrestler who used the stage name "Mr. X."

Collins was released on a $2,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court, Dec. 28, at 1:30 p.m.

Name 2 Area Doctors As Academy Fellows

Two doctors from the Des Plaines area have been named fellows of the American Academy of Family Physicians. They are Dr. Philip Heller and Dr. Charles Schell.

The fellowship is an acknowledgement of successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study or passing a certifying examination administered under the aegis of the American Board of Family Practice.

The American Academy of Family Physicians, representing more than 32,000 family doctors, is the only national medical group requiring members to take continuing study. Its members must take a minimum of 150 accredited hours every three years. Headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., the AAFP is observing its twenty-fifth anniversary this year.

Calculators Stolen

Two electric calculators valued at $200 each were reported stolen Tuesday from the office of a Des Plaines firm.

According to police, the calculators were taken from unlocked offices of the Teledyne Post Co., 700 Northwest Hwy., while the building was open.

New Coordinator From Charlotte, Mich.

Welch Begins Duties At Historical Society

Richard W. Welch of Charlotte, Mich., yesterday took over duties as full-time coordinator of the Des Plaines Historical Society, replacing Mary Wright, who resigned in August.

A former teacher, Welch, 30, has also served as planning coordinator for the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Metropolitan Planning Department, chairman of the Kalamazoo County Historical District Study Committee and as president of the Kalamazoo Genealogical Society.

In announcing the appointment, James Williams, historical society president, said Welch "comes to us highly recommended by his past associates, teachers and employers and the board of directors looks forward to their association with him."

Welch was scheduled to be introduced to society members last night at a general meeting of the organization in the community room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

WELCH WAS RAISED on a farm near Durand, Mich., and currently resides in Charlotte. He joined the U.S. Air Force in 1960, and after two years of training, served for two years in West Germany as a Russian translator. He is also proficient in German and Old English.

Welch received a B.A. degree from Michigan State University in 1969, majoring in historical and cultural geography, and his master's degree in 1972, also in geography. His studies included anthropology, cartography, archeology, genealogy and U.S. and Canadian history. He is certified as a Genealogical Record Searcher by the Board for Certification of Genealogists, Washington, D.C.

The new coordinator has taught social science classes at the junior and senior high school level, and at Michigan State University he taught courses in world regional geography, aerial photo interpretation and physical geography.

For one year, starting in July, 1970, he was a planning coordinator for the Kalamazoo Metropolitan County Planning Department, responsible for data-gathering of the county open space and parks study, supervised the county land use study, did cartography work and worked on federal grant application.

Welch is author of 11 published and three unpublished papers on subjects that range from historic cemetery records to the Black Hawk War, daguerrotypes, ambrotypes, tintypes and German-Jewish peddlars in the Upper Ohio Valley 1790-1830.

AFTER MISS WRIGHT'S resignation last August, a screening committee reviewed more than 50 applications for the position. Of these, eight were selected as outstanding, and four finalists were personally interviewed. According to society officials, Welch was the unanimous choice of the interviewing committee which consisted of Bert Thornton, personnel manager of the City of Des Plaines; Williams; Mrs. Pat Batka, coordinator pro-tem, Mrs. Joan Evans, vice president, and Arthur R. Wetter, secretary. Past president David Wolf was also present for the interviews, and William J. Jedlick, assistant director of Chicago Historical Society, served as professional consultant.

Welch married Wendy Barbara Fox in 1963 in England, and they have a daughter, Amanda, born in 1969. Welch's special interests in addition to genealogy include photography, camping and hiking. He has traveled extensively in the United States, western Canada and parts of Asia. He also collects old coins, old maps, stamps and antiques.

The society museum, 777 Lee St., is open to the public from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays. For information on tours or membership in the society, call 297-4912 between 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. daily.

Executive Dies In Air Crash

Wheeling businessman Norman R. Sackheim, 56, was listed early Wednesday as one of 60 persons killed in Moscow when a Japan Air Lines plane crashed shortly after takeoff Tuesday.

Mr. Sackheim, a long-time resident of Highland Park, was chairman of the board of Strum and Drum, 177 W. Hintz Rd., and chairman of the board of XL Screw Corp., located in the same building.

Strum and Drum, founded by Mr. Sackheim in 1965, moved to its Wheeling building in 1968. The $290,000 structure has 44,500 square feet of space for offices, display rooms, manufacturing and warehouse space.

Strum and Drum imports music instruments and accessories, and the XL Screw Corp., established in 1968, imports screws, nuts and bolts. Mr. Sackheim originated the concept of importing nuts and screws meeting American standards, and has been called a pioneer in that field. The firm is in the process of planning a new building.

A graduate of the University of Chicago, Mr. Sackheim founded Heads and Threads Corp., which produced fasteners. The firm was sold in 1960 to MLS Industries, Inc. He was a director and vice chairman of the board of MLS until he founded Strum and Drum.

The family was notified of Mr. Sackheim's death early Tuesday morning, several hours after officials had announced he was one of 76 passengers on the plane. The jet flight, bound for Tokyo, had originated in Copenhagen. Mr. Sackheim was on a business trip.

Reports were that the plane exploded before it plunged to the ground. Officials estimated 16 persons had survived the crash.

Family survivors include Mr. Sackheim's wife, Pauline, two daughters, Mrs. Troy (Nancy) Weidenheimer and Mrs. Jeffrey (Barbara) Weiner, and a son, Ron A. Sackheim, president of Strum and Drum.

Funeral arrangements are indefinite. They will be delayed by a Russian inquiry into the crash.

Woodfield Mall Properly Assessed, Says Atcher

Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg is properly assessed and pays a fair share of property taxes, Village Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Atcher responded to charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP), the Illinois Education Association (IEA), Dist. 211 Education Association and Schaumburg Education Association (Dist. 54).

Atcher said higher assessments on commercial properties like Woodfield would discourage their construction, and indirectly place a greater burden on individual homeowners.

"I don't have just a flat statement to make. Naturally I think it's proper that all properties be on the tax rolls at a fair figure. But I think much more study should have been done before they released this current release," said the Schaumburg mayor.

THE FOUR organizations charged underassessments of Woodfield, land owned by Union Oil Co., Motorola Inc.-Communications Division and Meadow Trace Apartment Complex are costing homeowners in the township $4.7 million in tax revenue.

Atcher said the charge that Woodfield is worth $100 million is untrue. When the entire Woodfield complex is completed "there is no doubt it will be worth $100 million," Atcher said. But he noted a twin theater building, office buildings, bank buildings and ancillary land development will be included in that figure, when they are finished. If Woodfield proper (the mall and parking area) were worth $100 million alone, "it would have cost $50 to $60 per square foot, which is way beyond the cost of construction for facilities such as that," said Atcher.

The mayor also quarreled with the CAP assessment on open land, saying "the same people are making speeches about needing open space." Placing high assessments on open land would make the property too valuable to lie dormant, said the mayor. Developers would be forced to cover all land with buildings, or sell it to someone else who would, if the CAP assessment figures were used, he said.

Land values already have made farming too expensive in the township, said Atcher, pointing out the low number of farms in the area. Assessing open land in a development at the CAP rates would make it just as prohibitive to leave green area, he said.

Atcher also charged overly high assessments would discourage construction and other development to the point it would no longer take place.

"No developer of commerce and industry is going to look at land, much less purchase it for development, if the assessment is high," said the mayor. Lack of development would mean no growth in the tax base, he said.

"IN THE LAST four years Schaumburg will have placed on the land somewhere in the neighborhood of $300 million" worth of development, he said. "In the neighborhood of $100 million will go on the tax rolls this year. A huge percentage is commercial and industrial, which is picking up about half of the tax load. The only reason we have those is because of the assessment practices of the county office," said Atcher.

"If they did anything bordering on what is proposed by the IEA, Schaumburg may as well just fold up and quit," said Atcher.

The mayor also noted Schaumburg has a minimum home lot size of 10,000 square feet, much of which is open land in each lot. Changing the assessment policy for open land would also increase the assessment for individual homeowners, he said. "Assessment practices have to be equal," he said.

U.S. Studies Watershed Agreement

Federal agencies in Washington, D.C., will have until mid-January to study and comment on the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement, according to Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee.

Hamilton said yesterday that the agreement was circulated about two weeks ago and the agencies were given a 60-day time limit in which to reply.

Comments from the various agencies will then be included in the report to the Senate public works commission.

The commission will then make a recommendation on possible federal funding for the project.

If the commission recommends federal funding, and the Congress acts on it in the next legislative session, money would be available for the 1974 fiscal year which starts July 1, 1973.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement is a $26.5 million project to build flood controls across Salt Creek. Federal funds for approximately half the cost are being sought. These funds would be administered through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The remainder of the funds would come from state and local government agencies. Sixteen state and local agencies signed the agreement before it was sent to Washington in mid-September.

After the agreement had been sent to Washington, Gov. Richard Ogilvie announced that the state was not going to wait for federal funding, but would proceed immediately on the project using state funds.

A spokesman for Gov.-elect Daniel Walker, Ogilvie's successor, has said that Walker will continue to support the state's plan to proceed on the project.

Evaluation Team Hits Oakton College

be more diverse in age and ethnic background. He said classified employes at Oakton, such as clerks and secretaries, are just as committed to the success of the school as the faculty and students.

GOFF ADDED that wages at Oakton are low. "Salaries are not awfully generous," especially for one of the wealthiest community college districts in Illinois.

John Dimitry, team chairman, and president of a community college in Michigan, said Oakton's operation in temporary facilities not affect the team's evaluation. "We think it is the students and programs that are important," he said.

Dimitry said Oakton may be putting too much emphasis on finding a site for a permanent campus.

"You might be developing an edifice complex," he said. "Site really isn't that important."

In summarizing the team report, Dimitry said Oakton is a "vital, innovative, intelligent, forward-moving institution well-staffed with qualified and alert, people," who are Oakton's biggest strength, and added that Oakton has the "financial backing that perhaps makes it the richest community college in Illinois."

Oakton's biggest weakness is its lack of methods for evaluating the success of its educational goals and programs, said Dimitry. He told college officials they should measure the impact of the college on the students and find out "what is happening in the classroom."

The team did not reveal its final decision on Oakton which will determine whether the school will be recommended for accreditation. The team will present a written report to the college early next year, and if recommended, the college will have one year to correct its faults before the final application for accreditation is made.

Rebuilding Year For East, West Gymnasts But There's Still Hope

by MIKE KLEIN

The sun came out in Des Plaines this week. They arrested it for indecent exposure.

So much for the weather report. On to sports.

This time: gymnastics.

Some people we know might not be very good at it.

Blue Demons and Warriors. Ring any bells?

Chances are they'll get their bell rung a few times.

They're rebuilding, these Maine East Blue Demons and West Warriors who've enjoyed varying degrees of success under longtime head coaches.

Tom Gardner's Demons have nearly done it all in his 11 years at East. Only the state championship has eluded their grasp. Gardner fell two spots short of an IHSA title in 1967.

Their big moment, however, came 12 months later. In one of those emotion packed wingdingers, Maine and Arlington were tied going into the final event.

State meet site: Maine East.

And the winner by TKO: It was the other guys.

Drat.

Maine West, under Sid Drain since 1960, has never come that close to the sport's Biggest Marble.

The Warriors, in fact, have never won a conference title, be it any conference, Interim Association, Mid-Suburban or Central Suburban.

But they've always been respectable and last winter, finished 7-7 overall and third in the Central Suburban.

Now, Sid Drain could look in a mirror and see Tom Gardner. Or they could switch roles with the same results.

That's because they're both staring glossy eyed at the same problems. Not enough experience. Almost no seniors.

"A couple years ago, I had a real good group of young kids who for one reason or another stopped coming out for the team," Gardner remembered. "Motorcycles, jobs, playing guitar in Old Town. You name it."

Consequently, East hasn't been up to its old tricks the past few years. Recent vintage Blue Demons have finished fourth and fifth frequently in the West Suburban where they no longer compete. They've challenged no one for the state title.

"But I've got a good group of sophomores again," Gardner said. "They're quite a different group of guys. I'm not worried about losing them."

Now listen to Drain.

"We're building with juniors because an awful lot of kids quit on us last year which has hurt us now. And on my sophomore team, I've got five major injuries so I can't really go there for much help.

"They're all injuries non-related to gymnastics," Drain said. "That's the problem. One kid fell off a hill. Another got in a fight and broke his hand. Stupid things like that."

But Drain does have three seniors, one dozen juniors, 18 sophomores and a secret weapon who's undoubtedly the best gymnast in this or many other states.

But this phenom will never don the Warrior tights. He's ineligible.

That's because Dennis Mazur is a college grad, circa Iowa State. He's also Drain's new assistant coach and helped lead the ISU Cyclones to the 1971 NCAA title.

Rock your memory a moment. You'll probably remember Dennis Mazur as the young muscleman who led Maine East to its impressive state finishes back in '67 and '68!

Now he's back. Time flies. Seems everybody grows older except Santa Claus and Little Annie Fanny.

Drain will not depend heavily, if at all, on the freshmen and sophomores who will learn their gymnastics from Mazur.

Senior letterman Phil DaPrato plus junior Keith Ways will carry all-around hopes for the Warriors. Drain also expects good results from Mark Schultd in free exercise, letterman Bill Lumpp on side horse and trampolinist Ken Heller, another monogram winner.

"We'll be very thin this year and I don't think I can predict a winning season," Drain said. "We'll just try to keep building and building.

"You never want to say you won't be a winner, but we're going to be hard pressed."

The Warriors open their new season at Addison Trails on Friday (7:30 p.m.), then host Waukegan at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

"Addison had a meet last week and scored 103 so they should be pretty rough," Drain said. "Waukegan is supposed to be down but I don't really know.

"We're shooting for around 90 but it's hard to say what we'll really do."

Numbers are so thin at East that Gardner "just talked Joe (Darby) into working high bar which filled out the third spot for me. At the beginning of the year, I had just one man working high bar — Dan Dahlin."

Dahlin and John Jurica, both seniors, are vying for all-around duties. Gardner said neither has an advantage heading into Friday's 7:30 p.m. home opener against New Trier East.

The Blue Demons will host Lane Tech andMorton East at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Darby, Gardner's top all-around performer last winter, has been relegated to just three events because of knee injuries. He'll be on high bar, parallel bar and still rings.

Unlike Drain and Mazur at West, Gardner is confident he can get occasional help from three sophomores — Mike Schwarz, John Gervens and Stan Kutin.

"I'll probably use them in certain meets, mostly non-conference, where I feel their presence will result in a varsity victory but not a sophomore defeat," Gardner said.

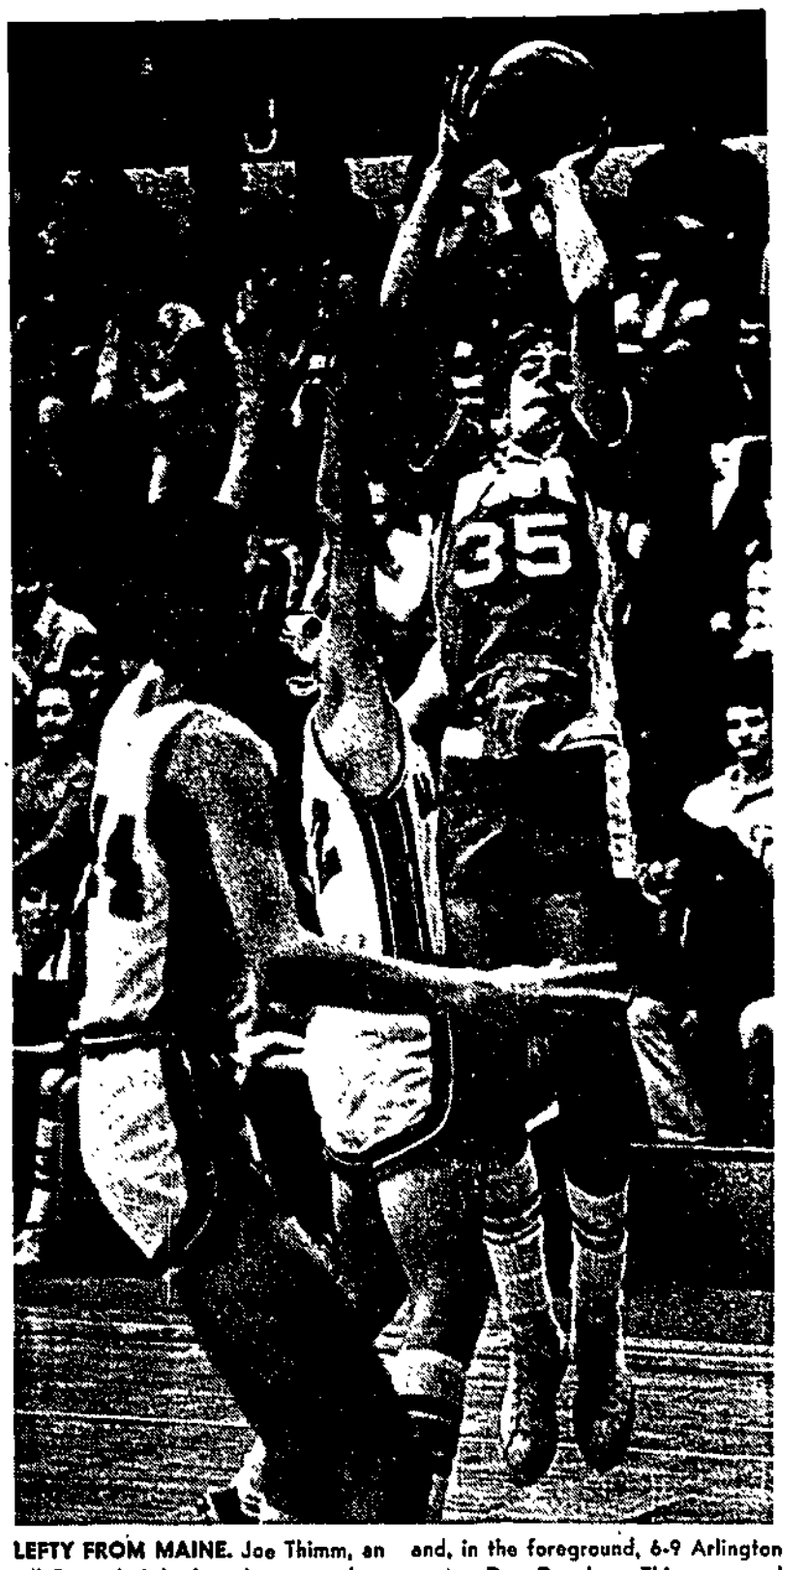
Kutin performs in all six events — free exercise, side horse, horizontal bar, trampoline, parallel bar and still rings.

Schwarz and Gervens work still rings. Gervens also competes on high bar.

That's the gym picture at East and West. You can't call it rosy. But bleak isn't exactly the word either.

Rebuilding — that's a plenty safe adjective.

Now, if somebody could just convince the sun to reveal its naked self more often, we'd all have something to smile about.



LEFTY FROM MAINE. Joe Thimm, an All-Central Suburban League selection last winter, tosses up a field goal Friday night at Arlington. Thimm is being shadowed by guard Jim Stull and, in the foreground, 6-9 Arlington center Dan Donahue. Thimm scored 13 points and grabbed nine rebounds as Arlington won, 64-49. (Photo by Dom Najolia)

Johnny Rodgers Tells Critics

'I Think I'm An All-Right Dude'

by IRA BERKOW

"I don't think I'll vote for Johnny Rodgers (for the Heisman trophy) no matter how many yards he gains for Nebraska, no matter how many touchdowns he scores. Johnny Rodgers runs wild off the field, too. He has had several scrapes with the law, including a gas station holdup, for which he was sentenced to two years' probation after a plea of guilty." — Dick Young, sports columnist for the New York Daily News.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — I called Johnny Rodgers in Lincoln, Neb., and read him the above. Following are the comments of Rodgers, a 5-9, 160-pound senior runner-receiver and two-time All-American from the University of Nebraska:

"I see articles like that and I get letters from people saying things, like that. From people who don't know me. They talk about me having bad character and that the Heisman award should go to someone who is a credit to his school, to himself, and a model to youth. But the Heisman award is supposed to go to the best football player in the country, which I think I am.

"Guys write, 'Johnny Rodgers is the flashiest back, the best back I've ever seen, but I'm not going to vote for him for Heisman.' If it's a character award, they should specify that. And then go around and meet the leading candidates. Some of these guys who vote can't know no more about me than what they read or see on TV. But how can you be an All-American and not be eligible for the Heisman award?

"There are a lot of people on my side. One of my tightest friends is Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma, who is one of my stiffest competitors for best player in the country. He said, 'Johnny, quit worrying about it, they're just trying to mess you around.'

"But I got to be fighting this bad character thing. What is a bad character? It's someone who constantly gets in trouble, who has detrimental things in mind. That's not me. I got into bad trouble one time in my life, made one bad mistake. The gas station thing. I was 17, I'm 21 now. The couple other things were traffic violations. It's surprising that someone from my background hasn't got in more trouble. I had to bring myself up, get up off my back from the beginning. I think I've shown good character.

"I grew up in the ghetto in Omaha. I didn't see my real father until I was 17. My mother had me when she was 16. So she was just a kid, too, when I was comin' up. I have a younger sister and brother. We were poor. We moved like seven or eight times before I was 13. I remember we lived in this big house, like an apartment house, but we lived on the sixth or seventh floor walkup. In the attic. We had two rooms. I had to sleep with my sister. My brother wasn't born yet. Then we moved to another apartment. One room, for four people.

"I was hanging around with all kinds of guys, playing ball with them. Some were better athletes than me. But a lot of them ended up in jail or reformatory or quit school. I could have got in trouble like 10 times, 11 times. Instead I got into one bad scape. That's all. It was a mistake, and Im sorry for it.

"But sports kept me from doing more bad stuff. And like after high school I wanted to go to college. My mother didn't understand. She wanted me to get a job. She said I wouldn't make it in college because I was too poor, too small and too black.

"Maybe she was right about the last, as far as my happiness in Lincoln. I've been made to feel like a nigger — away from football. It's a tough place for a black to live. There's no social life. It's dull. The boredom makes you want to do something. But I just stay in my apartment and watch TV every night. I feel like I'm being watched. Cops come to my apartment about four times a month, checkin' me out. They never come before 1 in the morning, and more like 2 or 3 in the morning, and get me out of bed. They say they're checin' about some disturbance.

"I was busted last summer for possession of marijuana. But I wasn't booked, wasn't charged with anything. I was cleared, because there was no marijuana. But there was national publicity.

"I had a detective check on my phone. He found it was tapped. Lot of people here not really for me. They're trying to catch me in trouble. I don't know, maybe they think I'm uppity, getting ahead too fast. I think I was being followed, too. I'm paranoid all the time here.

"I actually feel that after the football season is over, after January 1, I'm going to be a very nervous person. They won't need me any more to win football games. I want to leave here and go to school in Omaha but my probation officer won't let me. No, I won't graduate in four years. Very few athletes do. Besides, how can I keep my mind on studies with all this happening?

"I want the Heisman more than ever because so many people don't want me to have it. I have the stats for the award. I have the achievements. People gave me another chance to play. I played well, I kept straight. I think I'm an all-right dude."

LIKE SO MANY ship masts in a sea of foam, dried corn stalks stand sentinel under a winter sun, announcing the arrival of cold weather to the area . . . and the sea will soon be snow.

Do-It-Yourself

There just aren't enough large trees to give you lumber in the large dimension you often would like. And a wide thin board, even if obtainable, is subject to warping and twisting.

Plywood has improved so much in recent years that it is strong enough to use in heavy construction, fine enough to be used as elegant paneling.

Plywood is not artificial. It is made of thin sheets of natural wood glued together with plastic resins under heat and pressure.

The grains of each layer alternate, running at right angles to each other. This is what gives plywood its great strength.

The extra dimension of plywood layers is achieved by peeling logs on giant lathes. This method of cutting a log gives plywood its strange grain and identifies rotary grain plywood, the most common.

MORE CONVENTIONAL and handsome grains can be obtained by cutting the log in half and then slicing with razor sharp blades into extremely thin sheets, or by quartering the log and then slicing. Such plywood is more expensive.

Just as with ordinary lumber, plywood is available in both softwood and hardwood. There are also interior and exterior grades from which to choose. The exterior grades are bonded with resins that are waterproof.

Plywood differs in the way you handle it. Cutting is the problem most people encounter since there is a tendency for the cut to be ragged and full of splinters along one surface.

You want to protect the good side of the plywood. To do this, remember that the point of each saw tooth must enter the wood on the surface that will be exposed, the surface you want to leave in good condition.

Using a hand saw or a table saw, keep the good side up. Using a portable power saw, keep the good face down.

"IF YOU LAY out a pattern on the plywood, keep this in mind when you do it and trace the pattern on the proper side depending on what kind of a saw you are going to use.

Use a fine tooth blade on a power saw and set the height so that the teeth just protrude above the plywood as you cut through it.

Planing can chew up an edge if done as you would with ordinary lumber. Work along the finish side first, angling the blade toward the center line of the wood. Use short strokes and don't let the blade go through to the opposite side.

When you have finished as far as you can on one edge, turn the work over and work from the opposite edge.

Should you have to sand, always sand with the grain.

Plywood generally comes in sheets four by eight feet. Take advantage of the size and lay out your work with as little waste as possible.

Happy New Year! No January Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — No one will be drafted into the armed forces in January and the total draft for the first six months of 1973 will be less than 10,000, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said yesterday.

That would make the total draft for fiscal year 1973, which ends June 30, about 50,000.

The draft is scheduled to expire June 30. Laird said he anticipated no problem filling active duty forces after that date with volunteers.

However, he said if Congress did not approve enlistment bonuses for the National Guard and the reserves, there might have to be a special draft after June 30 to keep reserve forces up to strength.

The reserves and Guard are now about 45,000 men short of their authorized strength.

Traffic Deaths On Rise; 12 Die This Year, 2 Over Weekend

There have been 12 traffic fatalities in Des Plaines so far this year, an increase over the seven traffic deaths last year and three in 1970.

The latest victims were killed during the weekend in two separate auto accidents.

Elizabeth A. Rogers, 18, of 6216 Nordica, Chicago was killed about 8 p.m. Saturday when she reportedly drove her car through a red traffic light at the intersection of Rand and Wolf Roads colliding with a second auto.

Thomas A. Alberts, 24, of 25 Greenwood Ave., Park Ridge was killed early Sunday morning when the car he was driving northbound on Mount Prospect Road collided with a car driven by a Chicago man who was southbound in the northbound lane. The Chicago man has been charged with reckless homicide.

THE FIRST traffic fatality of 1972 occurred Jan. 16 shortlay after 7 a.m. when Barbara Dixon, 36, of 4429 Calumet, Chicago, died of head injuries.

The woman had been a passenger in a car driven by a Chicago man who collided with an eastbound auto on Touhy Avenue while he was attempting to turn left onto Wolf Road from the westbound Touhy lane.

The driver of the auto Mrs. Dixon was in, was charged with failure to yield right of way.

On Jan. 16 Mrs. Ruth Jess, 48, of 515 S. Waterman Avenue, Arlington Heights, was killed about 1 a.m. when the auto she was a passenger in went off the road and struck a bridge abutment on the Northwest Highway S-curve just west of the downtown area. Mrs. Jess' husband, George, was driving the auto

On May 31, Alan T. Schiller, 27, of 2631 N. 73rd Ave., Elmwood Park, was killed when the auto he was driving northbound on River Road reportedly crossed the double yellow center lines and collided with another auto traveling southbound near Gregory Street.

Michael J. Conoby, 21, of 1344 East Ave., Berwyn, was killed shortly before 4 a.m., June 18, when the auto he was a passenger in lost control after crossing the North Western Railway tracks on River Road at a high rate of speed and slammed into the wall of a shed at Lagerhausen Lumber Co., 1615 Ellinwood St.

THE FIFTH Des Plaines traffic fatality occurred during a storm July 14 when a tree branch fell on top of a car on Graceland Avenue, just south of Prairie Avenue. Terry A. Niko, 23, of 7500 Elmhurst Road, Bensenville, was crushed to death in the auto.

James E. Reddington, 17, of 2147 Scotchpine Ln., Northbrook, was killed July 27 when the motorcycle he was riding ran into a wall at the Crane Packing Co., 367 Golf Road.

On Oct. 28 there were two traffic fatalities. At 9:30 a.m. James T. Consodine was killed when he was struck by an auto while crossing Oakton Street near Maple Street.

At 11:04 p.m. Gary L. Schremmer, 25, of 607 Jefferson, Elgin, was killed when the auto he was driving westbound on Golf Road between Rand and River Roads crossed the center line and collided with an eastbound auto on Golf Road.

A passenger in Schremmer's car, Phyllis DeParis 18, of 301 N. First St., Maywood died a few days later at Holy Family Hospital of injuries suffered from that accident.

On Nov. 11 Mrs. Joan Klapka, 40, of 1492 Algonquin Road was killed when her auto collided with another car at the intersection of Maple Street and Lincoln Avenue.

Family Key To Emotional Distress?

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 125 bed psychiatric hospital, known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

The Search For Mental Health

When a psychiatrist sees a patient who is having some kind of emotional difficulty, chances are the patient is reflecting his family's problems.

"When a person living with a family and growing up with a family has developed a series of difficulties in interpersonal relationships," explained a Temple University psychiatry professor, "he can be treated more effectively along with his family."

According to Dr. David Rubinstein, who is affiliated with the Eastern Psychiatric Institute of Philadelphia, a person's ability or inability to form good interpersonal relationships depends a great deal on the kind of relationships which existed within his family.

"By studying the family," he explained, "we can find if there have been abnormalities in developing relationships. We can find out what is basically wrong in the ill person's attitude towards other and we could also find out what other aspects of his relationship with his family can be further explored, improved or ameliorated."

DR. RUBINSTEIN posed a hypothetical case. "If a parent called me to say his child was acting very strange I would ask to see the child and also to see the caller. I would then try to evaluate the patient who is having a crisis and also I would find out what his family has done to cope with this behavior.

"My experience has shown that family members can learn to do much more than they have to help a person in trouble. The fact that they haven't done more is not because they don't want to but because they don't know any better.

"Quite often," Dr. Rubinstein continued, "we have been able to prevent hospitalization of the psychiatric patient because the family cooperates as a therapeutic agent. This of course saves the family despair, anxiety and the fear of not knowing what will happen with this person in the future. When a family is helpful we have found the patient even recuperates much faster."

As a member of the social unit: the family; the patient should not be isolated, according to Dr. Rubinstein, from this unit so the family is involved with the patient throughout his hospital stay.

"We involve the entire family as soon as possible in regular sessions. We include all children in the family who can contribute to the sessions. By working on the family's role relationship we help not only the patient but we prevent further problems in the family as well."

WHAT IF A family doesn't want to participate in therapy? "Usually I give them an example," explained Dr. Rubinstein, "I tell them they are asking me to do something while at the same time they're asking me not to be able to do it. I explain the importance of their resources in helping their patient get rehabilitated.

"I tell them if they brought me a car for repair they would bring the whole car rather than the malnunctioning part. In turn, if they ask me to repair anything in the family then it's important that I handle all the difficulties of the unit.

"I find," Dr. Rubinstein added, "that if a family is given the opportunity to sit together and discuss their difficulties and find how much they can gain from sitting together — they are more prone to come in.

"The whole principge of rehabilitation is that we can count on the positive healthy aspects of the family and the patient's personality and then utilize this in the cure of the so-called patient."

Area Girl Ready To Ship Out With 500 Sailors

by CINDY TEW

Joyce Peckenpaugh

Joyce Peckenpaugh of Palatine won't be home for Christmas, but she says she's not homesick and she certainly isn't lonesome.

Joyce, 20, is in Hunter's Point, Calif., preparing for a cruise to Greece in May aboard the U.S.S. Sanctuary along with 500 other sailors — and only about 15 per cent are women.

Hospital Corpsman 3.C. Peckenpaugh is a member of the first company of female seamen.

"There have been nurses aboard hospital ships before, but we have women in our company who will be swabbing the decks and performing other seaman tasks right along with the men," said Joyce.

She added that the women seamen in her comapny love their jobs. But Joyce enjoys her work in the medical department and says she wouldn't want to trade places with her seaman sisters.

JOINING the Navy was no spur-of-the moment decision for Joyce — she has wanted to be a sailor since she was 12 years old.

"I decided to enlist for sure after talking to a girl who was in the Navy who said it was a lot of fun."

She enlisted in March, 1971, and was sent to boot camp in Maryland. After a few months of training she was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital for additional training as a hospital corpsman.

Before her transfer to California, Joyce worked for a year in Memphis.

"So far it's been half work and half fun — I don't regret joining at all," said Joyce. She's already thinking of reenlisting for six months if the upcoming Mediterranean tour lasts longer than expected.

"I'm not sure if I'd re-up for another three years. It depends on how this coming trip goes," she said. Joyce has never been on an ocean going ship before, and isn't sure if she'll get seasick in a big storm.

According to Joyce's mother, however, the sailor never has been known to get any sort of motion sickness.

"She goes on all the rides at carnivals, so she'll probably love the trip," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. While Joyce's mother has gone along with her daughter's Naval career, her father has been somewhat hesitant.

"He was against it at first because he thought the Navy would make Joyce too tough," said Mrs. Peckenpaugh. "I never saw anything wrong with it. The Navy's strict, and it's really no different th.. if she were working on her own."

JOYCE has been working "on her own" since she left Fremd High School her junior year, but she has always lived at home. Joyce said she quit school because she couldn't stand sitting in class all day. To enlist, however, Joyce had to take a high school equivalency test.

"She passed all her tests with flying colors," said Roger Johnson of the Palatine U.S. Naval Recruiting office.

So far, Joyce says that life in the Navy isn't too difficult, and she doesn't even mind living in barracks — being one of six children, she says she's used to having a lot of people around.

"We live in the same barracks as the men, but on different floors," she said. "We don't bother them and they don't bother us."

Harper Safety Supervisor To Head Security

Joseph D. Mandarino, supervisor of public safety at Harper College in Palatine, has been elected president of the Illinois Association of College and University Security Directors.

The association was formed two years ago to help develop and promote professional relationships among security officers on the state's campuses. Membership presently stands at 43.

"One of my goals as president," said Mandarino, "is to gain statewide recognition for the association. In this way I feel we can be in a position to make recommendations and suggestions to various state agencies on matters affecting college and university security and police departments."

At Harper Mandarino supervises a staff of seven officers and ten student cadets.

Mandarino, 31, came to Harper in February 1970 from a post as youth officer with the Chicago Police Department for 1½ years. He had also been a part-time Harper instructor on juvenile delinquency and has a bachelor's degree from Black Hills State College, Spearfish, S.D. He is now working on his master's degree in public administration at Illinois Institute of Technology.

Portrays Lysander

Jan E. Zabinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Zabinski, 1211 River Rd., Des Plaines, portrayed the featured part of Lysander in the North Central College Theatre Guild's recent production of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Zabinski is a junior at the four year liberal arts college majoring in speech.

$16 Million In Flood Disaster Loans Processed

More than $16 million in disaster loan applications have been filed with the Small Business Administration as the result of major flooding that hit the Chicago area in August and September.

Robert A. Dwyer, midwestern regional director of the SBA, said there have been 1,308 home-loan applications for more than $13 million, and 142 business-loan applications for more than $2 million.

Dwyer, who spoke Tuesday at a four-hour seminar on flood control sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and held at the Sherman Hotel in Chicago, said more than $9 million in loans already have been awarded.

DWYER WAS ONE OF several members of a panel of experts discussing possible solutions to the flooding problem, including proposed legislation and enforcement of existing laws.

Also speaking was James Reichardt, administrative assistant of the Illinois Department of Local Governmental Affairs, who told of the agency's involvement in the National Flood Insurance Program, which provides relief for flood ravaged residents.

Since the heavy flooding earlier this year, many communities have applied for flood insurance, which would then enable residents of those communities to purchase protection. Before the flooding, few communities were covered by such policies.

Reichardt provided an overview of the program and explained how communities can apply and obtain such insurance and what steps residents can take to get the insurance coverage.

Other panelists included John Guillou, chief waterway engineer of the Water Resources Management Division of the Illinois Department of Transportation; Ivan Alten, director of urban development for Kane County; Donald Schultz, chairman of the DuPage County Mayor and Managers Conference; Ben Sosewitz, general superintendent of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, and Col. Richard M. Wells, district engineer of the Chicago District Army Corps of Engineers.

Social Therapist Training Open To All Degreed Women

Orientation is now underway for the social therapist training program offered by Forest Hospital Postgraduate Center, 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines. Men and women with bachelor degrees are invited to contact the Center, 827-8811, for information on the program, scheduled to begin Dec. 11.

Social therapists (STs) are para-professionals in the psychiatric field.

"The psychiatric community can't possibly produce enough standard professionals to meet the needs of the country," said Dr. Robert Williford, director of the Postgraduate Center. "There is a greater incidence of mental health disorders today than there has ever been before. The ST is a vital ingredient if the tide is ever to be turned."

The year-long program is divided into three parts. The first 12 weeks are spent with trainees learning at the hospital. Four areas are emphasized: psychopathology, group systems, leadership and personal growth. After the causes and symptoms of mental disorders are studied, STs are taught the techniques and learn to lead nine groups systems: encounter, sensitivity, transactional analysis, Gestalt, psychodrama, bioenergetics, psychomotor, family and marital therapy and crisis intervention.

TRAINEES SPEND eight weeks interning at hospitals, youth centers and other institutions in the area to put their knowledge into practice. STs are placed in the area in which they wish to specialize, such as working with the mentally ill, with adolescents, the elderly, etc.

Throughout the 20 weeks STs participate in personal growth sessions. "We believe an ST is more than a technician who understands group dynamics," Williford said. "He must be a representative of good mental health. His own personality and the way he conducts his own life are as important as his knowledge of other people. We expect a commitment from each person to pay attention to his own problems and hang-ups."

The remaining 32 weeks of the program are spent by the STs working at full-time jobs. The Postgraduate Center assists in job placement and staff members provide professional supervision for the remainder of the year.

The social therapist program is credited by Northeastern Illinois University. STs receive 16 credit hours towards a master's degree from the University.

"IN THE PAST the program has been especially attractive to women who wish to enter or re-enter the mental health field," Williford said. "A person's age makes no difference — we have had successful STs from their 20s on up."

The role of the social therapist is to react between and with people in a therapeutic way. STs have gone on to work in community health centers, in schools as counselors and special education teachers and in hospitals.

"We must take mental health to the community rather than waiting in an institution for it to come to us," Williford said. "Much of the ST concept is to get out of the office and into the community to serve its needs."

The Potting Shed

Just polishing off the last of the Thanksgiving turkey as I write this, and already Christmas is barking down the door.

Are you, also, knee-deep in making things for Christmas?

The Arlington Heights Garden Club will have its annual wreath-making workshop next week, and I know from previous years it's the best place in town to learn the Christmas crafts.

I learned how to make totally professional-looking bows from the women, as well as elegant swags, wreaths and centerpieces.

If you can't attend the workshop, let me tell you the secret of making a good-looking wreath is an adequate form — store-bought straw, metal or Styrofoam wreath-form preferred.

WIRE COAT hangers can be used if you keep the wreath small. It won't take the weight of anything bigger than a hatbox, and putting two coat hangers together is bad mechanics. There is nothing quite as depressing as a saggy wreath after the wreath-maker has put so much time into it.

The best choice of boughs for the wreath is balsam — believe me I've tried everything in the last 15 years — with a little white pine for accent. Balsam is easy to work with and not too sappy. Spruce is sharp. Pine is too soft and tends to mat down instead of being bushy.

Other inside tips for best wreath results include using only the tips of the branches. Don't try to shove two or three foot-long boughs into the form. It will look slipshod. If you go to all the trouble of getting boughs, forms, wire, ribbon, decorations, plan to spend an hour putting it together.

THE PROFESSIONALS use a wreath-making machine, but you can whip yours up fairly quick with a continuous spool of No. 26 green florist wire.

Slip the branches into the form one from the outside, one from the inside and one at right angles to out and in. Fill in any bare spots as you progress.

Some people cover both front and back of the form with boughs or felt, but if it hangs against a wall or door, the wreath doesn't really need a back cover.

In my neighborhood the gift stores charge $4.95 to send a box of boughs with a big bow and a red bird. You might want to fix up a box of your own and send it to someone far away.

Dear Dorothy: Intrigued by your comment about carbon tetrachloride and wonder if there might be any danger in a home fire extinguisher containing this stuff? — Marie C.

If you haven't bought one, don't. If you've got one, get rid of it. Matter of fact, I don't know how you'd get one now since a federal regulation prohibits carbon tet (or mixtures containing it) from sale for any home use. But just in case there's been a slip somewhere, don't use it. It isn't flammability (carbon tet is nonflammable); its the toxic quality of the fumes. If you're puzzled as to how to get rid of an extinguisher containing carbon tet, call the fire department. They ought to be glad to help.

Tip for new cooks: If coconut is a favorite around your place, pull a surprise with a toasted coconut pie shell plus whatever kind of filling pleases your fancy. All you have to do is stir 1½ cup of coconut in a large skillet over low heat until toasted; then stir into this 3 tablespoons of butter or margarine. Press this mixture evenly into an 8-inch pie pan and chill. I said any kind of filling, and you can even ladle ice cream into the shell aand put in the freezer for a few minutes until it sets.

Dear Dorothy: Just discovered that some of my lovely linen tablecloths (unused for some time) have brown spots on them. How do I remove these spots? — Mrs. G. E. McKinney

This isn't uncommon. Happily, most winens with such spots come out snowy white after a good laundering. You can help make sure by using one of the dry oxygen bleaches in the laundering.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006).

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

With Thanksgiving over, the Christmas shopping rush is on. If you are considering purchasing an artificial Christmas tree this year, the National Safety Council has these warnings: Metallic trees can give you an electrical shock if you ry to wire them. Never string lights on this type of tree, but use an offtree spotlight for illumination. If you are buying a nonmetallic artificial tree, make sure that it has been flame-proofed.

Decorations also should be non-flammable, regardless of whether your tree is real or artificial. Angel hair made of glass wool won't burn, but some other materials might. Likewise, most spray-on flocking snow is non-flammable, although I found some in a local variety store that was labeled flammable. Any kind of flammable spray — whether snow or scent or whatever — should not be used anywhere.

In addition, even non-flammable snow, when sprayed on angel hair, creates a combustible combination. Put the snow on the tree before the angel hair. Be sure the adhesive used on commercially flocked trees is non-flammable, also.

CHRISTMAS MEANS small shining faces surveying the new toys Santa left under the tree. Santa, of course, knows just what to bring each child, but parents must take care in selecting gifts for their tots, lest a toy be inappropriate or unsafe. The National Safety Council offers these guidelines:

• Babies up to one year of age like to feel, chew, hold, drop and look at things. Buy brightly colored toys to hang where the baby can see them, or toys that squeak or rattle. But be sure that the toys are too large to be swallowed and that they have no small attachments that might come loose.

• Toddlers from 1 to 2 years of age love to investigae the world. Choose playthings that they can take apart and put back together, or move from one place to another.

• Between 2 and 3 years of age children love to experiment. They like to build things with blocks, turn the pages of books, dabble with finger paints. But they still may try to swallow small objects, so be careful about the size of the toy.

• AT 3 OR 4 years of age, the child often tries to imitate adults. Good "let's pretend" gifts include small brooms and carpet sweepers, toy telephones, dolls, miniature tools, trucks and tractors and suitcases to pack and unpack.

• Little people start to be more creative in their play around ages 4 to 6. They enjoy paints and paint books, dools that have clothes or a doll house and furniture, small sports equipment, simple construction set and even costumes for dramatic play.

• By age 6 children like to test their manipulative ability. Select play equipment that will help to develop the child's skills, but be sure the toys are not too complicated. Simple games and puzzles, construction sets, or a sled will all make good Christmas gifts.

The interests of children 8 years and older vary widely, so select a toy with the child specifically in mind.

A NEW TWIST to the popular chemistry set might interest some children in this age group. It's called "Ecology & You" kit. Marketed by Bradley Associates, the 34-piece environmental pollution test set provides materials and instructions for performing various tests on air, water and soil.

After you have made your selections, check the toys for hazards such as sharp edges, points, wires, etc. Look for nontoxic labels on art supplies and painted toys and the UL label on electrical toys. Buy only battery-operated toys for young children, not electrical.

Earth-bound Santas might be intersted in a new publication called "Toy Review," which rates over 100 toys based on the opinions of children and parents. Edited by MIT graduae Lewis C. Clapp, father of one, the quarterly magazine offers parents the results of both the experiences of its readers as well as tests by its staff.

Next On The Agenda

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE
